Miss Wynnie McDonald, of Toronto, who has been spending the last day or two with Mrs. James Kendry, George Street, returned to the Queen City this morning.

Among his assistants named by the M. W. the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge A. F. & A. M. of Canada, is the name of V. W. Bro. H. C. Winch, Peterborough, Assistant Grand Organist.

Mr. William White, of the Government steamer "Empire," who has been ill of typhoid fever in the Nicholls Hospital, for some time, has sufficiently recovered as to be able to return to his home at Bridgenorth.

Nearly everyone needs a good tonic at this season. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one true tonic and blood purifier.

We don't claim to be the largest store nor do we claim to do the greatest volume of business; BUT WE DO CLAIM to be able to buy Right Values and Styles, and keen enough for trade to sell at prices that YOU CAN'T DUPLICATE ELSEWHERE. Test this assertion and save money.

Notwithstanding the fact that every smaller store claims to be able to buy and sell cheap, still the people know well that a house with a syndicate at its back, whose buying capacity is $2,000,000.00 per year, and which buys all its goods direct from the maker, (no middle profits), is in a position to undersell all competitors. With our principle of Spot Cash and One Price, coupled with Small Profits and Quick Returns, we are gradually increasing our trade—NO HOUSE CAN SERVE YOU AS WELL.

AN IMPROVEMENT IN TEACHING METHODS.

MR. INSPECTOR WHERRY'S OBJECT LESSONS COURSE.

Syllabus of Object Lessons to be Introduced on Monday—Designed to Teach Children Habits of Observation—To Make School Study Practical.

Below is given an elaborate and, at the same time, concise syllabus of a new course of study prepared by Mr. Alex. Wherry, inspector of Public Schools, for the guidance of teachers in the instruction of junior pupils. The instruction of these pupils at this stage of life is of the first importance, as it involves the laying of the foundation upon which all future education must be reared; and the tendency of object lessons—nay, certain, result—if faithfully taught, is to develop habits of observation, and habits of sustained attention; to give children the power of pursuing studies more effectually, and to create habits of observation that will permit the pupil to go through life "with his eyes open." This course of study will be introduced into the schools next Monday.

From a perusal and study of the following syllabus parents of pupils will observe the practical nature of the studies their children are pursuing, be able to understand them and, what is more important, be able to sympathise with and encourage their children.

To the Teachers of the Peterborough Public Schools:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—In submitting to you the course of study in object-teaching, a few general suggestions as to the aims and manner of teaching may not be out of place.

Chief among the ends in teaching these lessons are the following:

(1) To arouse the pupil's interest in the things of nature, so that in after life he may pursue their study from love of them. This can be done only by leading them to know their beauty and the wonders of their structure.

(2) To awaken and train his powers of observation. Rosseau remarks in this connection, "In proportion to the distinctness of a child's perceptions will be the accuracy of his memory, and the precision of his judgment. A child who sees imperfectly cannot reason justly about the object because he has not sufficient data. A child who does not hear distinctly cannot judge well of sound; and if we could suppose the sense of touch to be twice as accurate in one child as in another, we might conclude that the judgments of the two would differ in proportion." Do not show the children. Use only those results obtained by the children themselves.

(3) To increase the child's stock of facts. These facts, though but a secondary consideration in the teaching, are nevertheless of value to the child as furnishing material upon which the mind may act. We all know the difference between a well-informed man and an ill-informed one. Let us not despise the facts.

(4) To increase the vocabulary. If this appears unnecessary, hear what Max Muller, the celebrated linguist, says:—"Though the English language contains near 100,000 words, the vocabulary of the average citizen does not exceed 300."—and reflect upon all that this entails. I could mention many other benefits, but space does not permit, and your own intelligence will suggest them.

In this work let our motto be: "Train the eye to see, the ear hear, the hand to do, and the lips to speak."

Yours sincerely,
ALEX. WHERRY.

CHEMONG PARK POINTERS.

A Budget of Breezy News From our Park Correspondent.

The glow of early autumn lies now upon Chemong Park. A peculiar mildness pervades the air these warm afternoons, and at night there is a slight tingle to the atmosphere that reminds you that the surrounding woods will soon receive their promise of painted foliage. Although the exodus of summer resort people was well under way when the school season opened, there are others who do not return home so early, but consider September the most enjoyable month in the year.

Looking toward the head of the lake, erected on the extremity of a long point, is a conspicuous cartoon of an amusing fishing incident. The cartoon represents two great corpulent good natured fellows shaking hands, while below them in large, clear letters, is printed "Swikhard and Ingler after the dip." It appears that some time ago Mr. Swikhard and Mr. Ingler during a fishing expedition were forced to seek shelter from a tempest at this point. By some means, when the guide ran the boat ashore, Mr. Ingler inadvertantly placed one heavy foot rather to one side of the boat, which made it unpleasant for Mr. Swikhard, who was standing in the stern reeling in his line. The boat lost its equilibrium; so did Mr. Swikhard, and that calm sportsman fell backward, head first, into the deep. After being fished out, the cartoons represent the good fellowship which continued to exist.

Mr. J. S. Knapman has sold his trim yacht Alma to Mr. Marshall White, a student at the Electric Works. Mr. White is a keen yachtsman and loves Chemong waters. A few days ago he took a party of his friends kiting under full sail to the head of the lake, to spend the day fishing and duck shooting. When evening was come and a goodly supply of game captured, they embarked to return; but the wind had fallen. It then fell to their lot to sup tea at a kind-hearted farmer's shanty. Then followed the task—pushing Alma home.

During Saturday's electrical storm a peculiar freak of the mystic fluid was witnessed on the telephone line. The eight wires which string past the hotel began sinking, and with such increased animation that they vibrated several times together, and the poles swayed to and fro, as though the line had been struck by a falling tree. Presently there was heard a sharp click, then the disturbance seemed appeased and the wires slowly subsided.

Mr. E. Chapin Church is delighted with his success at maskinonge fishing. Lately he had the pleasure of catching two 'lunge at one time while running two lines. Another afternoon Mr. Church captured two good large 'lunge and lost nine. We believe that September is the finest month for maskinonge fishing.

Messrs. A. H. Stratton, Gough Bros, and Micks & Cox, have displayed, in great blazoned letters high on the hotel sheds, their respective signs, constructed to strike the eye rivet the attention and increase their trades.

The registrations are: E. Chapin Church, Canandalgua, N.Y., W. E. Bailey, P. L. Harris, Colborne; Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hatton, Miss Hatton, Peterborough; Mrs. Tyler, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. The Dead Soldier of Japan.

I saw in Yokohama on Sunday last another of those wonderful funeral processions which serve to keep alive and nurture the warrior spirit of this land. A poor sergeant named Sato Ryosabura, who died of cholera down the Pescadores, was the subject of the demonstration, and had he been a royal Prince stricken upon the battlefield his ashes could not have had greater honor paid them. To the Kuboyama Temple Cemetery there was a vast procession of people with banners, flowers and emblems and symbols of every description. Two enormous black oxen dragged a cart, on which reposed an enormous tombstone. The obsequies were from first to last of the highest Japanese order. The man's life had been sacrificed for the country and that was enough. Soldiers and citizens united in honoring his memory, and that the lesson was not lost upon the rising generation it may well be assumed.

All over Japan to-day the men who died in the late war are being solemnly and beautifully remembered. In every home which gave a home to the cause the mother or wife has caused a little altar to be erected. Upon this is placed a portrait of the deceased, a tablet recording the date and manner of death and the sacred name which the Buddhists give to the departed. Hereon are laid from time to time melons, rice, lotus flowers, etc., and such ornaments as the family can afford to offer. In front is a "hibachi," upon which burning incense sticks are continually laid. If the soldier left a widow she cuts off her hair, which is a sign that she will never marry again. Every morning and night this widow, if she has children, will gather them about her at this altar, and offer prayers for the memory of the dead. After a period, during which a priest comes daily to offer his prayers, the tablet is placed in a shrine belonging to the family and for six weeks priestly prayers are regularly offered.

Nowhere in the world is so much reverence and respect shown for the dead and the memory thereof as in Japan. It amounts to something closely resembling idolatry, but it is none the less touching and sublime. The impression left upon the mind of a growing son of a deceased soldier by the ceremonious honors paid his memory may well be imagined.—John A. Cockerill, in New York Herald.

A Story of Madagascar.

The most cheerful liar in the world lives in Madagascar. The latest story that comes from there tells about Pip, the King of the Lotolles, one of the local tribes which is not busy fighting the French.

This king, the story goes, devised some time ago a human harp. He had been visiting the place of punishment in his village and, witnessing the bastinadoing of his captives, he was struck by the tonal difference of their groans. At once he commissioned the royal carpenter to construct a series of stocks in which he placed eight captives whose howls of pain when the soles of their feet were struck by the rod were so carefully arranged that they made a perfect octave.

This seemed such a success that he had a second frame constructed for the feet of eight more wretches whose average groans ranged a full octave higher. The harp was now complete. On it he proposed to play melodies and started in to practice the national air.

His project was to regulate the length of the note by the violence of the blow. At first the scheme did not succeed at all, for the reason that the captives, hitherto used to hard hits alone, howled loudly each time and with little difference in force. At last he arranged it, however, so that the groans became proportioned to the blows.

But the instrument never got quite in tune. Incessant was the cry of some of the animated notes, others would not sound at all at the right time. The heathen king had to give it up. The discords were too painful for his musical ear, for although he tried fresh sets of prisoners the human notes would never work just right.

MILLERS UP IN ARMS

At the Mixing of Manitoba Wheat.

DETRIMENTAL TO THE COUNTRY

The Rescinding of the Order-in-Council Denounced as a "Crazy Act," and Strong Resolutions Passed Urging That Re-Consideration be Given the Question.

Toronto, Sept. 11.—The annual meeting of the Dominion Millers' Association, held yesterday in the Board of Trade rooms, was remarkable for a series of strong resolutions condemning the Government for rescinding within the last 10 days the Order-in-Council prohibiting the mixing of Manitoba wheat. It was argued that the reputation of Manitoba wheat throughout the world would be injured by this mixing under sanction of the Government, and an agitation throughout the country was threatened if the Government should persist in its reversal of the previous policy. Copies of the resolution were ordered to be sent to the Government.

President H. Barrett of Port Hope was in the chair, and about 150 millers from all parts of the Dominion were present.

The secretary, in his report, said: "If some system could be devised by which sales of large quantities, whether flour or produce, made by members, could be reported in confidence to the secretary of the association, it might be discovered that men were buying flour, etc., far beyond their ability to carry it, and the members warned to be on their guard; they could then demand a margin to be put up, or take other steps to protect themselves."

The report closed with a reference to the deaths of Messrs. George Elphick of Pinkerton and Charles Whitlaw of Paris.

Mr. William Galbraith read the treasurer's report, which stated that the annual dues amounted to $1262, and entrance fees to $105. A balance of $630 remained on hand.

The report of representative on Exhibition Board stated: That the exhibits of grain are crowded into a space altogether too small, and so arranged as to prevent any visiting miller from examining the various varieties. With proper facilities there is no question but the most interesting kind of an exhibit could be made by the flour and oatmeal millers, and there is not the slightest doubt of the importance of this means of demonstrating their ability to make goods equal to, if not better than, any in the world.

During the next year it is altogether probable that a Dominion Exhibition will be held either in Toronto or Montreal, and I would recommend that a strong committee be appointed.

The report was adopted.

The Freight Committee's report stated that in August, 1894, the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways had proposed to make changes in the milling rates on wheat, which would have worked to the disadvantage of the millers, but energetic action of the committee had led to the proposal been rescinded. Other advantages had been obtained. The committee had instructed the secretary to take steps to have the Railway Act amended making under-billing a criminal offence, as in the interstate law of the United States. The committee expressed its hope that it could get legislation forbidding the railways to discriminate in export freight in favor of grain as against flour.

The report was adopted.

The Executive's report was read by the president. After references to the scoured wheat question and the duty on reimported Manitoba wheat, the report touched on the Newfoundland question. The secretary was sent to Ottawa and he succeeded in convincing the Newfoundland delegates that Canada does not import American flour largely, but can manufacture flour of as high a quality as is made in the United States. The report suggested that bonuses of $50 be paid to the treasurer and $500 to the secretary.

The report and its suggestions were heartily adopted.

A long report on mixing scoured wheat with No. 1 hard was submitted. It stated that during the summer of 1894 there was complaint as to the mixing of Manitoba wheat at Fort William, and the issuance of straight grade certificates for the same. It was reported that during August, 1894, shipments were made on the Canadian Pacific Railway boats to Owen Sound of mixed wheat, of which the following is a sample: 16,000 bushels inspected No. 1 hard, consisting of 12,500 bushels No. 1 hard, 2000 bushels No. 1 Northern and 600 bushels of No. 2 hard, all inspected as No. 1 hard, per certificate issued. Other examples were given, and it was stated that Messrs. Carruthers & Co. issued a writ for $1000 damages on account of the mixing.

Mr. Gibbs, the inspector of Port Arthur, was reported to have replied that he considered the mixture better than No. 1 hard, as all the small stuff had been taken out of it, and he inspected it as No. 1 hard when it was mixed with cargoes when asked if he would inspect it as No. 1 hard in cars for shipment to Ontario, he said he would not, but if the shipping agent mixed ten per cent. of it in a cargo of No. 1 hard in this way.

A deputation was appointed by the Executive Committee, consisting of Messrs. William Galbraith, J.D. Saunby J. L. Spink, Robert Noble, M. McLaughlin and the secretary, to interview the Canadian Pacific Railway authorities in Montreal, and also the Government at Ottawa.

The report gave particulars of these interviews. Sir William Van Horne stated that any regulations made by the Government regarding the inspection of Manitoba wheat, the Canadian Pacific Railway would assist in every way possible to carry out.

The deputation told the Government that they had no objection to wheat being scoured at Port Arthur or any other point where it was of advantage to the farmer and grain dealer to have it scoured, provided that such precautions were taken as would prevent its being mixed in the standard grades; but that the Government certificate of a grade should be like the Government stamp, a guarantee that it is genuine.

In this matter the deputation really represented the views of the millers, not of Canada alone, but of the United Kingdom.

A Common Affliction

Permanently Cured by Taking

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

A CAB-DRIVER'S STORY.

"I was afflicted for eight years with Salt Rheum. During that time, I tried a great many medicines which were highly recommended, but none gave me relief. I was at last advised to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by a friend who told me that I must purchase six bottles, and use them according to directions. I yielded to his persuasion, bought the six bottles, and took the contents of three of these bottles without noticing any direct benefit. Before I had finished the fourth bottle, my hands were as as ever they were. My business, which is that of a cab-driver, requires me to be out in cold and wet weather, often without gloves, and the trouble has never returned."—THOMAS A. JOHNS, Stratford, Ont.

MILLERS UP IN ARMS.

The Ministers stated that they were extremely anxious that the good name which Manitoba wheat had abroad should be maintained, and would try and frame regulations which would secure the desired effect.

On June 24, 1895, a communication was received from the Department of Inland Revenue, stating "that the Department had determined to abide by the regulation that no scoured wheat shall be allowed in No. 1 hard," and on Aug. 8 last, an order in council was issued on the subject.

On Aug. 31, within three weeks of passing this order in council, another was issued, rescinding the previous one.

The report continued: As the Government could only have received representations from private individuals, who, for their own selfish ends, seek to have the decision on this matter postponed until the crop is again moving, we feel that a strong stand should at once be taken by the association in this matter and the Government be given to understand that in our opinion their action is sacrificing the interests, not only of Canadians, but wherever Manitoba wheat is used, and also the interests of the farmers of Manitoba, because, when a miller pays a high price for a special quality of wheat, he requires it.

A long resolution, in 12 clauses, followed, concluding with the averment that, "This association, in annual meeting assembled, desire to express their strongest disapprobation of the Government in rescinding an Order-in-Council which they only passed after having the matter under their consideration for over four years, and after obtaining the fullest information possible, as the action of the Government in this matter apparently shows that it considers the interests of a few individuals as of paramount importance, while the interests of the farmers who grow Manitoba wheat and the millers who grind it are disregarded.

"And that this association will regret exceedingly if the Government persists in such action on this important matter as will leave the association no alternative but to start an agitation throughout the country to give effect to their efforts to have this grievance remedied."

Mr. McLaughlin said the conclusion he had come to was that there was somebody in authority at Ottawa who was going crazy. (Laughter.) He honestly believed that the department at Ottawa which had rescinded the practice that had formerly been in vogue was becoming demented. As one who used a good deal of hard No. 1 wheat he strongly objected to the new regulations. He had just returned from a two months' visit to England. The millers there, to a man said, "Manitoba is the wheat we want." (Applause). But they would not take stuff that was graded to suit someone here in Canada. On the previous day he was in Montreal, and the excitement among the millers there about this mixing exceeded that of the yacht race. Whatever may be the stated reasons at Ottawa for this change, one thing was certain, it was not done to benefit Manitoba. (Applause). It could not do the farmers of Manitoba any good to send trash all over the world and call it Manitoba hard. Nor was it for the benefit of the millers. They could get wheat from Duluth which is above suspicion. The English miller is hard to fool. If it is not for the benefit of Manitoba, nor the miller, nor the exporter, for whose benefit is the charge made?

A voice: The Canadian Pacific Railway and the "wheat hospital."

Mr. McLaughlin: That may be it, but it is going to ruin this country's reputation. From my recent conferences with English millers I know it will destroy the reputation of Manitoba wheat. It would pay every man in this room to go to Ottawa and show the Government what dire effect this practice is going to have.

Mr. McLaughlin concluded by moving that the report be adopted and a copy sent to the Government.

Mr. John Brown, in seconding the motion, said that in no country on the face of the earth would this be tolerated, save in Canada. He did not know where the responsibility for this moss-backism at Ottawa rested, but it did show "there is something rotten in the state of Denmark."

The motion carried unanimously.

The president's address stated that there had been considerable fluctuations in the wheat market. For the first time since June, 1891, prices were above the dollar point, and some millers were so keen to buy that they offered farmers as high as $1.06, delivered at the mills. In consequence of these abnormally high prices, very large quantities of wheat and flour were imported into all parts of Canada from the United States. These importations were nearly half a million bushels of wheat and 50,000 barrels of flour, or equal to three-quarter million bushels of wheat in all, on which a duty was paid of over $110,000.

Both the farmers and millers received the full benefit of the protective duty of 15 cents per bushel on wheat and 75 cents per barrel on the flour. If there had been any real scarcity, of course the natural trend of trade would have caused importations. Unfortunately the high prices were really caused by the millers losing their heads, with the result that while the farmers had a splendid opportunity to unload high-priced wheat on the millers and grain dealers throughout the country, the price of flour was relatively much below the price of wheat, and little or no flour was sold at the top figures.

The president directed attention to the fact that the National Millers' Association of the United States, following the example of the Canadian Association, had become incorporated. Last year reference was made to the encouragements which the Governments of France and Russia were giving to the milling industries. This year the millers of Argentina had approached their government with similar objects. In view of such encouragements given to the milling industries in those countries, the president said it was not surprising that the business in Canada is not in a more thriving condition, where they get very slight encouragement from the Government. Instead of using every legitimate means to encourage such a staple industry, in a land which is almost entirely agricultural in natural products, the Government has not listened to our reasonable representations on questions affecting us and our business.

Within the last 10 days, the president continued, the Order-in-Council prohibiting the mixing of scoured wheat with "No. 1 hard" was rescinded, an order that was only obtained after continued representations of the necessity of such a measure to preserve the high standard of our Manitoba products. I would strongly urge upon the incoming executive to take this question up and press the Government for a renewal of the order. It is a very reasonable measure to ask at their hands, and is very important to those engaged in the flour and grain trade.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, A. Dobson, Beaverton; vice-president, James Cummings, Lyn; second vice-president, S. R. Stuart, Mitchell; treasurer, William Galbraith, (re-elected); executive committee, J. L. Spink, Toronto; H. Barrett, Port Hope; W. McLaughlin, Toronto; W. H. Meldrum, Peterboro; R. Noble, Norval; James Goldie, Guelph; T. O. Kemp, Seaforth; representative on Toronto Industrial Fair Board, John Brown, Toronto; the board of arbitration was re-appointed, with the substitution of J. D. Flavelle for John Galbraith.

For Carrying Beef.

To carry produce, such as a quarter of beef, a dressed hog or other meat or produce, at times disagreeable to handle, there is nothing more handy than a short, stout ladder. Persons unaccustomed to carrying heavy weights, says Richard Jones, will find it useful. For its construction, the side pieces may be six feet in length, two to three inches wide and an inch thick. The rounds or crosspieces may be one foot apart, the length corresponding to the width of the ladder. The side pieces should be of strong, hard wood, free from knots and the handles shaved and sandpaper smooth. Such a ladder is frequently used by market gardeners when removing garbage. Decaying leaves, stumps, dirt, etc., are shoveled into a box resting on the barrow, lifted and carried to the compost heap.

Every Day Gives Momentum to the Success of South American Nervine.

Canadian Citizens from Every Quarter Tell of the Extraordinary Results Following the Use of This Wonderful Remedy.

MR. C. G. CHAPIN, OF BURK'S FALLS, ONT.

There is encouragement in the knowledge that even after the skill of eminent physicians has failed, and many medicines have been used, a certain cure for the diseases of life is to be found in South American Nervine. This is a remarkable medicine, especially when the trouble is nervous debility, indigestion, dyspepsia, sick headache, or a general breaking-up of the system. It has made thousands of cures of Canadian citizens all over this beautiful Dominion, and they have not been slow to sing its praises.

The strength of South American Nervine rests in its being something more than a mere tonic. A tonic will give temporary benefit, but if disease is in the system something more is needed to remove it. South American Nervine possesses all the virtues of a tonic, but more than that, it is a disease-healer. It has been discovered that certain nerves have entire control over the stomach, liver, heart, lungs and indeed all internal organs. When disease comes upon the individual, if a careful analysis is made of the trouble, and things are not gone about in haphazard fashion, it will be shown that the disease has its origin in a derangement of these nerve centers. South American Nervine goes at once to the nerve centers and removes the disease. Then strong, rich, pure blood runs through the veins and gives health and exhilaration to all parts of the system. This is one secret of the power of South American Nervine. But it does not stop here. There is no medicine that is so great a nerve-builder, nor flesh-producer as Nervine. It purifies the system. It imparts to it health and vigor, and builds up the constitution.

Now, this is exactly what was done in the case of Mr. C. G. Chapin, a well-known jeweller, of Burk's Falls, Ont. He says: For years I had been much troubled with nervous debility, and believe I had tried all proprietary medicines, but none seemed to relieve me, until I used South American Nervine. To my surprise the first bottle gave me great relief. I am still taking this great remedy and must say I have not felt so well in years. I highly recommend it to all suffering from nervous disease, for it has made a great change in me."

THE DEMERS MURDER TRIAL.

Evidence That the Crime Was Committed in the Early Morning—The Defence Outlined.

Montreal, Sept. 12.—It has been hinted for some time back that the defence in the Demers murder case would spring a bomb-shell upon the Crown when the trial was under way. It is currently believed in court house circles that a good hint as to what this sensation will be was pointed out to the jury at the time of their visit to the Demers' house. This discovery consists of some spots of blood found upon the inside of the blinds in the bedroom of the murdered woman. The defence, it is stated, will produce medical evidence to show that these spots were caused by human blood and are in the shape of an imprint made by a hand in the act of pushing the blind from the inside to open it. This leads to the belief that the defence will claim tat the murderer, whoever he was, left the house after the tragedy by this window, which opens on the platform. Mr. Desmarais' close cross-questioning of Mr. Beaudry, the civil engineer, as to the measurements of the passage way and its immediate locality leads to this belief.

Miss Sauve, the woman who was seen in the vicinity on the day of the murder, was on the stand all day. She did not impress those who heard her very favorably to her own advantage. She denied any intimacy with the accused and said that she had only gone out with him once and that was to a nearby drug store. She had not accompanied him to Sohmer Park, but had gone with his brother. After describing at length how she called at the house on the day of the murder and found the front door locked and had gone round to the back and rapped without receiving any reply, she said that she had called again at 3 o'clock and found it still locked. She met Mrs. Nantel and the latter entered the house by the rear, discovering the dead body. She had not heard the child crying.

To Mr. Desmarais, counsel for the defence, she denied that she had worn a blue dress with white spots on that day and that she had gone to the woodshed. She wore a light blue dress with pink spots. Mrs. Demers was much stouter than witness. The Crown had evidently intended to prove that it was Miss Sauve who had been seen going to the woodshed on the day of the murder at 1 o'clock and not Mrs. Demers. Their contention is that she was dead long before that hour.

Madame Nantel, the washerwoman who found the body, was on the stand all afternoon. The important point in her evidence was that on the first occasion she washed at Demers' house he was at home with a wounded finger, and the defence rely on this to account for blood stains on his clothing.

Rev. Cure Reme Descarroes of St. Henri, who was called in on the discovery of the body of Mrs. Demers, was examined at length. He was called about 10 minutes to 3 o'clock. He described what occurred in the room and what he saw, his evidence being of great importance to the Crown, as he was of the opinion that the woman had been long dead. Taking hold of the hand, he felt that it was exceedingly cold and the left arm was completely rigid. She seemed to have been long dead. The blood on the wounds was clotted and dry, as well as the blood on the chest. He then asked Mrs. Nantel to place her hand on the heart of deceased, and she did so, and said that it was cold. In answer to Mr. Archambault, he said from his experience he believed she had been dead several hours when he saw the body.

From the appearance of the bed, it seemed as if some one had been walking over it. He had seen several persons who had suffered violent deaths by bleeding. The footsteps on the bed led him to the belief that there had been a struggle. He came to the conclusion that she had not committed suicide, because there was no blood on her hands. The woman never moved after she had her neck cut; she was either brained or her hands were held by some one; the head or body never moved after falling on the floor; no instrument was found; the strongest reason of all was the presence of the two wounds; it was impossible for a person to inflict on one's self two such terrible wounds, which cut both carotid arteries.

Miss M. Deguise, who, with her aged father, lived under the Demers' tenement, testified to seeing Demers in a shed in the rear of his house at 4.30 that morning, and to wondering what he was doing about so early. The 13th of June, being a holiday, she and her father went to 5 o'clock mass at St. Cunegonde Church, and she did not return until a quarter to 6. Her kitchen was just under Mrs. Demers' bedroom, ad she had heard the sewing maching working the evening previous, and the baby crying. On the morning of the murder she did not hear Mrs. Demers walking about. There was an extension being built to their house in the rear and carpenters were at work on it from 7 a.m. till 2 o'clock p.m. that day.

The Crown evidently intend to prove that the murder was committed by Demers between the time the Deguises left for early mass, about 4.45, and 5.45 a.m. If anyone had committed the murder at a later hour they would have been seen entering the place.

THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

President Sir Douglas Galton Faints While Reading His Address.

London, Sept. 11.—The 65th annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science opened this evening at Ipswich. It is customary for the retiring president to introduce his successor, but Lord Salisbury, who was president last year, telegraphed from the Chateau Cecil, near Dieppe, France, that he required rest and was unable to attend the meeting. Lord Kelvin, therefore, introduced the new president, Sir Douglas Galton.

Sir Douglas started in to read a lengthy address. He eulogized the late Prof. Huxley and then traced the history of the association from its inception, pointing out the benefits it had conferred upon students and the public in every branch of science. After reading aloud three-quarters of an hour, Sir Douglas fainted. He soon recovered, but Sir John Evans read the rest of the address. Dr. Percy Frankland, professor of chemistry in Mason College, Birmingham, delivered a lecture on the work of Prof. Pasteur, the distinguished French chemist. He traced Prof. Pasteur's work and gave him a high meed of praise for all he had accomplished in his chosen fields of work.

The audience numbered 1200 persons, including many distinguished scientists.

The Mayor of Toronto is expected to attend the meetings in view of the probability of the association meeting in that city next year.

THE WHEEL.

A twenty-mile handicap road race to Lakefield and return will be held on Thursday, Sept 19, when several valuable prizes, donated by the citizens and the Bicycle Club, will be offered for competition. Entries close with the Secretary of the Peterborough Bicycle Club on Tuesday, Sept. 17th. As there is considerable rivalry between the local riders as to which is the fastest man on the road, each and every one claiming to hold a record to somewhere and return, this will give them an opportunity of deciding who the best road rider really is.

Messrs. A. Mercer and R. M. Dennistoun have been appointed as a committee to inquire into the resignations from office of Messrs. Alex. Gibson, G. J. Horkins and J. R. H. Kenner. These gentlemen, who have occupied the respective offices of President, Captain and Lieutenant of the club, stated at the last meeting that owing to certain statements which had been promulgated by other club members concerning the speculative nature of the two race meets recently held, which statements reflected on them, they had decided to resign their offices. A report of the matter will probably be made at the next meeting.

Five riders from Peterborough have entered in the R. Q. T. road race, viz Lord, Walker, King, Lytle and Ewing. It is a pity that a full team of ten riders have not decided to ride as, accustomed as they are to road riding, the members of the club would have stood a good chance of winning some good prizes.

Can Heart Failure be Prevented?

Startling and brief the announcement, 'Sudden Death Caused by Heart Failure." Such is the stereotyped announcement of coroners, juries, and reporters arousing the forebodings of those victims of indigestion and mal-nutrition, who so frequently disturb themselves upon the manifestation, in palpitation or fluttering, of functional disturbance of the heart; symptoms which they are foolishly prone to accept as the signs of an incurable, and speedily fatal, malady. Maltine with Coca Wine is potent in restoring conditions that no longer render possible such alarmingly disturbing symptoms. Maltine with Coca Wine, through its remedial influence upon the nervous system, soothes into calmness the disorganized nerves. The heart, in response to increased nerve force, no longer plunges and beats as if determined to break.

Maltine with Coca Wine has long been recognized as the most pleasant and efficient remedy for all those functional derangements that find manifestation in lassitude, sleeplessness, despondency and loss of appetite and digestive power. A nerve tonic, a body-builder, a nutrient and digestive agent of inestimable value. All druggists sell it.

ORDERED CLOTHING!

A Fourth Department Now Added.

WE begin the Fall Campaign with a new department, that of Ordered Clothing. We have added this in order that customers and the public may find with GOUGH BROS. that service which will suit all classes and all requirements.

We retain the services of MR. DUNCAN CAMERON as Cutter and Manager of the staff engaged in this department. We have equipped our Tailoring Rooms with the best machinery and appliances and know we can turn out work the equal of th best city establishments. We solicit your orders.

We recognize that much is expected of GOUGH BROS. and that thousands will look for some radical changes in the prices of clothing made to order. If you are interested read about what we have to say.

On going to the wholesale markets to buy our stock of materials, we found a large lot of Scotch, English and Irish Woolens and Imported Worsteds, stopped by the English shippers in transit to a dealer in the west. We were invited to make a bid. We did so, and the goods were sold to us by the bank

At One Third of the Cost Value.

We are into Ordered Clothing to make it a success. With our buying power—and the above snap is an instance—we propose to push for all there is in it. We will sell for cash and cash only, and instead of expecting $7.00 profit on a $22.00 suit, we will be content with $2.00 profit.

Facts are convincing. Nothing else will carry assurance home. Here is your fact and your opportunity. We place in our centre window a range of Scotch, English and Canadian Tweeds, and

VALKYRIE WITHDREW

Excursion Boats Blocked the Course.

THE DEFENDER AWARDED THE CUP

It Was Dunraven's Turn to Protest, as the Cup Committee Could Not Keep Excursion Boats Clear—He Wanted the Race to Take Place Off Marble Head.

New York, Sept. 12.—The decision of the Regatta Committee last night, sustaining Mr. Iselin's protest and awarding Tuesday's race to the Defender, left her only one more race to win to make the America's Cup safe for another year. It was thought here that Lord Dunraven, after hearing the decision, would refuse to start in any more races and take his boat back to England, but he proved to be too good a yachtsman for that.

The Defender has been given a new coat of light blue paint, and her bronze hull was rubbed until it looked like burnished gold.

The Valkyrie did not show signs of starting for the course until 8 o'clock. The Valkyrie took a line from the tug Millard, and was towed down through the Narrows on her way to the starting line.

The probability of this being the last of the great international yacht races of 1895 brought out an immense fleet this morning, almost equal in number to the great gathering of last Saturday.

The preliminary signal was set at 10.55; preparatory at 11.10; start at 11.30. Before the starting gun was fired the course was entirely clear of boats, and the two racers had all the room possible to jockey in. There were no signs of making ready for the race aboard the Valkyrie, and the eyes of the throngs were anxiously turned towards her.

The start was made, Defender 11.20.24; Valkyrie 11.21.55.

Defender broke out her spinnaker immediately after crossing the line and went on with every inch of canvas stretched. Valkyrie, with mainsail and jib only, and at once hoisted protest flag, and headed back for judge's boat. Valkyrie withdraws and went in tow of tender. Defender is keeping her course alone. The pilot boat, Fannie R. Williams, was in Valkyrie's way, directly in her course. The judge's boat now gone after the Defender.

The Defender finished at 4.04.

The America's Cup Committee notified C. Oliver Iselin that three races and the cup were awarded the Defender.

Dunraven Objected to the Course.

Immediately after the race on Tuesday Lord Dunraven sent the following letter to the America's Cup Committee. It was made public last night:

"Gentlemen,—It is with great reluctance that I write to inform you that I decline to sail Valkyrie any more under the circumstances that have prevailed in the last two races, and for the following reasons:

"First—To attempt to start two such large vessels in such confined space and among moving steamers and tugboats is, in my opinion, exceedingly dangerous, and I will not further risk the lives of my men or the ship.

"Second—At the start of the first race, the crowding was so great that we could not see the mark-boat, and could not tell when we were near the line; and we were much hampered by steamers, especially on the race home.

"To-day on the reach home, eight or nine steamers were to the windward of me, and what is worse, a block of steamers were steaming level with me and close under my lee. I sailed nearly the whole distance in tumbling, broken water, in the heavy wash of those steamers. To race under these conditions is, in my opinion, absurd, and I decline to submit myself to them again.

"I would remind your committee that, foreseeing the trouble that might occur, I urged upon them the desirability of sailing off Marblehead or some other locality other than New York Bay, and that they refused to do so. At the same time I would testify to my full belief that your committee have done everything in their power to prevent overcrowding.

"The fact is that when a contest between the representatives of two yacht clubs excites so much popular interest and attracts such crowds of people, if the races are sailed in the immediate neighborhood of a great city, and the dates of the races and times of starting are known and advertised, it is impossible to keep a course free from causes of exceptional danger and clear enough to assure the probability that the result of the match will be decided according to the relative merits of the competing vessels."

Upon Valkyrie's arrival at Bay Ridge Mr. Glennie explained why the Valkyrie did not race to-day. He said:

"Lord Dunraven handed a letter written yesterday to A. Cass Canfield, secretary of the America's Cup Committee, with a request that it be not opened until after the decision in the Defender's protest. The substance of the letter was that Lord Dunraven did not think a fair course could be obtained off New York, and asked the committee to provide a course that could be kept clear of boats. He suggested Marble Head or some other place distant from a city like New York. He received no reply from the committee, and did not intend to race to-day. He went down the bay like a true sportsman to give the other boat a chance to start and make it a race if he choose to. Had Lord Dunraven received a reply to his communication he would have raced to-day." Mr. Glennie was asked if Lord Dunraven had not found the course clear at the start to-day. He replied:

"Certainly, but how about all the rest of the races and the finish? We did not want to go and wallow over the course. It is not fair for one boat or the other."

Lord Dunraven said this evening: "I am quite satisfied that I cannot off New York sail a race for the America's Cup under satisfactory conditions. While I do not believe that I have a superior boat, I do not believe that I should be subjected to an insult from the Regatta Committee of any yacht or club or from the representative of any syndicate.

"There is no difference of opinion about our boat. It is a simple matter of refusal to sail under existing conditions."

THEORY OF RENT.

Decrease of Rentals Discussed by the British Association.

London, Sept. 13.—Sir Douglas Galton, who was seized with a fainting fit at Ipswich last night while reading an address before the British Association for the Advancement of Science, of which he is president, is much better.

The principal feature of the morning's session was an address to the economic science and statistics section, by L. L. Price, the president of the section. In the course of his address Mr. Price discussed "Theory of Rent," saying:

"The theory of rent is not a maxim of conduct, but a rational explanation of fact. It has certainly seemed to me that, on a broad view, the tenant considers the rent to be property that which is left when, on an average of years, he has reaped a fair profit and paid his laborers the wages they command. The landlord, as far as I have been able to discover, occupies, in his eyes, the position, to use the language differently applied to the wage-earner by General Walker, in his "Political Economy," of a residual claimant. And such, also, as I read the theory, is the place which he fills therein. It can hardly be doubted that one of the most remarkable changes of recent years has been the development of the means and deduction of the cost of transportation. This change implies a loss of the advantages derived from proximity to the market in the case of commodities which admit of conveyance from a distance. Interpreted in the language of the theory of rent, English land, as respects certain products, has forfeited part of the protection afforded by its situation near to the market. With the partial loss of this advantage has also disappeared part of another, for the decrease in the cost of transportation has opened the European markets to the virgin soil of America and other countries. And, with regard to products which admit of conveyance from a distance, the fertility of English land, whether it be due to the skill of generations of comparatively high farming or to natural qualities of soil, has lost part of its advantage. In the language of the theory of rent, the forfeiture of these two advantages involves depression in the sense of a decrease of rent; and as it seems to me, the adequacy, rather than deficiency, of theory is evident as rational explanation of fact.

Toronto Almost Without Water.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 13.—A very grave crisis has arrived in the position of Toronto with regard to the water supply. The Rosehill Reservoir is for all practical purposes empty. At 6 o'clock last evening it contained less than 4 feet of water, and before noon to-day this will be exhausted. The city will then have, as the only present available source, the waterworks at North Toronto, whose capacity is only sufficient to afford a very limited quantity.

According to the most sanguine estimates, fresh lake water will not be available for several days. This hope is based on the successful repair of the seven breakages of the intake pipe by the close of the week. Satisfactory progress is being made, but there remains a large accumulation of debris in the pipe.

The gravity of the situation led to a conference between President Shaw, Ald. Lamb, Chairman of Board of Works, City Engineer Keating and the waterworks superintendents at the City Hall yesterday. The result was that Ald. Shaw and Lamb paid a visit to Mayor Bond at Toronto Junction and told His Worship of Toronto's dilemma. Now what are known as the Junction Waterworks are of large capacity—above three million gallons and the water is of very excellent quality.

Mayor Bond stated his willingness to co-operate immediately in any scheme whereby the wants of Toronto could be met by the abundant water supply of West Toronto.

Two Anti-Parnellites Returned.

Dublin, Sept. 12.—The election to fill the parliamentary seat for Limerick City, made vacant by the cancellation of the election of John Daly, Parnellite, now undergoing a sentence of penal servitude in connection with the dynamite conspiracy of 1884, yesterday resulted in the choice of Mr. F. A. O'Keefe, anti-Parnellite, Mr. O'Keefe received 1836 votes and Mr. J. Nolan, Parnellite, 1752. In the last election Daly was elected without opposition.

The West Waterford seat, made vacant by the resignation of Mr. Alfred Webb, was filled by the election yesterday of Mr. Shea, anti-Parnellite, without opposition.

Counterfeiters Caught in Missouri.

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 12.—Ransom Smith, Charles A. Green and Miss Gertie Howard, members of a gang of counterfeiters, have been arrested by United States officials. The headquarters of the gang was in an isolated spot on the Platte River, near the city. A number of moulds and gold nuggets were confiscated. Several members of the gang are still at large.

FIRE AT LONDON FAIR

Two Buildings on the Grounds Burned.

$10,000 WILL COVER THE LOSS.

A Badly Insulated Electric Wire Causes Destruction of the Carriage, Poultry and Other Buildings—The Exhibits Had Just Been Put in Place.

London, Ont., Sept. 12.—With a meteoric display of fireworks the Western Fair was opened this evening. The exhibition was not set down on the official program, and although it involved an extra expenditure of $10,000 it went through without a hitch. Before the spark from the electric wire which started the blaze was extinguished the whole of the carriage building, the poultry shed and the W.C.T.U. building, besides several smaller erections, were in smoking ruins.

The formal opening of the Fair was set for Friday, and all day to-day people flocked to the grounds, and exhibits were being put in place.

Shortly after 7.30 the good ladies of the W.C.T.U. had prepared a little supper in their building and were seated around to enjoy it. Just then a wave of fire flew in the back windows and the ladies and their friends scrambled incontinently out the front. Somebody cried fire and when the department arrived the poultry sheds were all ablaze. In a moment the carriage building caught and the dry wooden structures went up like a match box.

The exhibits, amounting in value to many thousands of dollars, were hastily removed.

There were only a few hens in the poultry shed and the loss of life was not great. The panic among the exhibitors was general, and from all over the grounds exhibits were hastily thrown out. Then the firemen began to get in their work and kept the blaze confined to the carriage building. Nothing could be done but let the buildings, burn, and they did so to the intense enjoyment of the crowd of 20,000

While the ruins were still smoking the Fair directors held a meeting and decided to go on with the show on schedule time. It was decided to send a petition to the Industrial Exhibition at Toronto praying for the loan of a few spare hen coops in which to house the poultry coming as invited guests. The carriages will have to take a chance around among the other buildings.

The entire damage was placed at $10,000 and insured.

MOWED DOWN HIS BABY.

The Binder Cut Off Both Legs, Causing Death.

Selkirk, Ont., Sept. 12.—A little boy two years of age, son of Mr. Martin Negal, who lives near Rainham Centre, was in the field playing near where his father was cutting corn with a binder. He hid in the corn and the father came upon him unnoticed, and before he saw him the knife of the machine struck him, cutting off both legs. The child died from loss of blood before medical aid could be summoned.

Four Killed by Lightning.

Colon, Colombia, Sept. 12.—During a thunderstorm at Matahin yesterday four men were killed by lightening.

Poisoned by Chloredyne.

Thrown From His Vehicle.

Mark Kupits, a Jew pedlar, who lives at 169 York-street, was driving a wagon along Gerrard east at 5 o'clock last night when at the corner of Broadview-avenue a wheel came off the rig. The horse ran away and Kupits was thrown from the rig to the ground, sustaining severe cuts on the head and face, and bruises on the forehead. His injuries were attended to at the General Hospital, where he is doing well.

Holmes Indicted for Murder.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 12.—Coroner Caster, in his verdict in the inquest on the remains of Howard Pitezel, declared that the child came to his death at the hands of H. H. Holmes. The Marion County grand jury yesterday afternoon found an indictment against Holmes for murder in the first degree, and should he escape trial in Philadelphia he will be brought here.

Another Indictment in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Sept. 12.—The grand jury has found a true bill for murder against Herman M. Mudget, alias H. H. Holmes, for the murder of Benjamin F. Pitezel.

A Mouthful of Pearls.

The teeth, perhaps more than any other feature, enhance or destroy that intangible, because complex, thing we call beauty. What more repellant than ill-kept, discoloured teeth? What unsightliness more needless and inexcusable? Ivorine is delightful, whether as a cleanser or in its property of imparting to the teeth that dazzling whiteness so much desired and admired, and as efficiently does it render the breath sweet and fragrant. Ivorine is simply incomparable as a toilet requisite, which accounts for its recommendation and use by leading dentists.

MUNICIPAL REFORM.

Woodstock has taken an important forwark step in municipal progress. A popular vote has declared by a very large majority in favour of reducing the representation in the town council from 10 to 6 and in favour of electing councillors by the vote of the whole people—in the same manner as the mayor of a town is elected. This is a distinct advance, especially momentous, in view of its being a popular protest against the evils of over government which this country suffers. We have between six and seven hundred parliamentary representatives including the federal and the several provincial parliaments, and we have a multitude of municipal representatives in counties and townships, cities, towns and villages running well into the thousands, not to speak of members of school boards to an almost equal number. This is a serious matter and has a practical bearing upon our national prosperity, when it is considered that, as must be admitted every representative represents not only his constituents, but what is a grave matter, a certain expenditure of public funds. Each member of a representative body must show a raison d'etre. He must waste so much wind in making what is called a speech—and wind in parliament costs money—or he must procure certain improvements or favours for his constituents, whether or not they are required in the real interests of the public. In this he is assisted in towns under the ward system by the votes of his colleagues. This "log-rolling" practice reduced to a system accounts for a large amount of, strictly speaking, corrupt, or at least, unnecessary expenditure. This going on all over the land is responsible for a vast waste of public moneys, taxes are increased and the people are burdened with debts arising from expenditures that have not the excuse of necessity.

The adoption as decided by the Woodstock people, of the principle of electing councillors by the vote of the whole body of electors involving the abolition of the ward system, will very largely do away with the evils of excessive expenditure due to the log-rolling principle. No man would be at the mercy of a ward—if he legislates in the interest of the town at large, regardless of the claims of sectional interests, he will secure the favour of the electors in general, though he may incur the enmity of the baser sort in some particular ward. The adoption of the reforms declared for by the electors of Woodstock, may not bring the municipal millennium, but it is a fairish-sized rift in the clouds in the region of the dawn. It is natural that such a movement should begin in a great centre of Reform like grand old Oxford.

CANADIAN CHEESE SLANDERED.

The charge made by the North British Agriculturist against Canadian cheese, has naturally aroused great surprise amongst the cheese-producing factors of the Dominion. In Canada, making current such an absurd charge will only excite a smile of contempt, but to have such a charge made public in Great Britain, the best market for Canadian cheese in the world, is a serious matter, and Acting-Premier Caron has shown creditable promptitude and spirit in contradicting in toto and in strong terms, the absurd story of the North British Agriculturist. The gravamen of the charge is that "a considerable proportion of Canadian cheese is made from separated (skimmed) milk, fattened with oleomargarine." As will be seen elsewhere in this issue, such a thing as a filled cheese in Canada is unknown—in fact it is impossible. There is a law on the Canadian statute book forbidding the making of filled cheese under a penalty of $400—half of the penalty going to the informant, thus making detection easy. Canadian cheese is pure, all cream cheese and the charge referred to is probably referable to a feeling which has found its way in print in the interests of the Old Country dairymen. We have before us the Dundas (Scotland) Advertiser in which a speaker urges his hearers—tenant farmers and other agriculturalists, in which he draws a strong picture of the manner in which Canadian cheese has encroached British cheese out of the home market. The charge in question can, of course, have no foundation in fact, and is, perhaps, due to the jealousy of home dairymen, or, perhaps, some enterprising Yankee cousin has been shipping stuffed cheese or skim and labelling it "Canadian." Though the cheese industry now seems to be in a depressed condition, it is to be hoped that the tide will turn. It is still worth preserving, anyway, and, that malice originates slanderous misstatements about Canadian cheese is one of the strongest evidences of the leading position it is taking in the British market. Imitation—and detraction, too, under certain circumstances—is the sincerest flattery, and when our Yankee neighbours try to imitate our cheese by forging a Canadian brand, and when our British cousins slander Canadian cheese, we have reason to be proud of our success in its production.

GOOD ROADS PAY.

The Chatham Planet in referring to an article in the EXAMINER says: "We people in this section of country where nature gives us roads that in dry season are perfect, but in wet weather virtually impassable, are particularly alive to the question of improved highways. The problem is still open for solution, so far as what we shall do with our mud is concerned; and every contribution to that literature of the question is acceptable."

"Commenting on a recent magazine article, in which the value of roadmaking on a piece of highway between Moorestown, N.J., and the City of Philadelphia was instanced, the Peterborough EXAMINER founds a timely, thoughtful article. In the experiment referred to it was found, after improvements were made, that two horses were able to do the work for which four had been required. On the old roads two men and four horses, with a wagon weighing 1900 pounds, could take two and a half tons of produce to market and make one trip a day, bringing back an equal weight of fertilizer. Now one man on the good roads, with two horses and a wagon weighing 2,300 pounds, takes four tons to market, brings back an equal weight, and makes two trips a day. More than all this, under the stimulus of the roadways the land that was once a drug is now in steady demand at high prices. THE EXAMINER, after detailing these results, thus concludes:

"Results as highly satisfactory may not come everywhere. This was near a great city. But undoubtedly near any city good roads must prove a paying investment for the residents. The farmers should wake up to the fact. The time is past for carelessness in farming as in other things. Often in the rural districts there is a feeling that what was good enough in the old days is good enough for to-day. That feeling is not confined to road making. It extends to general farming as well, too many agriculturists being content to plod along in the old ruts, refusing to recognize the changed conditions and the profit to be derived from improved methods. The successful business man of the town and city is the man who is quick to see the necessity for keeping up with the times in his methods, and the successful farmer will be the same kind of man."

Kingston Visited By a Severe Cyclone.

$100,000 DAMAGE IN 30 MINUTES

The Cotton Mill So Badly Damaged That 300 Employes Will Be Idle For Weeks Scores of Buildings and Some Barns Blown Over.

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 13.—A cyclone and electric storm Wednesday did much damage here. Hundreds of trees were leveled, chimneys knocked down, windows smashed and telephone and telegraph wires torn from their fastenings. The storm began at 9 o'clock and lasted half an hour. T. Clyde's house in Jenkins-street, newly built and occupied, was demolished. One lady was slightly injured.

The car works' buildings were much shattered, while cars were wrecked. The loss is $1000.

The cotton mill is badly damaged and the repairs will require $70,000. Twenty-five hundred feet of roof was doubled over. The roof then crashed into the mill, wrecking six mules and 3600 spindles. The water pipes burst, flooding the mill. For some weeks over 200 employes will be out of work.

Scores of barns and houses in the country were unroofed, while walks, trees, fences and outbuildings, both in city and country, were ripped up, the various parts scattered for yards around. Many streets were blocked with fallen trees.

The Kingston Field Battery, camped on Barriefield Common, received the full force of the cyclone. One marquee and five tents were totally destroyed and 13 tents were damaged. The harness and equipment were blown all over the camp and two limbers were blown from the middle of the commons clear across to the military college fences. Forty of the men were marched to "A" Battery barracks, where they were quartered for the night.

Possibly $100,000 will cover the damage in this section.

ACROSS THE LAKE.

Two Men Killed—Two Canadian Women Severely Injured.

Watertown, N.Y., Sept. 13.—A terrific storm swept over this section at 8 o'clock last evening, causing much damage to property generally and culminating in a serious disaster and fatality at Cape Vincent, at the foot of Lake Ontario. Thomas Arniel and George Godfrey of Cape Vincent have since died from internal injuries received from the wrecking of the depot and others were injured. Among the injured are Miss Maude Walsh, Kingston, Ont., severe scalp wound; Mrs John Aiken, Hamilton, Ont., fractured limb and internal injuries. The cyclone continued only a few minutes. The rain came as if from a cloudburst, and it continued half an hour, but the wind which wrought the destruction was like a tremendous gust, coming so suddenly and passing so swiftly that it seemed not to have lasted more than a minute and yet in that brief time showing a power before which almost everything moveable gave way. A large hay storage barn belonging to the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg Railroad Company, was smashed into kindling wood and piled up on the tracks. The evening train had just arrived with about 200 people on board for Kingston, Ont. The boat succeeded in getting away from the dock with most of her passengers.

It is feared that three others will be added to the list of deaths resulting from the collapse of the depot. Those who are in a critical condition are: J M. Anderson of New York, Mrs. Agen of Kingston, Ont., and Mrs. Fitzgerald of Cape Vincent.

Reports from various parts of Jefferson County show that probably 100 barns were unroofed and some blown down in the gale.

Heavy Gales on the Atlantic.

Southampton, Sept. 13.—The American line steamer St. Louis, which arrived here from New York yesterday, encountered severe northwesterly gales on Saturday, which lasted 48 hours. Sunday night, at the height of the storm, Captain Randle was thrown from his berth and sustained a severe scalp wound. He did not appear on deck for the remainder of the voyage.

AN ALARMING INCREASE.

The Prevalence of Female Complaints Found to Result Largely from the Kidneys.

SAGINAW, Mich., Sept. 2.—Doctors are beginning to turn their attention more exclusively to the cause for the great increase of what are known as female complaints during the past ten years, and to the remedies for the same. Many cases have been investigated, and among others that of Mrs. Reany, of Ashland, Wis., who was cured of this form of trouble by the use of a kidney medicine known as Dodd's Kidney Pills, which originated in Canada, but has now become widely known and used throughout the Western States. This and other similar cases go to show that these troubles are largely due to the kidneys and that the above mentioned remedy is likely to have a great effect in lessening the number of victims to this form of complaints.

NOTES FROM OTTAWA

Progress of the Petroleum Borings Near Edmonton Rule of the Road at Sea.

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—Mr. Smith, Deputy Minister of Marine, received a letter from the Attorney-General of Great Britain, Sir Richard Webster, in which he stated that it had been found impossible to re-appoint a select committee of the House of Commons on rules of the road at sea, during the late short session of Parliament. There were additional difficulties in the way, as several ship owners, members of the committee, had lost their seats at the last general election, and so were no longer eligible to serve on the committee. It is probable, however, that the committee will be re-appointed early next session. The Imperial committee on manning of British ships, Mr. Smith learns from the same source, has not been called together yet, but it is probable it will be convened about the end of October.

Carleton County Assizes opened today, Mr. Justice MacMahon presiding. The learned judge delivered an able review of the Criminal Code.

Mr. Collingwood Schreiber left for the Pacific Coast to-day.

The next issue of the Canadian Gazette will contain a notice to mariners regarding a fixed red light which the Department of Marine has had erected on the eastern pier at the eastern entrance to Toronto Harbor.

George M. Dawson, Director of the Geological Survey, arrived home today, after making an inspection of the experimental boring for petroleum at Athabasca Landing. He found the boring progressing satisfactorily under Mr. Fraser, who has the contract for the work. The borings are now down to a depth of about 1500 feet, and the prospects appear to be good for getting down two or three hundred feet deeper, to the sandstone, which underlies the cretaceous formation, and in which the petroleum is supposed to exist.

The Reformers on the Ottawa Separate School Board are gaining ground. The Board met to-night, when the difficulty in reference to the teaching staff in Garreau school was settled by the Board authorizing the dismissal of the two assistant Brothers from the school, and engagement of two nuns and one male lay teacher in their stead. Another fight is looming up in connection with the appointment of an English teacher in La Salle school, which means dismissal of two more Brothers.

The ballot papers for the Toronto University Senate election are now in the hands of graduates, and from the interest taken in the approaching election it is evident that a very large vote will be polled in the Capital. The organization of Toronto graduates here has nominated Hon. A. R. Dickey; his claims are pressed on the grounds that he is prepared to attend meetings of Senate, and take the necessary time to master the intricacies of the many problems now awaiting solution, affecting the University's welfare.

MARRIAGE BY LICENSE.

Anglican Bishops Desire the Marriage Laws of Ontario Amended by Abolition of the License.

Montreal, Que., Sept. 12.—At to-day's session of the Anglican Provincial Synod much discussion was created in the Lower House by a message from the House of Bishops relative to asking the Ontario Legislature to amend the marriage laws of that province. Rev. A. Brown of Paris, Ont., spoke strongly against the license system of marrying, as it prevailed in Ontario, and said that it led to perjury in many cases, and under it a clergyman was an innocent party in solemnizing marriages that were an outrage against the laws of God and man; it was an invitation to young people to get privately married. Under the marriage laws of Ontario, those portions of the provinces which were adjacent to the States, afforded greater facilities for clandestine marriages than did the adjacent States. The Lower House refused to concur in the message, being of opinion that the question was one for the consideration of the Ontario diocesean synods, rather than for the Provincial Synod to deal with. The Lower House referred the reports of the joint Committee on Marriage and Divorce to the general synod after much opposition on the part of a minority of the House.

A delegation from the Protestant Episcopal Church in the States, and including the Bishops of Maine and Michigan, was given a hearty welcome by the synod.

"I consider it my duty," says Mr. F. Z. Dias, of San Diego, Texas, "to certify that Ayer's Pills have completely relieved my wife of neuralgia, from which complaint she was, for a long time, a great sufferer.' They are easy to take and always effective.

For cholera morbus, cholera infantum, cramps, colic, diarrhœa, dysentery and all summer complaints, Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is a prompt, safe and sure cure that has been a popular favorite for nearly 50 years.

Scott's Sarsaparilla
A CURE Inflammatory Rheumatism is produced by an excess of uric acid in the blood. Paralysis is nearly a dead circulation produced by impure and impoverished blood. So-called neuralgia of the thigh is seldom rheumatism; scrofulous rheumatism is hereditary; syphilitic results from syphilis; gout is caused by high living; sluggish circulation affects the heart.

"THE KIND THAT CURES"

Thus the whole line of rheumatic diseases owe their being to an affected circulation of impure blood. No person can suffer a rheumatic pain that has a free and equal circulation of pure blood, and this accounts for Scott's Sarsaparilla curing the supposed incurable cases. It eradicates all rheumatic poisons and adds from the blood and equalizes the circulation.

THE SECRET OUT!

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from various prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894; also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CAANDA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story :—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	PerCent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE.....	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life.....	2.63	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

W. H's Life Policy for $10,000, issued April, 1889, Age 23, Annual Premium $177.

Total Cost for 6 years.....1,062 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy .....1,250 Dollars
Nearly 200 Dollars more than Insurance Cost.

A. E's Life Policy for $5,000, issued April, 1886, Age 22, Annual Premium $86.

Total Cost for 9 years..... 774 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy .....1,000 Dollars
More than 200 Dollars over Cost of Insurance.

The repairs which are going on at St. Mark's church, Port Hope, of which Rev. C. B. Kenrick is rector, will take about two weeks to complete. The church is to be clap-boarded and when finished painted in drab. A new top to the tower will also be put on. New furnaces will be put in to supply the warmth necessary for comfort in the winter.

Lightning's Work.

The barns and house of Mr. John Owens, lot 3, concession 10, Ennismore, were destroyed by lightning on Tuesday night during the storm, which was very heavy in the northern portion of the county. The barns were substantial frame and log structures, and the house was frame. Very little of the contents was saved. The loss is large as the house alone cost over $500. There was an insurance of $335.

This Year's Honey.

It is stated by some of the bee-keepers that the crop of honey this year is very much below the average. In some localities it is reported a complete failure, so much so, that the bees have not stored sufficient for their own consumption. The apiarists of Peterborough also report a small amount. The honey this year is darker in colour, owing to the failure of clover and the basswood blossom.

Shipment of Horses.

Mr. Timothy Cavanaugh shipped two splendid grey teams back to the Gilmour Company's limit yesterday, having disposed of the animals to that firm. One team weighing 2,835 pounds was purchased by Mr. Cavanaugh from Mr. Martin, of Cavan, by whom they were raised. One of the others weighing 1,450 pounds was raised by Mr. Redmond, of Otonabee, and the fourth weighing 1,460 pounds was purchased from Mr. Heaslip, who lives on the line between Manvers and Cartwright.

The South Ward School.

The new wing which is being added to the South Ward school is nearly completed, that is the exterior portion, as the roof timbers have all been placed in position and planked, and the shingling will be begun at once. The ceilings and flooring of the new building will also be started this week. Mr. Rutherford is fulfilling his contract in the most satisfactory manner, and the new wing transforms the old school into a most commodious and attractive looking structure.

Making a Fight for Life.

Peterborough Teachers.

The annual convention of the Peterborough Teachers' Association will be held at the Norwood Model School on Thursday and Friday, Oct. 10th and 11th. A very interesting programme has been prepared. The first session will open at 10 a.m. on Thursday.

Not This Time.

On Thursday, a young man of Hastings visited the the town of Peterborough and of course put on Sunday clothes. Whether it was the dressing up or not, some one started the report that he'd gone to bring home the better half, and on his return home in the evening he found awaiting him at the station a crowd ready to give him a royal salute. He was considerably put out.

A Runaway at Noon.

The team attached to the Oriental bus got away from the C.P.R. station at noon to-day, and turning into George street from the yard followed the other busses that were going to G.T.R. station. The team turned up Dalhousie street and at the bridge over the creek the wheel struck one of the supports, throwing the bus over on its side. The glass on one side was badly smashed.

Sentence Reconsidered.

Bert Hill, who was sentenced to a term in the Reformatory for stealing whips from the carriages in St. Andrew's church shed, will be brought to the police court this evening. If the parents will pledge themselves to take proper precautions against the lad again getting into trouble of this nature, there is a possibility that the boy may be restored to his family. The Reformatory is hardly a place for one of his years.

It's News He's After.

A western editor breaks into the following lament over the dearth of events:—"News, news, news! It's enough to give a man the blues. Nobody married and nobody dead; nobody broken an arm or a head; nobody comes in to talk of the 'crap'; no one gets boozy and starts a scrap; no one got run in for taking a horn; nobody buried and nobody born. Oh, for a racket, a riot, a fuss! someone to come in and kick up a muss; someone to stir up the peace laden life; someone run off with another man's wife; someone come in and pay up his dues; anything, anything, just so it's news."

British Sportsmen.

In one of the races of 1885 for the America Cup, it will be recalled, at the start, the Puritan ran into the Genesta, carrying away her head gear and putting her bowsprit through the mainsail of the British boat. The Regatta Committee then notified Sir Richard Sutton, the owner of the Genesta, that they disqualified the American and that he was entitled to the race. Sir Richard would not accept. He was told he might sail over the course alone, but again he declined, saying he came over to sail, not to have a walkover. This incident contrasts sharply with the refusal of the owners of the Defender to sail the race of Tuesday over again after the committee had awarded it to them.

"Ducking" Under Difficulties.

Circumstances have not been favourable to a high degree for hunters of ducks in this locality. The birds are said to be high-flyers and make long distance flights, and are thus not easily "winged." Some "shots" have returned from the marshy land empty-handed, while others were more fortunate in bagging a few. Another detriment to good shooting this year is the low water and tall, thick rice beds, through which it is impossible to push a boat, and the only way of securing a bird is by wading, a not altogether pleasant undertaking when one sometimes drops to his neck or overhead in mud and slush. At the mouth of the Otonabee a large number of ducks were dropped by good marksmen, and falling in the rice beds they are not recovered.

A New Veterinary Surgeon.

The attention of all concerned is directed to the card of Mr. F. Fisher, V. S., in another column of to-day's EXAMINER. Mr. Fisher has decided to become one of our citizens, and has opened an office at No. 378 Water street, near the Market. Mr. Fisher has been practising his profession for the last eight years in Carlston Junction, where he enjoyed the patronage of the best stock breeders of that section. He had charge of Dr. Preston's Hillside stock farm, with a stud of twenty well-bred horses, and also the Arklam stock farm with its forty head of Jersey cattle. He was also entrusted with a commission from Messrs. Sheppard & Morris, lumber dealers, of Ottawa, to go up the Mattawa, where an epidemic of glanders had broken out among their horses.

Catholic Foresters.

The Grand Court of the Catholic Order of Foresters, now in session at Ottawa, spent the whole of Wednesday forenoon discussing the question of graded assessment left over from Tuesday night. After a number of speeches had been made the committee adjourned and brought in an amended report which recommended the graded assessment, but at a lower rate by 20 per cent. than that in the original report. This means that those entering from eighteen to twenty years of age pay 48 cents per month on $1,000 insurance; the limit age is 45 years, when 88 cents have to be paid. The grading between these ages is proportionate. The amended report of the committee carried by a vote of 44 to 20. It is probable that the session will be concluded Thursday. Wednesday evening there was a complimentary gathering at Harmony Hall in honour of the delegates, who are a fine body of young men.

Nearly Drowned.

This morning Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Williamson received a scare that they will not soon forget. Their little child, about one and one-half years old, was playing around the yard, and at last got outside where there was a large bucket of water standing, which was used for watering the horses. The little lad had an apple which he dropped into the water, and in an attempt to get it out again he fell in head first. An older child about three years of age happened to be near, and the little fellow had the presence of mind to rush in and tell his mother what had happened. When the mother reached her child he was terribly bloated and had also turned black in the face, and she thought he was dead. Word was sent to Mr. Williamson, who was at the time at the bank doing some business, that the child had been drowned, but when he reached home he found that the mother had succeeded in bringing the little one around all right by rubbing it and swatning with hot cloths. —Lindsay Post.

CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC CO. AGENTS AND OFFICIALS.

They Visit the Local Works and View the Town.

During the last few days, the various agents of the Canadian General Electric Company have been in conclave in Toronto and to-day, accompanied by Frederick Nicholls, general manager, and a number of the directors and members of the Toronto staff, a party of twenty-three ran down to Peterborough to see the works of the company here. Among the party were Messrs. Frederic Nicholls, Toronto; W. B. N. Armstrong, Parry Sound; E. McCormack, Toronto; F. S. Armstrong, Toronto; John Pitcher, Montreal; H. T. Dwight, Toronto; A. Pine, Vancouver, B. C.; W. McCullough, Winnipeg; E. T. Freeman, Halifax, N.S.; J. J. Ashworth, Toronto; J. W. Campbell, Toronto; Wm. McCaffery, Toronto; A. W. Congdon, Toronto; W. R. Brock, Toronto; J. M. Campbell, Kingston.

They arrived on the 11.25 express and accompanied by Mr. Geo. A. Cox, who was in town, and Mr. H.T. Hartman, the party registered at the Oriental. During the afternoon, after viewing the works, the agents took a run over the local electric railway system on a car placed at their disposal by the Peterborough and Ashburnham syndicate. They return to Toronto this evening.

MR. H. H. SMITH'S APPOINTMENT

More Complimentary References to Peterborough's Former Mayor.

The Evening News-Bulletin, Winnipeg, says:—

"A despatch from Ottawa announces as settled the appointment of Mr. H. H. Smith as Deputy Minister of Agriculture, to take the place of Mr. Lowe. Mr. Smith came to Manitoba in 1884, succeeding Mr. Pearce as Inspector of Dominion Lands, and in the following year was appointed to succeed Mr. Walsh as commissioner. During Mr. Smith's ten years' administration of his important office he has, besides discharging its duties with energy and business ability, won universal respect and good will by his courteous manner and his absolutely fair treatment of all who transacted business with his office, without distinction of party. Before his appointment to the civil service Mr. Smith was well-known in the east as a strong party man, but upon his exchanging political life for an administrative office he absolutely dropped his party leanings in all matters pertaining to the duties of his new office. Manitobans will welcome Mr. Smith's promotion, not only from feelings of personal regard for himself, but also from the conviction that the experience gained from his long residence here respecting agricultural conditions in the Northwest, will prove of great value both to his new department and to Manitoba.

FATAL APOPLECTIC SEIZURE.

Sudden Death of Mr. George McIlmoyle, the Well-Known Auctioneer of Lakefield.

(Special From Our Own Correspondent.)

Lakefield, Sept. 13th.—Yesterday afternoon while Mr. Geo. McIlmoyle, the well-known auctioneer, was engaged in plastering at the house of Mr. John Millage, he was seized with an apoplectic fit. It appears he had just carried two heavy pails of plaster upstairs, and complained of feeling faint. He asked for a glass of water and immediately fell unconscious. Dr. Bell was at once summoned, and had the unfortunate gentlemen conveyed to his home, where he was carefully attended to and everything done to relieve him. He gradually sank until death relieved him from his sufferings about half past four o'clock this morning. This sad event is a great shock to the whole community, as Mr. McIlmoyle was well known all over the county. The family have the sympathy of the public in their sudden and sad affliction.

DEATH OF A WANDERER.

An Old Man Passes Away at the Nicholls Hospital.

About three weeks ago an old man wandered into the Nicholls Hospital and and asked for shelter. It was seen that he was very ill and a cot was assigned to him in one of the wards. His sickness developed into typhoid fever in the course of a few days, and this morning he succumbed to the attack. Little, if anything, is known of the old man. He stated when he first entered the hospital that his name was Joseph Taylor, aged 64, and that he came from North Bay. Unless his relatives claim his body immediately the town will have to assume the funeral expenses.

LINDSAY CHEESE BOARD.

1,277 Boxes Boarded at the Meeting held Thursday Morning.

The Lindsay cheese board met in the council chamber, at 11 o'clock, Thursday morning, when a large number of cheese were boarded. Mr. T. Robertson, president, occupied the chair, and Mr. J. H. Curtin, secretary, was also at his post. The buyers present were Messrs. Wm. Flavelle and Spence.

The following are the number of boxes boarded :—

	Boxes.
Star	128
Lorneville	55
Cameron	76
Dunsford	90
Valentia	99
Gamebridge	75
Mariposa	70
Derryville	85
Cambray	65
Janetville	35
Manilla	00
Fenelon Falls	93
North Verulam	103
Minden	42
Lesakdale	00
North Ops	45
Downeyville	00
Reaboro	80
Bobcaygeon	153
Total	1,277

When Mr. Robertson called for the offers Mr. Spence bid 7½c. for the board, and then Mr. Flavelle raised it to 7⅝c. for selections, but Mr. Spence did not see his way clear raise this bid, and Mr. Flavelle was asked to name his selections. Those that he named really meant the whole board, and they in turn refused to accept the offer made. After some discussion Mr. Robertson announced that they would likely sell if offered 7½c., and Mr. Flavelle went to the telephone to speak to his brother, and returning offered to split the difference and give them 7 7-16 for the whole board, which was accepted by all except two factories, Derryville and Bobcaygeon, these two factories holding out for more money.

Considerable discussion arose then, some members stating that the farmers would not sell their milk to the factories if a better price was not received for the cheese, and that they would keep it and make more butter. One member said that they might better sell cheese at 7c. than butter at 16c., as the same quantity of milk that it takes to make one pound of butter would make two and one-half pounds of cheese.

On motion the board then adjourned for two weeks.

RAILWAY NOTES.

Sparks of News From the Whirling Wheels—Interesting Cinders for the Eye.

The engine of the Midland way-freight in charge of Engineer A. Laidlaw, killed a cow on Saturday last.

The N. W. York Central R. R. flyer made the distance from New York to Buffalo—440 miles—in 420 minutes, or seven hours, yesterday. This breaks all long distance records of the world, beating the time of the Empire State express one hour and forty minutes, and knocks nearly three-quarters of an hour from the latest English record of 450 miles in 7.45.

Can Heart Failure be Prevented?

Startling and brief the announcement, "Sudden Death Caused by Heart Failure." Such is the stereotyped announcement of coroners, juries, and reporters arousing the forebodings of those victims of indigestion and mal-nutrition, who so frequently disturb themselves upon the manifestation, in palpitation or fluttering, of functional disturbance of the heart; symptoms which they are foolishly prone to accept as the signs of an incurable, and speedily fatal, malady. Maltine with Coca Wine is potent in restoring conditions that no longer render possible such alarmingly disturbing symptoms. Maltine with Coca Wine, through its remedial influence upon the nervous system, soothes into calmness the disorganized nerves. The heart, in response to increased nerve force, no longer plunges and beats as if determined to break.

Maltine with Coca Wine has long been recognized as the most pleasant and efficient remedy for all those functional derangements that find manifestation in lassitude, sleeplessness, despondency and loss of appetite and digestive power. A nerve tonic, a body-builder, a nutrient and digestive agent of inestimable value. All druggists sell it.

BREWERY EMPLOYEES 10TH ANNUAL PICNIC.

The North Star Takes a Merry Crowd Down to Jubilee.

The 10th annual picnic of the employees of the Calcutt Brewery took place Wednesday, per steamer North Star to Jubilee. It was a great success, greater even than all the other successes which the Brewery picnics have scored in previous years. Fully 200 in all of the employees, their wives, sweethearts and friends, took in the trip, and arrived at Jubilee at noon where a most substantial dinner was served.

In the afternoon a game of baseball was scheduled to take place between the brewery nine and the Hiawatha Indians, but the latter club did not show up and so the Sunflowers were challenged and an interesting game took place between the two nines, composed as follows :

Brewery.		Sunflowers.
Conners	Pitcher	McCabe
Tighe	Catcher	Howard
Costello	Left Field	Defrain
Paxman	1st base	Lipsett
Scott	2nd base	Duncan
G Calcutt	3rd base	Watley
Neil	Short stop	Collins
Mercer	Centre field	Moore

Umpire, J Blaine.

The Brewery nine won by a score of 9 runs to 5.

A list of sports which was run off for valuable prizes resulted as follows :

Girls' race—1 Emma Payne, 2 Alice Scott.

Men's race, 100 yards—1 George Paxman, 2 D. McCabe.

Fat men's race—1 D. Denny, 2 J. Collins.

Three-legged race—1 Denny and Costello, 2 McCabe and Paxman.

Ladies' race—1 Miss Castle, 2 Mrs. R. Graham.

Old men's race—Mr. R. Castle, 71 years of age, 100 yards in 15 seconds.

Quoit match—Costello and Lipsett, 21 ; McCabe and Hartley, 19.

Butcher's orchestra furnished music for the dancing which was indulged in both on the boat and at the pavilion at the Point. Mr. M. Costello acted as floor manager in an efficient manner.

The North Star left Jubilee at 3 o'clock, returning to town at 8.15. Everybody declared they had spent a most pleasant day, and the brewery picnic of 1895 will long be remembered by all who attended.

A HORSE THIEF AT LARGE.

He is in all Probability the One Who Operated Here.

The horse and rig recently stolen from Ingersoll has been recovered at St. George, but the thief is still at large. His description which is appended corresponds almost exactly with that of the man who successfully got away with a turnout from Mosely's livery and the local police are almost certain that it is the same individual, as he is said to be addicted to this sort of thing. He is 25 years of age, slight build, weight 150 pounds, 5 ft. 9 in. in height, clean shaved, dark complexion, hair and eyes, small scar on the cheek near his mouth, dressed in dark suit of clothes and generally wears black soft hat. Speaks with English accent, has served in London Military school, and talks of his military companions. Invariably asks for porter and sugar when drinking. He is almost sure to attempt to swindle other liverymen.

A Glad Heart Makes Work Light.

The best work can only be done when the bodily health is good, because the body reacts upon the mind, and a mental inertia supervenes when the body is enfeebled. To have the body in a strong, healthy, buoyant state use Wilson's Invalids' Port Wine, which upon the first symptoms of debility, loss of appetite, and general weakness, should be regularly taken. And then it is a fine old wine, desirable for its own sake as a beverage, being pleasant, stimulating and mellow. Its great advantage to the invalid is that it makes blood which is so sadly needed and this gives a new vitality to the whole system. It is a tonic, and incomparable bracer, and it is at the same time a rare old wine of exquisite bouquet. Sold by all dealers at $7.50 per case of 12 quart bottles, half case $4.00 or 75cts. per bottle. Address—Bordeaux Claret Co., 30 Hospital Street, Montreal.

What to Expect.

"A tramp printer, who said he had worked in every office in Canada, blew into this office on Tuesday last, says the Lindsay Watchman. A farmer's grain bag came in at the same time, which he deposited in a corner, and on being asked what it contained, he answered with a sardonic grin, "Poetry." At Fenelon Falls he was given permission to set up and print off "a few verses," and while he was at it he thought he might as well fill the bag. This poetry he was trading off among the Patrons enroute for cold handouts and skim milk. The night previous he informed our devil he had slept on an engine in the round-house. He made the proud boast that he had not done a day's manual labour in three years, and expected to spend the coming winter in Washington, but whether as the guest of President Cleveland or in the gaol he did not state. He was "English you know," and dropped h's in true Cockney style. He took the dirt road for Peterborough, together with his bag of poetry. We expect to chronicle his demise at the hands of some suffering granger next week. Probably in our next issue we may be able to afford space for a verbation report of the interview. It was interesting."

OAK HALL OPENING.

The New Establishment Opens Wide Its Doors for Business To-morrow.

Oak Hall, the new clothing store of the W. E. Sanford Manufacturing Company, Hamilton, will be open to the public to-morrow. The premises formerly occupied by T. Dolan & Co., have been splendidly fitted up for the new business. As becomes the name, Oak Hall's home is "all oak," a quality which the firm claims for its clothing. The interior is fitted with oak furnishings, and the wood work of the exterior has been handsomely grained in imitation of oak in Watson's best style. The interior arrangements are very simple and very effective. One side of the shop is provided with three lines of broad oak shelving for suits, the lower holding the coats, the next the pants, and the third the vests; the three corresponding pieces of a suit are thus one above the other. This arrangement permits of the display of a very large number of suits in a comparatively small space. On the opposite side is similar shelving for odd pieces—pants and vests. On oaken tables in the middle of the shop are arranged very neatly thousands of dollars worth of fine overcoats. The rear of the shop is devoted to children's clothing, of which the firm make a specialty. On a range of shelving less than twenty feet in length is compactly placed over three thousand dollars worth of children's clothing. In the space between the children's clothing and the overcoat tables is placed the elegant office, also of oak. The shop is splendidly lighted, large extra plate glass windows having been placed in the Hunter street front, and artificial light is provided for by four elegant electroliers with mirror plate reflectors. The walls and ceilings are laid on with a beautiful light toned paper, placed by Watson, and supplied by the Peterborough Bookstore. Four large mirrors are placed at different points for the convenience of customers. The walls are to be adorned with finely framed cards containing mottes that characterize the firm's mode of doing business. Completeness is added to the equipment of this elegant shop by a fitting room adjoining the salesroom.

At first look at the interior one would not think that the shop contained much, but so admirable is the compactness of arrangements that thousands of dollars worth of the highest quality of goods are on view at a glance. Altogether the New Oak Hall is an elegant and completely equipped and stocked establishment.

The refitting was done by the Peterborough Freehold Company, the oak work interior fittings by Mr. J. R. Donel, and the electric lighting by Messrs. Greer & Bradburn. Mr. John Watson supplied the large sign that surmounts the front and Mr. Fred Cook the glass signs on each side of the doors.

The opening to-morrow will be celebrated with eclat, under the oversight of Mr. John Moffatt the capable local manager. The firm announces the presence of a band of musicians and visitors will be presented with beautiful souvenirs.

NOVEL BALLOONING.

A TWIN-SYSTEM SCHEME FOR LONG VOYAGES.

Hydrogen and Hot-air Balloons to Work in Tandem—The Hot-air Apparatus to Raise and Lower the Outfit to be Preserved Intact for Upholding and Carrying Purposes.

M. Savine, a Russian living in Paris, who is at once a scientist and a maker of pictures for illustrated newspapers, has invented a balloon of novel design with which he hopes to accomplish some remarkable things, the first of which is a voyage from New York to Europe, and the second, starting with the warm weather next year, a journey to the pole. To arrange for the first-mentioned voyage an agent has been appointed in New York, M. Kroll of 4 Crotona Park, and the new design in balloons was described by M. Kroll to a Sun reporter.

So far as lifting power is concerned there is nothing novel in M. Savine's invention. He utilizes the hydrogen-gas bag commonly in use among balloonists, with the usual basket below it. This gas bag is of 3,000 cubic metres capacity and the basket will hold two men. No ballast of any kind is carried in this basket, save such supplies of food and drink as would be needed in long voyages. It is in the substitute for ballast that M. Savine has developed a novelty. At the end of a cable forty metres long, hanging below the basket, is suspended a second balloon of 1,000 cubic metres capacity, with a stout metal car attached that will carry two men, 300 kilograms of petroleum, and an apparatus for burning the oil, and by its combustion to heat the air for inflating this lower balloon.

The operation of the whole outfit, as described by M. Kroll is easily understood. On inflating the upper gas bag with hydrogen the lifting power obtained will be sufficient to carry up the entire outfit to a moderate height—possibly high enough to reach a steady current of air flowing in the direction in which it is desired to travel. In this case it will be necessary, according, to M. Kroll, merely to let the balloon travel. In case, however, the hydrogen balloon does not raise the outfit to the desired altitude, the crew of the lower balloon will fire up their apparatus and inflate the lower balloon. Naturally this will gradually relieve the upper balloon of the weight suspended below it, and so the whole concern will continue to rise until the sought-for current is reached. Then the fire in the lower balloon will be turned down, or entirely off, as may be needed to hold the balloon at its proper altitude.

Eventually, of course, the hot air will cool off a bit, and the upper balloon will be unable to maintain the altitude. Then, too, the favoring current of air may cease to flow or may change its course. In such cases as these it will be necessary to again fire up the apparatus for inflating the hot-air balloon, and so keep the balloons in the cold current or lift them to a higher level in search of a new current. In case they get too high weight can easily be added to the load on the upper balloon by deflating the lower one, and so the hydrogen gas can be kept intact and the balloons be sunk or raised as the balloonists may chose.

M. Kroll's description of the apparatus for heating the air was not detailed, but he said, in general, that the petroleum would be carried in rubber bags and fed by pipes to a system of 300 burners or jets, set like gas burners in a Yankee butter-cake baker, the flames being six centimeters long and the area of the arrangement of burners one square metre. Above this heating surface a metal cone would capture the hot air and conduct it into the bag above. The system provides for carrying 300 kilograms of petroleum, and it is calculated that this would entirely fill the lower bag sixty times. M. Savine thinks this will be ample for all alterations in ballast during the time needed for even a voyage to the pole and back. M. Kroll says that experiments have been made with the air heater in the presence of many balloon experts in Paris, and that twenty-five minutes was the average time required to fill the bag holding 1,000 cubic metres.

The date for starting for the pole is fixed for a day next June, and the starting point is to be Spitbergen Island. The time for sailing from New York for Paris will be fixed whenever any New York capitalist is sufficiently interested in such doings to contribute a matter of $8,000 or $10,000 for preliminary expenses.—New York Sun.

Threescore and Ten.

Who reach their threescore years and ten,
As I have mine, without a sigh,
Are either more or less than men—
Not such am I.

I am not of them; life to me
Has been a strange, bewildered dream,
Wherein I knew not things that be
From things that seem.

I thought, I hoped, I knew one thing,
And had one gift, when I was young—
The impulse and the power to sing,
And so I sung.

To have a place in the high choir
Of poets, and deserve the same—
What more could mortal man desire
Than poet's fame?

I sought it long, but never found,
The choir so full was, and so strong
The jubilant voices there, they drowned
My simple song.

Men would not hear me then, and now
I care not, I accept my fate.
When white hairs thatch the furrowed brow
Crowns come too late!

The best of life went long ago
From me; it was not much at best;
Only the love that young hearts know,
The dear unrest.

Back on my past, through gathering tears,
Once more I cast my eyes, and see
Bright shapes that in my better years Surrounded me!

They left me here, they left me there,
Went down dark pathways one by one—
The wise, the great, the young, the fair;
But I went on!

And I go on! And, bad or good,
The old allotted years of men
I have endured, as best I could—
Threescore and ten!

—Richard Henry Stoddard, Sag Harbor.

A Common Affliction

Permanently Cured by Taking

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

A CAB-DRIVER'S STORY.

"I was afflicted for eight years with Salt Rheum. During that time, I tried a great many medicines which were highly recommended, but none gave me relief. I was at last advised to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by a friend who told me that I must purchase six bottles, and use them according to directions. I yielded to his persuasion, bought the six bottles, and took the contents of three of these bottles without noticing any direct benefit. Before I had finished the fourth bottle, my hands were as as ever they were. My business, which is that of a cab-driver, requires me to be out in cold and wet weather, often without gloves, and the trouble has never returned."—THOMAS A. JOHNS, Stratford, Ont.

The train was only four feet from a high bridge when the accident occurred.

IRRIGATION FOR SMALL FRUITS.

The Hydraulic Ram is Often Used to Good Advantage Where the Conditions Are Suitable.

We recently visited the farm of J. C. Eddy, Hartford County, Ct., who has made quite a hit by irrigating his strawberries (Haverland fertilized by Lovett on three acres of high, and two acres of low land in Bubach fertilized by Jessie). Plots watered yielded 125 per cent. over those not irrigated, thus more than doubling the crop. The first picking on the irrigated plots sold for three cents per basket more than the others, because larger, brighter and better.

The water is conducted in a canal six feet wide, from a small brook around a hillside to a ravine. A hydraulic ram was set in the ravine so that between the ram and the canal there was a drop of seven feet. This pressure of a seven-foot fall to the ram, which is one of the largest in the country, produces a pressure of 24 pounds to the square inch within the ram, and forces water through a three-inch pipe, to be used for direct irrigation of the strawberry patch or for storage in an artificial pond 65 feet above the ram. The pond was made by enlarging and damming up a small pond or water hole that has never been entirely dry. It will contain 300,000 gallons. During strawberry irrigation, water is used from the pond and from the ram at the same time, but when the berries are not being irrigated, all of the power of the ram is directed towards filling the pond.

Already 2000 feet of iron pipe have been laid for strawberry irrigation and 350 feet of condemned hose secured from the Hartford fire department at 15 cents per foot. The pipe from the union at the ram and pond pipe is all two-inch. A portion of the pipe lies about one foot below the surface, so as to allow of plowing and cultivating, but the larger part lies on the ground, near the berry field; the hose is coupled to the pipe, and the former moved to any portion of the field desired. An inclined board, six to eight feet long, is supported by pieces of scantling as legs on each side. On the inclined board the hose is laid. An old nozzle is used and on the end is a large sprinkler with numerous eighth-inch holes. A barrel of water passes through the sprinkler per minute. To equal a good summer rain, at least one inch in depth of water should be applied per acre, which means 27,000 gallons or 113 tons of water. A pipe must discharge nearly two gallons per second to run such a quantity over an acre in five hours. —American Agriculturist.

Wag Harding Challenges Gaudaur.

London, Sept. 11.—"Wag" Harding, the oarsman, who on Monday defeated Tom Sullivan of New Zealand in a sculling race for the championship of England, challenges Jake Gaudaur to row on the Tyne for the sculling championship of the world and any sum of money he wants to put up. Harding offers Gaudaur £50 for his expenses in England.

Enormous Receipts of Wheat.

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 11.—The tremendous receipts of wheat at this point from North Dakota and the northwestern part of Minnesota, are causing comment among the grain men, especially those who a short time ago were predicting a sudden increase in price. The receipts are the largest in the history of the Northwest at this time of year. The receipts yesterday were 1431 cars, against 700 cars the same day in 1891, and over 70 per cent. of the new grain is of contract grade.

From the Jackson Arctic Expedition.

WELL SATISFIED.

Folks Living Under the Shadow of the Mountain are Pleased.

HAMILTON, Sept. 9.—A very large increase has lately taken place in the sale of the specific remedy for complaints of the liver, and Dodd's Kidney Pills are in great demand. There are no complaints either from druggists or the public. The druggists being so near Toronto, the headquarters for distributing, are never in any danger of running out of the medicine for long, no matter how large the demand may be, and the public has long been thoroughly satisfied as to the valuable qualities of the pills, and the manner in which they invariably effect a cure.

BIG PROFITS —ON— Small Investments

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within a short time as by successful Speculation in Grain, Provisions and Stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED can be made by our Systematic Plan of Speculation

originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system.

It is a well-known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 to $100,000 or more by those who invest a few thousand.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plain are persons who live away from Chicago and invest through brokers who thoroughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.

In December, 1894, his Endowment matured, and he received a cheque from the Company for $1,364,70, being a return of all the premiums paid, and in addition, $665,70. That is to say Mr. Murray got back all the money he invested, with about 4½ PER CENT. COMPOUND INTEREST, and had his life assured for $1,000 for twenty years free of charge.

It is needless to say that Mr. Murray was much pleased. You may gather that fact from the persual of his letter hereto appended. QUERY:—How many of the people of Peterborough invests their money to better advantage?

THE WHEEL.

Some one writing over the non de plume of "Fair Play" in a local contemporary works himself into quite an excitement because bicyclists, he states, are prevented by law from riding on the Peterborough sidewalks. "Fair Play" should have looked into the matter a trifle more carefully before rushing into print, as at present there is no bylaw in force preventing the wheelmen from riding on the sidewalks. If they take the road it is in consideration for the feelings of nervous pedestrians, who feel uncomfortable when in such close proximity to a bicycle.

MIXED W HEAT DEFENDED

The Strong Protest Made By Manitoba Grain Men.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 13.—The report of the proceedings at the annual meeting of the Dominion Millers' Association in Toronto on Tuesday has been read with interest in official circles. Strong language was used by some of the speakers, language entirely unwarranted by the facts, and which leads to the inference that mental aberation is a quality not confined to Ottawa alone.

To-day The World correspondent had a conversation on this subject with the Hon. J. Wood, Controller of Inland Revenue, and from the information furnished by him it appears that there is another side to the question, differing widely from that put forward at the Toronto meeting. In order rightly to arrive at a correct judgment on the differences between Ontario dealers, millers and the Department, there are two or three facts which must be borne in mind.

First that of the total Manitoba wheat crop 95 per cent. is handled by the Manitoba dealers. In other words, only 5 per cent. of the crop of Manitoba passes through the hands of the Eastern men. When this fact is taken into consideration, it materially weakens the force of the strictures of the speakers at Tuesday's meeting.

Second, the only change made in the regulations of this year, as compared with past years, is that in establishing the Manitoba wheat grades. It has been stipulated that "Manitoba" shall consist only of wheat grown in Manitoba or the Territories. This is where the shoe pinches the Ontario den, and to use a trite, although hackneyed, expression, largely accounts for "the milk in the cocoanut." In previous years the Departmental regulations fixed the minimum of red fyfe which should be contained in Manitoba No. 1 hard wheat at 66 2-3 per cent., which must have been grown in Manitoba or the Territories. This left a margin of .33 1-3 per cent. for the Ontario men to work upon. In other words it was possible for them to mix 33 1-3 per cent. of Ontario soft wheat with the Manitoba product and the grain still be able to pass as Manitoba No. 1 hard. Now this is no longer permissible. With this single exception, there has been no change in the present regulations from those in force for several years past.

Third, the Ontario millers and grain dealers incline to the belief that the quality of Manitoba wheat will be depreciated by allowing a proportion of cleaned wheat to be mixed with Manitoba No. 1 hard. The feeling in Manitoba, however, is that the present grade of No. 1 hard is too high. Duluth No. 1 hard may contain as low as 51 per cent. of red Fyfe, while Manitoba No. 1 hard, as previously stated, must not contain less than 66 2-3 per cent. of Red Fyfe. To raise the grade still further would be to place the Manitoba farmer at a considerable disadvantage, as compared with his American competitor.

The strongest defence which the Department has to offer for the position which it has taken on the grain question is contained in a memorial of the Winnipeg Grain and Produce Exchange, sent to the Department in November last. Although this memorial was published in the newspapers at the time, no reply to it has been forthcoming.

With regard to the question, however, of mixing of wheat, it will be remembered that representations on this subject were made to the Controller of Inland Revenue last year. Thereupon Mr. Wood instructed Assistant Commissioner of Inland Revenue, Mr. Gerald, to proceed to Port Arthur, Duluth and other western points, to examine into and report upon the method of grain inspection. Under date, Nov. 20, Mr. Gerald presented a report to the Controller, from which it appears that, as regards shipments of grain from public elevators in Duluth, there may be no mixing, but it is quite evident from the fact that of 34 elevators in Minneapolis, alone, 29 are "private" ones and not under state control, grain is scoured, cleaned and mixed before being shipped to the public elevators at Duluth, where it is graded.

The question at issue really resolves itself into this, are the Toronto and Montreal Boards to decide how the Manitoba crop shall be handled or the standards fixed, or is the Winnipeg Board to have the principal say in the matter? When Mr. Wood was in Winnipeg last December he was met everywhere by the feeling that the Ontario and Quebec men had nothing whatever to do with the Manitoba standards. The grain men of Manitoba contend that, originally, eastern Boards, as a matter of courtesy, were given representation on the western Board for the selection of grain standards. Such a thing might be fairly conceded in the early years of the province, but now Manitobans think that they alone are entitled to say what the grain standards shall be for wheat grown in their province or territories. In consideration of all facts in possession of the Department, coupled with the strong opinion expressed by Sir Wm. Van Horne, than whom few men in Canada are more largely interested in the grain trade of the Northwest, together with other representations received, the Department was induced to make only one change in the existing regulations previously mentioned. The question is one which interests producers in Manitoba more than the Eastern Millers' Association. A fuller opportunity will be given for discussion at a meeting of the Western Grain Standard Board, to be held in Winnipeg on 24th inst., where the various interests will be represented. In this connection it is particularly desirable in view of recent developments, that the Dominion Millers' Association should send a strong delegration, but it is not expected that they will.

Do Your EYES Annoy You

Do you find it necessary to hold your paper or book a little farther from you or a little closer to you than 12 inches to read easily?

After doing or reading anything requiring close application of the eye-sight, do you find a tendency to rub your eyes, because they ache you, or has it caused you a headache, or make the edges of the eyelids smart and burn?

Are your eyelids red or inflamed, due to overstrain of the eyes, or on arising in the morning do your eyes feel heavy, and does there seem to be a haziness or fogginess surrounding everything; at such times are you not prompted to say "My eyes are beginning to trouble me, they did not bother me so in the past!"

After considerable physical exertion, do you find that nearly all objects you look at seem to be blurred, and does the light seem to hurt your eyes when you are out on a clear day?

If you have any of these symptoms there is certainly something wrong with your eyes, and they need attention.

Do not neglect them or you may regret it for the rest of your life.

OUR MUNICIPAL DEBT.

One-Fifth of Our Taxes Goes for Interest.

SOME FIGURES WORTH STUDYING.

A Valuable Report From the Bureau of Industries—Borrowed Money, Temporary and Bonded, Take a Conspicuous Place in Receipts of Municipalities

Toronto, Sept. 14.—The Ontario Bureau of Industries has just issued part VI. of its annual report of 1894. This part is entirely devoted to the statistics of the municipalities of Ontario. Returns, showing population, assessed values, taxation and the financial transactions of the several municipalities are here compiled and tabulated, making a book of 168 compact pages. The statistics are brought down to Dec. 31, 1893. A report published last year brought the figures down to Dec. 31, 1890, so that the present volume gives the details for three years, as regards the receipts, disbursements, assets and liabilities of 488 townships, 12 cities, 96 towns, 135 townships and 38 counties, or 769 municipalities in all. The Bureau began the collection of these statistics in 1886, and comparative totals are given for the province for the eight years, such totals being classified by townships, cities, towns, villages and county municipalities.

The figures for population are those taken by municipal assessors. The total in 1893 for all municipalities was 1,910,059, or only 532 in excess of 1892. The following shows the comparative growth by municipalities since 1886:

Townships	1,096,984	1,148,856
Cities	289,030	311,187
Towns	293,946
Villages	130,099	368,452
Total	1,910,059	1,828,495

Tht bulk of the increase has taken place in the cities for 1893.

The total assessed value for all municipalities for 1893 was $825,530,052, or an increase of $318,925 over 1892. The following shows the change since 1886:

Townships	$451,629,103	$452,097,645
Cities	247,770,952	150,821,091
Towns	96,225,551
Villages	29,904,446	91,453,923
Total	$825,530,052	$694,380,659

During this period the real estate in townships increased from $424,356,317 to $448,211,559, but in 1889 live stock was practically exempted, resulting in a decrease in personal property of townships that year of $28,154,121.

The tax bills for municipal and school purposes take another bound, and in 1893 the total placed upon the collectors' rolls was $12,522,660, an increase of $719,090 as compared with the rate of 1892. The average per head of municipal population increased from $4.93 in 1886 to $6.56 in 1893, while the average rate on the dollar rose from 12.97 to 15.17 mills in the same period. The tax levy by municipalities is as follows:

Townships	$4,629,028	$4,388,401
Cities	5,374,682	2,888,598
Towns	1,979,893
Villages	539,057	1,732,386
Total	$12,522,660	$9,009,385

The rate per head of population in townships increased from $3.82 to $4.22 in this period; in cities from $9.28 to $13.82, and in towns and villages from $4.70 to $5.94.

The twelve cities contribute over 20 per cent. of the entire population of the province, 30 per cent. of the assessed values and over 40 per cent. of the taxes.

The tabulated abstract statement of financial transactions, however, forms the chief feature of this report. Passing rapidly over the details we come to the comparative tables showing the aggregates for each item for the several classes of municipalities. The following is a summary of the totals for all the municipalities:

(a) All municipalities; (b) townships, cities, towns and villages; (c) cities, towns and villages; (d) counties; (e) townships; (f) counties, cities, towns and villages; (g) townships, towns and villages.

It will be seen that borrowed moneys, temporary and bonded, take a conspicuous place in the receipts of the municipalities, and the redemption of the same forms a serious charge on the taxpayers. The interest paid is equivalent to one-fifth of the taxes levied. The total interest paid in 1893 was $2,568,891, of which the cities pay $1,635,7[illegible]. Toronto paid $885,955. The expense of municipal government advanced from $5,[illegible],361 in 1886 to $2,664,565 in 1893. Administration of justice by the municipalities averages a million dollars, while over four million dollars are paid to schools.

The bonded debt, exclusive of interest, on Dec. 31, 1893, was $48,083,243 or $23.17 per capita. This is an increase of $7,362,268 in three years, while the net increase since 1886 is over 60 per cent. The following will show how this is made up:

Townships	$ 3,039,823	$ 3,153,646
Cities	33,102,013	18,254,740
Towns	8,463,849	5,010,733
Villages	1,137,967
Counties	2,339,592	3,505,744
Total	$48,083,243	$29,924,963

The twelve cities at $85 per capita carry over two-thirds of the municipal bonded debt. The debenture debt of Toronto city was placed at $19,745,944, of which $1,130,718 was for railways, $1,488,678 for schools and the balance almost equally divided between "local improvements" and general purposes. In 1886 the debt of Toronto was $8,814,964, or less than 30 per cent. of all municipalities, while in 1893 it was over 40 per cent.

HAMILTON AND THE G.T.R.

The Ambitious City Asks President Wilson to Live Up to the Agreement Made in 1886

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 14.—Sir Charles Rivers Wilson and his party arrived in Hamilton yesterday and were met at the station by Acting Mayor Colquhoun, Mr. J. G. Bowes, acting president of the Board of Trade; Hon. W. E. Sanford, A. T. Wood, Mr. Samuel Barker, Lieut.-Col. A. H. Moore, W. H. Gillard, Ald. W. G. Reid, C. R. Smith and Wm. Gibson, M.P., and others. Accompanying the President on his tour are General Manager Seargeant; Mr. Joseph Price, vice-president; Mr. Oppenheimer; Mr. Joseph Stephenson, superintendent; Mr. H. Wallis, mechanical superintendent, and Mr. E. P. Hannaford, chief engineer.

At the Board of Trade rooms Mr. J. G. Bowes welcomed the visitors and mentioned the desirability of having a general district freight agent located here with an uptown office, and also enlarged workshops. He called upon Alderman Colquhoun to present a copy of an agreement entered into between the city and the Grand Trunk Railway in 1858.

Mr. Colquhoun said he would not read the agreement, but would hand it to Sir Charles' secretary, assured that it would receive careful consideration, as some of the terms had not been carried out by the railway.

Mr. Anthony Copp presented a largely-signed petition for an uptown station.

Sir Charles promised to look into all matters referred to and declared that it was their desire to make the G.T.R. a model road in every respect.

Mr. Joseph Price said one of the first things he arranged for when arriving in Canada was to make Hamilton the headquarters of the western freight department, which would be carried out shortly.

Settlement of the Mora Claim

Washington, Sept. 14. — Secretary Olney, the Spanish Minister, and Antonio Mora, will be in Washington tomorrow to witness the closing act in the Mora claim in the payment to the United States of the indemnity demand from Spain for the confiscation of Mora's sugar plantation in Cuba. A draft for $1,449,000, which is the equivalent of $1,500,000 in Spanish dollars, made payable to Secretary Olney through the Spanish Minister, will be given Mr. Olney.

1800 PEOPLE KILLED.

Fearful Destruction Wrought by an Earthquake.

GREAT RIVERS OF MOLTEN LAVA.

Extinct Volcanoes Rekindled—Flames and Smoke Belched Forth—Herds Whelmed in Lava—Counting the Recovered Dead—A Desolate Country.

Tecucicalpa, Honduras, Sept. 14.—A courier arrived from Yetapan, and announced the most terrible earthquake ever known in that section. The loss of life and property is enormous. Three hundred people are said to have perished. On Sunday the shocks commenced, lasting all day and night at intervals, causing much damage and the greatest fear among the inhabitants of the city and neighborhood.

By Monday the city contained 3500 people from the mountains and outlying villages. During the night sheets of flame appeared at different points to the northwest, rising to immense heights. Tuesday morning shocks ceased, quiet was restored and people left town for their homes. At 9 o'clock that night, however, heavy rumbling noises were heard, shortly after followed by a re-appearance of the flames in the mountains, which shot up several hundred feet.

Frightened people again flocked to town, and at midnight the church tower fell, carrying with it the roofs of three houses. Nine people were killed and 18 wounded. Rumbling which sounded like the heaviest cannonading commenced and lasted over an hour and a half, the people rushing madly through the streets, praying and crying.

Just before daylight another prolonged shock, which is variously calculated to have lasted from two and a quarter to three minutes, rocked the whole town as if it were a cradle. Many were killed by falling rocks.

Smoke from the mountains to the northwest rose to an enormous height, followed shortly after by the bursting of flames from the mountain sides and the throwing out of rocks and lava. Shortly after, streams of molten lava set fire to a number of houses on the mountain side.

Cattle grazing near by fled and were killed, being engulfed in the lava which continued flowing in immense streams.

It is reported at Yetapan that 71 houses were destroyed. One hundred and fifty-three dead bodies have been recovered there, and many more persons are missing. At Covajuanca 37 houses were destroyed, and 95 bodies were recovered. At Cayuscat, 29 houses were destroyed, and 111 bodies were recovered. It is impossible yet to give a full report of the disaster. Many small settlements are believed to have been destroyed. Shocks extended over the whole Yetapan chain and flames are seen also in the Pacayae Mountains.

The shocks have now ceased, but the smoke is still discernible at different points in the mountains. A company of soldiers which left in pursuit of bandits from Yetapan to the coast have not been heard of and it is feared they were all killed. The shocks were first from northeast to southwest and later in the opposite direction.

The number killed in the towns and mountains as far as ascertained, is two hundred and eighty-seven. The property loss is calculated at over $600,000. The Government is doing everything possible for the victims.

Slight shocks continue, causing damage to property, but no loss of life. The former extinct volcanoes are now throwing out lava in small quantities.

It is calculated that over 1800 have been killed. Troops are scouring the country for fugitive victims. Of a company of one hundred and eight soldiers who were after bandits, only 29 are known to have been saved. Food and clothing have been sent to the sufferers.

Mercury at 103 in St. Louis

St. Louis, Sept. 14.—This week has been the hottest week for September recorded in the local weather reports. Every day since last Monday the mercury has climbed above the century mark and yesterday at 3 p.m. had registered 103 on scores of private thermometers. Twelve persons were prostrated by heat yesterday.

Cholera Raging in Hawaii.

San Francisco, Sept. 14.—Correspondence of the United Press from Honolulu says: Owing to the cholera epidemic the catching and sale of fish on this part of the coast have been prohibited. This has greatly grieved the natives. The old fish market has been demolished for sanitary reasons. All the crowded tenements encroaching on the stream will be demolished. All the churches were ordered closed Sept. 1. The United States steamship Bennington moved from the harbor to the roads on the 31st, on account of the infection of the harbor water. Some cases of cholerine followed, but all hands are now well. The United States cruiser Olympia arrived on the 22nd and also anchored outside for fear of cholera.

Honolulu Quarantined.

San Francisco, Sept. 13.—The Board of Health of this city has declared Honolulu to be an infected port and has ordered that a rigid quarantine be maintained.

A Mouthful of Pearls.

The teeth, perhaps more than any other feature, enhance or destroy that intangible, because complex, thing we call beauty. What more repellant than ill-kept, discoloured teeth? What unsightliness more needless and inexcusable? Ivorine is delightful, whether as a cleanser or in its property of imparting to the teeth that dazzling whiteness so much desired and admired, and as efficiently do it render the breath sweet and fragrant. Ivorine is simply incomparable as a toilet requisite, which accounts for its recommendation and use by leading dentists

Purified Blood

Saved an operation in the following case. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail. It makes pure blood.

"A year ago my father, William Thompson, was taken suddenly ill with inflammation of the bladder. He suffered a great deal and was very low for some time. At last the doctor said he would not get well unless an operation was performed. At this time we read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before he used half a bottle his appetite had come back to him, whereas before he could eat but little. When he had taken three bottles of the medicine he was as well as ever." FRANCIS J. SUPPLEMENTARY EDUCATION.

With all the present-day educational advantages there are many who, from various reasons, have not secured that degree of education which, they discover, when they meet the test of experience, is necessary for the best success in their respective trades or callings. And of these many are desirous of regaining the ground they have lost, either by their own youthful folly and carelessness, or by the indifference of parents. The opportunity to make up for past neglect of educational advantages is presented in a practical form to the practical mechanic, by the night classes established by the Mechanic's Institute and placed in charge of a competent instructor. The ordinary mechanic who contents himself with his routine day's work, whose daily ambition is satisfied by the ring of the quitting bell—and his weekly ambition by the cheque received from the pay clerk—this man will always remain an ordinary mechanic. But the man who feels that the routine of daily toil does not fill the bill—who is discontent with his work in the sense that he feels that there is much for him to learn, and who strives to improve his after hours by such study as he is able to perform—this man will rise in his craft secure a better position and better wages. To such persons and to apprentices who, though many may not think it, have a little to learn, the evening classes at the Mechanics' Institute are an opportunity that should not be neglected, but actively and earnestly taken advantage of. And two evenings a week is time well spent. Many a lad of weak will will be acquiring useful knowledge, which will be a stepping stone to success, instead of being exposed and probably yielding to the temptations that beset the path of a young man spending his idle evenings about town. Every mechanic who feels—as the better class of mechanics are apt to do—that there is much for him to learn and who feels the lack of proper educational equipment to pursue his studies profitably, should take advantage of these classes. Theory without practice is useless for practical purposes, and practice without theory, if such a thing were possible—to any considerable extent—makes a mechanic a mere machine. Theory is mind, practice is matter and only the best results are attained by a proper combination of the two.

ONE often hears of the fathers of Confederation, and the Hamilton Spectator is anxious to find out where the mothers are. Wasn't the Canadian Senate represented among the fathers?

WHEN our Yankee cousins brought the American cup across the herring pond they failed to bring with it a supply of "British fair play" to distribute among a people which seems badly in need of it.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S eldest great grand child, the Princess Fedora of Sax-Meiningen, is sixteen years old. If a husband is soon found for the princess, Her Majesty may arrive at the dignity of a great-great-grandmother before her death takes place.

GOLDWIN SMITH thinks the death penalty for arson has been done away with too soon. Hanging is too light a punishment for the skulking wretch who puts the incendiary torch to a dwelling with the almost certainty that one or more of the inmates will be burned to death.

THE Moncton Times, Conservative, says that the vacancy in West Huron will be filled before the meeting of Parliament. "The writ has not been issued because at the present there seems some prospect of a settlement of the Manitoba school trouble. This, if effected, would obviate the necessity of holding another session of the present Parliament, which must at best be attended with some inconvenience."

SIR C. H. TUPPER, was at Toronto exhibition, and at the close of a splendid banquet, of which he had bountifully partaken, announced himself as a truly loyal subject. Which induces the Hamilton Herald to remark that "if young Sir Charles succeeds in making Canada do as well by him as old Sir Charles has, he will never have much reason to complain of this vale of tears, or to feel anything but truly loyal to the old flag and the old policy."

THE Globe cites an instance of the manner in which the present Conservative government arranges the tariff in the interest of the Canadian farmer. If a manufacturer moulds binder or mower wheels from imported iron he is taxed, say, $10. If he sells the machine of which the wheel is a component part, to a Canadian farmer the tax of $10 stands; if he sells it to an Australian farmer $9.90 is refunded the manufacturer. "The tender mercies of the wicked are cruel."

The New York Commercial Advertiser says that "there is nothing in the British claim of superior yachting officers and sailors," but there is good ground for a claim of superior sporting spirit and manliness. Contrast the almost chivalrous treatment of the United States College crew at the Henley regatta, with the unsportsmanlike hustling and heckling Lord Dunraven and the Valkyrie have been subjected to by the Yankees. It is fair to absolve the regatta committee from a desire to place the transatlantic yacht at a disadvantage, but the same cannot be said of the American people generally that managed the crafts in the waters in the vicinity of the racing course.

THAT American alien labour law may prove a boomerang to the country that has adopted it. A recent decision of the collector of the United States Treasury states that a foreign house having branches or agencies in the States cannot send one of its employees from Europe or its home office to fill a position in one of these branches without violating the contract labour law. This, the Montreal Herald thinks, is carrying the law to an extreme and reducing its terms to absurdity. If British or European investors of capital in the United States enterprises are debarred from sending representatives to watch after their interests there will soon be a woeful falling off in foreign investments. The amount of foreign capital invested in the States is very large, but it is hardly reasonable to suppose that a large part of it will not be withdrawn, where practicable, if the management of it has to be entrusted to American manipulation.

A WELL-KNOWN CATHOLIC PRIEST.

Of Hamilton, Rev. Father John J. Hinchey, Pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Hamilton, Bears Testimony to the Undisputed Worth of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder.

In the person of the Rev. John T. Hinchy, of St. Joseph's church, (R.C.) Hamilton, is found one who does the highest credit to the self-sacrificing work in which he is engaged. His kindly heart constantly prompts to deeds of love and goodness, and in the city of Hamilton all who know him are ready to bear testimony to his high character and active generosity. As result of neglect, thinking more of others than himself, he has been a sufferer from cold in the head, and its almost certain associate, catarrh. Recently he made use of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, and has found in it so great relief that he deems it a pleasure to tell others of the good it has done him.

One short puff of the breath through the blower supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, diffuses this powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use, it relieves in ten minutes and permanently cures Catarrh, Hay Fever, Colds, Headache, Sore Throat, Tonsilitis and Deafness. 60 cents. Sample bottle and blower sent on receipt of two 3 cent stamps. S. G. Detchon, 44 Church street, Toronto. Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

Paine's Celery Compound, the Only Medicine that "Makes Sick People Well."

In the vast majority of cases, when sickness and disease lay hold of men and women, their first thoughts are connected with Paine's Celery Compound. This statement, unvarnished and true, is supported by thousands of letters from clergymen, medical men, business men, and our plain, every-day people.

We are quite within the bounds of truth when we assert, that in times of danger—when nervousness, insomnia, dyspepsia, rheumatism, neuralgia, debility, liver and kidney troubles or blood diseases threaten health and life—people think more of Paine's Celery Compound, that shows its honour roll of marvellous cures, than they do of all the doctors around them.

A gentleman, who travels constantly in every part of the Dominion, says:—

"Everywhere I go I hear people talk about Paine's Celery Compound and singling it merits. Very rarely have I heard any other medicine spoken of."

This statement means that Paine's Celery Compound has been weighed, tested and tried by our Canadian people, and has accomplished more than was promised for it."

Paine's Celery Compound truly and honestly "makes sick people well." It is therefore to the life-interests of all sick people that they insist upon getting the only medicine that cures, when they ask for it. Some dealers are inclined to recommend something else for sake of profit to themselves. This reprehensible practice of recommending something else will not save your life; you are only certain of health and new life when you use Paine's Celery Compound. No straightforward, honest dealer will offer you a substitute.

New York, Sept. 13.—John Clark, who is said to be the son of one of the richest men in Toronto, and Ada Ganthony, an actress, who gave her residence as Surrey, England, were married at the City Hall marriage bureau by Alderman Schilling to-day. Miss Ganthony has been with a company in the west for some months. She is 30 years old and a pretty brunette. The groom, who gave his residence as the Hoffman House, is 31.

Brantford Farmer's Heavy Loss.

Brampton, Ont., Sept. 14.—Andrew Giffin, 4th line Chinguacousy, had his barn and outbuildings entirely consumed by fire yesterday. All this season's crop was lost, stock saved, slightly insured; loss about $3000. It is thought the fire was caused by a hot journal on the windmill power close to the barn.

AN ALARMING INCREASE.

The Prevalence of Female Complaints Found to Result Largely from the Kidneys.

SAGINAW, Mich., Sept. 2.—Doctors are beginning to turn their attention more exclusively to the cause for the great increase of what are known as female complaints during the past ten years, and to the remedies for the same. Many cases have been investigated, and among others that of Mrs. Reany, of Ashland, Wis., who was cured of this form of trouble by the use of a kidney medicine known as Dodd's Kidney Pills, which originated in Canada, but has now become widely known and used throughout the Western States. This and other similar cases go to show that these troubles are largely due to the kidneys and that the above mentioned remedy is likely to have a great effect in lessening the number of victims to this orm of complaint.

LORD DUNRAVEN UPHELD

The British Press Unanimous on His Action in Withdrawing

New York, Sept. 13.—Valkyrie was towed to the Erie Basin this morning, reaching there shortly before 10 o'clock. She did not enter the dry-dock, but was moored in a slip and her men began at once to strip her of her racing rigging. Defender, gayly decorated with flags and in tow of a tug, left Bay Ridge about 11.30 this morning, presumably bound for New Rochelle.

According to the statements of Lord Dunraven, the regatta committee of the New York Club and the America's Cup Committee, the unfortunate muddle which has been the outcome of the races for the cup between Defender and Valkyrie III., which ended in a victory for Defender in one race won by sailing, another won by a foul, and a third by a walk-over, is largely due to a misunderstanding on both sides.

Lord Dunraven asserts that he did not get any answer to a letter requesting certain concessions by the committees and that the committees fully understood that unless he did receive such answer he would appear at the line yesterday, cross, and then retire, giving the race to the Defender.

Commodore Smith was asked why the committee did not agree to any of the changes proposed by Lord Dunraven. He said that the conditions under which the races were to be sailed were made by mutual agreement and it was impossible to make such radical changes at such a day. It would have resulted in a general upsetting of the agreement and would only have caused more trouble. The committee did not, however, understand that Lord Dunraven intended only to cross the line and not sail the race of yesterday to a finish, or they would have notified the public of his intention and the crowds which went down the bay to see a race would not have been disappointed.

The letter which was sent to the committee by Lord Dunraven was not answered, as its contents had been fully considered before, and he had been told by Messrs. Canfiel and Busk what the committee would decide and further reply was thought to be unnecessary: In regard to changes in the course, he said that while the rules of the club did not call for any particular course, and the deed of gift was also silent upon that point, the agreement covered that fully and could not be changer on the eve of the third for the cup. He thought Lord Dunraven was quite right in his refusal to race, as it would have caused endless trouble.

On page 119 of the New York Club book is found a clause which gives the Regatta Committee absolute power to order the race to be sailed over if in their judgment it should be. The Regatta Committee has power to have such races resailed.

Lord Dunraven and his daughters are going to start for Niagara Falls and Toronto in a few days. The yacht will be put into the Erie Basin to-day and within three weeks will begin her return trip to England.

The Feeling in England.

London, Sept. 13.—The feeling throughout England over the failure of the match between the Valkyrie and Defender, though embodying many shades of opinion, generally upholds Lord Dunraven, who is considered to have had just cause for abandoning yesterday's race.

The Glasgow Herald says: "So ends one of the greatest fiascos in the annals of sport. We can hardly believe that the result of the contest is more satisfactory to honorable American sportsman than it is to ours. There has been no fair trial of the merits of the two yachts." Regarding the action of Dunraven in returning after having crossed the line The Herald says: "It must be said that His Lordship took his reputation in his hands, but, on the whole, we think his action amply justified, if only by the statement of Mr. J. Frederick Tams, that British yachtsmen must give up the idea of again contesting for the possession of the cup."

The Daily Chronicle says that it thinks the Valkyrie was right in not risking herself and her crew among the pitiless swarm of boats in Lower New York Bay, and that it was better for her to toe the mark and then contemptuously give up the contest. Continuing, The Chronicle says: "So we suppose there is an end to the rather ghastly farce called the international yacht race of 1895 and probably of all Anglo-American yacht racing on the other side of the Atlantic. Lord Dunraven will probably come home on to-day's Cunarder. He will have the sympathy of every Englishman. We can boast, antique, slow-witted race though we be, that we can show our American friends how to conduct a great sporting event, with decency and in good order."

The Globe says: "It is humiliating that the best seamanship of the Old Country and the new are unable to bring off a contest upon which sportsmen on both sides of the ocean had set their hearts. Lord Dunraven's line of action was perfectly unexceptionable and maintains the high traditions of British sport. The committee cannot be blamed. It is an inherent right of the American citizen to make of himself a nuisance, and he cannot be easily interfered with; but why not the committee accede to Lord Dunraven's request and select another course. Marble Head or elsewhere? as long as the Sandy Hook course is proposed no English yachtsman will again try to win the cup."

"I consider it my duty," says Mr. F. Z. Dias, of San Diego, Texas, "to certify that Ayer's Pills have completely relieved my wife of neuralgia, from which complaint she was, for a long time, a great sufferer. They are easy to take and always effective.

THE SECRET OUT!

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from various prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894: also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CAANDA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story:—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	Per Cent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE.....	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life.....	2.68	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

W. H's Life Policy for $10,000, issued April, 1889, Age 23, Annual Premium $177.

Total Cost for 6 years.....1,062 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy .....1,250 Dollars

A. E's Life Policy for $5,000, issued April, 1886, Age 22, Annual Premium $86.

Total Cost for 9 years..... 774 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy .....1,000 Dollars

The Central Fair.

The President of the Central Fair has returned from Toronto after making satisfactory arrangements for bringing a troop of acrobats, a family of musicians and some skirt dancers from the Toronto Exhibition as some of the specialties to be shown at the Peterborough Exposition.

Examining the Locks.

Mr. Wm. Junkin, government diver, is registered at the Windsor. He is here repairing the locks dam and will spend a day or two overlooking the locks. The lowering of the water in the Little Lake for the purpose of allowing the locks to be examined has made it dangerous for the steam yachts.

Work on the Sewer.

Contractor Grant is rushing the work on the sewer along at a great rate. The excavators have now crossed the railway track and the bricklayers are right behind them, whilst another gang of men are closely following and filling in the excavations. The electric railway does not run down further than the Grand Junction Railway tracks just at present.

Last Night's Concert.

The Fire Brigade Band, which during the summer has so delighted the citizens with the high-class music which it has rendered in its weekly open air concerts in the parks, brought the series to a close last evening by rendering a choice programme selected from Sousa's most popular airs. As the evening was chilly the concert only lasted an hour, instead of two as is usual, nevertheless, it was greatly appreciated, as are all the band concerts. A benefit in the opera house is now in order, or a promenade concert in the rink.

A Glad Heart Makes Work Light.

The best work can only be done when the bodily health is good, because the body reacts upon the mind, and a mental inertia supervenes when the body is enfeebled. To have the body in a strong, healthy, buoyant state use Wilson's Invalids' Port Wine, which upon the first symptoms of debility, loss of appetite, and general weakness, should be regularly taken. And then it is a fine old wine, desirable for its own sake as a beverage, being pleasant, stimulating and mellow. Its great advantage to the invalid is that it makes blood which is so sadly needed and this gives a new vitality to the whole system. It is a tonic, and incomparable bracer, and it is at the same time a rare old wine of exquisite bouquet. Sold by all dealers at $7.50 per case of 12 quart bottles, half case $4.00 or 75cts. per bottle. Address—Bordeaux Claret Co., 30 Hospital Street, Montreal.

The Grain Market.

A representative of the EXAMINER in conversation with Mr. J. J. McBain learns that the grain market is flat, with a downward tendency, consequently receipts are light. Prices at noon to-day ruled as follows: Wheat, 60c.; barley, 40c.; oats, 29c.; peas, 55c. These prices, however, are higher than those paid in the markets of surrounding towns.

Looks Like Business.

Mr. E. Rutherford, dealer in electric supplies, having removed into new premises at 134 Brock street, has fitted up his office in a neat and business-like manner. An attractive window display of electrical goods has been effectively arranged, and new office furniture and other conveniences for customers has been provided. Mr. Rutherford means business.

Ensilage Corn.

Mr. Charles Reynolds, of Ennismore, brought to town to-day a couple of ears of ensilage corn, picked from a 12 foot stalk, which are exceptionally large, one of them containing over 1,200 kernels. The seed corn was purchased from J. W. Brisbin, town, and evidently repaid Mr. Reynolds 2500 fold, as both these large ears grew on one stalk, and are a fair sample of the entire growth.

Pay Attention to Curfew.

Of late a number of small boys, whose ages range from six to fifteen years, have been in the habit of hanging around the side street corners and passing remarks, not very complimentary, about passers-by. This is a practice that should be stopped, and the parents of these young lads should see that they are in the house early in the evening instead of being allowed to run out on the streets until all hours in the evening. The police will have a great haul one of these nights.

Wise Old Fellow.

A good tea at any price suited him. He always shut his eyes to the price. He was wiser than some people who imagine if they do not pay a big figure they cannot get good goods. There are exceptions to all rules. The exception at the present time is a regular forty cent tea for the low price of twenty-five cents. Ash-k-ash is the name. Big sales and steady sales tell it is a good tea. Remember we are selling this 40c. tea for twenty-five cents. 370 George street, Peterborough. Stroud Bros., direct importers. Collegiate Annual Sports.

At a meeting held yesterday afternoon among the students it was decided to hold the Collegiate Institute sports on Friday, Oct. 4th, and the merchants will be immediately canvassed for prizes. Several new features will be introduced this year, viz., bicycle races and a race for the male members of the teaching staff. The trophy for general proficiency is held this year by Mr. Garnet Bell, and it is expected that he will make a strong effort to retain it, whilst Messrs. Craig, Philp and several others are training hard, it is said, in the hope of being able to win the coveted cup on the fourth of October.

Valuable Dog Recovered.

Mr. George Gobell was in Toronto, yesterday, and while walking along King street saw a greyhound bitch, which he recognized as one which he had lost two years ago, and upon which he had set great value. He called the dog and she came bounding across the street to him. The man whom she was accompanying claimed the animal as one which he had purchased, and Mr. Gobell invoked the assistance of a police officer, stating the case to him. The officer took a short way of settling the business. He took the collar off the dog and handed it to the claimant of the dog, and awarded the animal to the one whom she chose to follow. As she is at the Grand Central this morning it is needless to say with whom she went.

The Saturday Market

The market to-day was a big one, probably the biggest held for months. Fruit and vegetables were plentiful, as were chickens and ducks, though turkeys and geese were rather scarce. Butter brought 18 and 20 cents, and eggs realized 10 and 12 cents. Potatoes were sold at 45 and 50 cents per bag, and apples brought about the same price. Pears were worth 15 cents a peck, but plums brought a better price, retailing at 10 cents a quart. Grapes by the basket were sold at five cents a pound. Turkeys were scarce, and those which were on the market were small and only brought 60 and 75 cents each. Chicks were worth from 30 to 50 cents per pair, and ducks from 50 to 60 cents, while geese brought 60 cents eath.

Opera House Attraction.

On Thursday, Sept. 19th. Read what an exchange says: "Dan McCarthy and his splendid company presented 'The Rambler from Clare' before a very large and appreciative audience at Cronkhite Opera House last evening. Mr. McCarthy as Tony Sullivan, the rambler from Clare, was at his best, his singing and dancing were fine, and he was obliged to answer to several encores. Miss Lou Ripley as Rose Dwyer, Tony's sweetheart, was a great favourite with the audience, and is one one of the cleverest of all Irish soubrettes. Mr. Chas. Saunders as Paddy McFadden, kept the audience in a continual roar at every appearance. The remainder of the company were very good, and the acting throughout was excellent."—Brooklyn Eagle. Prices, 25, 35 and 50c. Seats now on sale. 1d

PETERBOROUGH PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

The Teachers Meet And Decide to Form an Association Distinct From the County.

The teachers of the town public schools met in the Central School at 3.30 yesterday, and after a brief discussion formed themselves into a Teachers' Institute. Inspector Wherry was chosen President, Miss Nicholls, Vice-President, and Mr. Yennie, Secretary. A Management Committee, consisting of Misses Mark, Findlay and Jenkins, and Messrs. J. C. Smith, McCreary and Keogh was also chosen.

The secretary was instructed to communicate with the Education Department with a view to securing official recognition and obtaining the grant of $25 given annually to such associations. It was next decided to hold a meeting during the autumn term, and the Friday following Thanksgiving day was mentioned as a likely date.

Mr. Wherry made a few remarks on the amount of home lessons given the children, and asked that these lessons be made shorter. He thought that in the First Book classes no home lessons should be given whatever, and that those given to the succeeding classes should not require a longer time for preparation than half an hour in the classes below the Fourth, or, than an hour in that class.

After a few details as to registrations, and the manner of dealing with truants had been discussed, the meeting adjourned.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE EVENING CLASSES.

Winter Courses of Instruction in Engineering Subjects and Mechanical Drawing—Conducted by Mr. A. B. McCallum, M.E.

The directors of the Mechanics' Institute, following the precedent of former years, have made arrangements for giving first-rate instruction in engineering subjects and mechanical drawing to mechanics and others desirous of gaining, or adding to their, knowledge of these subjects.

The services have been secured of Mr. A. B. McCallum, M.E., head draughtsman of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company. He is a gentleman of special ability in the subjects he proposes to teach. The classes open on Tuesday evening, Oct. 1st. The first evening will be open to all, and an address will be given on the subject: "The Value of a Mechanical Education." The curriculum of the classes, whose key-note is "Learn More, to Earn More," will be devoted to the study of engineering subjects and mechanical drawing. Persons desiring further information can secure it by applying to Mr. McCallum, or to the directors, who have had printed circulars containing detailed information of the subdivision of instruction in the two general subjects mentioned.

A Brilliant Illumination.

The City Clothing Store is at night a blaze of brightness. The frames of the two large plate glass mirrors, which flank the show windows at a slight angle facing the street perspective, are studded with fifteen incandescent electric lights—thirty in all. At night, when the electricity is turned on, the window is a blaze of light one mirror reflecting the reflection of the other, each in an almost endless vista, so that the lights, multiplied a hundred fold, present the appearance of a sky studded with brightly flashing stars. The effect is a decidedly novel and beautiful one, and can be seen from the street the distance of half a block. The Golden Horseshoe, the lucky distinctive insignium of the City Clothing Store, is set, in place of nails, with incandescents, with coloured bulbs, which, when lighted, produce a beautiful effect. It is no trouble for the City Clothing Store to hold its own. It did not part with its good luck when it parted with Harry B.—it still retains the Golden Horseshoe.

Can Heart Failure be Prevented?

Startling and brief the announcement, 'Sudden Death Caused by Heart Failure." Such is the stereotyped announcement of coroners, juries, and reporters arousing the forebodings of those victims of indigestion and mal-nutrition, who so frequently disturb themselves upon the manifestation, in palpitation or fluttering, of functional disturbance of the heart; symptoms which they are foolishly prone to accept as the signs of an incurable, and speedily fatal, malady. Maltine with Coca Wine is potent in restoring conditions that no longer render possible such alarmingly disturbing symptoms. Maltine with Coca Wine, through its remedial influence upon the nervous system, soothes into calmness the disorganized nerves. The heart, in response to increased nerve force, no longer plunges and beats as if determined to break.

Maltine with Coca Wine has long been recognized as the most pleasant and efficient remedy for all those functional derangements that find manifestation in lassitude, sleeplessness, despondency and loss of appetite and digestive power. A nerve tonic, a body-builder, a nutrient and digestive agent of inestimable value. All druggists sell it.

A SAD ARRIVAL HOME.

Mrs. Strong, on her Arrival in Peterborough on a Visit, Greeted with the News of Her Husband's Sudden Death.

Mrs. Frank H. Strong (nee Miss Mary Fanning), who husband is the superintendent of a gold mining company at Cripple Creek, Colorado, arrived in Peterborough on Thursday at midnight to visit her relatives here. Mrs. Strong left home about six weeks ago, leaving her husband in good health, and spent the intervening time on a visit in St. Louis. While there she received a letter from her husband, stating that his health was good, so that she had not the slightest reason to anticipate the terrible shock that awaited her on her arrival in Peterborough. About six hours previous to her reaching town her friends had received a telegram forwarded from St. Louis, announcing the sad news of the death of her husband, from, as learned by a subsequent despatch, heart disease. Mrs. Strong, being in not the most robust health and being greatly fatigued by her journey, her friends very considerately deferred giving her the telegram till the following morning. To have her happy home-coming to the society of her dearest friends thus broken in upon was, as may be imagined, a terrible shock, and Mrs. Strong was for a time prostrated by the sudden awfulness of the blow; but she at once resolved on returning immediately, and started by the 4.48 C.P.R. express for her desolate western home. After the funeral and necessary attention to her late husband's business affairs, Mrs. Strong, with her one child, will, naturally, come back to reside in Peterborough, where her relatives live—two brothers, Messrs. Robert and John Fanning, two sisters, the Misses Fanning, and two aunts, Mrs. P. Creamer and Mrs. James Duncan. The sorely afflicted widow will receive the warm sympathy of the community, in which she passed most of the years of her life, in her sudden and very sad bereavement.

INSTITUTE FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB.

It Re-opens at Belleville on Wednesday, September 18th.

The re-opening of the Ontario Institute for the Deaf and Dumb will take place on Wednesday, September 18th. Officers to take charge of pupils will be on trains enroute to Belleville on that date, at Port Hope at 3.50 and 11.05 p. m. Pupils from the Midland district will assemble at this point. The railway time tables show the hour the trains arrive at intermediate stations.

Parents will see that trunks or boxes are properly addressed, with the name of child on each piece and checked to Belleville. Trunks ought to be of good material and strong, to stand handling on the cars.

Pupils placed in care of conductors at any point are always well looked after and forwarded to the Institution. The Principal trusts that pupils who have been at the institution before, and intending pupils will be on hand promptly at the beginning of the session. Children will not be received at the Institution before the day of opening. The classes are formed as soon as possible after the opening, and late comers cannot be allowed to retard the progress of those who are present when the classification is made. Parents coming to Belleville with children, at the re-opening, or for the purpose of visiting the Institution at any time, will save money by purchasing a return ticket for themselves at the railway station nearest their homes. The clothing sent with pupils should be marked with the owner's name, with indelible ink, and packed in a strong trunk or box, with a list of the articles enclosed. Parents of new pupils are requested to accompany their children to the Institution, if they can spare time and means, so that they may see where the little ones are placed and form an idea of how they are likely to be cared for.

A Timely Reminder.

Each season forces upon our consideration its own peculiar perils to health. The advent of fall finds many reduced in strength and vigor, poorly prepared to continue the business of life. The stomach and bowels, the great highway of animal economy, is especially liable to disorder in the fall. The nervous system has also suffered in the struggle. Typhoid fever and malaria in particular find in the fall that combination of earth, air and water that mark this season as especially dangerous. Hood's Sarsaparilla furnishes a most valuable safeguard at these important points, and should be used in the fall before serious sickness has laid you low.

For Eighteen Months Unable to Lie Down in Bed—A Toronto Junction Citizen's Awful Experience With Heart Disease.

L. J. Law, Toronto Junction, Ont.: "I consider it my duty to give to the public my experience with Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. I have been sorely troubled with heart disease and unable to lie down in bed for eighteen months owing to smothering spells and palpitation. Each night I would have to be propped up by pillows in order to keep from smothering. After treating with several medical men without benefit, I procured a bottle of the Heart Cure. After taking the first dose I retired and slept soundly until morning. I used one bottle and have not taken any of the remedy for seven weeks, but the heart trouble has not reappeared. I consider it the greatest remedy in existence for heart disease." For sale by H. S. Macdonald.

THE WHEEL.

All bicyclists wishing to go for a spin to Burleigh and return to-morrow are requested to be ready to start from the Post-office corner at ten o'clock in the morning. The Blythe Mills will be left at 10.10 o'clock and it is hoped a large number of riders will be present.

At 4 o'clock to-day, at the Woodbine, the dozen riders who were fortunate enough to secure the limit in the R. Q. T. National Road Race started on their twenty-mile journey over hill and dale, good, bad and indifferent roads, but chiefly the former, as the committee having charge of the great race have been indefatigable in their labour as far as putting the course in shape is concerned, and if the weather conditions are favourable till the time assigned for the event, that a new record for the distance will be made is almost a certainty. Marks have been allotted to 200 men, and as only 50 of them are outsiders it may be taken for granted that 200 riders will come to the post. McLeod, Carman, Radway, Wells and McCarthy are the scratch men, and a royal race between the quintette is in sure to eventuate. The track will be encircled twice, both at the start and finish. The handicaps received by the local riders were as follows,—Lional King 6½ minutes, M. G. Walker 7 minutes, E. Lord and F. Smith 7½ minutes, W. Lytle 8 minutes, S. B. Ewing 12½ minutes, G. J. Horkins 14½ minutes.

THE TURF.

Nettie Wood took third money in the open half mile handicap at the Toronto Fair yesterday. One of the finishes was very close, the mare being only beaten by a nose for first, whilst the the third horse was only a head behind. The mare did well in Toronto on the whole and got her share of all the money that was going.

MR. STEVENSON AND THE ELECTRIC WORKS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—In the Examiner of Thursday I notice a communication, referring to the relations of the town and the Electric Company, over the name of J. Stevenson. This I assume to be Mr. James Stevenson, M.P., formerly Mayor of Peterborough, and the gentleman who, during the past year, has had the misfortune to encounter very undesirable experiences as the results of the application of his own business methods to his private affairs; and had he himself been the only sorry pupil in the school of experience which he has been conducting in the name of business, my attention would not have been so strongly attracted to his disingenuous advice to the citizens of Peterborough as to how $5,000 of our well earned money should be illegally turned over to a coporation that has been treated with phenomenal financial generosity by the town, which has hardly enjoyed a reciprocity of generous dealing at the hands of the company. Mr. Stevenson's figures as to the amount given by the town to the Electric Company, furnish no new information to those citizens who take an interest in the financial affairs of the town. Mr. Stevenson's arguments to show what great indirect advantages have accrued to Peterborough through the Electric Company carrying on business for their own benefit, largely on our capital, are very ingenious and remind one familiar with the facts, of the special pleading of a lawyer; but Mr. Stevenson is no lawyer, and must be labouring under the delusion that the people can as easily accept the arguments based on his cleverly manipulated figures as those whose interest it is to have such arguments appear persuasive.

Mr. Stevenson seems to think that there is a binding agreement on the part of the town to pay over to the Electric Company the trifling sum of $5,000 in consideration of the removal of the glass works to Peterborough, but he fails to mention that another condition that was as distinctly understood as the former would read—"if it could be legally done," and with this further understanding, which the company had with the council, that one or more new buildings would be required and erected for these very same glass works, which, when removed, were placed in a corner of one of the present buildings, with space to spare, and hence the most important of the so-called conditions was never carried out.

The question of legality was pretty definitely settled by the Commissioners declining to be parties to an illegal transaction. Mr. Stevenson's anxiety to have the town pay over $5,000 on the strength of misty promises of erecting new buildings, without some definite and binding guarantee, will look somewhat absurd in view of the fact that the agreement between the Edison-Thompson-Houston syndicate and the Canadian Company expires in about two years. And while nothing definite as to the future relations of the two companies is known, there is a strong possibility that the Schenectady concern may remove to a point convenient to the new power at Niagara Falls. In this event the Canadian Company might find it to their advantage to have their works more convenient to the works of the Edison Company, the two establishments making common use of the same patterns; and it is known that no business steps are being taken in the direction of erecting car works in Peterborough, and that Toronto Junction has an elephant on its hands in the shape of manufacturing buildings through default in payment of taxes, which it is understood are under consideration as a desirable site for the Peterborough works, and when the expense of the town's investment of $6,000 in connection with the Carbon and Porcelain Works is considered—when all all these things are taken into account and the additional circumstance of the present company, repudiating the promises of the previous company, because they were not in writing, it is certainly wise to delay for a few days the signing of the cheque for the $5,000. If the town has $5,000 to spare it could be profitably invested just now in paying off the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company's mortgage and protected the town's mortgage in the Carbon Works.

Yours truly,
Caution.

CANDY

FOR CHILDREN.

The Popular Health Magazine says the desire in a child for candy and sweets is a natural one and should not be stifled. Good candy and sweets in moderation, not only do no harm, but are actually beneficial. Too much sweet upsets the stomach and spoils the appetite, but candy in moderation if it is not taken before a meal, is food which children crave naturally, and among the purest and most wholesome is that manufactured by was a living skeleton; the doctor said he was dying of Marasmus and Indigestion. At 13 months he weighed only seven pounds. Nothing strengthened or fattened him. I began using Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites, feeding it to him and rubbing it into his body. He began to fatten and is now a beautiful dimpled boy. The Emulsion seemed to supply the one thing needful.

GIROUARD FOR JUDGE-

He is Mentioned as Justice Fournier's Successor.

NOTES AND GOSSIP FROM OTTAWA

English Capitalists Investigating British Columbia Mining Prospects—Heavy Mails on the Pacific Route—Sons of England Organizer Fined.

Ottawa, Sept. 14.—Despite the statement in The Globe that Mr. Justice Fournier does not intend to resign from the Supreme Court bench, it is a positive fact, as announced by your correspondent the other day, that his resignation has been sent in, and moreover it has been accepted. Within two or three weeks a new judge will have been appointed. Several names are being canvassed as possible successors to Justice Fournier; Mr. Girouard, M.P. for Jacques Cartier, being most prominently mentioned. Mr. Girouard it is said, can have the position if he is willing to take it. He is one of the best lawyers in the Province of Quebec and has a very large practice. Intimate friends say, however, it is doubtful whether he would care to surrender an income estimated at from $15,000 to $20,000 a year for the salary of a Supreme Court judge, which is only $8000.

The Ultramontane press in Quebec in discussing the order-in-council on the school question sent by the Government to Manitoba in July last, and which contains an expression of hope that Manitoba will adopt "the middle course," affects to discern a surrender of the minority's legal rights and a justification of Mr. Angers' course in withdrawing from the Ministry last session rather than consent to further negotiations with Manitoba. Speaking of this attitude, a prominent Quebec politician said to-day that supporters of Mr. Angers were thus making cause with opponents of the Government on this question. "If," he said, "you read the statement which Mr. Angers made in the Senate and upon which he based his bolt, you will observe that the essential point of difference between it and the Government's statement of position is that the late Minister of Agriculture protested against further official negotiations with Manitoba on the subject, yet expressed the opinion that Manitoba should be formally notified to that effect, which really seems to me a case of hair-splitting. And it is upon this flimsy structure that his friends are basing their arguments that by refusing to remain out with Mr. Angers, Sir Adolphe Caron and Mr. Ouimet surrendered the cause of the Manitoba Catholics. Of course they did nothing of the sort and Conservative of Quebec fully realise that they had the fullest authority for the position they took in regard to the willingness of the minority to agree to a compromise upon details, not of course principles, of the Separate school system. They were fully justified in proceeding upon the belief that the Catholics of Manitoba were willing to accede to such provincial regulations and inspection as would ensure secular efficiency of these schools, stipulating merely that they should have control of the religious education of their children. I may tell you," he added, "that the Manitoba school question is just now exciting very little interest in Quebec. You hear much less of it in Quebec than in Ontario.

Sir C. H. Tupper and Hon. J. F. Wood visited Carleton County Fair at Richmond to-day. They were driven out by Warden Mohr. The day was a very pleasant one, although cool, and the Ministers had a good opportunity of seeing the resources of the County of Carleton as exhibited at the show. During the afternoon addresses were delivered by Sir Charles Tupper and Mr. Wood.

The Journal, discussing the differences between the Inland Revenue Department and the grain men, says that "it looks like commonsense that Manitoba grain men should regulate Manitoba grain standards. The Montreal and Toronto Boards of Trade had better let Winnipeg alone."

The Marine Department was notified to-day of the wreck of the Sydney schooner, Lady Aberdeen, on the Island of St. Pierre. Mr. Steer, American consul at St. Pierre, was requested to provide the shipwrecked mariners, five in number with food and a passage to Sydney, the expense being defrayed by the Dominion Government.

A few weeks ago your correspondent announced the receipt at the Customs Department of a buckskin bag of gold dust from Yukon County, which had been acquired by Inspector Contantine in payment of customs duties. The dust was sent to the mint in New York, and the department has just received a return of its value. Before melting the dust weighed 201.29 ounces. After melting 189.8 ounces. Value of the gold in money was $3,276.13, and of silver in it $18.55. The charges for melting, refining, alloy, etc., amounted to $3.41, the net return to the department being $3,255.77.

These gentlemen will proceed to the Coast on Monday for the purpose of looking into the mining prospects of British Columbia and reporting upon them as possible fields for investment of British capital.

An instance of the extent to which the mail service to Australia, via the Canadian route has developed, is afforded by figures which have just reached the Postoffice Department of mail taken out by the Warrimoo last month. Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Hon. Mr. Daly are expected here on Monday evening from the Northwest.

Lieut.-Col. Joshua Wright of the 43rd Battalion, returned yesterday from a lengthy sojourn in British Columbia. He went out as the representative of an Ottawa syndicate, which is interested in gold mining claims near North Bend.

Deposits in Government savings banks during August totalled $314,088, and the withdrawals $257,862.

George Skipworth of Hull was condemned yesterday by Recorder Champagne to pay $20 and costs for infraction of insurance regulations. The accused is connected with the Sons of England Benefit Society and has done much work for this organization which is flourishing in Hull. The charge was laid by Inspector Bowker. The case will be appealed.

The analytical branch of the Inland Revenue Revenue Department is at present engaged analyzing samples of confectionery, candies, etc., procured in different cities of the Dominion.

BIG PROFITS —ON— Small Investments

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within a short time as by successful Speculation in Grain, Provisions and Stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED can be made by our Systematic Plan of Speculation

originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system.

It is a well-known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 to $100,000 or more by those who invest a few thousand.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plain are persons who live away from Chicago and invest through brokers who thoroughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.

WRITE FOR CONVINCING PROOF, also our Manual on successful speculation an our Daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers. ALL FREE. Our Manual explain margin trading fully. Highest references in regard to our standing and success.

A Common Affliction

Permanently Cured by Taking

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

A CAB-DRIVER'S STORY.

"I was afflicted for eight years with Salt Rheum. During that time, I tried a great many medicines which were highly recommended, but none gave me relief. I was at last advised to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by a friend who told me that I must purchase six bottles, and use them according to directions. I yielded to his persuasion, bought the six bottles, and took the contents of three of these bottles without noticing any direct benefit. Before I had finished the fourth bottle, my hands were as

as ever they were. My business, which is that of a cab-driver, requires me to be out in cold and wet weather, often without gloves, and the trouble has never returned."—THOMAS A. JOHNS, Stratford, Ont.

Brady Says Corbett is Healthy.

New York, Sept. 12.—The reports of Corbett's alleged condition having reached the ears of Brady, Corbett's manager, were contradicted yesterday in New York as follows:

"So far they have made out that Corbett has consumption, malaria, partial paralysis and a few other things," said Brady last night, "and they say he is afraid of Pittsimmons, refuses to train and has fought with his trainer on this account. Perhaps Corbett to satisfy these friends of his will get himself removed to a hospital. But I am rather inclined to think he will spend most of his time at Asbury Park until he is ready to go to Texas. Corbett is in excellent health. He has done some training and will do some more when he gets ready. I do not notice any wild desire on the part of Fitz's friends to bet even money on the result."

Corbett is to box three men at his show in Madison Square Garden Sept 30.

Only 30 Killed in a 49 Hours' Battle.

Key West, Fla., Sept. 12.—Passengers arriving by the Mascotte last night report that a big battle has been fought near Camaguey between the insurgents, under Maximo Gomes, and the Spaniards under Gen. Melo. The battle is said to have lasted 49 hours, and the Spaniards were repulsed with heavy loss, leaving over 30 killed and wounded on the field. Roloffs band has been active during the last week, having blown up a troop train by dynamite near Santiago De Cuba and a bridge near Sagua. The Spaniards admit that the train was blown up, but claim that only five men were killed. Advices received here state that nearly 100 soldiers were mangled by the explosion.

A LADY OF WATERFORD COMPLETELY CURED.

Suffered for Two Years from Indigestion and General Debility.

Unable at Times to Attend to Her Household Duties.

Treated by Nearly All the Doctors in the Town Without Relief

"Six Bottles of South American Nervine Cured Me," Says Mrs. D. A. Gray, of Waterford, Ont., Over Her Own Signature.

MRS. D. A. GRAY, OF WATERFORD, ONT.

Certain dates are epoch making. They mark transitions in the individual life that are never forgotten. Their impress may be pleasant or sad, or both. As Mrs. D. A. Gray, of Waterford, Ont., an estimable and highly respected resident of that community, goes back in memory to the year 1896, her recollections are not of the most roseate character. Can there be anything rosy to one who is a victim of indigestion? All is sombre and sadness. But there was a silver lining to the cloud, as we shall see. Previous to 1893 Mrs. Gray tells us she had been troubled very much with indigestion and general debility for a period of nearly two years. Hers was no ordinary case. At times she was prevented altogether from attending to her household duties. Waterford has a number of skilled physicians in its midst and their services were called in, but in her own language, "I cannot say that they relieved me in any way." An era of joy was ushered in when her mother read the story of a cure by South American Nervine in a case where the symptoms, as Mrs. Gray says, "seemed to be exactly like her own. I bought a bottle and found much relief. After taking six bottles I was cured." The date was an epoch making date in this lady's life.

What the symptoms of Indigestion are, too many know. What the trouble is in its worst forms thousands know. People lament the spread of insanity in the present day. How far removed from loss of reason is a case of aggravated indigestion? The world to every such victim is blue enough, black enough, so uninviting and depressing that no wonder they are beside themselves. And yet the remedy is within the reach of all. That great discovery, Nervine, will cure the most desperate case of indigestion, debility or nervousness. You ask for evidence. A cloud of witnesses in the Dominion of Canada are saying amen, and amen, to the testimony of Mrs. Gray. Why suffer, fellow-citizens, friends and brethren?

RHEUMATISM CONQUERED.

A GREAT ADVANCE IN MEDICAL SCIENCE.

A Discovery Which this Painful Disease Cannot Resist—Mr. E. Blasdell, of Paris, Ont., Relates His Experience With the Cure.

Paris, Ont., Review.

Rheumatism has long baffled the medical profession. Medicine for external and internal use has been produced, plasters tried, electricity experimented with, hot and cold baths and a thousand other things tried, but without avail. Rheumatism still held the fort, making the life of its victims one of misery and pain. The first real step toward conquering rheumatism was made when the preparation known as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People was discovered, and since that time thousands have testified to their wonderful efficacy in this, as well as in other troubles, the origin of which may be traced to the blood.

Among those who speak in the highest terms of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mr. Blasdell of this town, who is known not only to all our citizens but to residents of this section, and he is as highly esteemed as he is widely known. To the editor of the Review Mr. Blasdell recently said: "I have reason to speak in terms of the highest praise of Dr. William's Pink Pills. They not only saved me a big doctor's bill but have restored me to health, which was impaired by rheumatism and neuralgia. These troubles were, I think, the after effects of an attack of measles. After the latter trouble had disappeared I felt an awful pain in my head, neck, and down my back. I tried a number of remedies, but without effect. I was then advised by Mrs. Horning, of Copetown, who had been cured of paralysis by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, to give them a trial. I followed her advice, and after using a box or two I began to feel much better, and with their continued use I constantly improved in health, and am now feeling better than I have done before in ten years. I am satisfied that but for the timely use of Pink Pills I would to-day have been a physical wreck, living a life of constant pain, and I cannot speak too highly of their curative powers, or recommend them too strongly to other sufferers. I cheerfully give permission to publish my statement in the hope that some other sufferer may read and profit by it."

Dr. Williams's Pink Pills strike at the root of the disease, driving it from the system and restoring the patient to health and strength. In cases of paralysis, spinal troubles, locomotor ataxia, sciatica, rheumatism, erysipelas, scrofulous troubles, etc., these pills are superior to all other treatment. They are also a specific for the troubles which make the lives of so many women a burden, and speedily restore the rich glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. Men broken down by overwork, worry or excesses, will find Pink Pills a certain cure. Sold by all dealers or sent by mail post-paid, at 50c. a box, or six boxes for $2.30, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y. Beware of imitations and substitutes alleged to be "just as good."

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB COLUMN.

XXIX.

Prof. Huxley.

The present century has not inappropriately been termed the age of science. However little our tastes may run to science or invention, it is impossible not to be struck with astonishment at the marvellous strides which science has taken in her onward march during the last one hundred years. It is as though she were shod with the famous seven-leagued boots of the familiar fairy story.

It often happens that one name stands out pre-eminently as the expression of the spirit of the age. The scientific progress of our century will ever be linked with the name of Charles Darwin. It is perhaps no exaggeration to say that no single writer of any age has ever so profoundly influenced the thinking of thoughtful men as Darwin. Within the short period of about forty years, the idea of evolution as furnishing the key to the mystery of the method of creation has become universal. It does not, it is true, explain the origin of things, nor do we all think of it in precisely the same way, but we are all in a greater or less degree influenced in our thinking by the idea of evolution. The two most widely read and still more widely discussed books of the last year or two have been Mr. Drummond's "Ascent of Man," a popular exposition of Darwinism, and Mr. Kidd's "Social Evolution."

Next to the name of Darwin, the world connects with science that of Prof. Huxley.

Huxley was not merely a man of distinguished talents for original research, but was endowed with splendid powers of expression. No more popular pen has been wielded than his from the time, when in "lay sermons" he brought the theory of revolution and the facts upon which it was based within range of tens of thousands of readers who would not have read "the Origin of Species," down to his last theological controversey in "The Nineteenth Century." Huxley was the Goliath of Evolution, always ready to use his pen—a formidable weapon—against all comers. The controversies about Evolution were largely theological; for the new theory came into violent conflict with the theological conceptions of nature that had prevailed, at least from the time of the reformation, down to the present day. Mr. Gladstone, the Duke of Argyll, the Bishop of Peterborough (Magee), Principal Wace, Prof. St. George Mivart, are only some of his leading combatants. Against them all he gave a good account of himself, but it is not the case, as is sometimes supposed, that he was always victorious. It was very easy to raise a laugh over the "Gadarene pigs," but when Principal Wace joined issue on the wider question of the authenticity of the Gospels, those who were able to weigh arguments, saw that Huxley was scarcely up to date. The tendency of New Testament criticism during the past fifteen years has been to retreat from the scepticism of Renan and the philosophical dogmatism of Baur. It was easy for Huxley to serve up a very attractive fricassee of Baur and Renan, but it was unfortunate for him that on experiment it proved a little stale.

Prof. Huxley was an agnostic. He disclaimed any knowlege of God, or of the ultimate nature of things. Human knowledge, says the agnostic, is limited to experience, and of God, who is the Unlimited One, we can have no experience, and, therefore, no knowledge. Herbert Spencer is the philosopher of agnosticism. That there is such a thing as an Infinite and Eternal Energy, he asserts, and has somewhere spoken of the emotion of reverence as its due; but he can, like the Greeks of old, only erect his altar "To the Unknown God." Agnosticism, however, is not to be confounded with atheism. I do not think that either Huxley or Spencer would desire the abolition of religion.

The agnostic has a perfect right to his own opinions. His error consists in erecting his own experience into the measure of all experience. The Christian may boldly join issue with the agnostic on his own ground. Human knowledge is, of course, limited to experience, but it is surely in the face of the testimonies of countless generations, of scores of peoples and races, highly unscientific to accept that we can have no experience of God. The agnostic abhors metaphysics, yet his own position depends upon the highly metaphysical dogma that the Unlimited and Infinite Being can have no relations with finite and limited man. To which the theologian, for once, at least, changing places with his antagonist, replies: "Experientia docet—we oppose our good experience to your bad metaphysics."

The variety of religions, and errors and abuses do not effect this position any more than the errors of science or its abuses affect the faith of the man of science in the powers of the human intellect to rule over the world of matter. The Christian, again, in his contention that his is, by comparison with all others, the best of all religions, occupies a position which deserves and has gained the respect of scientific thinkers.

It seems to me to be a mistake to regard Huxley's polemics as altogether wicked. We Christians must expect, and should welcome criticism, so long as we are, not merely individually, but as a body, so far from perfection. The tendency of his writings has been to advance the process of simplification of the essentials of religion, and hence to promote the unity of the sometimes opposing camps of those who alike profess too march under the banner of the Cross. The existence of Christianity depends far more on the unity of Christianity than upon any particular interpretation of Genesis or of the Story of the Flood, and Prof. Huxley has helped us to see this. If the Bible teaches us that Nebuchadnezzar, in his destroying work, was yet a minister of God, we may reckon Prof Huxley in one aspect of his activity as a worker for, even though outside of, "the Kingdom of Heaven."

A recent writer has said of Huxley,—"I cannot doubt, that whatever his creed, his inner life was that of a good Christian, and that his hopes went beyond his beliefs, though he was too honest to mistake hopes for beliefs, or beliefs for demonstrations. No one questions that he was distinguished for courage and ardent love of Truth. Let us with Christian generosity of spirit forget his faults, and with Christian magnanimity, that is not ashamed to learn from its enemies, cultivate in ourselves his virtue.

MARRIED HIS CLIENT.

A Toronto Lawyer Weds Miss Nellie Ganthony.

ROMANTIC MEETING OF THE PAIR

The Actress Met Him at the Hotel Where Both Boarded, and Retained Him to Prosecute a Suit Against Her Manager.

Toronto, Sept. 16.—Nellie Ganthos, the well-known entertainre, was married in New York last Saturday to John Clark, a Toronto barrister. The pair were wedded by Alderman Schilling at the City Hall Marriage Bureau, and Mrs. Clark informed the reporter that she would leave the stage for good and sail for England with her husband this week.

The courtship of the couple was carried on in Toronto. Miss Ganthony was brought to Canada last October by Robert Grau, the theatrical manager, who has made more fiacos than other man of his calling in the world. At Toronto Grau abandoned the management of Miss Ganthony.

Miss Ganthony wished to know whether the law could do anything for her and consulted Mr. Clark, who is a barrister. Miss Ganthony was at that time boarding at the Rossin House, as was Mr. Clark. The barrister could do nothing for her in the way of legal redress, but as Miss Ganthony remained at the hotel during the greater part of the winter, the pair saw a good deal of each other, and finally became engaged.

Miss Ganthony's real name, as given in the marriage certificate, is Ada Davey, daughter of Robert Davey, of Surrey, Eng. She made several successful appearances here in monologue entertainments on the lines of Grossmith. She isa sister of Richard Ganthony, the English farce writer, and many influential friedns in London.

After leaving Toronto in March last she went to New York, where her monologues were unsuccessful until she struck the idea of enacting the concert scene from "Trilby." Her height and proportions fitted her to represent Dumanrier's heroine, and she made a hit by her singing of "Ben Bolt." She was the first to represent Trilby in New York.

Mr. Clark, who has married the actress, is a native of St. Mary's, where his father is a mill owner. The son practiced law there for some time and afterwards went to Michigan, where he married a woman from whom he afterwards legally separated. He then came to Toronto and opened a law office in the Janes building. He was well-known as a bon viveur round town. He left the city about a fortnight ago with the intention of marrying Miss Ganthony.

DEEP WATERWAYS CONVENTION.

Program of the Meeting to Be Held in Cleveland This Week.

Cleveland, Sept. 15.—L. E. Cooley, American Vice-President of the International Deep Waterways Association, has issued a statement regarding the object of the convention to be held in this city, beginning Sept. 24, under the auspices of the association, and touching on the deep waterway projects. The convention, he states, is in line with the policy outlined at the Toronto convention one year ago. The proposition outlined at that time was on the basis of 26 feet of water, the same as in the Suez Canal. Between Chicago and ocean navigation in the St. Lawrence there are scarecely 100 miles of shallows to be depened and obstructions to be overcome by canals, and it is feasible to carry deep water to the Hudson and New York by doubling the amount of work. The commerce of the Great Lakes is already 25 per cent. of the ton mileage of all the railroads of the United States. Had that commerce paid at that average rate per ton-mile of the railways of Illinois $200,000,000 additional, or about 8 times the amount actually paid. Yet the strange anomaly exists of the best railway properties in the United States being in lake territory. This growth and prosperity are eloquent evidence of the economic value of water routes. Already the commerce into and out of Lake Superior through St. Mary Canal is nearly double that of the Suez Canal, and exceeds in amount that that of all the other ship canals of the world. Yet this is hardly one-fourth of the lake movement. It may well be believed that the difference to rail and water rates of commerce for one year would pay the cost of developing ocean navigation into and through the great lakes.

Many projects are under consideration in lake states, and the sanitary and ship canal of Chicago will solve the most costly part of the work between the lakes and the Mississippi River in Illinois.

TUPPER CRITICIZED

For His Copyright Speech in Toronto.

THE QUESTION TO BE SETTLED.

The N.Y. Tribune's Correspondent Says No Importance is Attached to Tupper's Utterances—The Draft Bill is a Compromise Favorable to Canada.

New York, Sept. 16.—Mr, Isaac N. Ford cables from London to The Tribune:

Sir Charles H. Tupper is known in London as a Canadian Jingo; hence his bombastic speech at Toronto, declaring that "Canadians have a right to misgovern themselves if they choose in the matter of copyright, as in that of tariffs and everything else," is not taken seriously.

His arrogant bearing towards the man of letters, who has been conferring with the Colonial Office on the subject, and who desires to present the case of the British authors and publishers at Ottawa, is condemned as a breach of good taste and common sense. If Mr. Hall Caine pays an early visit to Canada, after his arrival in New York, it will be because the Colonial Office has urged him to do so and has armed him with letters to the Governor-General. For Sir Charles H. Tupper to proclaim in advance that he can have officially nothing to do with him or any other English author is alike premature and stupid.

Besides, Sir Charles, when he spoke, had not apparently received the right cue from Mr. Newcombe, the Deputy-Minister of Justice, who has been dining with the Colonial Secretary in London, and suggesting changes in the proposed draft of a new Canadian Copyright Act. The text of the official memorandum is not disclosed here, but it is not unlikely that it will be a compromise, which will satisfy Canadians, rather than Americans. It is not improbable that the compromise contains an academic assertion of the principle of copyright, and then, in practice, whittles it down and fritters it away in licensing clauses in favor of Canadian printers.

Mr. Newcombe has not been idle in London. The draft which he takes back with him, while prepared by the colonial officers on lines suggested by British authors, has doubtless been altered materially in the interest of Canada. Sir Charles Tupper may be readily reconciled to it if the Canadian printers find that they can make use of it as a means of reaching the American market.

The subject is attracting much attention here. Henry Kleinau, who represents a great French publishing house in London, has written a strong letter to The Times, giving warning that the concession once made in favor of Canada could not be withheld from Australia and other colonies, and that France, Germany and other parties to the Berne agreement would have just cause for complaint, if partial and one-sided exceptions were introduced. He asks in what position British authors would be if such important bookmaking centres of Germany as the kingdoms of Saxony, Bavaria and Wurtemburg determined to free themselves from the convention accepted at Berne for the whole of Germany. He predicts that piracy will soon again be the order of the day, if Canada be excepted from the operation of that convention.

Sir Charles H. Tupper can reply that under the Act of '67 Canada had a right to misgovern itself, and by giving a year's notice can withdraw from the Berne convention and legislate for itself on copyright. In theory he would be right, for in the Imperial Act copyright was not specified as a subject on which the Canadian Parliament might not legislate, and the Berne Convention has been accepted by the Dominion, with the proviso that it can withdraw on a year's notice. In practice it will be a bad precedent to allow Canada to drive a coach and four through the Berne Convention for the sake of enabling a few printing houses of Toronto and Montreal to flood the American market with cheap editions and thereby expose the friends of copyright in the United States to a dangerous agitation for the repeal of the present act. Ambassador Bayard ought to be instructed from Washington to say something emphatic on the question.

KILLED ON HIS MARRIAGE EVE.

Thomas Young Killed on a Crossing—Patrick Meianey Fatally Injured By an Engine Jumping the Track.

Hamilton, Sept. 15.—About 11 this morning the body of Thomas Young, about 50 years old, boarding at 555 York-street, was discovered by three boys lying near the Grand Trunk track at the Y, horribly mangled and bleeding about the face and head. He had been killed a few minutes previously by either the 9.02 express going west, which was late and left the Stuart-street Station at 10.25, or a freight train that pulled out of the yards a few minutes later. Pilot Scotland on the pilot engine on the express did not see deceased, and he was evidently seen by none of the hands on the freight, for it did not stop. Adding sadness to the affair is the fact that Young was to have been married this week, Miss Atkins, the bride-to-be, having sailed from Dublin, Ireland, and arrived in Toronto on Labor Day, where she was met by her fiancee and escorted to this city. The house was furnished and ready for the happy couple, the last of the furniture having been purchased on Saturday. Deceased left his home after 10 o'clock on Sunday morning to go for a walk, and it is supposed he absent-mindedly failed to get off the track in time. Coroner White ordered an inquest.

On Saturday, when one of Contractor Onderdonk's construction trains was hauling material from the Hunter-street tunnel, the tender jumped the track just west of Locke-street, and with two flat cars, tumbled into the ditch. Patrick McEney was pinned between the cab and the tender and received serious injuries. The fireman jumped and escaped injury. The accident was caused by the rails spreading.

ROUND SENTENCES FOR ROBBERY.

Four and Six Years For Theft of Two Dollars and Fifty Cents.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE IN MONTREAL.

William Bow Shoots Himself Twice—An Action to Recover $500,000 From the City of Montreal.

Montreal, Sept. 15.—William Bow, formerly employed as a foreman in a shoe factory at Three Rivers, shot himself twice to-day with a revolver, but may recover. He said family troubles had prompted the deed.

Messrs. Sicotte and Bernard have taken an action on behalf of the Provincial Government, to recover $500,000 collected by the city in the recorders Court, which it is claimed should go to the building and jury fund.

Mr. Peter Dunne, senior messenger in the Senate since Confederation, died here on Saturday as the result of an operation performed at the Royal Victorit Hospital. His son took the body back to Ottawa for interment.

Lord Dufferin to Retire.

New York, Sept. 15.—A London special says: It seems probable that this year will witness the retirement of Lord Dufferin from the embassy at Paris and diplomatic service altogether. He is said to be longing for a quiet life, with leisure to look after his Irish estates and set a good example to other noblemen in Ireland. Beyond a doubt he is tired of Paris and its petty annoyances and hard work. The Paris embassy is considered the most important in the British diplomatic service, and usually only an experienced diplomat is appointed to it. Accoding to current rumor Lord Salisbury is going to break through this practice in order to provide for one of the peers who who were left out in the cold through Mr. Chamberlain's greed at the time the Cabinet was formed. Among those who are foremost in running for this coveted stake is Earl Camperdown, a Liberal-Unionist of the Duke of Devonshire color, and no lover of Mr. Chamberlain, as the latter knows. The earl is not a man of any conspicuous ability, but everybody supposed he would have been in the Government, and he made a tremendous row over his exclusion.

LIGHT IN SCHOOL ROOMS.

The Popular Science News publishes an abstract of a paper recently read upon light in school rooms by Dr. A. G. Field before the Ontario Medical Association at Baltimore. Dr. Field showed that too much light was as dangerous to the eyes of pupils as partial darkness. Both conditions cause an undue strain and induce myopia. The great difficulty is in regulating the light in a proper manner. There is need of constant and intelligent care in keeping study rooms light enough for the normal eye and preventing overstrain from glare or the partial darkness of very cloudy days. It is certainly very injurious for pupils who are studying to face windows that open to the sky or the full glare of the sun. The light of the sky so contracts the pupil of the eye as to prevent proper vision, unless a book be held very near. Under such conditions the muscles of the eye are strained and short-sightedness is induced in a brief time. The case is recalled of a professional man, who, having occasion to use a typewriter, pushed it up to a window and sat facing the bright sky. In a short time the pupils of his eyes were so concentrated on account of the intense light that the keyboard could not be clearly seen without a great effort. Not fully realizing the conditions under which he was taxing his eyes, he lighted the gas, but without relief. Finally he turned his back to the light to ascertain if he was suddenly becoming blind or not. This experiment relieved his eyes from the glare and vision was fully restored. It is quite probable that many pupils in our schools have had the same experience, with the exception of the discovery of the real cause of difficulty in seeing print. Most of them cannot relieve their sight by turning away from the bright light, but bring their books close to the eye, inducing myopia, or short sightedness. Seats in school rooms should be so arranged that the light may come from the side or rear. When such arrangement is impossible, light coming in front should be subdued with curtains of a soft neutral tint. Dr. Field recommends that the light of school rooms should be regulated by tests with positive photographic paper. Such tests would be very useful, but somewhat costly. It would be much better to require that all teachers be well posted upon elementary optics and the structure of the eye. The preservation of the eye is as important as education. There is reason to believe that owing to neglect of the eye in schools, we are rapidly becoming wearers of spectacles at an early age.

OUR PURE WATER.

When one reflects on the unhappy condition of Toronto in respect of her water supply, the people of Peterborough are to be congratulated upon the absolute purity of the water supplied by the Peterborough Water Company from their new basin. It has been subjected to most rigid analyses by the noted sanitary experts that visited Peterborough in attendance at the outfall sewer investigation last fall, who unanimously pronounced the water supplied by our Water Company to be A 1 in quality. It is natural that this should be so. Toronto's present water supply is of course villianously impure because the source is polluted owing to the recent accident to intake pipes, but Peterborough's water supply comes from our great northern lakes, upon which there is not a single town or city to pollute the water, while after the river leaves Lakefield it is subjected to a brisk tumble of 8 or 9 miles of rapids, by which perfect aeration takes place. This elaborate aeration would purify even the dirty pea-soup water of Toronto bay. Besides the basin above the dam from which our water supply is drawn has a clean, gravelly bottom with no growths to produce an appreciable quantity of organic matter. The citizens of Peterborough may well congratulate themselves upon the purity and reliability of their water supply—purity for drinking and domestic purposes and reliability for purposes of fire extinction.

THE editor of the Brantford Courier is afflicted with typhoid fever in his stomach. At least he refers editorially to "the prevalence of typhoid fever in our midst." That's the twist the irreverent Hamilton Herald gives to an innocent form of expression that is old enough to receive the homage due to age.

THE copyright question is one that does not directly concern the great mass of the people. The question at issue is, as the Brantford Expositor points out, not as to the merits of the Copyright Act of 1890, but whether Canadians have the right to legislate in a matter of purely domestic concern, without the interference of the Imperial authorities.

A CORRESPONDENT, who is a dilletante in the matter of beverages, writes to know whether the mixed wheat about which the millers are raising a dust, if distilled would produce a mixed drunk. Our correspondent is referred to some more experienced authority—say the genial Mr. Smiff, of the Bobcaygeon Independent, who should be an authority on Bacahanalian beverages.

HOW SCANDALS ARE MADE.

The Mail and Empire is publishing a series of able articles under the heading, "How Scandals are Made." We did not suppose that the active politicians among our contemporary's readers required any tuition on this subject, but, if so, one would suppose that the articles would take this form:

1. Allow a member of Parliament to obtain private information from the Department of Public Works, and communicate it to contractors. "Figure up" the contracts so as to make them satisfactorily fat. Then squeeze the contractors for subscriptions to campaign funds. A favourite recipe.
2. Come down on the contractor of a subsidized railway for a subscription of $25,000 to a Conservative campaign fund.
3. Peddle the Federal offices in a constituency, jobs at light houses, bridges, etc., for $100, $200 and $250 each, and use the proceeds to pay an old election debt of the party. Small but efficacious.
4. Let a Minister of the Crown buy mineral land from a constituent for $2,500; get it enriched by the granting of a railway subsidy and resell it for $20,000. Very neat and simple, and not incompatible with a conscience void of offence.
5. Have a bridge built with no check on labour or materials, pay wages on stuffed pay sheets, and generally give the contractor a free hand. Afterwards express surprise and sorrow that money has been lost and enter a suit against the man who took advantage of the Government's confiding disposition.

These are a few of the hints which might be collected from the public records of the country published in the "How Scandals are Made" series, and reprinted in a book called, say, "The Campaign Collectors' Manual, or Boodling Made Easy."—Globe.

THE CHEESE MARKETS.

Referring to the cheese outlook, the Saturday Globe says,—There is little or no sign of improvement in the cheese markets, and they continue dull and easy. It seems impossible to secure buyers, except at a considerable reduction in prices, and a good many are holding off for a better market, which appears as far off as ever. The Utica Herald sums up the situation as follows:—"It seems to be impossible this season to form any judgment of what the cheese market is going to do or be for even a week in advance. A week ago it seemed almost certain that the market was "dragging on the bottom," and yet there has been a decline of ⅞ cents since then, bringing the price of large coloured down to 7⅜ cents. Something is rotten in the State of New York, we fear, and it is probably a fact that some of our cheese, although not quite rotten, has been decidedly over-ripe on its arrival in the city. This is undoubtedly one of the causes of demoralization, but not the chief cause. The principal reason for a decline in prices is an utter lack of demand for the goods, and back of this lies the vicious manufacture of 'filled cheese' by men calling themselves American citizens, but doing their best to ruin one of the heaviest agricultural interests of the United States. The manufacture of this stuff stops the demand for full cream cheese in two ways; It cuts it off almost entirely in England, because the English want genuine goods and are afraid they will be cheated if they buy cheese from the States; and, secondly, heavy contracts have been made throughout the south, which are being filled with bogus goods at lower prices than August and September stock has been sold at for may years. If the filled cheese was sold as such and not under the pretence of being full cream, it would be difficult to make objection to it."

TORONTO WATERWORKS.

An Outbreak of Disease Feared and Great Precautions Recommended.

Toronto, (Special) Sept. 16.—The accident which recently occurred to the Toronto waterworks conduit has created a great deal of consternation, and an outbreak of disease is possible. Doctors are prescribing the various precautions to be taken, and among them it is strongly recommended that the kidneys should be kept in a state of perfect regularity by means of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which experience has shown to be equally efficacious in the latest as well as in the earliest stages of kidney trouble. It is also stated by the physicians that this season is one in which the kidneys are peculiarly susceptible to disorder.

A Public Ovation!

—:o:—

THANKS

Most Assuredly!

—:o:—

We have nothing but gratitude to offer the citizens of Peterborough and surrounding country for the very hearty reception accorded to Oak Hall on its Opening Day.

It was the right kind of a welcome—open-armed, cordial, enthusiastic.

It was a phenomenal success from start to finish. Type can scarcely give expression to the heartiness of our thanks to the hundreds of citizens from town and country-side for miles around, who participated in the ovation to Oak Hall on our Opening Day.

We had modestly looked forward to some extra attraction and recognition—on account of the good Clothes we had to show, our new attractions on the tables, our handsome store and our special novelty on the streets; but never contemplated anything like the sensation that was produced on Saturday last.

Even our neighbors, the other clothing dealers,—caught the contagion of the excitement and turned out to do us honour, or to imitate our example.

Thanks again, kind friends. We DEDICATE Oak Hall to the service of the MEN, YOUNG MEN and BOYS, of the Town and County of Peterborough

Prosperity

Is not only already in the air but it is percolating, permeating, honey-combing, everything associated with Oak Hall's opening. And as "much of success depends on a good start," we can look forward encouragingly,—FOR WE HAVE HAD A GOOD START.

Much has yet to be added to make our store complete—in stock, fittings, furnishings, &c,—in order to bring up the standard of Oak Hall's ideal. These have all been arranged for and will be added as rapidly as they come forward.

Reception Days

Will continue all this week, and the best opportunities for hand-shaking and inspection are yet to come.

CHRISTIAN UNION.

An Answer to the Archbishop of Canterbury.

THE POPE MUST GOVERN ALL.

So Declares Cardinal Vaughan, and This Will End All Talk of Church Unity in Britain—Lord Rosebery Not Coming toCanada—The South African Investment Mania.

London, Sept. 16.—The Catholic conference that is annually held in England, under the auspices of the Catholic Truth Society, has hitherto been treated by the press as unworthy of mention. It has this year suddenly assumed the importance of a leading congress. The conference began at Bristol on Monday and terminated Thursday.

The questions before the conference were not new, but the meeting derived unwonted interest from Cardinal Vaughn's address on Christian union. The Archbishop of Canterbury's recent missive on the subject, which was a reply to the Pope's letter to the English people, required a reply, and Cardinal Vaughn gave it in such clear terms as will end discussion within the Anglican church on the basis of an agreement with the Roman Catholic Church.

The kernel of the question of the reunion of Christiandom, said Cardinal Vaughn, consisted in the admission of the Roman claim that the Pope had received by divine right authority to teach and govern the whole church. The essence of the Anglican position was a negation of the Roman claim. Until this claim was admitted, no basis of reunion was possible.

The Cardinal further declared that he did not expect to witness the submission of the English people as a body to claims that were repudiated at the time of the Reformaion. He looked to the slower process of individual conversion. These declarations have been ill received by the Ritualists of England, and are reported to be also causing the Pope disappointment, as a check to his plans for reunion of the churches.

The report was accepted as true among the elders of the congress, that at the next consistory at Rome another cardinal will be created for England. The congress concluded on Thursday, with a pilgrimage to Glastonbury Abbey, the oldest shrine in England. Thousands of pilgrims, including 100 retired clergy, traveled by train from Bristol to Glastonbury. It was not very long ago that popular sentiment would not have allowed such a pilgrimage. On Thursday a large crowd watched with the greatest sympathetic interest the long banner-carrying procession, composed of Catholic guilds, Jesuits, Dominicans, Franciscans, Benedictines and Carmelites, alternately singing and reciting prayers. The scene was an impressive and picturesque one, and marked an immense change in the position of the Roman Catholic Church in England.

The speculative mania in South African stocks shows no sign of abatement. Stock exchange dealers compare the present time with that of Laws' Mississippi inflation in France, and the South Sea bubble in England. Men who were financially "broke" two months ago, now boast that they are worth tens of thousands of pounds. Stocks that were quoted in June at £1 are now quoted at £40. Brokers who were recently struggling to keep their heads above water now employ large corps of clerks, and net enormous profits.

Barney Barnato, the leader of the boom, who, at one time, was an itinerant juggler, is now a multimillionaire. He is about to build a palace in Piccadilly which will cost £250,000.

In the meantime he has leased Earl Spencer's house. Despite the success of his Barnato bank, and every other scheme into which he has entered, he has not succeeded in trying the highest financial circle, which is also operating in South Africa, but which yet holds itself aloof from Mr. Barnato. The speculative spirit extends to other branches of the stock exchange, and gives impetus to business generally.

Several Canadian and American lawyers are expected to attend the seventeenth conference of the association for the reform and codification of the laws of nations, which is to be held in Brussels, commencing Oct. 1. At this meeting an attempt will be made to change the name of the organization to the International Law Association. The inaugural address of the meeting will be made by the president, Sir Richard Webster, at present Attorney-General for England.

Among the reports and discussions at this meeting, the following subjects are included: International arbitration, the neutralisation of seas and interoceanic canals, territorial waters, marine laws, and liability for collisions at sea, where both vessels are at fault.

Ex-Prime Minister Rosebery returned to London Thursday. He says there is not the slightest truth in the report that he intends to visit America.

Mr. Hall Caine sails by the White Star steamer Teutonic next Wednesday, carrying with him letters from the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies. Despite utterances by Sir Charles Tupper, the Canadian High Commissioner, Mr. Caine expects a friendly hearing from the Canadian Government on the subject of copyright. Mr. Caine said to-day that English authors were willing to admit the right of Canada to govern herself, whether wisely or unwisely, but what they complain of is that Canada's demands cover the right to govern one section of the English people. Mr. Caine will be the guest of Mr. Appleton in the United States. He has accepted an invitation to a reception by the New York Authors' Club and to a dinner at the Lotus Club. He goes to Canada by way of Boston.

Britain Holds the Fast Train Record.

New York, Sept. 15.—The London Times claims that the English West Coast line still holds the record for speed. A corespondent says: "Taking the time, stoppages included, the record of the West Coast train, covering 540 miles in 512 minutes; it was only 510 minutes to the ticket platform, where the journey practically ended. This is fractionally superior to the New York Central record of 436 1-2 miles in 414 1-2 minutes. As a further claim of the latter that the Empire State express is the fastest regular passenger train in the world, is still less capable of support. The West Coast train runs to Perth in 8 hours and 40 minutes. Curiously enough 8 hours and 40 minutes is the exact time taken by the Empire State Express in completing the course of 440 miles; but Perth is a journey of 450 miles. The corresponding East Coast train from King's Cross to Dundee, 462 miles, in 8 hours and 47 minutes, also eclipses the American train."

WHITEWAY CALLOUS TO CRIME.

Political Deadlock May Result From the Smuggling Exposures

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 16.—A serious political deadlock is probable over the smuggling exposures. It is understood that the Government discourages everymovement looking towards the prosecution of the offenders. It maintains that the fining of them before the Board of Revenue was sufficient punishment. The Board insists, however, and is supported by public opinion that it is necessary to make an example now to prevent a resumption of the illicit practices on as large a scale as ever. The whole matter is now postponed until after the Twillingate election, where most of the Ministry have gone, fearing the Opposition to Colonial Secretary Bond.

The Rev. Dr. McNeil, a parish priest at Antigonish, Nova Scotia, has been appointed Roman Catholic Bishop of the west coast of Newfoundland, in succession to Bishop Howley, who was recently transferred to this diocese. The new bishop is thoroughly versed in all the phases of the celebrated French shore question. The disputed treaty coast lies in his jurisdiction, and the Bishop exercises a powerful influence.

CANNOT USE THE REVISED EDITION.

The Anglican Synod by a Large Majority Declines to Sanction Its Use in the Church.

Montreal, Setp. 16.—The principal topic of discussion at the session of the Anglican Provincial Synod came up on a motion to alter Canon 13, so as to allow of the use of the revised version of the Scriptures being read in [illegible] so desired.

The advocate of the motion contended that the revised version, especially of the New Testament, was an improvement on the authorised version. The opponents to the motion maintained that it would not be in the interests of the church to pass such a motion, and more particularly as neither the Sees of Canterbury or York had authorized the use of the revised version in England. On a vote being called, the motion was lost by a considerable majority.

THE SECRET OUT!

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from various prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CAANDA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story :—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	PerCent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life	2.63	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

A Big 'Lunge.

The following item is quoted from the Lindsay Post for the benefit of the editors of the Norwood Register and Hastings Star, who seem to have a penchant for relating big fish stories: "Early last week we were informed by a local fisherman that Mr. Jas. O'Connell, Cross Creeks, had caught a maskinonge of huge dimensions. The weight named was so incredible that we waited to see some reliable party from that section before we informed the public. To-day we ran across our man, and he vouched for the fact that Mr. O'Connell had caught a 'lunge of the enormous weight of 39 lbs. 'Nuff sed!"

A Lindsayite's Mistake.

Adelaide-st., Toronto, is a well-known street for job printing offices, and one day this week, as is very often the case, one of the offices required more help in their press room, and the proprietor hung out a card "Feeders Wanted." A Lindsay sport was doing up the town and noticing this card he suddenly felt the need of something in his lower regions, and thinking it to be a restaurant, in he rushed. A quick glance about him apprised him of his mistake, and he laughingly explained matters to the foreman, who informed him there was nothing to eat on the premises except a little "pie" that the "devil" had just made.—Lindsay Post.

FIRE IN A GEORGE STREET WINDOW.

Armstrong & Co. Suffers a Loss of Several Hundred Dollars.

At seven o'clock, Saturday evening, the dressings in the window of Armstrong & Co.'s dry goods establishment at No. 396 George street became ignited and for a few minutes it looked to the spectators as though the entire store would be enveloped in flames. The prompt action of some members of the fire brigade, who happened to be in the immediate vicinity, however, soon had the blaze under control and in a few minutes the last spark was extinguished.

The fire was occasioned, it is thought, by the errand boy, who had just lit the gas in the window and in stepping out, it is surmised, that he disturbed some of the drapings, consisting of lace curtains, art muslins and linen goods, and before he could realize the mischief which had been done the contents of the window were ablaze. The fire rapidly licked up the inflammable material, and between it, the smoke and the water, a loss of between three and four hundred dollars was occasioned. The stock is fully insured, it is understood, with the firms of Cox & Davis, and W. H. Hill. A sale of the damaged goods will be held in a few days.

A HORSE ON THE TRACK.

Nearly a Wreck Two Miles South of the Town.

Friday morning a train in charge of Engineer G. J. Nottingham killed a horse which was lying on a public crossing about two miles south of Peterborough. The day before the same engineer had to stop his train and drive stock off the track at nearly the same place. The farmers all along the line between Peterborough and Millbrook have for a long time been very careless about allowing their stock to run at large, more especially nearer Peterborough, and the Grand Trunk people report more annoyance on this section of the way than any other on the whole of the Midland division. It will be remembered that it was near there that terrible wreck took place Sept. 22nd, 1894, from the same cause, (a cow on the track.) The farmers should take more care as it is not merely the loss of stock, but the dangers to the lives of travellers.

FALL OPENING AT GRAFTON'S.

An Annual Event Celebrated With Unusual Eclat.

Saturday was celebrated at Grafton & Co's. clothing store as their annual fall opening day. The attractions which this hustling firm put on both inside and outside their store drew large crowds of spectators and admirers and created a rushing business all day. Grafton & Co's. novel advertising waggon, drawn by two horses, paraded the principal streets during the whole day, and in the evening members of the Fire Brigade brass band took possession of the waggon and drove through the streets playing lively airs. A halt was made opposite Grafton's store where they boomed the firm's opening event with spirited music, and attracted crowds that packed the street and their store. 1d1w

The Watermain Burst.

The water main on George street at the corner of Simcoe, burst at an early hour yesterday morning, and by eleven o'clock the water had forced it way up through the soil, and formed a little stream down the centre of the street. The Water Company soon had a gang of men at work, and with commendable promptitude the break was located and repaired, the water in the meantime being shut off. The damage was effectually righted, and the excavation filled in by six o'clock in the evening.

THE STR. COLUMBIAN GOES UP IN SMOKE.

NOTHING BUT THE HULL LEFT OF THE STEAMER.

She Takes Fire at the Bobcaygeon Wharf, and the Ropes Parting She Drifts Out Beyond the Reach of the Fire Brigade.

The large and commodious excursion steamer Columbian, upon which so many of the citizens of Peterborough have enjoyed many a pleasant day's sail on the back lakes was burned to the water's edge yesterday morning at her wharf, just by the dam at Bobcaygeon.

How the fire originated no one knows but it is generally attributed to amongst the oily rags which form a necessary adjunct to every engine room.

The blaze was first noticed at about half past five in the morning and as the majority of the residents in this portion of the country arise at this hour, a crowd of several hundred soon gathered about the doomed steamer, over which a thick black cloud of smoke hung like a pall.

Water was dashed over the Columbian's decks and into her hold by the bucketful, but the flames were never checked in the slightest for a moment, and not even a vestige of the furniture was saved. The Bobcaygeon Fire Department laboured unceasingly, but without avail, to save the steamer, as the ropes parted and she drifted out into the river. Realising the futility of their efforts the members to keeping the fire from spreading into the village, as the burning brands from the Columbian were carried through the air for almost half a mile.

A small cottage belonging to Mr. Hunt was burned to the ground so quickly that its contents were also destroyed, and the big warehouse at the wharf also fell a ready victim to the flames. Several times the Government dredge caught on fire, but each time the sparks were extinguished before they had time to spread. Finally a couple of venturesome carpenters rowed out to the fated steamer and boring into hull below the water line were successful in sinking her, though beyond the machinery nothing was saved of any value whatever, as the hull is too far gone to be of use.

Mr. D. R. McCamus of Bobcaygeon, owned the Columbian, and it is stated that the steamer was insured for ten or twelve thousand dollars.

A CENTENNARIAN ENGLISH WOMAN.

The Mother of Messrs. Geo. Rose and James Rose Still Living in her One Hundredth Year.

In the English News of the Montreal Star appears the following paragraph relating to the mother of Mr. Geo. Rose, bricklayer, town, and Mr. Jas. Rose, of Otonabee:—A widow named Ann Rose, who is hale and hearty, and in full possession of her faculties, living at Milton-next-Sittingbourne, Kent, attained her 100th year recently. She has the following descendants living:—Children, 8; grandchildren, 55; great-grandchildren, 171; great-great-grandchildren, 29. If all had lived the centenarian would have had nearly 400 descendants." It may be added that on Mrs. Rose's birthday, Aug. 1st, the vicar of the parish called for her with his carriage and took her to a photographer where her picture was taken and a few days later the vicar arranged for a photographic family group which contained representatives of five generations. There are very few persons in this age to whom the privilege is vouchsafed of living to see twenty-nine great-great-grandchildren. Mrs. Rose is still strong and active and looks as much like living many years as she has done any time the past quarter of a century.

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—District Deputy T. H. Martin will be in attendance at the meeting of Lansdowne Lodge, S. O. E., to-night.

—It should have been mentioned in the paragraph referring to the electric illuminations of the City Clothing Store that the incandescent lights were put in by Messrs. Bradburn & Greer.

—The campers are nearly all down from the lakes now, with the exception of a few cottagers who still remain. Shooting parties, however, are going up every day, and the game is said to be plentiful.

—Mr. Will Crowe of the Peterborough Canoe Company, has just manufactured and placed in the residence of Mr. Harry Denne a fine specimen of Japanese grill work, up which to drape a curtain in an arched doorway.

—The question is often asked: Is the world growing better? Decidedly not. A depraved individual has contributed this literary enormity:—"It is said to be a good thing that the Irish skipper did not beat the Defender—he would never be Dunraven over it.

—The Josephine Kid Glove Cleaner is unlike any other—that's the good of it. Ladies will not do without it at twice the cost once they use it. Sold by Robt. Fair, sign of the Golden Lion, headquarters for Perrin Freres' celebrated Kid Gloves, in new...it styles for all occasions.

—George street was very gay on Saturday evening, as Grafton & Co. and Oak Hall had each a band of music on their premises. The two bands united later on in the evening, and played selections in front of the doorways of the two firms. LeBrun & Co's pretty illumination also brought the band to a halt, and he was accorded a serenade.

—Lindsay is having quite a little amusement over the town council. The council had a high license for circuses, that was prohibitory. The only effect was to inconvenience the public by making them walk to the outskirts of the town. The council then abolished the high license, and when Sells Circus came the agent gave the town clerk a number of tickets for the councillors. Some of the worthy councillors did not get a ticket, and kicked up a great hullabaloo. They want a commission to enquire into "Who got the circus tickets!"

THE CARBON WORKS.

The Town Council acted wisely when, at its last meeting, instructions were given to the town solicitor to look after the interests of the town in the matter of the $6,000 second mortgage which the town holds upon the property of the Peterborough Carbon and Porcelain Company. The Central Canada Loan and Savings Company holds a first mortgage upon this property and certain machinery upon which there is a balance due, with interest to date, of about ten thousand dollars, and, as notice has been given the Peterborough Carbon and Porcelain Company that it is the intention of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company to sell the property, for non-payment of interest and principal, the question arises if it would not be a good investment for the town to pay off the mortgage and hold the property, which is estimated to be worth at least eighteen to twenty thousand dollars, and which was sold to the Brooks Company about six years ago for eighteen thousand dollars. If the town allows the property to be sold for the mortgage, it will be a loser to the extent of $4,000, and if they possessed it, a valuable property, with boiler, engine and shafting would be at its disposal—and permits its use as an inducement for some more profitable manufacturing concern to locate here. The question is one that should interest the ratepayers and the town council will no doubt fully consider the proposition. Since the property was handed over to the present company at $18,000, a sufficient amount has been expended in cash by the company to represent an increase of about $10,000 to the value of fixtures and buildings, swelling the total value to the neighbourhood of $28,000. Allowing a margin of $8,000 for decrease in value, we have a property well worth $20,000 which the town can secure for $10,000.

THE $5,000 GIFT.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I have been watching with interest the course of the Town Council and certain citizens in connection with the Canadian General Electric Company's application for five thousand dollars of the ratepayers money. As a taxpayer of Peterborough I may say I believe that I voice the opinions of many of those who are equally interested in this matter when I ask the council, before taking any further steps to commit the town to this grant, that they submit the matter with the proposed agreement, if any, to the people, and allow them to express an opinion upon the subject by popular vote. I will be prepared to abide by the decision of the people expressed at the polls, but I will most certainly be one among others who will resist to the uttermost any attempt to hand over any such sum without a most binding agreement on the part of the company. We have not yet seen the ten or twelve buildings erected that were promised when the Edison Company made their verbal agreement with the council. We want no more verbal agreements. Let our rulers for the time being do their business on business principles, and give the ratepayers an opportunity to express their views upon important money appropriations.

Yours truly,
ONLOOKER.

A Question.

How can we raise more corn to the acher? Why, of course by using Putnam's Corn Extractor. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor has given universal satisfaction, for it is sure safe and painless. Like every article of real merit it has a host of imitators, and we would specially warn the public to guard against those dangerous substitutes offered for the genuine Putnam's Extractor.

The cry is "Give me Grafton's Clothing!" Honest buyers want nothing better at the price.

RE-OPENING SERVICES.

Held in the Park Street Baptist Church Yesterday.

Prof. J. H Farmer, B.A., of McMaster University, conducted both the morning and evening services yesterday at the Park street Baptist church, it being the occasion of the holding of re-opening exercises. In the morning the well known divine took as his text the words "Meet for the Master's use," Timothy II. chap., 21st verse, and spoke at some length on the condition in which a Christian should be to be fit for the Master's work. There must first, he stated, be a purging of ourselves in order that our lives might be clean. Secondly, we must take heed to the word. Thirdly, the efficacy of prayer should ever be remembered, and fourthly the necessity of the indwelling of the Holy Spirit, and the baptism by the Holy Ghost should never be forgotten.

In the evening Prof. Farmer spoke from Matt. vi, verse 33, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of Heaven and its righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you," and as in the morning preached a strong and interesting sermon. The choir as an anthem sang, "More than Enquirers are We."

The church has been newly fitted up during the summer, and the improvements and extensions as explained in the EXAMINER when first contemplated, are now complete. The edifice has an ordinary seating capacity of 350 but on special occasions this can be increased to 300 by the opening up of a class room in connection with the church. The interior has been newly tinted and painted, and the pulpit neatly refurnished. A beautiful reading desk was presented to the church by Mr. Harry Hunt, of Toronto, whose parents reside in town, and Mr. and Mrs. William Pilling kindly donated a handsome set of pulpit chairs.

This evening Professor Farmer will deliver a lecture on "The Story of Dias," and the various clergy of the town will be in attendance. An attractive programme of vocal and instrumental music has been prepared for the occasion. During the evening an offering will be taken up for the Improvement Fund of the church. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Sparks of News From the Whirling Wheels—Interesting Cinders for the Eye.

It is reported that the G. T. R. Co. purpose building a new iron bridge across the channel at the narrows between Lakes Couchiching and Simcoe, and that the piles are already on the ground. The present bride is about 18 years old.

Conductor Gall's special train from Lindsay yesterday took a load of steel north to the I. B. & O. Railway, and also had a coach attached containing a number of families of employees of the Howry mills at Fenelon Falls, who were going there to take up their abode.

Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, President of the G.T.R., accompanied by an inspecting party of officials, will visit Peterborough this week.

Cocoa and its Uses.

We are wont to associate this new drug of marvellous medicinal properties with the grateful beverage of the breakfast table, but they are quite different in source and in properties. Coca is a most beneficent gift to the sick and suffering, as is attested by its rapid rise in estimation and the reliance now placed upon it by the most eminent practitioners in Europe and America.

Maltine with Coca Wine is the most reliable form in which the full medicinal value of coca may be obtained and the striking results derived from its use in nervous exhaustion, debility, weakness, or palpitation of the heart, warrant the high appreciation of its merits expressed by medical men who have used it in their practice. Maltine with Coca Wine is not a patent medicine, but a highly specialized pharmaceutical product, designed to cure disease in the only way disease can be cured, viz., by helping nature. Maltine with Coca Wine is worthy of your confidence. Sold by all druggists.

RIVER AND LAKE RIPLETS.

An Eddy of News from the Otonabee—Breezes from Rice Lake.

JUBILEE POINT, RICE LAKE, Sept. 14.—Wednesday last was a "scorcher." The effort required to merely exist was sufficiently great to bring the moisture to the brow. Notwithstandg this the Brewery nine ran their 10th annual picnic to Jubilee Point per the floating palace steamer North Star, with Professor Butcher's orchestra aboard, which furnished music both on the boat and at the dancing pavilion on the grounds. The professor being not at all stingy with his music, the sweet strains were greatly enjoyed by the many pleasure seekers. Mr. Hickey, of Port Hope, joined in and played a few selections on his violoncello, which were received with applause. Mr. Michael Costello was floor manager and did things up in sunflower style, putting the heel and toe artists through their facings in a most creditable manner, and at the same time leaving nothing undone which would add to the day's outing.

Commodore Calcutt's steamer North Star made the run of twenty-two miles in two hours and twelve minutes, notwithstanding that she had to plough through acres of Messrs. Gilmour & Co's logs in and about the forks. Mr. Croft of the Croft House, was official time-keeper, and acted as judge in the various games throughout the day.

At the Point luncheon was partaken of at the hotel, several hundred guests in all being seated at the various tables in the dining room, where every luxury in season was dealt out. Various games were then held on the Jubilee ball grounds, the first of which was a baseball match between the Brewery Nine and the Sunflowers.

The brewery nine, barring a few excusable errors, played the snappiest kind of ball, and were looked upon as dead victors from the first by the several hundred spectators on the grounds. Not the least amusing feature of the game was Harry Neil's "jellying." He seemed to take great delight in good naturedly joking his opponents and predicting how he would murder the ball when he went to bat. His score shows one hit which landed in the lake. Throughout the game the best of feeling prevailed and everybody seemed to enjoy the contest hugely. The score by innings was as follows:

Brewery Nine	1 0 0 3 0 2 2 0 1—9
Sunflowers	0 0 0 0 1 2 0 2 0—5

The quoit match was keenly contested. Several times the opponents were tied within about an eighth of an inch from the peg, the score being won on the last end by a "ringer" by Lipsett. The score is appended: M. Costello and Art Lipsett, 21; R. T. Hartley and D. McCabe, 19.

Then came the sports which comprised some several events each of which were keenly contested. The list was published Friday.

A challenge match with repeating Winchester Rifles took place (100 yards) between Messrs. Michael Dunn, Archie Fulton and Billy Scott at the Jubilee ranges. Mr. Fulton did some effective shooting, making nine out of a possible ten. He was closely followed by Scott and Dunn, each of which did remarkably close shooting in the tie, they standing at the ninth round, eight each. Mr. Dunn scored and outer, while Mr. Scott did likewise, but being an inch closer to the eye, he was duly awarded second place. The aquatic events were as appended and created no little excitement, being most keenly contested and witnessed by a big crowd from the natural grand stand which Jubilee Point affords:

Single canoe race, 1 mile with turn—1st, Archie Fulton; 2nd, Mat. Jameson, (by 2½ canoe lengths).

Double canoe race, ½ mile with turn—1st, Blaine and Neil; 2nd, Drain and Manice, by ½ canoe length.

Skiff race, eight entries, 2½ miles with turn—1st "Bill" Johnston, 2nd Harry Lane, 3rd Tom Dixon, 4th O'Sullivan O'Whaley, 5th Din Corkery, 6th Jimmie Blaine, 7th Harry Neil.

This race proved to be the event of the day, as the contestants were neck and neck throughout, and on passing the stand it proved a task to ascertain who held second place.

Manager Neil deserves great credit for the manner the excursion was handled. He spared no pains in seeing that the old as well as the young enjoyed themselves. The steamer pulled out of her landing stage precisely at 5 o'clock, arriving in town at about 8.15. Everybody was apparently highly delighted with their day's outing, and spoke enthusiastically of those conducting the sports on the grounds, as well as the officers and crew aboard the North Star. The fishing grounds being excellent, large catches were the order of the day. Bass averaged from 1 to 4½ lbs., lunge 3 to 21 lbs. at the forks.

Before going on a sea-voyage or into the country, be sure and put a box of Ayer's Pills in your valise. You may have occasion to thank us for this hint. To relieve constipation, biliousness, and nausea, Ayer's Pills are the best in the world. They are also easy to take.

FOOTBALL.

A game of association football took place in the Driving Park between Otonabee and Keene, on Saturday evening, resulting in a score of 1—0 in favour of Otonabee. The two teams lined up in the following order:

Keene.		Otonabee.
Kelly	goal	E Crowley
M Keene	backs	H Burnham
C Edwards		A Price
C Wife	half	G Gillespie
S Laing	backs	J Gillespie
J McIntyre		A Thompson
D Moore	centre	R A Wilson
A Welsh		Alex Thompson
W Quinn	right wing	A Wilson
M Millar		M Duffes
F Quinn

The first and only goal scored during the game was kicked by [illegible] an hour and a half's play, at one minute after the game started and although Keene made desperate attempts to [illegible] it was unable to do so. Mr. Wallis, of Keene, umpired the game most satisfactorily.

THE WHEEL.

Nearly 4,000 people within the Woodbine enclosure witnessed the start and finish of one of the greatest road races ever conducted in America, and as many more saw sections of the contest along the eight miles stretch of course on the highway. It was the R. Q. T. race. Only one less 200 riders lined up in variegated colours at the start, and of these an even 200 returned with colours over-mantled with grey, grimy dust. The others fell by the wayside, punctured tires, collisions and ruts being the cause. Falls were the fashion of the occasion, and the wonder is that more serious accidents did not result. The roads were extremely rutty, and their condition was hidden from view by the heavy dust, the two combining to the emphatic discomfiture of the riders.

The first two miles of the course, and likewise the finishing two, lay in Woodbine park, the track being divided into three sections for the purpose. The sight was a pretty one at the start, with three continuous strings of riders racing on three tracks. On the third round the competitors passed through the gates to the road, and the wild race over 16 miles of ruts and through 16 miles of dust here began. The band of the Grenadiers and the telegraphic announcements of the progress of the riders at various points along the road kept the audience in humour for the half hour or so before the return of the first of the flyers.

Fred Robinson was the first to return to the track, though closely followed by R. Green, John Robinson, and A. Wilson. This quartette had a big lead on the second batch, and the fight between them for the piano and the span of horses was interesting. The two Robinsons and Green had it to themselves for the first lap, when Wilson drew into second position behind John Robinson, and stayed to within 150 yards of the finish, when he shoved ahead easily, and finished strong. Fred Robinson showed fatigue in the last mile, and gave way to Green. So they continued to arrive in close bunches, sometimes in twos and threes, sometimes in strings of twenty. All were dusty, dirty, and weary-looking in the extreme, and many exhibited bruises as the result of falls.

T. B. McCarthy was the fist scratch man to arrive on the track from the road. He was the 116th at the gate, and bettered his position by eight before reaching the tape. McCarthy's time of 59 minutes 43 seconds is a record for the course, and is remarkable when one considers the condition of the roads.

Other riders who improved their positions vastly were M. Walker, of Peterborough; N. Webster, of Brantford; W. Thompson, H. Parkin, W. G. Kidd, H. Logan, R. O. Blaney, and F. Dalton, of Toronto. Many of the contestants complained that they could have bettered their places on the last mile of the road had not the eagerness of the crowds to see the race necessitated their riding through a narrow channel between rows of onlookers, where falls were almost certain had they attempted to pass other competitors who rode ahead of them.

Horkins fell three times in the first five miles.

Lord broke his crank near the Halfway House, and slid all the way down Halfway hill without falling.

S. Ewing had bettered his position to sixth when his tire was punctured, near the turn. He and Lord hired a rig, and drove to the assistance of W. McIntosh and W. Hulse, who had likewise fallen by the wayside.

Before his breakup Lord had bettered his position from 213th to 88th.

Walker came in No. 16, and won a good prize.

Lytle was No. 76th and King 167th. Our boys were all "soaked" on the handicaps with the exception of Horkins and Ewing, and they met with mishaps.

PROSPECTS FOR FALL TRADE.

The outlook for the fall trade is quite encouraging. Those buyers who were in the city lately are generally hopeful. They expect quite a revival in the demand after the farmers get through with their fall seeding and begin to market their grain. The demand for grain, it is true, has so far been small, little having been taken yet for export and prices are likely to rule low. But the quantity will to some extent make up for the lower prices. The farmers have for a long time been practising economy, and it is believed if they meet with a fair demand for their produce they will buy much more liberally the coming fall than they did last year. A great many are returning from their holidays now and this will help to improve the demand. The travellers have been in the city for the past ten days receiving exhibition visitors. Next week they will go out on their routes again and it is expected then that the demand from those who have not been able to attend the exhibition will be active by reason of the fact that they have not been called on for some time, and that their orders have been accumulating. The city trade has been good the past two weeks, but out of town orders have been few, owing to the reason stated.—Globe.

JUST LOVELY!

Have you seen the latest stylish kind of Photographs Sproule is taking now? "Yes, I've had some taken, and I think they're just lovely," so natural, with such exquisite tone and finish to them. He calls them the PLATINO process." "I know—I had several specimens from England, but did not know Mr. Sproule had introduced them here. He seems to keep in touch with the best artists, don't he? My husband and I sit for PLATINOS to-morrow. You shall have one.'

PRIVATE YACHTS AND PASSENGERS.

A Vexed Question Settled—The Salmon Pack of the Year—News Notes From Ottawa.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 16.—For some years past it has been a question whether owners of a steam pleasure yacht not running for hire or remuneration of any kind, could carry persons other than the master and crew, or the owner, his family and servants, without incurring the penalty imposed under the Steamboat Inspection Act for carrying passengers without a license. The matter has been under consideration of the Government, and a decision has been reached that a steam yacht used exclusively for pleasure and not for hire or remuneration, if she complies with certain requirements of the Steamboat Act, can carry friends of the owner without the latter running a risk of being fined. The provisions of the Act, which must be respected are the payment of the rate of duty, inspection fees, inspection of boilers and machinery, the obligation to carry one lifeboat, to take strict precautions against fire, and to carry one life preserver for each person on board, etc.

H. N. Topley, photographer to the Interior Department, has been engaged for some weeks past visiting the fruit sections of Ontario and Quebec, taking photographs of orchards and vineries, for use in immigration literature. Mr. Topley secured a fine collection of photographs of fruit farms in the Niagara district. He also visited the reserves at Tyendinaga and photographed orchards owned by Indians. Later he has been employed in photographic work in the Province of Quebec. Mr. A. Dupuis, president of the County of L'Islet Agricultural Society, has written to the Department of the Interior, strongly commending the action of the Government in sending Mr. Topley about the country in this way, as he believes the publication of the photographs will aid immigration to a material extent.

The Fisheries Department has received the returns of the salmon pack in British Columbia for the season just closed. Although it was expected to be an off year for the canners, the owners of the different establishments on the Fraser and the northern rivers have been agreeably surprised at this year's run. The pack in 1892 amounted to 11,588,592 lb tins, in 1893 to 29,169,908 lbs and in 1894 to 23,627,140. For the season just terminated the pack reaches the handsome total of 18,000,000 lbs.

An order-in-council has been passed making Tuesday, Sept. 24, a holiday for the Civil Service. It will be Citizens' Day at the Central Canada Fair.

The first Jewish Synogogue established in Ottawa was consecrated tonight by Rabbi Veld of Montreal, the Dominion Jewish chaplain. The congregation consists of 35 families.

Messrs. Fred White, Comptroller of Mounted Police, and Hayter Reed, Deputy Superintendent of Indian Affairs, have returned from their official trip to the Northwest.

A second German Lutherian Church will be opened in a few weeks. It is being formed by secessionists from Wilbrod-street Church, who dissent from Pastor Booth's dictum, that no member of his congregation must join a secret society. Several members had joined the A.O.U.W., and objected to losing their insurance at the mere whim of their spiritual adviser.

"BLARNEY AND BRIBERY."

How Earl Cadogan and Gerald Balfour are "Corrupting" Ireland.

New York, Sept. 16.—The Sun's London cable says: Mr Timothy Healy and his friends and Mr. John Redmond and the patriots who acknowledge his leadership are in sore distress of mind, and it looks as though they will have to unburden their sorrows in more manifetos. The trouble is caused by the conviction, steadily increasing since Earl Cadogan accepted the Viceroyalty of Ireland, that the Tory policy in that country is to be one of blarney and bribery, and there is beginning to arise the fear that Irishmen will take the gifts the gods send them and allow their patriotism to slumber or maybe die. Earl Cadogan is a rich, powerful nobleman, fond of the glitter and trappings of state, with a wife whom nothing pleases better than to play the queen. Mr. Gerald Balfour, the Chief Secretary, believes that lavish expenditure on public works and the extension of parochial self-government would prove a palatable alternative for Home Rule. The work of corrupting the national virtue is already proceeding. Lord Cadogan is actually spending thousands of pounds in Dublin in all sorts of gewgaws, instead of sending to London for what he wants. He has invested money in Irish horses, and, in his self-denying ardor, has actually had several suits of clothes made in Sackville-street. The Castle is being swept and garnished by Irish workmen and Irish artists, and to crown His Lordship's villainy, he has bought new furniture in Dublin for the viceregal lodge in Phoenix Park.

Countess Cadogan and her daughters are deeply involved in the conspiracy. As fas as is known they have not gone to the supreme length of utilising the services of Dublin dressmakers, but they have purchased much lingerie there, and must now have a prodigious stock of Irish lace and linen.

Mr. Gerald Balfour, on his part, is sedulously touring the country with his titled wife, and of course scattering money as he goes. There is no fishing village that has asked for a pier to be built at Government expense to whom a harsh refusal has been returned. They have been sent away with soft words, and with the conviction that, if the Chief Secretary can persuade his harder-hearted colleagues, the job shall be done.

The question now agitating the patriotic mind is, shall this policy of conciliation be allowed to pursue its insidious course unchecked, or shall the country, by occult but well-known means, be thrown into disorder and be convulsed by agrarian crime? Autumn is still with us, yet even now there is ominous talkin ultra-patriotic quarters of unpreventable trouble during the coming winter. Sound-brained Nationalists are not to be found among these prophets of evil, and will lend no hand at fulfilling their sinister predictions. They believe in getting as much out of the enemy as possible, and have large-hearted faith in the incorruptibility of the nation, which never has been turned from its patriotic course by bullets or bayonets, much less by sugar-plums.

Convicts Vainly Seek Liberty

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 15.—Friday afternoon two penitentiary convicts made a bold break for liberty. Guards Johnston and Beaupre both fired, but without effect, and the latter followed in pursuit. Inside of an hour the guards had both of them back in the prison. The men are Thomas Hannon, sentenced at Toronto to three years, and John Dickson, sentenced at Hamilton to five years. Hannon entered June, 1894, and Dickson in November, 1893.

BIG PROFITS ON Small Investments

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within a short time as by successful Speculation in Grain, Provisions and Stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED can be made by our Systematic Plan of Speculation

originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system.

It is a well-known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 to $100,000 or more by those who invest a few thousand.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plan are persons who live away from Chicago and invest through brokers who thoroughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.

WRITE FOR CONVINCING PROOF, also our Manual on successful speculation an our Daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers. ALL FREE. Our Manual explain margin trading fully. Highest references in regard to our standing and success. For further information address

"SUN" LIFE

Assurance Co'y of Canada.

The Rev. J. L. Murray, of Kincardine, Ontario, assured in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, in December, 1874, under Policy No. 1406, on the Twenty Year Endowment plan, paying an annual premium of $69.90 for ten years. He paid into the Company in all $699. In December, 1894, his Endowment matured, and he received a cheque from the Company for $1,364,70, being a return of all the premiums paid, and in addition, $665,70. That is to say Mr. Murray got back all the money he invested, with about 4½ PER CENT. COMPOUND INTEREST, and had his life assured for $1.000 for twenty years free of charge.

It is needless to say that Mr. Murray was much pleased. You may gather that fact from the persual of his letter hereto appended. QUERY:—How many of the people of Peterborough invests their money to better advantage?

N. B.—This is an example of profits paid under our Five Year Distribution plan. The results under our Reserve Dividend (or Semi-Tontine) policies may reasonably be expected to greatly exceed that realized under the above plan.

KINCARDINE, JAN. 6th, 1895.

The Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, Montreal.

GENTLEMEN:—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your cheque in full settlement of claim under my Ten Payment Twenty Year Endowment policy, No. 1406, and I desire to express my satisfaction with the result of my investment. I paid to the Company an annual premium of $69.90 for ten years, making a total of $699, for which I now receive a cheque for $1,364,70, being a return of all I have paid the Company, and in addition, $665.70, besides having had my life assured for $1,000 during the twenty years. This I consider very good indeed, and I have pleasure in giving my testimonial to that effect.

Yours sincerely,

The Popular Health Magazine says the desire in a child for candy and sweets is a natural one and should not be stifled. Good candy and sweets in moderation, not only do no harm, but are actually beneficial. Too much sweet upsets the stomach and spoils the appetite, but candy in moderation if it is not taken before a meal, is food which children crave naturally, and among the purest and most wholesome is that manufactured by

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

A CAB-DRIVER'S STORY.

"I was afflicted for eight years with Salt Rheum. During that time, I tried a great many medicines which were highly recommended, but none gave me relief. I was at last advised to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by a friend who told me that I must purchase six bottles, and use them according to directions. I yielded to his persuasion, bought the six bottles, and took the contents of three of these bottles without noticing any direct benefit. Before I had finished the fourth bottle, my hands were as as ever they were. My business, which is that of a cab-driver, requires me to be out in cold and wet weather, often without gloves, and the trouble has never returned."—THOMAS A. JOHNS, Stratford, Ont.

University Cricketers at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Sept. 13.—The lovers of cricket were treated to a fine exhibition of batting to-day at Wissahickon Heights on the grounds of Philadelphia Cricket Club, the occasion being the first match in the international series arranged by the Associated Cricket Clubs of Philadelphia. The opposing teams were Oxford and Cambridge on one hand and the past and present of the University of Pennsylvania. The play began at 11.35 o'clock, and when stumps were drawn for the day at 5.30 p.m. the English collegians had been disposed of for 284 runs, while Capt. Brockie's men had lost 4 wickets with but 38 runs to their credit. The day was propitious for good cricket and comfortable for the spectators, and as a result a large first day's crowd turned out.

$5000 Blaze in Harriston.

Harriston, Ont., Sept. 13.—A frame building known as the Oddfellow's Block, and occupied by J. C. Brown, stoves and tinware, C. Johnston, spring mattrass factory, and Weltie's repair shop, was destroyed by fire to-day. Biulding valued at $2500 and insurance $1500. Brown's stock about $2500; insurance $1100; partially saved.

The Whiteway Pirates

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 13.—It is expected that the Board of Revenue will resign to-morrow unless the Government gives assurances that a vigorous prosecution will be undertaken against the smugglers. This is nowise likely, because Attorney-General Whiteway left the city to-day for a fortnight's shooting tour, which most people regard as a scheme to shirk the whole affair. Government members now freely admit the complicity of a number of their supporters in the contraband practices.

LARGE EXPORTS OF GOLD.

Another Run on the U. S. $100,000,000 Reserve

London, Sept. 14.—The financial position of the United States Treasury continues to arouse some slight apprehension here. Unless it can be proved that its position is secure market prices are likely to have a further decline.

A Washington despatch to-day says: The Treasury general balance to-day is $151,962,000, of which $99,568,000 is in gold. The deficit so far this fiscal year is $14,600,000, and with the revenues running at the present figures this deficit by January 1 next will approximate $26,000,000 or $30,000,000. The amount realized by the three bond issues made within the past two years exceeds by only $6,000,000 the total Treasury balance to-day, so without those issues there would now be an empty Treasury.

New York, Sept. 13.—Lazard Freres this morning withdrew $2,500,000 in gold from the sub-treasury. The firm has been known as a member of the Government bond syndicate, and its action in withdrawing gold was a great surprise to Wall-street. It was the first time that an accredited member of the syndicate had withdrawn gold. At the office of the firm it was stated that the gold would be exported to Europe to meet mercantile obligations there.

"We have held off from exporting gold," said a representative of the firm, "as long as possible, but the condition of the exchange market has finally forced us to withdraw the gold for export.

"The backwardness of the common and grain crops, and the fact that Europe is holding large stocks of our cotton at cheap prices, operate against a supply of commercial bills. Besides this, the cheapness of money makes it profitless for Europe to keep idle funds here. This shipment should not be considered of any importance. In a few weeks there will be an abundance of commercial bills in the market, and the pressure will be relieved."

P. Pierpont Morgan, when asked as to the reported rupture of the Government bond syndicate, as indicated by the reappearance of Lazard Freres as heavy exporters of gold, said: "There has been no rupture; the syndicate is going on just the same, trying to help all it can, but its obligations expired some time ago."

On being asked if he did not anticipate a decided increase in the supply against common and breadstuffs, he replied in the affirmative, and expressed some surprise that a greater supply of bills was not in the market.

Sub-Treasury officials expressed confidence that the impairment of the Treasury gold reserve by the exports would be made good. The withdrawals of gold from the sub-treasury for export during the day amounted to $4,550,000, and the deposits by National banks to off-set this, to $2,400,000.

Washington, Sept. 13.—Secretary Carlisle positively declined to-day to express an opinion on the subject of the heavy withdrawals of gold at New York for shipment to Europe. As a means of obtaining gold Secretary Carlisle accepted the offer of several parties to supply gold at New York. He agreed to give them Government contract rates for shipments in currency from Washington to any point designated upon their depositing gold in New York, providing the gold so deposited was not withdrawn from the Treasury. At present shippers have to pay bankers' rates, which are considerably higher than the Government rates.

HAMILTON, Sept. 9.—A very large increase has lately taken place in the sale of the specific remedy for complaints of the liver, and Dodd's Kidney Pills are in great demand. There are no complaints either from druggists or the public. The druggists being so near Toronto, the headquarters for distributing, are never in any danger of running out of the medicine for long, no matter how large the demand may be, and the public has long been thoroughly satisfied as to the valuable qualities of the pills, and the manner in which they invariably effect a cure.

200 Starters in the M.W.T. National Road Race

Toronto, Sept. 16.—Three of Toronto's youngest local bicycle clubs carried to a successful issue on Saturday the greatest road race that Canada has ever seen, and the second biggest ever held in America. There were 302 riders entered to start, and of these less than 20 failed to go to the post. The wheelmen were favored with ideal weather, and long before the start fully 3000 people were gathered at Woodbine Park to see the start and finish, and 3000 more must have been along the Kingston-road watching the pluck riders negotiate the more difficult portions of the race. The road racers were sent off in relays half a minute apart. The principal winners were:

No Record Broken at Manhattans.

New York, Sept. 14.—Throughout the United States the athletes who aspire for track and field honors watched closely the results in the American Athletic Union championship events that were brought off on Manhattan field to-day.

The international games which will take place next Saturday between the representatives of the London Athletic Club and those chosen by the New York Athletic Club, have, so to speak, put the athletic cranks on edge, so as to get a possible line on the probabilities. The London Athletic Club team will try conclusions with their American opponents next Saturday. Without a single exception, every one of the London Athletic Club's representatives and the Cambridge College athletes occupied boxes on the second tier of the grand stand at Manhattan field this afternoon Every movement of the Americans was closely watched by the visitors. WASHINGTON'S LAST HOUR.

Some New Facts About the Death of the Illustrious Patriot—How He Met the Grim Monster.

In the library of an old gentleman in Washington has recently been discovered a copy of the Sentinel of Liberty, published in Georgetown, D.C., on December 20, 1799. It contains an account of the death of Gen. Washington, which differs materially from that furnished by Tobias Lear to John Adams, which is the basis for the statements given in the several biographies. It is in a letter written by a gentleman in Alexandria to a friend in Baltimore, and is as follows:

"I mention to you the truly melancholy event of the death of our much-loved Gen. George Washington. He made his exit last night between the hours of 11 and 12, after a short but painful illness of twenty-three hours. The disorder of which he died is by some called croup, by others an inflammatory quinsy, a disorder lately so mortal among children in this place, and, I believe, not until this year known to attack persons of maturity.

"My information I have from Dr. Dick, who was called in at a late hour. Alexandria is making arrangements to show its high esteem for him. We are all to close our houses, and act as we should do if one of our family had departed. The bells are to toll daily until Wednesday or Thursday. He died perfectly in his senses, and, from Dr. Dick's account, perfectly resigned. He informed them that he had no fear of death, that his affairs were in good order, that he had made his will, and that his public business was but two days behind."

The same paper contains this certificate of the physicians who attended the General in his last illness.

"Messrs. J. and D. Westcott: Presuming that some account of the late illness and death of Gen. Washington will be generally interesting, and particularly so to the professors and practitioners of medicine throughout America, we request you to publish the following statement:

"Some time in the night of Friday, the 13th inst., having been exposed to a rain on the preceding day, Gen. Washington was attacked with an inflammatory affection of the upper part of the windpipe, called in technical language cynache trachealis. The disease commenced with a violent ague, accompanied with some pain in the upper and fore part of the throat, a sense of stricture in the same part, a cough and difficult rather than a painful deglutition, which were soon succeeded by a fever and a quick and laborious respiration. The necessity of blood-letting suggesting itself to the general, he procured a bleeder from the neighborhood, who took from his arm in the night twelve or fourteen ounces of blood. He would not by any means be prevailed upon to send for the attending physician till the following morning, who arrived at Mount Vernon about 11 o'clock on Saturday. Discovering the case to be highly alarming, and foreseeing the fatal tendency of the disease, two consulting physicians were immediately sent for, who arrived, one at 3.30 and the other at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. In the interim were employed two copious bleedings, a blister was applied to the part affected, two moderate doses of calomel were given, succeeded by repeated doses of emetic tartar, amounting in all to five or six grains, with no other effect than a copious discharge from the bowels.

The power of life seemed now manifestly yielding to the force of the disorder. Blisters were applied to the extremities, together with a cataplasm of bran and vinegar to the throat Speaking, which was painful from the beginning, now became almost impracticable, respiration grew more and more contracted and imperfect till 11.30 on Saturday night, retaining the possession of his intellect, when he expired without a struggle. He was fully impressed at the beginning of his complaint, as well as through every succeeding stage of it, that its conclusion would be mortal, submitting to the several exertions made for his recovery rather as a duty than from an expectation of their efficacy. He considered the operations of death upon his system as coeval with the disease, after repeated efforts to be understood, succeeded in expressing a desire that he might be permitted to die without interruption.

"During the short period of his illness he economized his time in the arrangement of such few concerns as required his attention with the utmost serenity and anticipating his approaching dissolution with every demonstration of the equanimity for which his whole life has been so uniformly and singularly conspicuous.

The first Chinese woman doctor graduate of the American Medical College, to practise in China, and the second woman of her race to take an occidental medical degree, is now on her way across the Pacific to her native land to inaugurate there a new era in woman's work among women. She is Dr. Hu King Eng, a woman characteristically celestial in every way, despite her nine years' residence in the United States. She has never discarded her quaint, rich native dress and loves her own land best. She received her doctor's degree in Philadelphia a year ago, has spent the past twelve months in taking a post-graduate course and in obtaining actual experience in her profession, and a week ago she sailed from San Francisco for Foo Chow, where she will take up her life work as a physician and missionary at the Woman's Hospital.

BURNED IN THEIR BED

Seven Lives Lost on a Burning Boat.

CREW COULD NOT RESCUE THEM.

Explosion of a Lamp on the British Boat Iona Creates a Panic—Smoke Prevents Rescue of All Passengers, and Seven Charred Bodies Were Found in the Berths.

London, Sept. 17.—The London and Edinburgh Steamship Company's steamer Iona, plying between Leith and London, caught fire on her trip to Gravesend yesterday. The fire started in her cabin, and five women and one child, passengers and the stewardess were burned to death, and a number of others were badly burned and otherwise injured. The fire was extinguished by the use of the ship's fire apparatus.

The following particulars of the disaster are furnished by the manager of the London and Edinburgh Steamship Company, who, in an interview this morning made this statement:

"The steamer Iona left Leith Saturday at 7 o'clock with a hundred saloon passengers and fifty second-class passengers. The part of the boat in which the second-class passengers slept was used as a saloon during the day, and at night it was divided into sleeping apartments for women and men. At 2 o'clock this (Monday) morning fire was discovered in the ladies's compartment on the port side. The flames spread so rapidly and the clouds of smoke were so stifling that the crew were prevented from rescuing all of the passengers, being several times driven away from the burning part of the ship. The fire was got under control about 4 o'clock, when the charred bodies of seven persons were found in their berths so badly burned as to be unrecognizable."

"The cabin on the starboard side of the ship was only slightly injured, the spread of flames to that side being checked by the protecting steel deck. During the progress of the flames the wildest excitement prevailed among the passengers. The saloon passengers—men, women and children—rushed on deck, some of them almost naked, the women screaming and the children crying, and it was not until the flames were subdued that they could be pacified."

The Iona is lying in a dock at Wapping. The ladies' cabin was completely demolished. Some of the killed appeared to have fallen from their berths in their efforts to escape, and their bodies were found lying almost in ashes on the floor. The fire originated in the lamp room, which adjoined the cabin.

IS JAMES BROWN FRANK WOODS?

The Latter Claims That He is the Former, and the Courts Have Been Asked to Decide.

Toronto, Sept. 17.—An unusual application was made before Chief Justice Meredith in the Single Court yesterday. The application, which was unopposed, was for Official Referee Cartwright to determine whether Frank Woods and James Brown were one and the same person. The object of the application is the removal from the court of $6,000, which, it was stated in court, was originally deposited in the Dominion Bank by Frank Woods, who deserted from the English army in 1869, assumed the name of James Brown, worked on the Northern railway, formerly lived at Burk's Falls, and died in Toronto in April last. He left a widow in Burks Falls, who is now seeking to have the money placed in the custody of the Tornto General Trusts Company, who caused the application to be made to-day, as administrator of the estate. The bank some tome ago paid the money into court. Some $2000 is similarly deposited in the Government Savings Bank, but the Government authorities have consented to abide the court's direction in the present application.

BURGLARS CARRY OFF THE SAFE

They Leisurely Ride It of Its Contents on a Side Street

Fenton, Mich., Sept. 17.—A gang of safe-breakers successfully robbed the postoffice early this morning and secured $500 in cash and about $1000 worth of stamps. The safe was found in front of the residence of Dr. Knapp, which is just off the main street. It was badly battered, and a sledge hammer and a railroad truck told the story of how the burglars accomplished their work. It was found that the men had first broken into the D., G. H. & M. section house, where they secured sledges and a truck. They then proceeded to the postoffice and gained admittance by cutting a panel out of the door. The safe was then loaded onto the truck and wheeled to the side street, where it was broken open. After rifling the safe they stole a horse and buggy and got away.

MISSING LINK IS DISCOVERED.

Professor Wortman Claims to Have the Remains of the First Man.

Denver, Sept. 17.—Professor J. L. Wortman, of Columbia College, has one of the most marvelous discoveries of the age. He claims to have the remains of the first man, the origin of the human race, with facts sufficient to establish the authenticity of the Darwin theory of evoution. The mummy encased in the bag is what is commonly known as the white-faced capuchin, about two and a half feet long. Scientists have never been able to establish the presence of the monkey on the American continent, and in the opinion of Professor Wortman the chain extending from mollusk to man is no longer missing. In the professor's room there is another package, said to be the original of the domestic horse.

NEAR THE DUTIABLE MARK.

The Eastwood Estate at Hamilton Does Not Reach $100,000

Hamilton, Sept. 16.—A young farmer from Ancaster came to Hamilton on Saturday night to see the sights. On Sunday night, in company with a couple of city fellows he visited a resort on Augusta-street. The inmates buncoed him out of part of his money, and one of them fearing trouble left for Toronto to-day.

The executors of the estate of the late John Eastwood of East Hamilton filed the valuation of his estate at $94,500. S. F. Washington, on behalf of the Ontario Government, demanded a better affidavit descriptive of the estate, so that if it amounted to over $100,000 the Government can collect the 5 per cent. on it. The required affidavit has been made.

A coroner's jury inquest to-night on the death of Thomas Faulkner, who died from injuries received by a cavein on the T., H. & B. tunnel, was held to-night. Several workmen and bosses gave evidence. To a lengthy verdict was attached the following clause: "We are of the opinion that there was neglect on the part of the contractor in not taking ordinary precautions to prevent the bank from falling in on his employes." Mr. J. [illegible] is acting for the widow, and will sue the contractor, John Clifford, for heavy damages.

It is said there are about 150 partnerships in Hamilton which have not been registered, and it is rumored an emulator of R. Bowker, who prosecuted the insurance men in this city for not having registerd, will take action against the firms.

Last week the report of Engineer Keating on the Hamilton water works system was to have been recived, but it has not arrived yet. This is overlooked on account of the breaking of the Toronto conduit.

John Young, 7 years old, of Ancaster, had one foot cut off on Saturday afternoon by a mower, and he narrowly escaped being killed.

L. T. Lockheed, M.A., assistant in English and modern languages in Hamilton Collegiate Institute, has been appointed principal of Caledonia Collegiate Institute.

CHARGED WITH STEALING $1000.

A Bell Organ Co.'s Bookkeeper Arrested in London.

London, Ont., Sept. 17.—Alex. E. McEachren, bookkeeper at the Bell Organ Company's local office, was charged at the Police Court yesterday with stealing $1000 from the company. The case was adjorned for a week. Two auditors balanced his books the other day, and found the shortage. It is alleged that this has been going on since last February. He came here from Toronto last winter.

CLAIM TO HAVE A STRONG CASE.

Startling New Evidence Alleged to Have Been Discovered Concerning the Breslau Murder.

Toronto, Sept. 17.—As soon as he concludes the investigation into the mysterious disappearance and reappearance at Collingwood of G. T. R. Engineer Ivey of this city, Provincial Detective Greer will go to Watrloo to get the Breslau murder case in shape for trial. The murdered man's brother has returned from Michigan and had an interview with the crown. Several new, important and very strong witnesses have, it is alleged, been found which, with other long-looked for traces now secured, places Kurschinski in very close quarters. It is believed the chain is now complete, not a link wanting, and the crown is ready for the trial. Kurschinski still remains wonderfully cool, though not possessed with that calmness he manifested the first few weeks. His son had a business talk with his father, but not a word was allowed to be spoken regarding the murder.

Typhoid at a Summer Resort

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 16.—Letters coming into the State Board of Health indicate that Lakeside, a popular resort on Lake Erie, with Chautauqua features, which has just closed for the season, is badly infected with typhoid fever, and many who spent vacations there have gone home sick with the disease and not a few have died. The State Board of Health will probably investigate the matter.

Sir C. R. Wilson's Jaunt.

Buffalo, Sept. 16.—Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, president of the Grand Trunk Railway, and L. J. Seargeant, general manager, with a party of directors and officials, visited Buffalo to-day. The party made a thorough inspection of the company's property here and at Suspension Bridge. To-morrow the party will go to Brantford and some other Canadian points, touched by the Grand Trunk. Thursday will see Sir Charles on his way to New York to attend the presidents' meeting.

2000 Invalid Soldiers in One Boat.

Paris, Sept. 17.—The Gaulois asserts that while anchored off Mojanga, Madagascar, the French transport steamer Shamrock afforded hospital accommodations to 5000 French soldiers. At the present time, the paper says, half of the expedition are unfit for action.

BOND ISSUE LIKELY.

The United States Must "Raise the Wind" Again.

FEELING OF GREAT UNEASINESS.

Treasury Officers Consulting the Belmont Syndicate and New York Bankers as to the Advisability of Floating a New Loan Next Week.

New York, Sept. 16.—Talk of a new issue of Government bonds has been revived as a result of the recent rapid decline in the Treasury gold reserve, and rumors are current to-day in Wall-street that such an issue will be authorized next month. It is said that negotiations have already been opened between the Belmont-Morgan syndicate and the Treasury officials for an issue of $50,000,000 under the same conditions as the February issue and that the bankers are now the ones who are hesitating about undertaking the new loan.

The continued high and unnatural rates of exchange and the uncertainty as to what the syndicate will do about the gold reserve is creating a widespread feeling of uneasiness, and men who before have thus been averse to suggesting the probability of a bond issue, now talk as if they were almost assured.

In fact, a member of the syndicate and the president of a big bank, said yesterday he thought there could be no doubt that another issue would be necessary. The only fear was that the President would delay the issue too long. With another sale of bonds the Government would be able to get along until spring.

One bank president said he thought it would be a good idea if the associated banks paid $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 in gold a week into the Treasury for the rest of the month, and then by October 1 it could be seen if another bond issue would be necessary.

Assistant Secretary Jordan says in relation to a probable new Government loan: "I have not held any conferences or joined in any discussion about a Government bond issue with Assistant Secretary Curtis or anyone except in an informal way."

Offers of Gold

Washington, Sept. 16.—The Treasury statement gold reserve to-day was $96,325,000. Many offers to supply the sub-treasury with gold in small quantities of from $5000 to $10,000 are being received daily.

A COLONIAL EXHIBITION

To Be Held in Montreal From May 24 to October 12 Next Year.

Montreal, Sept. 17.—At a meeting of the directors of the Exhibition Company yesterday, it was decided to hold grand colonial exhibition here next year, opening on May 24, and closing on Oct. 12. The exhibition will comprise the products of five colonies, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, the Cape Colonies and Newfoundland. All the exhibits at present in England will, it is reported, be sent over and supplemented by others. The Government is said to have granted the sum of $250,000 to the exhibition.

The present grounds will not be sufficiently large to accommodate the exhibits, and large additions will have to be made. The exhibition, of which Mr. Stiles is the promoter, will be postponed on account of this action of the Montreal Exhibition Company until 1899.

SHOT 100 NATIVES.

Major Lothaire, the Murderer of Stokes, is a Wholesale Butcher.

London, Sept. 16.—Mr. Greene, M.P., publishes a letter from an important English official in Uganda saying that Major Lothaire, the Belgian officer who ordered the execution of the British trader Stokes, shot 100 of Mr. Stokes' porters besides seizing all of Mr. Stokes' ivory and baggage.

WILL MEET IN TORONTO.

The British Association Accepts the Invitation From Canada.

London, Sept. 17.—The British Association has decided to hold a meeting in Toronto, Ont., in 1897. Sir Joseph Lister, one of the surgeons extraordinary to the Queen, has been appointed President of the Congress of the Association to be held in Liverpool in 1896.

Chicago Finished With Holmes.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—The Holmes case is at a standstill so far as the Chicago police department is concerned. After the many months of hard fruitless swork the two officers who have been detailed on the case since its inception here have been taken off and detailed on regular duty. The work has been fruitless here, because no tangible evidence against Holmes has been unearthed so far as the charges of murder are concerned. Police Inspector Fitzpatrick said to-day that the search was practically brought to a standstill by the fire at the Holmes castle a month ago, opportunity of search for further evidence being shut off at that time by the fact that the structure was too badly damaged.

The Pearl of Great Price

To woman is beauty. Beauty, the key that unlocks every door, commands deference, inspires homage. But beauty of face cannot satisfy unless the additional grace, beauty of teeth, adds its charm. Fine teeth, sweet breath, rippling laughter—three graces that always go together. Ivorine imparts dazzling pearly like whiteness, removes discoloration and tartar from the teeth, and renders the breath as fragrant as flowers.

In Advanced Years

The strength and pure blood necessary to resist the effects of cold seasons are given by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I have for the last 25 years of my life been complaining of a weakness of the lungs and colds in the head, especially in the winter. Last fall I was again attacked. Reading of Hood's Sarsaparilla I was led to try it. I am now taking the fifth bottle with good results. I can positively say that I have not spent a winter as free from coughs or pains and difficult breathing spells for the last 25 years as was last winter. I can lie down and sleep all night without any annoyance from cough or pain in the lungs or asthmatic difficulty." D. M. CHAMBERS, J. P., Cornhill, N. B.

LIKE RULER, LIKE SUBJECTS.

When a Canadian premier, contemplating the making of an official tour, places Sir Adolph Caron in the position of acting premier, one cannot be surprised that the moral tone indicated by the premier's choice should find kindred expression. When Premier Bowell went to the Northwest he left as his locum tenens Sir Adolph Caron, who admitted in his place in the House receiving and dispensing a $95,000 election corruption fund, with the brazen and shameless boast that he would, if the chance offered, do so again. Starting out with such an evidence of his standard of political morality, Sir Mackenzie found no difficulty in giving voice to his suspicions that others were "tarred with the same stick." Addressing his Northwest subjects he said—but let the Winnipeg Tribune tell it, as follows, referring to the Premier's speech at a recent Northwest Conservative meeting. In referring to the speech of the Premier the Tribune says:—

"Had it not been for the general good sense of the great body of those present, and the efforts of the chairman the meeting on Thursday would have been broken up in disorder. First the Premier had the bad taste to charge the most respectable and most responsible citizens of the Province of Manitoba with desiring the expenditure of public money in their midst, whether for a useful purpose or for a useless one, and when they indignantly repudiated this charge he endeavoured to square himself by charging the people of the whole of the Dominion of Canada with being guilty of such a desire. Surely the head of the Government must entertain a very low estimate of the morality of the people of the Dominion. After such an avowal there is no longer any need to wonder at the corruption in the Government, which makes a Cabinet Minister brazen enough to tell the House he received $35,000 for an election fund, and would do so again whenever he got the chance. There is no longer wonder at the corruption shown in the Curran bridge, in the Galops Rapids Canal, or the Sheik's Island dam. When the leader holds such sentiments what must the camp-followers think? To still further enforce his resistless logic, the Premier again put his foot into it by saying that even the Indians in the north in their pow-wows began by making a request and ended by making a demand."

Sir Mackenzie must reason in the spirit of the proverb: "Like master, like man," and conclude that, because the rulers of a country are corrupt, the people must be corrupt also. If disembodied spirits can take cognizance of earthly affairs and be affected with regrets in the better world, Sir John Macdonald must pass many a bad quarter of an hour when he sees the antics his successor plays. The "Chieftain," even if he were in the last stages of softening of the brain, wouldn't make such a "break" as Sir Mackenzie was guilty of in the Northwest or such as he makes habitually.

OUR "CANADIAN JINGO."

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper is receiving rather severe criticism in England, where he is called the "Canadian Jingo," for his remarks made at the luncheon at the Industrial Exhibition, Toronto, a few days ago, in reference to the Canadian copyright act of 1890. Sir Charles asserted to the effect that Canadians have a right to miss-govern themselves if they chose in the matter of copyright as in that of the tariff or anything else. Now the EXAMINER has no special admiration for Sir Charles and his political opinions, but admits willingly that he is a young man with considerable "cheek," and of a good deal of a certain kind of ability; and while his remarks respecting Canadian copyright might have been made with a good deal more modesty and a good deal less bumptiousness, he has taken the correct position, insofar as his remarks argue for the principle of non-interference of the Imperial Government in purely domestic Canadian matters, especially when such matters represent the will of the people expressed through their parliamentary representatives. We in Canada still want to maintain the family relations with the Mother Country, but we have, it may be submitted, outgrown our pupilage, and are entitled to be treated as an adult member of the great family, and not as though we were still in leading strings. We admire and venerate the old flag, and are proud of a place under its wide-spreading shelter, but we do not want its folds drawn so closely as to strangle our independence of action in regard to our own affairs to a degree incompatible with our position as a nation in everything but nominal rank and title. While a large proportion of our population hold these sentiments, it is to be preferred that Canada have a somewhat cooler-headed champion than our "Canadian Jingo."

ONE of the most remarkable forward steps in the history of the Roman Catholic Church in the United States is contained in the announcement that the Roman Catholic University in Washington has decided to open its doors to women on exactly the same terms as men are received. The rector of the university, Bishop Keane, was in favour of this progressive step and carried the day against all opposition. This is a sign of the times we live in, when the traditional conservatism of the church in educational matters is considered.

THE prominent English temperance agitator, Lady Henry Somerset, who failed recently to prevent the sale of liquor on her lands, has been following up the case of a woman arrested for drunkenness some three hundred times. In the meantime certain London tenement houses belonging to her have been allowed to depreciate until the health commission has declared them unfit for human occupation. Some such result as this is to be expected when women sheer off the plain path of duty in pursuit of fads, which are fads no matter how laudable in character they may be. Lady Somerset's tenants had a first claim upon her. While she was skylarking about the kingdom attempting to restrict the sale of strong drink, she possibly encouraged it elsewhere by making her tenants desperate with their wretched homes and driving them to drown their sorrows in gin. Zeal in the best cause, like charity which begets it, should begin at home. It's a rather musty saying that woman's sphere is the home, but its hackneyed character does not deprive the saying of its truth and home broadly interpreted, may well mean the duty that lies nearest at hand. A large proportion of vice and immorality is due to the neglect of careful home training on the part of the mother. And this is due to the mother's absorption in the gay frivolities of the world, or in many cases to her assidious devotion to the conversion of the heathen abroad, while the little heathen at home are allowed to grow up without moral guiding, and permitted to select their own companions and amusements, which results account for a very large share of the vice of the world.

HAMILTON, Sept. 9.—A very large increase has lately taken place in the sale of the specific remedy for complaints of the liver, and Dodd's Kidney Pills are in great demand. There are no complaints either from druggists or the public. The druggists being so near Toronto, the headquarters for distributing, are never in any danger of running out of the medicine for long, no matter how large the demand may be, and the public has long been thoroughly satisfied as to the valuable qualities of the pills, and the manner in which they invariably effect a cure.

OAK HALL

Is Tendered

A Public Ovation!

THANKS

Most Assuredly!

We have nothing but gratitude to offer the citizens of Peterborough and surrounding country for the very hearty reception accorded to Oak Hall on its Opening Day.

It was the right kind of a welcome—open-armed, cordial, enthusiastic.

It was a phenomenal success from start to finish. Type can scarcely give expression to the heartiness of our thanks to the hundreds of citizens from town and country-side for miles around, who participated in the ovation to Oak Hall on our Opening Day.

We had modestly looked forward to some extra attraction and recognition—on account of the good Clothes we had to show, our new attractions on the tables, our handsome store and our special novelty on the streets; but never contemplated anything like the sensation that was produced on Saturday last.

Even our neighbors, the other clothing dealers,—caught the contagion of the excitement and turned out to do us honour, or to imitate our example.

Thanks again, kind friends. We DEDICATE Oak Hall to the service of the MEN, YOUNG MEN and BOYS, of the Town and County of Peterborough

Prosperity

Is not only already in the air but it is percolating, permeating, honey-combing, everything associated with Oak Hall's opening. And as "much of success depends on a good start," we can look forward encouragingly,—FOR WE HAVE HAD A GOOD START.

Much has yet to be added to make our store complete—in stock, fittings, furnishings, &c,—in order to bring up the standard of Oak Hall's ideal. These have all been arranged for and will be added as rapidly as they come forward.

Reception Days

Will continue all this week, and the best opportunities for hand-shaking and inspection are yet to come.

THE WORK OF THE N.P.

Views of Farmers, Workingmen and Capitalists.

A UNIT OF CONDEMNATION.

Young Men Leave the Country—Cost of Living Increased With a Decreased Purchasing Power of the Dollar —Sir Alton McCarthy's Confession —What Farmers Say.

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—Sir Mackenzie Bowell would not need to have travelled over the great west to find that the people are opposed to the policy and administration of those who misrule at Ottawa. Many Conservatives will no doubt at the next election vote for the Liberal candidates and tariff reform, and thus demonstrate to Sir Mackenzie that he was right in saying that believing what they do he could not see why they should not vote for the Liberals. This was a jest on his part, but why should the convictions of men be treated as a joke. The Government are determined to pay no heed to the demands of the people, though they have been frequently informed of the conditions which their policy has produced.

The president of the Young Conservative Association of Toronto in 1892, Mr. Richard Armstrong, who received 575 votes to 291 against him, delivered his inaugural address on October 31, in the coure of which he said: "The question as to why thousands are leaving the country every year and going to the United States, should engage our serious attention, and we should try to solve this question, for it is quite evident that the older heads are not going to do so I am informed on reliable authority that no fewer than four thousand persons have left this city during the past year—left all that is near and dear—and gone into foreign exile. In short, there is no concealing the fact that we are being annexed in job lots every week, and there is not a voice raised against it.

At the same association, at a meeting held during the following month, Mr. J. H. McGhie, a member, said: "The men who were spangled with knighthood sit talking of loyalty in the midst of ruin and desolation. It was from the young men they must expect a new order of things."

Evidence of the failure of the National Policy to accomplish any one of the things promised for it has been accumulating year after year, until at the last general election in 1891, it had scarcely a defender, and was kept out of the campaign as an issue, so far as the Government could do it.

The Industrial Brotherhood of Canada, at a meeting on the 1st October, 1892, passed the following resolution: "Resolved, that the fiscal policy of our country is a farce in so far as it purposes to benefit the masses; that it increases the cost of living, decreases the purchasing power of the wage laymen of all classes, is eating the vitals out of the Dominion, scattering the members of every family, so that the fathers and mothers are forced to see their sons and daughters leave home—leave home and kindred—that a few may roll in superabundance; that every lawful means be used to rectify the wrongs created and maintained by the present system."

The farmers, whose interests the National Policy was to protect, were well represented at a great convention of the Patrons of Industry, held in Toronto early in 1894, when the Executive Committee was requested to submit a petition to the Government in the first paragraph of which they described their own position, as follows: "That fifteen years' experience of a protective trade policy has shown no improvement in the position of the farmer. Prices of nearly all kinds of farm products have shrunk. Farms have declined in value, until many are unsaleable, and an enormous mortgage debt has been rolled up upon them, in many cases beyond redemption."

Mr. Dalton McCarthy, Q.C., M.P., has made a remarkable confession in conection with the adoption of the National Policy by the Conservative party in 1878. In an address delivered at St. Mary's, Oct. 22, 1893, speaking of the period when Mr. Mackenzie was in power, he said: "No doubt in the world that we were out of power and by going in for the N.P., and taking the wind out of Mr. Mackenzie's sails, we got into power. We became identified with the protective policy, and if Mr. Mackenzie had adopted the protective policy we would have been free traders. I am willing to make this confession, if Mr. Mackenzie had been a protectionist there would have been nothing left for us but to be free traders. . . . We adopted the N.P., and we told you, at least I did, because I was very young and simple at the time, that we were going to make everybody rich."

The Manitoba Legislature, in adopting a resolution in February, 1894, made the following declaration: "Whereas the so-called National Policy brought into effect in 1879 when the protective tariff was adopted, and under which the duties on imports have since been increased, thus enhancing prices and prospering combines, has had the effect of placing further excessive burdens upon our settlers, thus rendering agricultural pursuits unprofitable, it is desirable that articles necessary to the prosecution of agriculture be placed upon the free list, and on all other articles a tariff imposed for revenue."

During the visit of the Hon. George E. Foster to Winnipeg, the council of the Board of Trade of that city presented a memorial, setting forth the grievances of the people, in the following manner: "The council respectfully submit: "That the customs duties on goods coming into Canada should be reduced to the lowest point, consistent with a revenue tariff. That all specific rates of duty be abolished, and that all duties be levied on an ad valorem basis. That the Government be empowered, upon evidence given of the existence of a combine to maintain or increase prices, to lower or abolish by order in council the import duty on articles affected by such combine. The council maintains that the increased importations at lower rates of duty than now prevail would tend rather to increase than diminish the revenue derived by the Dominion; many of the duties now in force are absolutely prohibitive and, therefore, no revenue now accrues to the Government. The council submits that manufacturers of many lines of staple goods in Canada have formed combines, and based their prices, not on the cost of manufacture plus a fair profit, but on the value which similar goods from abroad cost laid down in Canada, duty paid. This being the case the consumer pays an excessive price for his goods, and the Government does not secure a revenue; the manufacturer being the only gainer."

At the annual meeting of the Dominion Grange in 1892, Master Workman Goffatt said: "Nearly every important interest in the country is enjoying the benefit of helpful legislation, whilst the farmer is handicapped and discriminated against by railway monopolies and by an unjust system of taxation."

During the session of 1893 representatives of the Patrons of Industry waited upon the Government to urge consideration of grievances set forth in a petition presented to the House, signed by 27,000 Patrons of Industry, which commenced as follwa: "That the agricultural interests of the country are not in as prosperous condition as we would desire; that tariff legislation for the purpose of assisting the manufacturing interests of the country has been taken advantage of by such manufacturing interests so as to unduly enhance the prices of many such articles as are indispensably necessary to farmers in carrying on their business."

The Central Farmers' Institute, at its annual meeting in Toronto, on February 9,1893, adopted a series of resolutions, including the following: "That whereas the farmers of Canada during the last 13 years have largely supported a protective policy for the purpose of establishing and building up the manufacturing interests of this country; and whereas such manufacturing industries as are suitable for the country have received such assistance for a period long enough to enable them now to withstand fair and open competition; and whereas the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at its annual meeting held in Toronto, February 7, declares and re-affirms its determination to support and perpetuate the high tariff policy; be it therefore resolved, that this meeting hereby declares and affirms that to continue and perpetuate such a high tariff would be detrimental to the vital interests of the agricultural community."

Mayor Hannan Wants a Judicial Investigation Promoter Kyle's Case Enlarged Until Saturday.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 17.—Promoter William Kyle, who was arrested a week ago, accused of attempting to bribe one of last year's council, was up before Police Magistrates Hill and Logan on Saturday, and on the application of his solicitor, W. German, the hearing was enlarged till next Saturday.

Mayor Hannan called a special meeting of the council Thursday evening. The subjects mentioned on the notice were finances, fire, water, light business, and other important business. Two of the 12 councillors duly responded to the call, viz., Messrs. Peckham and Hill. The Mayor issued a second notice on Friday for a meeting on Saturday, mentioning also the advisability of asking the County Judge to hold a public investigation regarding the street railway matters, which was also ignored by 8 of the 12 councillors.

THE SECRET OUT!

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from various prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CAANDA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story :—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	PerCent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE.....	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life.....	2.63	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

W. H's Life Policy for $10,000, issued April, 1889, Age 23, Annual Premium $177.

Total Cost for 6 years.....1,062 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy .....1,250 Dollars
Nearly 200 Dollars more than Insurance Cost.

A. E's Life Policy for $5,000, issued April, 1886, Age 22, Annual Premium $86.

Total Cost for 9 years..... 774 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy .....1,000 Dollars
More than 200 Dollars over Cost of Insurance.

Extending the System.

The Bell Telephone gangs engaged in the construction of the long distance metallic service are making good progress. Brockville will have communication with Kingston about Oct. 1. The gang working east from Kingston have reached a point about five miles from Brockville. Their progress has been somewhat retarded by the encounter with rock. With the exception of a gap between Iroquois and Cornwall the system from Brockville to Montreal is complete.

Miss Hendren of Lakefield, who has a very rich, full voice, will be the leading treble, and will be ably assisted by the Misses Stephens, Mrs. and Miss Hall, Miss Robinson, and Messrs. A. L. Bears in Haliburton.

Mr. Geo. McKay, of Mountain Lake, Minden township, saw a couple of bears in a beech tree in the woods on his place, and taking his rifle went out to try and secure some bear meat. Upon reaching the tree he found the old bear at its foot and shot her, then despatched two young young ones which had come down the tree. He was about to leave the place when a rustling in the leaves overhead caused him to look up when he saw the fourth bear descending and he bagged it, making four bears he captured, a big day's shooting.

Put Money in Thy Purse.

Put your money back. You need only half the price now. High prices are no more. In spite of distrust, a good article can be had at a cheap rate. Since the Bordeaux Claret Co. came into the field with their cheap wines, imported directly from Bordeaux, there is less demand for the long prices. People want this cheap wine at $3 and $4 per dozen quarts. It hardly seems possible—for wine has been associated with long prices. Yes, long profits, but enormous sales at cheap rates make profits, too. And this is the position:—The people have good wine, wholesome, strengthening, which they can use freely without being impoverished at nominal prices. Address—Bordeaux Claret Co., 20 Hospital street, Montreal.

RESULT OF A SHOOTING ACCIDENT.

The Guardian of an Orchard Accidentally Shoots Will Simmons in the Groin.

Master Will. Simmons, the young son of Mr. C. W. Simmons, an employee at Patterson's tannery, is at present lying in a somewhat unpleasant condition at his home on Aylmer street, as the result of a shooting accident in which he was the unfortunate victim.

Mr. Hugh Waddell, of North Monaghan, who removed to Peterborough from South Monaghan about a year ago and purchased the Sheffield property just west of the Edison works, upon which he resides, is the possessor of a fine fruit orchard and vineyard.

During the past few weeks he has been greatly troubled by the nocturnal visits of numerous small boys, who not only stole his fruit, but damaged his trees and vines to a great extent and also cut the wire fence in order to

into the grounds. Losing all patience, Mr. Waddel placed Mr. Walter Woods, his gardener, to guard his fruit and premises, and Mr. Woods went on duty with a shot gun. Tuesday night the orchard was visited and the wire fence cut, and on the following nights Mr. Woods watched the point where the fence was cut very closely.

On Thursday night at about half past ten o'clock Mr. Woods noticed a group of four boys come down the hill from the direction of the windmill and approach the fence, and was positive by their actions that they were feeling for the place where the wires had been cut. He accordingly fired his gun, loaded with small shot, in the air and saw the four lads scuttle away thoroughly frightened. Being satisfied that those were the boys who had caused the trouble before he thought no more of the matter until he heard Saturday that young Simmons had been shot, when he saw the lad's father in reference to the matter. He cannot understand how the boy could have received the charge, as but the probability, he thinks, is that two or three spent grains of shot happened to reach him, or that he failed to allow for the slope of the hill upon which the lads were at the time.

Young Simmons states that on Thursday night accompanied by three lads named Brundrette, Weese and Curtis, he was returning from Mr. Polson's, whither he had been sent on a message, and sat down to rest outside the orchard. Whilst talking among themselves, the boys suddenly heard the report of a gun, and he realised that he was hit, and together with his companions fled. He does not state how he came to be sitting in the rear of the orchard, which is not by any means on a line between Polson's and his own home.

On getting into town it was found that Simmons had been hit by the small shot in the arm, as well as in the groin. The latter wound was the most dangerous, and the adjacent parts of the boy's body were quickly swollen to such a degree as to make it impossible to extract the shot. For forty-eight hours he was watched unceasingly, and the doctor was in constant attendance, but a turn for the better has set in and he is now in a fair way towards recovery. From what is known of Mr. Wood he is the last person to wantonly inflict such an injury as the lad sustained.

MR. H. H. SMITH'S APPOINTMENT.

He May not Accept the Position of Deputy Minister of Agriculture.

An Ottawa despatch to the Globe under date of Sept. 16th, says:—

"There is a hitch over the appointment of Mr. H. H. Smith, of Winnipeg, to succeed Mr. Lowe as Deputy Minister of Agriculture. He wants $4,000 a year as salary, and all the law allows is $3,200. Mr. Smith may not get what he wants and possibly the Government will not press him too strongly to accept, seeing that there are now four of the same family quartered on the public service.

Moving Forward.

The St. Thomas Times now goes to press in eight-page form—making it the largest daily in Canada published in a city of not less that 30,000 population, with two exceptions, one of which is the DAILY EXAMINER. St. Thomas has always enjoyed the reputation of issuing live and up-to-date local papers, and this piece of enterprise on the part of The Times is something of an undertaking in a city of 10,000 population. In all matters of news The Times has kept steadily to the fore, and there are few local dailies giving a larger news service or enjoying a larger circulation.

Burning of the Columbian.

It appear that at the time of the burning of the Columbian, Sunday, there was a very heavy fog which prevented the crew of the Esturion, moored but a short distance away, from seeing the flames, and when the attention of the parties was finally attracted by the crackling of wood, the fire had obtained such control that it was impossible to save anything. The boat was built in Lindsay three years ago, the owner, Dr. McCamus, of Bobcaygeon, sparing no expense in her construction and fitting out, which represented an investment of about $13,000. There was an insurance of $6,000 in the Mercantile Fire and $3,000 in the Liverpool, London & Globe.

A BATTLE 'TWIXT POLICE AND TRAMPS.

CONSTABLES MOORE AND BRINE AND JOHN MONTGOMERY.

Three Tramps Fought a Quartette of Tramps Until Their Ammunition ran Short—A Posse in Pursuit of the Desperadoes—Great Excitement.

In response to a telephone message from the C. P. R. station stating that a tramp had pulled a revolver on a fellow knight of the road, Constables Moore and Brine drove down there yesterday afternoon, but on their arrival they learned that the two had gone over the railroad bridge to Ashburnham. Following their quarry they arrested one tramp on Burnham's Point, but found that he was the one who had been threatened. He was brought up to the cells, however, but on the way made several desperate attempts to escape, at one time drawing an ugly knife, which was taken away from him with difficulty. At about six o'clock in the evening Constables Moore and Brine again sallied forth accompanied by Mr. John Montgomery, of the fire department, in search of the tramp who had drawn the gun. Moore and Montgomery armed themselves with revolvers and Brine took a heavy baton. They learned that four tramps had been camping for some time in the big C.P.R. cutting on the Otonabee side of the river. In approaching this spot in order to surround the place and gradually work in until they came upon the camp. Brine proceeded along the Norwood Road, Montgomery walked the track, and Moore made a bee line for the spot. The latter soon espied three tramps asleep in the cut and beckoned to Montgomery to join him. As soon as Brine hove in sight he, too, was signalled, and in a trice the three sleepers were securely handcuffed. Two of them being fastened together, and the third having his two wrists in a separate pair of "bracelets." As soon as the latter tramp was searched Constable Brine started off with him to town, along the track, whilst Moore and Montgomery completed searching the persons of the other two. When they had completed their task Constable Moore told them to get up off the ground and come on into town, and was somewhat surprised to hear a rather well-dressed man, who had suddenly joined the party unawares, chime in and say he was glad the police had got hold of the lazy loafers, as he had been hunting them down himself. He then strolled over to the two tramps and was apparently asking them some questions. Moore, who didn't like his appearance, was sidling up to him to get within reaching distance, when he suddenly heard him ask one of the tramps if the constables had taken away their money. Montgomery knew something was wrong and attempted to pull his revolver, but the stranger with a pistol as quick as a flash, and handing the other two a revolver each told them to look out for themselves. He demanded the keys of the handcuffs from Montgomery but was told that Moore had it. As soon as the stranger turned on Moore, Montgomery took a snap shot at him, but missed, and in an instant there was a regular fusillade between tramps and constables. Archie Moore says he did not shoot to kill, but merely to frighten the tramps. Of course the two who were handcuffed could not use their revolvers very well, but it is unaccountable how John Montgomery and the stranger ever missed each other, as they were coolly firing away at point blank range within fifteen or twenty feet of each other. When Moore and Montgomery had emptied every chamber of their revolvers they took to their heels and ran along the track with the tramps actually in pursuit, they being anxious to secure the key of their handcuffs. They didn't follow far, however, but soon turned aside into the bushes.

THE TRIO SEPARATED

HAD HIM "COVERED"

While all this was going on Billy Bryne was

with his prisoner down the track, as he was hurrying him towards the town. The prisoner tried hard to get away when he heard the sound of the fray in the rear, and Constable Bryne was staying with him gamely when he suddenly felt a revolver pressed up against his temple and was imperatively told, with an oath, to let his man go. It was the stranger again, but a smart rap of the baton over the head induced him to turn to the right about in short order, but the tramp had jerked away from the constable when he was interviewing the stranger, and although Brine reached him twice with the baton dealing him heavy blows on the head, he was unable to again secure him and in the last blow broke the baton in two, just as the tramp fell over the embankment. When he rose the stranger covered his retreat with a revolver. The whole party of tramps thus escaped. The affray was the talk of the town all evening, became known and were noised abroad.

AS THE THRILLING CIRCUMSTANCES

This morning the conductor of a freight train reported at Indian River that he had seen four tramps, three of whom wore handcuffs and that they had pointed their revolvers at him as he sat in the window of the van. The tramp who had his two wrists chained together was covered with blood, he stated, and his head was in an awful state. This is the man that Brine clubbed in the fight. Constable Moore organized a posse of men this afternoon and a most determined effort will be made to locate and arrest this quartette, which has so plainly shown to what desperate means they are capable of resorting in order to preserve their liberty. Needless to say, the force will take sufficient ammunition with them to stand a somewhat more prolonged battle than that of last evening.

County Magistrate Edmison communicated the state of affairs to Supt. Jamieson of the C.P.R., and was instrumental in having every stationmaster notified to be on the lookout for the four tramps along the line.

The Chief of Police is just in receipt of a telegram stating that four men answering the description of the tramps left the track near Indian River and are at present near the station. The posse is after them.

THE KINGSTON ELECTION.

MR. HARTY VACATES HIS SEAT.

A New Election Will be Held.

(Special to the Examiner.)

KINGSTON, Sept. 17.—At the general elections for Ontario, held in June, 1894, Dr. Smythe, Q. C., defeated the Hon. Wm. Harty by one vote for the City of Kingston. Upon the petition of one Keyes Dr. Smythe was unseated for bribery by agents. At a bye election, held in June of this year, Mr. Harty was returned as member, defeating Dr. Smythe by 433 votes. Mr. Thos. Monorieff then lodged a petition against Mr. Harty, followed by a bill of particulars containing nearly 300 charges, several being cases of personal bribery by Mr. Harty. The Hon. Justices Osler and Maclennan of the Court of Appeal opened court here yesterday for the trial of this petition, the court room being filled long before the opening hour. A large number of witnesses were in attendance, about 150 being subpœnaed. Mr. D'Alton McCarthy, Q. C., and C. F. Smith appeared for the petitioner, while Mr. Harty's interests were looked after by Mr. S. H. Blake, Q. C., and Mr. J. L. Whiting. On the opening of the proceedings Mr. Blake asked the indulgence of the court by an adjournment till this morning to allow a consultation between all parties, the outcome of which he felt sure, would in any event materially shorten the trial. This request was granted, and the court adjourned till 9.30 on Tuesday.

LATER.—The court met this morning and counsel for both parties stated that it had been agreed between them that the seat be declared vacant, which the court did.

The writs will be immediately issued for a new election.

OBITUARY.

The Late Mrs. Benjamin Shortly.

This morning Hattie Robertson, wife of Mr. Benjamin Shortly, president of the Board of Trade, found relief in death from a most painful illness. Her death, though momentarily expected for some time past, has cast a gloom over the wide circle of friends which Mrs. Shortly has won during her residence of nearly a quarter of a century in Peterborough. Mrs. Shortly has been in ill health for some years and an invalid for two years past. Within the last two months her affliction took an exceedingly severe and painful form. For about six weeks she has been confined to he room, and for many days has been on the verge of the grave. This morning disease and pain gained the victory, but her last hours were mercifully painless, and she passed away peacefully, both as to body and soul.

She was a daughter of the late James Robertson, of Toronto, and was united in marriage to Mr. Shortly in 1869. She leaves behind her a son and daughter—Mr. Orville, and Miss Edith Shortly. Mrs. Shortly was from her early years a member of the Methodist church, in the promotion of whose interests she took a most active part in connection with the mission work and the work of the Ladies' Aid Society. Her memory will be cherished with affectionate veneration by her very large circle of her friends and acquaintances in town. The funeral takes place on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

LAWN TENNIS.

The Finals Played off in the Club Tennis Tournament.

On Saturday afternoon the finals in the tennis club tournament were played off before a large attendance of members who manifested greater interest in the results than at the tournaments of any previous year. Particular attention was given to watching the plays in the singles and the excitement amongst the onlookers was intense as a skilful cut would be well taken and accurately placed in the weakest spot on an opponent's territory. The results were as follows:

Ladies' singles:
Miss Annie Dennistoun defeated Miss Helen Dennistoun.

Gentlemen's singles:
Mr. Montgomery defeated Mr. Taylor.

Mixed doubles:
Miss Helen Dennistoun and Mr. Taylor defeated Miss Edwards and Mr. Montgomery.

Ladies' doubles:
Miss Helen Dennistoun and Miss Edwards defeated Miss Hamilton and Miss Jessie Dennistoun.

Men's doubles:
Messrs. Montgomery and Rogers defeated Messrs. Taylor and Burnham.

The Lindsay Tennis Club will probably send a number of its members down to play off the return tournament next Saturday, as the Peterborough players were over in Lindsay earlier in the season. At the close of the afternoon's play the prizes will be presented to the successful competitors in the local club tournament.

SCARED AT A BICYCLE.

A Horse Sees a Wheel and in Trying to Bolt Overturns the Buggy.

On Sunday afternoon as Mr. Slattery and his sister, of the county, were driving into town, they met Mr. D. B. Rogers on his bicycle near Evan's Corners. Mr. Slattery's horse being a mettlesome animal suddenly wheeled on seeing the bicycle and upset the buggy into the ditch. Mr. Rogers was off his wheel in an instant and before he could bolt, had the horse by the head. Mr. John Armstrong, the Hunter street grocer, who was driving past at the time, assisted Miss Slattery and her brother from beneath the overturned buggy and strange to say neither were hurt to any extent, although Miss Slattery complained somewhat of a wrenched knee. The buggy was not damaged at all. Mr. Roger's promptitude in catching the horse by the head probably averted what might have been a serious accident.

London, Sept. 16.—Miles Stapleton, 10th Baron Beaumont, died to-day. His death was caused by the accidental discharge of a gun while shooting on his estates, Carlton Towers, Selby, Yorkshire, the charge striking him in a fatal part. Lord Beaumont was 45 years of age. He was lieutenant-colonel of the 20th Hussars, and had been an officer in the army since his arrival at an eligible age. Lord Beaumont was found lying beside a hedge, with his head completely shattered by the charge from his gun. It is supposed his gun caught in a branch of the hedge.

BIG ATTRACTIONS AT THE CENTRAL.

PROMISES OF A SPLENDID EXHIBITION.

Detail of the Attractions Presented—Numerous Entries—The Baby Show The Buffalo Exhibit—Spirited Speeding Events—Striking Special Attractions.

The coming eleventh annual exhibition of the Peterborough Central—on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 23, 24 and 25—has every promise of being, by long odds, the very best ever held under the auspices of the society.

Special effort has been, and is being, made to reach this result. The president, directors and secretary are straining every nerve to make this exhibition in every way worthy of the liberal public patronage that it is hoped will be accorded it.

The indications for a first-class display in the more solid departments are of the most encouraging character.

The entries have been pouring in for some time, and now the number is far ahead of the entries at the corresponding time in any other year.

The greatly enlarged prize list has proved a drawing card, and there are an unusual number of persons from a distance who have already made entries, scores of these being entirely new exhibitors.

The grounds have been very greatly improved, and the buildings have been put in first-class repair, and many new facilities provided.

The speeding track has been put in splendid condition, and the special speeding events are already well filled, and there is sure to be exciting contests in all the events.

SPECIAL FEATURES.

The entries up to date give assurance that there will be a magnificent show of stock—horses, cattle and sheep.

BOYD'S BIG BUFFALO EXHIBIT.

In connection with the stock exhibit a special feature, and one of the greatest interest to practical stock breeders, will be the buffalo exhibit to be made by Mr. M. M. Boyd, of Bobcaygeon, who has kindly consented to place on exhibition for the first time in Canada, part of his stock, consisting of one large buffalo, two half-breed calves, two West Highland cows, three or four Persian fat-tailed sheep, and two Mexican burros or Rocky Mountain Nightingales.

These animals are the result of an experiment Mr. Boyd is making to compensate for the destruction of the buffalo on the plains of the Canadian Northwest. His aim is to as far as possible by breeding the buffalo to ordinary stock. The result of such a cross will be seen at the fair and will be regarded with unusual interest by all stockbreeders and others who would like to see animals yielding buffalo robes bred in the county of Peterborough.

THE BABY SHOW.

With their restless enterprise Gough Bros. have offered a prize of $25 for the finest baby under one year—ten dollar suit for the father, ten dollar cashmere dress for the mother and a five dollar gold piece for the baby. This is an annual event that always possesses a special interest for everybody.

THE GENERAL PROGRAMME.

Monday, the first day, will be largely devoted to the entry of stock and the placing of exhibits, and the work of the judges in some of the departments.

THE FORMAL OPENING.

On Tuesday, the second day, the formal opening of the exhibition will take place, at 1 p.m., conducted by Messrs. Geo. A. Cox, James Kendry, Mayor of Peterborough, Jas. Stevenson, M.P., and J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., who will deliver brief addresses appropriate to the occasion.

JUDGING THE BABIES.

Immediately after the opening the great Baby Show will begin, and the exciting work of judging will take place.

PRESENTATION OF THE MEDAL.

At 2 o'clock p.m. Mayor Kendry will present the medal awarded by the Royal Humane Society to Master Godfrey, of Young's Point, in recognition of his heroism in saving two persons from drowning.

THE SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS.

During the afternoon a two hours' performance of a novel and most interesting character will be introduced.

The performances will take place on an elevated platform in front of the grand stand, placed inside the enclosure of the racing track, upon which only the performers and officials will be allowed, so that everybody has a splendid opportunity of seeing what is so well worth seeing.

The special performers will be D. B. Emery, the celebrated bell ringer and solo cornettist, who will have associated with him Miss Laura Russell, an equally celebrated bell ringer.

Marie Walton, the favourite dauseuse of the New York clubs, will also give a performance which is the acme of graceful agility and the perfection of terpsichorean art.

Danny Simons, one of the best clog dancers, and song and dance artists in America, will give an exceedingly laughable and entertaining performance, introducing his "Tame Giraffe."

Danny Simons and the remarkably clever Johnny Connors, will appear in their new double clog and song. These two performers make an exceedingly strong team, and their performance alone is worth the price of admission to the grounds.

THE SPEEDING EVENTS.

Those which will be run off on Tuesday will be as follows:—

Running race—Purse $50.00—½ mile, twice around the track, 1st horse to receive $25; 2nd horse, $15; 3rd horse, $10.

Three year old Colt Race, pace or trot, foaled in '92—Purse $50.00—½ mile, heats, twice around the track—1st horse to receive $25; 2nd horse, $15; 3rd horse, $10.

There will be besides, exciting acrobatic performances. Be sure and see Danny Simons and his tame giraffe.

THE NIGHT PERFORMANCE.

In the evening the grounds will be brilliantly lighted with electric lamps and the full afternoon programme as outlined above will be repeated in every detail.

BICYCLE RACES.

There will be an exciting competition in the bicycle one mile race for the county championship.

THE TUG OF WAR.

In addition there will be an exciting tug of war contest between teams chosen from Nassau, the fire brigade and employees of the Hamilton and Electric Works. The pull will take place on the elevated platform in full view of all. Everybody but the officials and performers will be excluded from the enclosure.

MAGNIFICENT DISPLAY OF FIREWORKS.

The evening performance will conclude with the most magnificent display of fireworks ever made in Peterborough. This will be in charge of Prof. Hand, of Hamilton.

SECOND DAY—WEDNESDAY.

The programme for the second day will be a repetition in every respect of the special performances of the first day, and all the specialties will be introduced.

DRAWING CONTEST.

The special feature of the afternoon will be the drawing contest. This contest has been divided into two classes, with special prizes in each—one for teams under 2,500 lbs in weight, and one for teams over that weight. There are a large number of entries, and this drawing contest is sure to prove a drawing card.

WEDNESDAY'S SPEEDING EVENTS.

These will take place in the afternoon and consist of:—

Running Race—Purse $100.00—Handicap mile heats, best 2 in 3.—1st horse, $50; 2nd, $25; 3rd, $15; 4th, $10.

Free for All Race—Trot or Pace—Purse, $100.00—Mile heats, best 3 in 5.—1st horse, $60; 2nd, $25; 3rd, $15.

Tuesday afternoon will be school children's day, when children will be admitted for 10 cents.

The Fire Brigade band will be present on the grounds every day of the exhibition.

TO SUM UP.

The Central Exhibition this year will be without doubt, the best that has ever been held. The general exhibit and the special attractions will make it worthy the patronage of all classes. Some attraction to suit every taste. Don't miss the chance of seeing this great exhibition on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 23rd, 24th and 25th.

Physicians

prescribe Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites because they find their patients can tolerate it for a long time, as it does not upset the stomach nor derange the digestion like the plain oil.

Scott's Emulsion is as much easier to digest than the plain oil as milk is easier to digest than butter. Besides, the fish-fat taste is taken out of the oil, and it is almost palatable. The way sickly children, emaciated, anæmic and consumptive adults, gain flesh on Scott's Emulsion is very remarkable.

CARING FOR FORESTS

MICHIGAN HARDWOOD TIMBER LANDS WILL NOT GO TO WASTE.

When the Lumberman Does Not Make Provision for Future Growth the Farmer Comes Along and Puts the Ground to Good Use in Raising Crops.

Several valuable hints, especially one pertaining to the care of forests, is contained in an interview with M. A. E. Cartier of Ludington, Mich.,, one of the State's leading lumbermen. Operators in the East long since realized that lumbering as it was conducted in the early days must come to an end, but not all of them have deemed it their duty to do more than urge others to reform.

"When the railroads first came into Northern Michigan," said Mr. Cartier, "pine was looked upon as the only timber really worth the dignity and efforts of the genuine lumberman. The demand for hardwood was compartively limited and the hardwood interests were left to the little operators to make out of it what they could. But there has been a great increase in the demand for hardwood, not only in the form of lumber but also to use in the manufacture of articles of commerce. Hardwood lumber is now considered game big enough for the best of the lumbering fraternity. As the pine resources of the State have become exhausted the successful operators in that line are turning their attention to hardwoods, bringing into it the same methods and energy which characterized their dealing with pine, and the increased demand makes their operations financially profitable.

"Where a decade ago there was one hardwood mill in Northern Michigan, there are now a dozen, and the number is steadily increasing. An important factor in the industry is the small mills scattered all through the country along the railroads, on the lakes and in the interior, near the standing timber, but far from the usual haunts of the traveling public. The big mills operate on much the same lines as the modern pine mills, and some of them can reel off anywhere from 75,000 to 100,000 feet of lumber a day, while the rural back-country mills are often primitive affairs, with a capacity for from 5,000 to 10,000 feet a day, with water for motor power and often with facilities attached for grinding wheat for the farmers. These small mills are individually insignificant, but in the aggregate they add millions of feet of hardwood lumber to the annual product of this section, and aid materially in the developmentof the country and in bringing prosperity to this section of the State.

"In hardwood lumbering operations are conducted on different lines than in the early days of pine lumbering. Of the pine fully as much was wasted as ever reached the market. The early lumbermen went into the forests entirely reckless of the future. They slashed and slaughtered, destroying everything in their way, and left the country barren and waste and worthless. The State has thousands of acres of waste land to-day so poor and barren that weeds will scarcely grow, and it was thus left by the pine lumbermen who abandoned it as soon as the forests were removed. The hardwood lumbermen are proceeding with more discretion and wisdom. They are sparing the young trees and saplings, that they may grow up for future cutting, and in some camps young trees are being planted to replace those cut down. But the hardwood lands are of a different character from the pine lands. When the forest is removed a rich soil is left behind for the farmer to cultivate. The farmer is following close in the wake of the hardwood lumbermen, and the demand for hardwood logs of all kinds aids him very materially in getting established. The timber on his land has a cash value at the nearest mill or railroad station, and the money thus earned will tide him over until he can realize on his crops. All through this section will be found farms, many of them new and still thickly dotted with stumps, but some that are as rich, as will be found in the State. This section is especially adapted to potatoes and fruit, and has in the last four or five years become famous for its crops. Every fall commission-men come here to buy the crops and ship them out to other parts of the country, chiefly to Chicago, Milwaukee, Grand Rapids and the East.

In the development of the hardwood resources of Northern Michigan the Indian is a factor that must not be overlooked. The Indians do not lumber on a big scale nor do they do it systematically, but in the aggregate they cut many times annually. The Indian farmers often haul logs to market, but the largest consumption on their part is to manufacture the Indian baskets for the summer resort and export trade. These baskets are made of black ash and as they do not know what economy is in the use of the raw material one tree will not go very far. The Indians are making baskets all the way from Traverse City to the Straits of Mackinaw, and each year many forest monarchs are sacrificed. They also make baskets of birch bark and many trees are annually striped of bark to supply them with material.

"A noticeable feature in the hardwood operations of the lumbermen and manufacturers is the strict economy observed in the use of materials, in marked contrast with the methods that used to prevail in the pine mills. Nothing is allowed to go to waste and the dump pile is unknown. The sawdust is used for fuel and the timber that cannot be used is converted into firewood, in which form it finds a ready market at profitable prices. No kind of timber that grows is looked upon as worthless, and any kind of a log the farmer brings in has a value and will bring cash at the mill or railway station. The pine resources of Michigan brought many millions of dollars into the State, but in real richness and widespread benefits the hardwood forests will yield far more."—Buffalo Express.

A Clover Party.

A four-leaf clover party is a pretty entertainment for a summer gathering, especially if the hostess has a country home, or a clover field in her yard. The way to utilize the clover is to decorate the house with its blossoms, both red and white. The linen and china should also be ornamented with clover blossoms. In the hall there should be a little rattan table, festooned with vines and clover blossoms, and covered with a green mat formed of ivy leaves. On this should stand a large glass punch bowl filled with iced lemonade, and surrounded by small glasses. A young girl in a dainty gown—it might be one of the new white delaines showing a clover leaf—should preside over the tempting beverage as only a young girl can. At the close of the luncheon or tea the guests may be invited to hunt for four-leaf clovers, and those finding the largest number may be rewarded with pretty clover pins, while the unfortunate who finds the smallest number may be given a pair of eyeglasses to aid her in some future search.

An Outbreak of Disease Feared and Great Precautions Recommended.

Toronto, (Special) Sept. 16.—The accident which recently occurred to the Toronto waterworks conduit has created a great deal of consternation, and an outbreak of disease is possible. Doctors are prescribing the various precautions to be taken, and among them it is strongly recommended that the kidneys should be kept in a state of perfect regularity by means of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which experience has shown to be equally efficacious in the latest as well as in the earliest stages of kidney trouble. It is also stated by the physicians that this season is one in which the kidneys are peculiarly susceptible to disorder.

BIG PROFITS —ON— Small Investments

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within a short time as by successful Speculation in Grain, Provisions and Stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED can be made by our Systematic Plan of Speculation

originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system.

It is a well-known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 to $100,000 or more by those who invest a few thousand.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plain are persons who live away from Chicago and invest through brokers who thoroughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.

WRITE FOR CONVINCING PROOF, also our Manual on successful speculation an our Daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers. ALL FREE. Our Manual explain margin trading fully. Highest references in regard to our standing and success.

CANDY FOR CHILDREN.

The Popular Health Magazine says the desire in a child for candy and sweets is a natural one and should not be stifled. Good candy and sweets in moderation, not only do no harm, but are actually beneficial. Too much sweet upsets the stomach and spoils the appetite, but candy in moderation if it is not taken before a meal, is food which children crave naturally, and among the purest and most wholesome is that manufactured by

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. H. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says:

"A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the varioloid, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Wer[illegible] Olympia St., New Orleans, La.

THE NEW WOMAN.

Random Dashes at Her Winning Wiles and Ways.

There is no accomplishment more rare or more desirable than a jolly, interested refined laugh. Elocutionists are teaching it, and the number of pupils is said to be astonishing.

Dress reform is more popular in the nursery than it is anywhere else, and the young inhabitants thereof are to be congratulated upon the change. The baby of to-day is freed from the irritating flannel band pinned tight about its chest, the flannel shirt the pinning blanket and long flannel skirts, other skirt dress and little sacque that constituted its toilet a few years ago—poor little things! Undoubtedly half this misery they endured was caused by the "wading up" condition of their clothing. Fancy yourself swaddled in bands and bands—ofttimes too tightly pinned or altogether too loose—feet rolled in innumerable thicknesses of flannels—then the unnecessary strain on tiny hips of the long skirts—it is high time, indeed, for the accomplishment of such reform. Curious neighbors will no longer have an opportunity to look at the dear little toes for the express purpose of examining the texture of the flannel, which a right good thing, and baby in its short clothes will grow sturdy and hardy with the hours.

The crimping pin and the curling tongs have been the subject of the inventor's thought, and in the first-class electric lighted hotels the tongs are heated by electricity. They go with the room and are wire attached. The other new crimper is an alcohol lamp inside of the tongs. The fluid is poured in and lighted and a spring catch secures it. The flame heats the iron sufficiently to do the work without burning the hair.

Trust a woman who sits with her thumbs elevated—she may be determined, but she is truthful. The one who conceals her thumbs is quite apt to be deceitful. Observe the thumb also if you desire to judge intellectual strength, for the longer it is, proportately, the greater the strength of the brain.

Character reading from the teeth is the latest. Those that are long and narow denote vanity. Long projecting teeth indicate a grasping disposition; treachery is known by small, white, separated teeth; inconstancy, by overlapping teeth, and the possessor of wide separated front teeth is sure to tell all he knows.

Princess Nasle of Egypt, one of the most intelligent and progressive women in Europe, is a constant laborer for the advancement of her sex. Just now she is arranging an exhibit of the work of Egyptian women at the Atlanta Exposition.

The Life of a Princess.

It is no wonder the unmarried daughters of the Prince of Wales envy their sister, the Duchess of Fife, who is now free to live after the manner of any well-bred woman, to go and come at will, and to invite her friends to her table, for they, poor girls, are obliged to dine in their own apartments, tete-a-tete, when their mother is not at home to watch over them. After all, who would a Princess be? Happy the girl who is born under the stars and stripes of indulgent American parents! She is the sort of royalty to be envied, not these scions of caste-bound rank, every time.

Don't you know that Hood's Sarsaparilla will overcome that tired feeling and give you renewed vigor and vitality.

Was Nearly Dead.

Sirs,—My baby was very bad with summer complaint, and I thought he would die, until I tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. With the first dose I noticed a change for the better, and now he is cured and fat and healthy. Mrs. A. Normandin. London, Ont.

ETON JACKETS.

They Are Still Very Much in Favor.

Anything in the way of oddities are received with open arms. In consequence, women deck themselves with all the exaggeration of fashion until they lose all claim to beauty or gracefulness, all for style. Discretion is quite as necessary when shopping with a full purse as with a meagre one, for one may be so easily led into making purchases they find useless to them afterward, unless they can be contented to look like frumps.

The sketch shows a cleverly gowned woman who has observed all the small details of her costume, with a satisfying result. The short Eton jacket forms the most striking part of her toilette, and is made of golden brown velveteen. It is short and pointed in shape and has its edges smartly bound with white kid and the front ornamented with round ivory buttons.

ETON JACKETS ARE STILL THE MODE.

The gigot sleeves are in the newest approved style, having the lower arm much wrinkled to the waist. The coat opens widely to the front, showing a soft vest or tan colored chiffon, made pouchy and drooping over a belt of brown velvet.

The modish skirt is in the latest correct form, standing out in no end of deep godets, which hold their shape beautifully. The material is softest tan colored silk. A full ruche of black chiffon adds much to the toilette. The hat topping the whole is broad braid, trimmed with croux of creamy chiffon and black wings.

Eat Grape Fruit.

Grape fruit is an admirable tonic. The sharp stimulus of fruit is one of the best things to set the digestive organs in order for the day, and the peculiar properties of the grape fruit give it marked medicinal value. When eaten at luncheon it is prepared in a different way than for breakfast service. For the second meal the contents of two halves should be scraped out, and seeds and tough cone of dividing skin taken out and the pulp and juice thus obtained used to fill one of the halves, which it will just about do. A teaspoonful of sugar and a tablespoonful of rum or sherry, which is mixed with the juicy pulp, adds the perfecting flavor. At breakfast, with the long-pointed orange spoon, the meat is eaten out as it is that of an orange, and very little sugar is used, many persons preferring none, on the ground that its full medicinal value is better obtained.

Honest Help.

Thousands of men are suffering because they lack the courage to make known their early errors and to endeavour to remedy them. Nervous weakness, loss of manhood and the many ills due to early discretions, excesses or overwork can be quickly, successfully and permanently cured if you will only let the right people know what ails you. Write to me in confidence and I will tell you free of charge how to get cured. I have nothing to sell, but am desirous of honestly helping you. Perfect secrecy assured. Describe your case and address with stamp:—L. A. Edwards, P. O. Box 55, Jarvis Ont.

Use the Brush.

After all, there is nothing better for the growth of the hair than a thorough brushing. Of course it should be washed often enough to keep the scalp perfectly clean without hurting the natural oil. How often this is must be studied by each woman for herself, but, aside from this, she will find that giving each side of her head a brisk brushing of even only fifty strokes each night and morning, will soon produce a new growth of short, strong fuzz springing up all over her head—that is, unless there is some diseased condition existing. This new growth has been seen too many times as a direct consequence of the hard brushing not to be implicitly relied upon as a sure result.—Boston Journal.

A Question.

How can we raise more corn to the acher? Why, of course by using Putnam's Corn Extractor. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor has given universal satisfaction, for it is sure safe and painless. Like every article of real merit it has a host of imitators, and we would specially warn the public to guard against those dangerous substitutes offered for the genuine Putnam's Extractor.

SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE

The Great Health Restorer of the Century.

Sickness Cannot Cope With It—Has Cured the Worst Cases on Record—Cures at the Nerve Centers, and Thus Cures Permanently—A Wonderful Specific in All Cases of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Nervousness and General Debility—Has No Equal as a Spring Medicine.

There is a great deal of uncertainty in the methods adopted to remove disease. Doctors are not free from this kind of thing themselves. The poor patient has to put up with a good deal of experimenting. The discoverer of South American Nervine takes too serious a view of life to play pranks of this kind. He does not think that these human bodies of ours should be fooled with. He has recognized that they are subject to disease, but by scientific methods he has learned that just as the watch is to be put in perfect repair only when the main spring is kept in running order, so with the individual, he remains in perfect health, only when the nerve centers are kept healthful and strong.

What disease is more distressing than indigestion or dyspepsia? Some simple remedy may be given to cause relief for the moment. Nervine is an indisputably successful remedy for the worst cases of indigestion, because it reaches the source of all stomach troubles—the nerve centers. Indigestion exists because the vital forces have become diseased and are weakened. Nervine builds up the nerve centers, from which comes these forces, removes the causes of indigestion, and thus builds up the health completely.

How many systems are run down through nervousness. A stimulant may give ease, but it will not cure nervous troubles. Nervine has cured more desperate cases of nervousness than any other medicine anywhere. And it does so for the same reason that it cures indigestion. The nerve centers are deranged, or there would be no victims of nervousness. Nervine rebuilds and strengthens the nerve tissues, and hence its marvellous powers in diseases of this kind.

In the spring of the year the strongest suffer from general debility. The blood, through neglect, has become impoverished and the whole system gets out of order. We speak of it as a spring medicine. Nervine restores the exhausted vital forces that have led to this tired, don't-care, played-out, miserable condition. No one can take a bottle of Nervine at this season of the year without disease quickly giving way to abounding health.

The moral is plain, simple and readily understood. If you would not trifle with disease, then you will take South American Nervine, which will not trifle with you.

English Collegians Collapse in Their Second.

Philadelphia, Sept. 16.—The University of Pennsylvania v. Oxford-Cambridge Cricket match was finished this afternoon, and resulted in a victory for the former team by 100 runs. The match goes on record as being one of the greatest ever played in this country, chiefly from the fact that when play ceased this morning on the second innings of the local eleven, the Englishmen had only to score 102 runs to win. As they had gathered together 284 on their first innings without much difficulty, it was supposed that their task was an easy one. The wicket was hard and very much crumpled. George S. Patterson proved a veritable demon to the visitors, and to his remarkable bowling may be attributed much of the success of the day.

When stumps were drawn on Saturday Pennsylvania had gathered together 288 runs in the follow on innings, with Brockie not out and J. S. Clark and Goodman to bat. Clark was clean bowled by Milligan. Goodman scored 5 runs before being bowled by Hartley, while Brockie carried his bat out for 41 runs, which made the total 307, settling a tasg of 102 runs for the Englishman to win, and, as the score shows, they lamentably failed.

Play was over so soon that the visiting collegians gave an exhibition against a picked eleven. The visitors batted, and after two hours of listless, tiresome work, stumps were drawn after eight wickets had been taken for over 200 runs.

Wheat Crop of Europe.

Washington, Sept. 17.—A review of European crop prospects presented in reports to the Agricultural Department, shows that the cereal output in Great Britain will be much below the average. Harvesting has been delayed in Switzerland, and the wheat crop will be under 5,000,000 bushels.

In France the wheat crop is excellent and will exceed 300,000,000 bushels. Wheat in Germany is expecetd to make a better showing than in 1894. In Austria the crop is somewhat less than in 1894, which was 146,000,000 bushels. In Roumania new wheat is of superior quality and a full crop has been raised.

"The Fighting Editor."

London, Sept. 17.—A despatch from Madrid to a news agency says: "A serious quarrel has recently been going on between the editorial staffs of the journals Pais and Nacion, which has resulted in a number of challenges. "Four duels were fought with swords yesterday, with the result that in each instance the Nacion's representative was wounded.

"Twenty-four other duels are pending."

BABY FARMER HANGED.

Minnie Dean, the New Zealand Multi-Murderess, Suffers the Penalty.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 17.—Minnie Dean, who was condemned to death for the murder of infants entrusted to her care, has been executed in Invercargill, Auckland, New Zealand. She protested her innocence up to the last. Clemency was asked on account of the murderes being a woman, but the proof against her was so overwhelming that no mercy was shown. On the scaffold she was hysterical, and had to be almost carried to the drop. Just before the black cap shut out the world from view, she became more resigned, but piteously exclaimed: "Oh, God, let me not suffer." The drop fel and death was instantaneous.

Minnie Dean's crimes were the sensation of last year in New Zealand. In her prosperity she was patronized by well-to-do scoundrels, who paid her handsomely to become responsible for their children. A mother's love, however, induced an erring woman to seek her child, who had been delivered to the woman's care. Minnie Dean had reported it dead from natural causes, but the mother's suspicions were aroused and detectives were employed, when the remains of a number of children were found of ages ranging from a few months to several years buried in every conceivable place about the premises. The woman was arrested, and after a sensational trial was condemned to death on the evidence of the guilty fathers, who were compelled by the authorities to appear in court to asist the Crown. Minnie Dean's defence was that all the children died from natural causes.

Cocoa and its Uses.

We are wont to associate this new drug of marvellous medicinal properties with the grateful beverage of the breakfast table, but they are quite different in source and in properties. Coca is a most beneficent gift to the sick and suffering, as is attested by its rapid rise in estimation and the reliance now placed upon it by the most eminent practitioners in Europe and America.

Maltine with Coca Wine is the most reliable form in which the full medicinal value of coca may be obtained and the striking results derived from its use in nervous exhaustion, debility, weakness, or palpitation of the heart, warrant the high appreciation of its merits expressed by medical men who have used it in their practice. Maltine with Coca Wine is not a patent medicine, but a highly specialized pharmaceutical product, designed to cure disease in the only way disease can be cured, viz., by helping nature. Maltine with Coca Wine is worthy of your confidence. Sold by all druggists.

ENDED ALL WITH CARBOLIC ACID.

Suicide of a Montreal Woman in a New York Hotel.

New York, Sept. 18.—Shortly after 10 o'clock Monday night a rather well-dressed woman, apparently about 45 years of age, engaged a room at the Bryant Park Hotel, 38th-street and Sixth-avenue. She registered as Nellie Smith, New York, and retired to her room. She did not make her appearance up to 3.30 o'clock this afternoon. At that hour the hotel clerk forced an entrance to the room. On the bed lay the woman, apparently lifeless, and after trying to rouse her the clerk summoned a physician. When he arrived he pronounced the woman dead. On the table near the bed was an empty bottle labelled carbolic acid. This the woman had evidently taken. On the woman's person were found several letters addressed to Mrs. J. N. Talbot, Montreal, Canada. Later it was learned that the woman had resided with a Mrs. Tulip at No. 341 West 35th-street. Mrs. Tulip moved from that number some weeks ago and her whereabouts is unknown.

Lost With All Her Crew.

Stockholm, Sept. 18.—The Norwegian barque Clodian has been totally wrecked off Umea, Sweden, and her entire crew have been lost.

Convict Drowned in a Fit.

Sing Sing, N.Y., Sept. 17.—John Dolson, a convict serving a term for burglary and sentenced from Newburgh, while employed at the prison dock was attacked with an apoplectic fit. He fell in the river and was drowned.

Derailed by an Open Switch.

Sharon, Pa., Sept. 17.—Southbound passenger train No. 224 of the Erie and Pittsburg division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, ran into an open switch this morning at Sharpsville. Every car was derailed, including the engine. Several of the passengers were injured.

Reconciliation and Death.

Middletown, Sept. 18.—William Clyde and Florence Rowlinson were married 5 years ago in a Western city. Clyde deserted his wife in a year and came East. A few days ago, while peddling lamp-burners, he found his wife sick with cancer and he agreed to remain and care for her. He bought morphine to aid her, but she committed suicide with it yesterday.

14 Injured on the Soo Line.

Annandale, Minn., Sept. 17.—A serious accident occurred yesterday to the passenger train on the Soo line that left Minneapolis at 9.35 a.m., but it was not reported until to-day. Fourteen passengers were injured, some seriously, but none killed. When within four miles of Annandale the two rear coaches, filled with passengers, were thrown from the track down an embankment, turning over twice. The coaches, before being upset, passed over a small bridge, completely demolishing it.

FOUND A MAN IN HER ROOM.

A Dundas Girl's Scream Scares a Burglar.

Hamilton, Sept. 18.—Miss Crow of Mount Fairview, Dundas, was aroused from her slumbers about 1 o'clock yesterday and discovered a man in her room. When the young lady screamed the man ran down stairs and escaped through a window onto the verandah. In his hasty exit he dropped the young lady's watch, but carried off the chain. The man had discovered the keys of the safe; opened it, took out two ten dollar bills and in his search for more scattered the contents of the safe all around the floor. It is supposed the burglar obtained entrance to the house before the inmates went to bed, concealing himself till they retired.

Clark Fired His Store.

Toronto, Sept. 17.—Sydney L. Clark was tried at the General Sessions yesterday on a charge of arson. At 12.30 a.m., March 11, Clark's tobacco store, at 381 Gerrard-street east, was discovered to be on fire. The circumstances surrounding the fire, coupled with the fact that the premises and stock were well insured, were deemed of such a nature as to justify Clark's arrest on a charge of arson. The case occupied the most of the day and resulted in a verdict of guilty.

More Troops For Madagascar.

Paris, Sept. 18.—The Soleil says a second French expedition to Madagascar is about to be organized. It is the intention that the expedition shall reach Antananarivo by way of Tamative.

Made Their Fortunes on the Stock Exchange.

NANSEN'S SHIP HEARD FROM.

Seen on the East Coast of Greenland, But His Fate is in Doubt.

London, Sept. 18.—A despatch from Sandefiord, Norway, says: Advices have been received from Angmagsalik, on the east coast of Greenland, that about the end of July a vessel, believed to be the Fram, which conveyed Dr. Nansen and his expedition from Norway in search of the North Pole, was seen imbedded in a drift of ice off Sermilikfiord, on the east coast of Greenland. The advices do not state whether or not anyone was seen on board the ice-bound ship.

Dr. Fridtjof Nansen sailed from Christiania in the Fram June 24,1893. The Fram, though generally classed as a sailing vessel, being rigged as a three-masted schooner, is provided with a steam engine of 160 horse power. She was expected to depend principally upon the sails while in the ice. Her displacement is 800 tons, and her sides are so constructed as to force all the ice meeting the vessel to pass underneath her, thus preventing all pinching and screwing. She was launched Oct. 26, 1892, at Laurwik, near Christiania. The Norwegian parliament gave Dr. Nansen a subsidy of about $52,000, and many private subscriptions, including one of upwards of $5000, from King Oscar, were added to the expedition fund. Dr. Nansen's plan was to make for the New Siberian Islands, and then sail directly north until the Fram should be embeded in the ice, then drift along with it, following the west coast of any land that might be met. Nothing has been heard directly from the expedition since the receipt of a despatch written from Vardoe under date of Aug. 23, 1893, stating that Nansen was about to sail into the Kara Sea, and that so far the Fram had behaved splendidly, especially in forcing her way through the ice. Rumors, however have been received from time to time, including one representing that Nansen had found the pole, and had planted Norway's flag there.

Boy Shoots Himself.

Worcester, Mass., Sept. 18.—Phillip Russell, the son of Principal E.H. Russell of the State Normal School, committed suicide this morning by shooting himself. He was mentally unbalanced.

Another Victim of Brutality.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 18.—The body of David Adam, who, it is alleged, came to his death at the hands of attendants at the Dunning Insane Asylum, has been exhumed in Oakwood Cemetery and a post-mortem examination held. The coroner's surgeon found that Adam had been treated in a heartless manner before his death. There were numerous scalp wounds, the nasal bones on both sides were broken, the upper jawbone on the left side of the face broken, the thyroid cartilage broken and the fingers and left hand badly scalded.

NEWFOUNDLAND NEWS.

More Customs Seizures—Discovery of Splendid Coal Seams.

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 17.—The largest customs seizure yet was made today. Over $1000 worth of watches and jewelry was taken from leading jewelry stores on the ground of the goods being smuggled. All classes of the public unite in commending the vigilance of the customs officials. The Government has not yet begun the prosecution of the offenders, and all hope of its doing so has been abandoned.

Some splendid coal seams have been discovered on the line of the new railway. The coal is considered by experts employed in locating to be equal to Anthracite.

The trustees of the Union Bank cannot pay the promised dividend, owing to the Government making claims which the trustees contend do not mature until December of next year. An indignation meeting of creditors will be held this week to take action on the matter.

The Proposed Papal Principality.

London, Sept. 17.—The Chronicle tomorrow will print a dispatch from the Paris correspondent, in which he ascribes the scheme described by The Daily Telegraph for a modus vivendi between the Vatican and the Italian Government to certain go-ahead prelates in the United States who added it to the Galimberti program which is now in the hands of most European chancelleries. The new scheme proposes to invest the Papacy with a principality like that of Monaco with enough moral guarantee from the European powers to satisfy their Catholic subjects. Italian unity will be safeguarded by the retention of the customs dues and postal arrangements.

Cardinal Galimberti does not suggest a momentary appeal to the Catholics throughout the world. This proposal, the corespondent says, is more likely to be traceable to Baltimore and Washington, forming a practical inauguration of a boom in favor of an American Pope.

H.M.S. Challenger Reports Disposed Of.

London, Sept. 17.—The British Government has disposed of the remaining copies of the valuable Challenger report on deep sea dredging, etc. The hydrographic Department at Washington, D.C., will receive a copy of the report.

Armenian Question Not Settled.

London, Sept. 17.—The Morning Post to-morrow will print a dispatch to a news agency form Constantinople denying that a settlement of the Armenian question has been effected. The dispatch says that the negotiations between the Porte and the protesting powers are still proceeding.

Campos Gets Discouraged.

London, Sept. 18.—A despatch from Madrid to The Pall Mall Gazette says that General Martinez Campos has written to Senor Canovas del Castilno, the Spanish premier, in which he declares that the Cuban rebellion is a great deal more serious than it was at the time of his last report.

BOY MURDERER OF 13

Convicted of the Crime of Killing His Mother

BUT ADJUDGED IRRESPONSIBLE.

Robert Coombes Whose Mind Was So Poisoned With Vile Literature That He Stabbed His Mother Sent to an Insane Asylum For Life.

London, Sept. 18.—Robert Coombes, the 13-year-old boy, who, with his brother Nathaniel, aged 11, was arrested last July on a charge of murdering his mother by stabbing her while she lay in bed was to-day adjudged guilty of the crime, but declared insane and condemned to be imprisoned in an asylum during the pleasure of Her Majesty. No charge was brought against the younger brother. A half-witted man named Fox, who was arrested with the boys, on suspicion of complicity in the murder, was acquitted.

The actual murder was perpetrated by the elder boy. After the commission of the crime the boys pawned a number of valuables, and proceeded to enjoy themselves with the proceeds in various ways. When arrested they were playing cards with the half-witted man Fox, wholly indifferent of the terrible odor pervading the house, due to the decomposition of their mother's dead body. The minds of the boys were undoubtedly upset by reading sensational and unwholesome literature. The father of the boys was a steward on board the National Line steamship France. His ship was on its way to America when the tragedy took place, and he first heard of it upon his arrival in New York.

DEMERS CONTRADICTED.

Seen at His Window at a Time When He Avers His Wife Was Alone.

Montreal, Sept. 18.—There were several important developments in the Demers' murder trial today. The crown produced an important witness in the person of Arcade Dupevs, an ice man, who testified that while driving his team past the Demers' house on the morning of the murder he saw a man in the window who looked like the prisoner and that he heard a cry issuing from the interior of the house while the man stood there. The crown looks upon this as important testimony, as indicating Mrs. Demers' was not then alone.

Another important witness, Coroner McMahon, who held the inquest on deceased's body, was examined to-day. His testimony consisted largely in relating a conversation he had had with the accused shortly after the murder. Witness stated that the accused had said to him and to others in his presence many times that the milk had not been delivered when he left for work at 6.15 a.m., while the two men testify that they had left the milk in the house before that hour. The delivery of the milk is looked upon as an important point in the crown's case. He related conversations with Demers' in which the latter tried to throw suspicion on a mythical man and also on old man Deguise, who lived below the Demers residence. At other times he appeared to be distraught and ignored all questions.

"I'LL KILL YOU."

A Joke By a Did't Know It Was Loaded Fool Proves Fatal.

Ste. Therese, Q., Sept. 17.—A sad fatality occurred here last night. Mr. and Mrs. James Vanier, being absent from home, their daughter Hermine invited Miss Alexina Cadieux and two gentlemen friends to spend the evening with her.

About midnight, when the men were preparing to leave, Joseph Laroche, seeing a gun standing in one corner of the room, picked it up, not knowing it was loaded, and pointed it at his friend, Duval, at the same time saying, "I will kill you."

The weapon was dischrged and the contents missing Duval, struck Miss Cadieux in the face, killing her instantly.

Coroner Migneault is preparing to hold an inquest. Laroche feels his position keenly.

Whitecap Convicted of Murder.

Huntingdon, Pa., Sept. 17.—The trial of Wesley McCrackin, one of three brothers, charged with the killing of George Hawn, a member of a white cap band in May last, ended with a verdict of murder in the second degree. A number of disguised young men calling themselves white caps tore down a division fence of the accused and this resulted in the killing of Hawn.

Incendiary Fire at Port Hope.

Port Hope, Sept. 18.—The residence of Mrs. Lewis Ross, Pine-street, owned by Mrs. J. B. Trayes, was destroyed by fire early this morning, with all of its contents. Mrs. Ross' family were away from home, and the fact that there was no stove or lamps burning in the house leaves little doubt that the fire was of incendiary origin. The house was insured for $1000, and Mrs. Ross is understood to have carried an insurance of $1000.

The Pearl of Great Price

To woman is beauty. Beauty, the key that unlocks every door, commands deference, inspires homage. But beauty of face cannot satisfy unless the additional grace, beauty of teeth, adds its charm. Fine teeth, sweet breath, rippling laughter—three graces that always go together. Ivorine imparts dazzling pearly like whiteness, removes discoloration and tartar from the teeth, and renders the breath as fragrant as flowers.

"About a year ago I had a very severe attack of the grip, which resulted in my not having a well day for several months afterwards. I was completely run down and my system was in a Terrible Condition.

I lost flesh and became depressed in spirits. Finally a friend who had been benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla advised me to try it and I did so. WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1895.

AN election will be held in Kingston in October to fill the vacancy caused by the unseating of Hon. Mr. Harty. It is very probable that Mr. Harty will be elected by acclamation. In doing so Kingston would be doing itself an honour.

THE Montreal Gazette says:—"Lady Frances Rose Gunning has been sentenced in London to a year's imprisonment for forgery. Lady Frances' trouble arose out of the fact that she tried to live like a lord's wife on the income of a workman's. This kind of path invariably leads to ruin and often to prison. Her Ladyship will be a titled member of a big army.

MR. H. BENJAFIELD, of Tasmania, in a recent address to the fruit growers of that country, asserts that much of the illness in the world is due to a lack of fruit in the diet. The highest authorities on gout and rheumatism think that fruit help to correct the tendency to these troubles. It is conducive to health to eat plenty of fruit, but beware of that which is unripe or overripe.

SPECIAL instructions have been wired from the west by Premier Bowell to rush the reports for a special session of Parliament to be held in November or early in December, to deal with the School Question. A French-Canadian Minister states it would be impossible to deal with the school question and transact other necessary business at a session called in January, since Parliament would then have less than four months to run.

"THE corner stone of the foundation upon which Upper Canada College is to be made worthy of its nobility of design, beautiful surroundings and of the interest taken in it by prominent and high-minded people can be concentrated in one word, truth." So said Dr. Parkyn in his inaugural address to Upper Canada College. A couple of hundred or more years ago Lord Bacon, esteemed the wisest man in the world, asked "What is truth?" He couldn't answer. Those of us who think we can, generally do it differently.

VALKYRIE may have failed to prove her superiority over the Yankee cup defender, but the Valkyrie's owner has proved his superiority as a sportsman to the men who are associated for the purpose of defending the America's cup. Indeed, the Yankees don't seem to be able even to understand the higher type of sportsmanship as represented by Lord Dunraven. A country, aptly remarks the Hamilton Herald, that builds the best boats has something to be proud of, but not so much as the country that breeds the best men.

THE Prussian income tax returns show that 70 per cent. of the population of the country earn less than $225 a year, while only 4 per cent. earn $750 and over. In other words, out of every 100 workers in Prussia, 96 are poor people. The proportion is probably not much different in Prussia than elsewhere, and the figures help us once more to realize that the great mass of mankind are poor, and that there is an enormous amount of Christian philanthropic unselfish and intelligent work to be done before the mass of mankind attain liberal conditions of living.

Mr. R. B. Rogers, of Peterborough, was in the village on Monday.

Dr. Moffat and wife, of Norwood, were in the village on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McCrea, of Peterborough, spent Saturday and Sunday here.

Mr. J. R. McCrea, of Campbellford, spent Sunday at home here.

There is a movement on foot now to light the churches and shops of the village with electric lights.

Miss Ferguson, of Lakefield, is visiting friends here, the guest of Mrs. David Nelson.

Mr Jas. C. Campbell and Jas. Andrews, both of Peterborough, were in Keene on Sunday.

FOOTBALL.

On Tuesday, the 10th, the Football Club played a match on the home grounds with the Wilson team, No. 8 Otonabee. The visitors scored the first goal in less than one minute, after which the Keene forwards, by good combination play, succeeded in crowding the visitors and in scoring the second goal. Notwithstanding the fact that four of the Keene seniors were unable to take part, the play was decidedly in favour of the home team. This was in part no doubt due to their familiarity with the grounds, and they scored again just before time was called. This, however, they did not count, as the visitors claimed they had mistaken the whistle of a bystander for that of the referee. Mr. Wilson, the captain of the Otonabee team, took exception to the decision of the referee, Mr. D. Eason, and challenged the Keene team to meet them at Peterborough on Saturday, the 14th. This they accordingly did, defeating the Otonabees by a score of one to none. At Mr. Nelson's suggestion Mr. T. Wallace was chosen referee, but unfortunately Mr. Wilson felt it his duty to again act in the capacity of both referee and captain and disputed decision after decision. As he absolutely refused to accept the referee's decision, and as he suggested the name of no one who would be satisfactory to himself, the Keene team withdrew five minutes before time was called. The match was in many respects a good one, being exceptional in the force of the repeated rush made by the forwards of both sides. The Keene team wish to thank the members of the Otonabee team for the very kind reception tendered them at the Temperance House, and will be prepared to reciprocate that kindness when Mr. Wilson will name a referee whose decisions he will accept without protest.

OTONABEE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The Otonabee Sunday School Association have arranged for a rally of the Sunday schools of the township to be held in the Bethel Methodist church, Keene circuit, on Thursday, Sept. 26th. There will be two sessions, one in the afternoon at 2.30, the other in the evening at 7.30. A good programme has been prepared including such topics as Primary Home Class and Normal work. Miss L. Kennedy, Primary Superintendent, Rev. J. J. Rae, Mr. Jno. Moffatt, Mr. S. R. Armstrong, of Peterborough, Dr. Harrison, Rev. Messrs. Andrews and Tiddy, of Keene, and other Sunday school workers, have promised to assist. Let every school be well represented.

On Sunday, Sept. 15th, the Zion Methodist Sunday school was re-organized by Mr. H. P. Kennedy, president of the Township S. S. Association. Mr. Walter Dixon was elected superintendent and Mr. J. Smithson, assistant. The school will meet next Sunday at the regular hour, 1.30, when classes will be arranged and teachers appointed. We hope there will be a good attendance and that Zion Sunday school may soon hold one of the foremost places among the Sunday schools of the township.

On Monday Timothy Collins, a life-long resident of the township of Otonabee, quietly passed away after an illness which had been prolonged during three years. The deceased gentleman was a son of the late Timothy Collins, one of the early settlers of the township. He was 51 years of age at the time of his death and leaves a wife, Agnes Buckham, and four sons and one daughter to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate husband and father. All the children are residing at home. The deceased was a member of the Church of England, and was respected and esteemed among a wide circle of acquaintances. The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon to the St. Mark's church burying ground.

Cocoa and its Uses.

We are wont to associate this new drug of marvellous medicinal properties with the grateful beverage of the breakfast table, but they are quite different in source and in properties. Cocoa is a most beneficent gift to the sick and suffering, as is attested by its rapid rise in estimation and the reliance now placed upon it by the most eminent practitioners in Europe and America.

Maltine with Coca Wine is the most reliable form in which the full medicinal value of coca may be obtained and the striking results derived from its use in nervous exhaustion, debility, weakness, or palpitation of the heart, warrant the high appreciation of its merits expressed by medical men who have used it in their practice. Maltine with Coca Wine is not a patent medicine, but a highly specialized pharmaceutical product, designed to cure disease in the only way disease can be cured, viz., by helping nature. Maltine with Coca Wine is worthy of your confidence. Sold by all druggists.

A Public Ovation!

—:o:—

THANKS

Most Assuredly!

—:o:—

We have nothing but gratitude to offer the citizens of Peterborough and surrounding country for the very hearty reception accorded to Oak Hall on its Opening Day.

It was the right kind of a welcome—open-armed, cordial, enthusiastic.

It was a phenomenal success from start to finish. Type can scarcely give expression to the heartiness of our thanks to the hundreds of citizens from town and country-side for miles around, who participated in the ovation to Oak Hall on our Opening Day.

We had modestly looked forward to some extra attraction and recognition—on account of the good Clothes we had to show, our new attractions on the tables, our handsome store and our special novelty on the streets; but never contemplated anything like the sensation that was produced on Saturday last.

Even our neighbors, the other clothing dealers,—caught the contagion of the excitement and turned out to do us honour, or to imitate our example.

Thanks again, kind friends. We DEDICATE Oak Hall to the service of the MEN, YOUNG MEN and BOYS, of the Town and County of Peterborough

Prosperity

Is not only already in the air but it is percolating, permeating, honey-combing, everything associated with Oak Hall's opening. And as "much of success depends on a good start," we can look forward encouragingly,—FOR WE HAVE HAD A GOOD START.

Much has yet to be added to make our store complete—in stock, fittings, furnishings, &c,—in order to bring up the standard of Oak Hall's ideal. These have all been arranged for and will be added as rapidly as they come forward.

Reception Days

Will continue all this week, and the best opportunities for hand-shaking and inspection are yet to come.

The New Plan of Scaling the Price of Wheat.

BETTER FIGURE FOR LIGHT GRAIN.

Short Notice Served Upon the Ottawa Separate School Board—A War Office Official Inspecting the Northwest Armouries—Canadian Electricians in Convention.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 18.—It will be remembered that last year when a delegation from the Dominion Millers' Association came to Ottawa to interview the Government regarding mixing of wheat, a question of more immediate importance came up, viz., the scale by which deductions from the standard price of wheat were made by millers when purchasing grain of the lighter grades from farmers. When wheat was a dollar a bushel the specific reduction of so many cents a bushel was perfectly fair, but with wheat, say, at fifty cents a bushel, the reduction of the same number of cents per bushel gave ridiculously low prices for wheat testing 53 pounds to the bushel, and under. At the latter price for wheat testing about 52 pounds to the bushel supposing the scale of deduction was 13 cents the farmer would only receive 37 cents per bushel, and yet have to give 60 pounds in weight. It was suggested by Mr. Clancy, ex.M.P.P., that a fairer move would be to substitute a percentage scale of reduction and this proposition was assented to by the Millers' Association last week.

Mr. Wood a day or two ago received a letter from Mr. Clancy bearing on the grain question, which is of interest just now. It reads as follows:

"Dear Mr. Wood,—I am glad to see by the press report of the annual meeting of the Dominion Millers' Association held at Toronto yesterday that a resolution was adopted recommending that the percentage system in buying grain be applied to the price instead of a specific reduction on the bushel irrespective of price as has been the case in the past. I have reason to thank you for your very king suggestion to have this matter discussed when I was in Ottawa last fall, and when a delegation of the Millers' Association waited on the Government concerning the vexed question of mixing wheat at Fort William. The firm attitude of yourself and Sir Mackenzie after having heard both sides of the question on that occasion, has no doubt borne good fruit. The next step the farmers are most anxious to have taken in connection with this same question is that the relative values of wheat testing 53 pounds and upwards be fixed in the relation they bear to each other for commerical purposes and by some impartial and independant authority. (Sig.) Yours truly,

JAMES CLANCY.

A bombshell has been thrown into the ranks of the separate school supporters by the intimation received from Brother Superior Flamien of Montreal, notifying the Board here that the Christian Brothers will, on October 1, be withdrawn from all the separate schools in Ottawa, because as he charges, the Board broke its agreement with the brothers when it refused them entrance to Garneau school. This drastic action which for the time being may inconvenience the Board, will, however, render the task of securing greater efficiency in the Ottawa Catholic schools much easier. Three schools are effected by the Order, viz., Lasalle, Brebeouf and St. Jean Baptiste. A special meting of the School Board will be held to consider the situation.

D. N. Keeley, superintendent of the Government telegraph service has left for the Maritime Provinces to superintend the repairs to two Government cables, which are at present out of order, namely, one between Meat Cove and St. Paul's Island and that between Grand Manan and the mainland of New Brunswick.

The total number of arrivals of Chinese at different ports of the Dominion last month was 128, as against 8 for the corresponding month last year. The small number of arrivals in August, 1894, was due to the existence of the black plague in Hong Kong.

Major Gretton, representing several leading emigration societies of London, notably the East End Society, is in the city, and had a conference with officers of the immigration branch. Major Gretton has visited different points in Ontario during the past two weeks, where settlers sent out by the societies he represents are located, and he finds them doing well. From Ottawa Major Gretton proceeds to the eastern townships where other settlers are now living. He learns that there is a demand for farm labor in the Ottawa district, but not in the Northwest.

The fifth annual convention of the Canadian Electrical Association was opened this morning in the railway committee rooms of the House of Commons when a formal address of welcome to the assembled delegates was delivered by Mayor Borthwick. President Dunstan of Toronto, made suitable response. The convention met again in the afternoon, when President Dunstan delivered the introductory address. After transaction of routine business interesting papers were read by H. P. Dwight of Toronto, on "The Telegraph in Canada," and by A. A. Dion of Ottawa, on "The Consolidation of Two Systems of Electrical Supply." Tomorrow the delegates will be tendered a banquet which promises to be the most unique affair of its kind ever held in Canada. About 50 delegates are in attendance.

Mr. Dadwell, representative of the Public Works Department at Halifax, is in the city, and has had an interview with the officers of the Immigration Branch of the Interior Department in regard to making suitable arrangements for arrival of immigrants. As the sheds were burned down in that city some time ago, the department will provide necessary accommodation for immigrants before the winter sets in.

The people of Ontario have nothing to fear from the big storm which Prof. Wiggins has set down to occur between Tuesday and Saturday. Prof. Wiggins now states that the storm is to be merely a coast storm which will be felt on the coast of America and the west coast of England.

O'Connor's planing mill on Bank-street was totally destroyed by fire this afternoon. A general alarm was sent out and the brigade had a pretty stiff fight owing to the inflammable nature of the building and stock. The total loss is estimated at $15,000; insurance about $13,000 on the mill property.

Col. Lake, Quarter-Master-General, has returned from a trip to the Pacific Coast. At different points along the route Col. Lake inspected the military properties and stores, and at Esquimalt made a thorough inspection of the fortification works now in progress. He was accompanied on his trip by Major Foster, R.E., of the colonial section of the intelligence branch of the War Office. Major Foster was Col. Lake's successor in the particular work on which he has been engaged for the last three or four years, and is visiting Canada with the object of becoming more familiar with the country. He will return to his duties at the War Office shortly.

THE SECRET OUT!

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from various prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CAANDA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story:—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	PerCent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life	2.63	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

A Load of Hay Gets Stuck.

Yesterday afternoon as a load of hay was being delivered on the premises of Mr. D. Belleghem, the load being a large one caught in the alleyway leading into the yard, and before the driver could stop his team they had drawn the front axle, with wheels attached, from beneath the wagon. A good many hours work was necessary before the damage could be repaired, and the axle replaced by means of jack screws.

Interesting Statistics.

This month's issue of the St. Petrock Magazine, of Padstow, Cornwall, England, contains the following interesting item concerning Mr. Henry Harding, the aged uncle of Mr. John Crane, of Peterborough: "It may be of interest to many of our readers to know that Mr. Henry Harding, our esteemed and respected townsman, has been parish clerk since February, 1847. Up to the present time he has attended 2019 funerals; this number exceeds by at least 200, the present population of the Parish. He has been present at more than 300 weddings, at about 100 of which he has "given away" the bride; and has attended over 2000 baptisms. This is a fairly good record; with this to look back upon, it is not altogether surprising to hear him called the 'Archdeacon' of Padstow."

Put Money in Thy Purse.

Put your money back. You need only half the price now. High prices are no more. In spite of distrust, a good article can be had at a cheap rate. Since the Bordeaux Claret Co. came into the field with their cheap wines, imported directly from Bordeaux, there is less demand for the long prices. People want this cheap wine at $3 and $4 per dozen quarts. It hardly seems possible—for wine has been associated with long prices. Yes, long profits, but enormous sales at cheap rates make profits, too. And this is the position:—The people have good wine, wholesome, strengthening, which they can use freely without being impoverished at nominal prices. Address—Bordeaux Claret Co., 30 Hospital street, Montreal.

Tortured a Steer.

The efforts of a number of men to induce a tired steer to resume his journey along Aylmer street to the slaughter-house attracted quite a crowd yesterday afternoon. Every known device was tried but the steer did not move until it felt inclined. Salaried Aldermen.

A proposition to pay aldermen an annual allowance has been brought before the City Council of Ottawa by resolution. The Free Press says the citizens will laugh to scorn the idea of paying the aldermen large salaries. The resolution reads as follows:—"That the by-law committee are hereby instructed to bring in a by-law granting a yearly allowance of $300 to each of the aldermen, the chairman of committees to receive an additional allowance of $100, and that for non-attendance at any council meeting $10, and non-attendance at any committee meeting $5, and for non-attendance of the chairman at any committee meeting $10 shall be deducted from said allowance, said allowance, less deductions, to be quarterly, the by-law to come into force on January 1st, 1896, and be presented at the next meeting of this council.

Another Bear Story.

Bears have been making great havoc of late among the sheep and swine in North Orillia. During the week Mr. Azarley Calverley lost two sheep, and Mr. Sheridan, his next neighbour, two pigs, living on West street, only about five miles from town. On Monday the two men determined to watch through the night, in the hope of catching Bruin on one of his raids. In the evening Mr. Calverley was going across the pasture field to his neighbour's house, and when he got within three or four yards of what he had supposed was a log, discovered it to be the bear of which he was in quest, but which he had hardly expected to meet so soon. He retreated a few steps and the bear moved forward. He then fired and bowled the big brute over dead with the first shot, which lodged just behind the ear. The gun with which he was furnished was an old-fashioned muzzle loader, with only one good barrel. The bear was a monster, measuring over seven feet from snout to tail, and weighing, when dressed, two hundred and seventy-eight pounds, which would make its live weight in the neighbourhood of four hundred. Bruin was in excellent condition, forty-seven pounds of fat being taken from his back alone, and the skin was a good one for the time of year. Several other bears have been seen in the vicinity of Graychurch, and there must be quite a number in the vicinity.—Packet.

NO WORD FROM THE CONSTABLES YET.

Armed to the Teeth, a Posse is Scouring East Peterborough.

No word has yet been received from the posse of armed constables who are in pursuit of the tramps who participated in the affray at Curtis' Cut on Monday evening. It is known, however, that they traced the quartette to a point near German, on the 7th line of Otonabee, where they had stopped at a farm house, at which place it was definitely ascertained that their quarry had passed that way, as the description obtained of the tramps at the farm house was sufficient to identify them with the men for whom the posse was in search. The spot where the tramps had camped was located, but the birds had flown. The constables then received word that the men had been seen near Keene. One of them had gone into the village and purchased a file, and had then rejoined his companions. This was a clue for the posse, as it was at once discerned that the file was purchased for the purpose of removing the obnoxious handcuffs from the arms of the tramps. All along the route to Indian River clues were continually obtained pointing to the fact that the constables were hot on the trail of the fugitives. Late in the evening the party passed through Norwood, where the residents were not a little astonished at the appearance presented by the posse, every man carrying a rifle or a shot gun. This is the last heard of the constables and whether they have run down the tramps and once again found that Tartars have been caught remains a problem to be only solved by their re appearance in Peterborough.

THE STREETS UNSAFE.

Two Men Follow a Young Girl and Badly Frighten Her.

The ladies of the town are considerably excited over an incident, which occurred last evening, and as a result few, if any of them will venture out in the evenings in the future, for some time to come, unless accompanied by an escort.

It seems that during the last week or so ladies in different parts of the town have been accosted or followed by a rough looking stranger, much to their fright. Last night affairs came to a climax, when a domestic in the employ of Mr. T. E. Bradburn, on returning home, found that her footsteps were being dogged by a stranger. Her efforts to elude him were futile and she finally stepped into Mr. Donovan's grocery and explaining the case to the proprietor asked him to accompany her to Mr. Bradburn's residence, which he kindly consented to do.

On again coming into the street the girl observed that there were two men instead of one and that they still continued to follow her.

On arriving at her destination the pair actually tried to pass Mr. Donovan and follow the girl into the yard, but he promptly drew a revolver and a shot from the weapon induced the two blackguards to take to their heels. The police made a search but were unable to locate the men.

BROUGHT THE TRAIN TO A STANDSTILL.

Kind-hearted Trainmen Stop the Belleville Way Freight.

When about two miles west of Hastings, yesterday, the Belleville Way Freight on the Midland Division of the Grand Trunk, in charge of Conductor McCarty and Driver McMahon, caught up to a horse and carriage driven by Mr. Humphries, of Hastings. The horse had become almost unmanageable and as the track swings within about one hundred yards of the gravel road at this point, the trainmen to their horror saw the horse suddenly bolt and as the engine drew up beside him the animal wheeled and upset the buggy in the ditch. To the credit of those in charge, the train was brought to a standstill, although such an action is almost unprecedented, and the trainmen hurried to the overturned buggy. Mr. Humphries was accompanied by Mrs. Richards, of Hastings, and the old lady and gentleman were very severely shaken up by the accident. They were both assisted to the nearest house and word was sent back to Hastings concerning the incident.

The action of the trainmen in going to the assistance of the old couple cannot be too highly commended. Conductor McCarty and Driver McMahon are both known as two of the kindest hearted railway lads on the line.

LAW AS TO STEAM YACHTS.

Decision of the Department of Justice Regarding Pleasure Craft.

The following from the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries will be of interest to those who are owners of pleasure yachts. The letter was addressed to Mr. Jones, Collector of Customs, Brockville:—

Ottawa, Sept. 13th, 1895.

Sir,—With further reference to my letter of the 7th instant respecting pleasure yachts carrying passengers in your district, I have to inform you that the decision of the Department of Justice is that steam pleasure yachts carrying passengers and used exclusively for pleasure or private use, without hire or remuneration of any kind, are exempt from all the requirements of the Steamboat Inspection Act, except as regards the yearly rate or duty, and the inspection of their boilers and machinery, and except also as to the obligation to carry one life buoy, and to take the precautions against fire imposed upon all steamboats, and to carry a life preserver for each person on board.

There is, therefore, nothing requiring the taking out of a passenger certificate for such a steam pleasure yacht, if they comply with the above requirements.

Of course you are aware that no steam yacht used exclusively for pleasure or private use without hire or remuneration of any kind, of 3 tons gross and under shall be subject to any of the provisions of the Steamboat Inspection Act whatsoever.

I am sir, Your obedient servant,
Wm. Smith,
Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries
Registrary of Shipping, Brockville.

Hamilton, Sept. 9.—A very large increase has lately taken place in the sale of the specific remedy for complaints of the liver, and Dodd's Kidney Pills are in great demand. There are no complaints either from druggists or the public. The druggists being so near Toronto, the headquarters for distributing, are never in any danger of running out of the medicine for long, no matter how large the demand may be, and the public has long been thoroughly satisfied as to the valuable qualities of the pills, and the manner in which they invariably effect a cure.

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

"BRANTFORD '95."

The Provincial convention will be held in the above city next week, Sept. 24th, 25th and 26th, beginning Tuesday afternoon. On the list of interesting speakers is the name of Rev. F. E. Clark, founder of the movement, Revs. R. P. McKay and D. McTavish, of Toronto, Mr. W. Patterson, M. P., and Rev. W. Cochrane, of Brantford. The Junior rally on Wednesday afternoon will be one of the most interesting parts of the convention. Mrs. George W. Coleman, of Boston, a leading junior worker, takes part in this session. This county should be largely represented in Brantford.

FROM THE INFORMATION COMMITTEE.

One prayer meeting committee avoids monotony in the order of the prayer meeting service by preparing an outline programme for each meeting. This is handed to the leader a week in advance. Care is taken that the order is changed for every meeting, and that new features are frequently introduced.

The Golden Link tells of an Australian Society which uses the following prayer, all repeating it in concert :

"Dear Lord, of Thee three things I pray :
To know Thee more clearly,
To love Thee more dearly,
To walk more nearly,
Every day."

A Methodist society in Washington city held a service with a unique programme. One of the officers spoke on the topic "Look Up," another on "Lift Up," another "Read Up," another "Brush Up." The secretary's talk was "Write Up," the treasurer's "Pay Up," the Junior Superintendent's "Grow Up," the president concluding with a brief address entitled "Summed Up."

Prairie du Lac, Wis.—During the past year the Methodist society here raised sixty-seven dollars for missions, with a membership of twenty-one.

Waco, Texas'—The Presbyterian society has begun to hold services in the county jail every Sunday. Of the seventeen prisoners present at the first meeting, all arose and asked for the prayers of Christians, and four confessed Christ.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS.

The Local Union propose holding a conference of committees on Monday evening, Sept. 30th. It will, no doubt, be interesting and instructive to all Endeavourers. It is hoped that every member will be present that night ready to tell what his or her committee is doing, and suggest work that can be done. A more detailed plan of the conference will be published next week.

ST. PAUL'S.

The Sunday school was the subject of the topic on Monday evening, Mr. W. Madill, on behalf of the Sunday school, told its needs, namely, an increased membership and more teachers. Mr. Simpson read a good paper on "The qualification of the Teacher." Other members also spoke on the best plans to help the S. S. Altogether the meeting will be productive of good.

CHARLOTTE STREET.

A good attendance and and an interesting meeting is the report from Charlotte street this week. Rev. J. J. Rae gave a practical talk on Sunday School. The main object of the S. S. was to bring the scholars to Christ. The means used should be prayer—education of the faculties, and personal influence both in and out of school. The meeting was closed with a short prayer meeting, many taking part. Next meeting promises to be a good one. The topic will be "The Pledge, its origin, its joys, and its requirements.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY

Held their regular meeting on Monday night. There was a good attendance. The chair was occupied by Mr. Stevens and the meeting was an open one. Several of the members spoke on the topic, which made the meeting very interesting.

BETHEL—KEENE CIRCUIT.

On Wednesday last we had a very interesting meeting. It was led by our ex-president, Leah Fife, in the absence of the President and Vice. The topic was taken up by John Humphries in such an impressive manner that it interested all present. He dealt chiefly with the Christian Endeavour showing them their need of having more faith and to be more constant in prayer, which set their minds thinking of some opportunities they had lost by not being more faithful to God's commands. Our prayer meeting was conducted by Armanda Fife and the promptness in prayer showed that the teachings of the topic were effectual. We were pleased to see a number of visitors with us and our invitation to all is, come with us and we will do thee good.

THE WHEEL.

The local handicap road race to Lakefield and return has been postponed until Tuesday, Sept 24th, as several of the most prominent riders will be unable to compete before that time. The committee in charge of the race decided on this course, as it would greatly lessen the interest if such riders as Milt Walker, Herb Walker, Evans and Lord were unable to start. Entries will be received by Mr. S. B. Ewing, secretary of the local club, until 10 p.m. on Saturday. The prizes which have been contributed are valuable, and as there will be a great number awarded every rider will have a chance of securing one.

VALKYRIE'S CHIEF OWNER.

Lord Dunraven, the managing member of the syndicate that sent the Valkyrie to America, is an Irishman, whose family name is Quinn. Lord Dunraven has a soldierly bearing, and is distinguished by courtly manners, combined with very great energy. He has been a lieutenant in the First Life Guards; was A.D.C. to the Earl of Kimberley, and served with distinction as Parliamentary Under Secretary of State for the Colonies. He has been noted as an eccentric politician. One day he might make a speech in the House of Lords, where he sits as Baron Kenry, that is of sufficient importance to attract the attention of all Britain; the next he is likely to start off on a yachting tour without troubling himself about the result of his speech. Lord Dunraven's interest in yachting began even while he was at college. He then bought an old Cardiff pilot boat and sailed her with Lord Ramsay. Then he took to steeplechasing and gave up yachting, only to return to it when he met "Willie" Jameson in the Solent in 1887. Later he joined the Royal Yacht Squadron and became a member also of nearly every yachting club of any importance in the United Kingdom. Lord Dunraven has played many admirable parts in his thirst for adventure and athletic sport. When the war with Abyssinia broke out he secured the appointment of special correspondent for the London Daily Telegraph, and gave up his commission to do the work. He occupied a tent with Henry M. Stanley, who then represented the New York Herald. Lord Dunraven went to Berlin for the Telegraph during the Franco-German war, and served there until he broke his arm, just before the capitulation of Paris, and was invalided home. Lord Dunraven is now 54 years old. He is not only a sailor of boats but a designer as well. His twenty rater Audrey is a first-class boat that has defeated one of Watson's fliers in the same class. He is not only expert at the tiller but is a thorough master of seamanship and navigation.

"RAMBLER FROM CLARE."

What the Examiner Said of it When Presented Here in 1893.

Concerning the "Rambler from Clare," which Dan McCarthy and his excellent company present at the Opera House on Thursday, Sept. 19th, the EXAMINER of December 11th, 1893, says :

"The Dan McCarthy Company presented the well known Irish drama entitled "A Rambler from Clare," at the Opera House on Saturday night. The house was one of the largest which has assembled this season to witness a first class production. The characters were all well taken and the support on the whole was excellent. The specialties and songs caught the audience, who applauded lustily. The dancing was also clever. The company is a strong one, and the "Rambler from Clare" was altogether the best Irish play which has visited Peterborough for a long time."

The company is better than ever this season, and presents the play in a manner even more pleasing than before.

ENGINEERING CLASS GRANT.

To the Editor of the Examiner :

DEAR SIR,—Permit me through the medium of your valuable paper to present to our City Fathers a matter for their consideration, namely, that of making a grant of, say, $200 to the engineering class about to commence under the auspices of the Mechanics' Institute, or, rather, Peterborough Public Library. The object of this grant is for the purpose of purchasing the necessary philosophical and electric apparatus for use in the class, by means of which practical demonstration of the work under study can be made before the pupils; without the aid of this apparatus much valuable and serviceable knowledge must necessarily be withheld from the pupils.

Our City Fathers have always been noted for the liberality to many of the schemes presented to them, but I am sure no scheme presented to them of late can show anything like the advantages, permanent advantages, may I say, that the aid, if made to the engineering class will show.

This class is for the benefit of the artizans and mechanics of the town, and Peterborough being largely a manufacturing centre, it behooves us then to be able to offer to our artizan citizens the best practical education.

Given the classes and good tuition, the result, better mechanics and citizens, employers better satisfied with their employees, then strikes and their resultant evils will be a thing of the past.

I believe this idea of a grant worthy of consideration by our City Fathers, and should be pleased to see further correspondence upon the subject from some of our leading business men and educationalists.

Yours respectfully,
A. C. MCCALLUM.

SOME USES OF DENIM.

NEW PATTERNS IN THIS MATERIAL ARE BEAUTIFUL.

Denim is Now Used for Everything Including Portieres, Chairs, Curtains, Floor Coverings, and Even Outing Dresses—Its Utility for Renovating Purposes.

When denim in all the soft artistic shades was put upon the market, the housekeeper found that a long-felt want had been supplied. Its strength and durability had so long been known in the despised "blue jeans," that when those qualities were coupled with actual beauty, the new goods was eagerly seized in place of the cretonnes and many other pretty stuffs that only wear for a time. Now the new denim is used for everything, portieres, chairs, curtains, floor coverings, even outing dresses, while the small boy goes scathless of nails and dirt in his denim kilts.

For renovating purposes it is particularly useful, its cheapness putting it within everybody's means. The housekeeper, in despair over worn-out, upholstered chairs, can, with a little time and ingenuity, re-cover them herself by making tight-fitting slips. The chair in illustration No. 1 is covered in old blue denim embroidered in heavy white linen floss. The embroidery is quickly and easily done in outline stitch, and for greater convenience should be worked before the cover is put together. Tear off squares the size of the back and seat, and have some simple, bold design stamped upon it, or drawn by the home artist in chalk, and then inked in ready for working.

Unless the chair is of peculiar shape (in which case it might be well to first make a pattern out of old cloth), the denim can be pinned and cut to fit the chair. It should then be basted and tried on before stitching—a little trouble that may save a great deal in the end—and then stitched by machine to form a French seam on the outside. This makes a finish in place of cord. The result will be well worth the trouble.

For a screen that has outlived its beauty, but not its usefulness, denim makes an excellent covering. The screen in illustration No. 2 is covered in old-rose and green, the third of each panel being of the latter color, firmly stitched together, so that it will not pull apart when stretched. The wreath and ribbons are worked in shades of brown and green linen floss, with touches of gold thread. Cut out as many panels as there are folds to your screen, allowing enough to turn in on the edge, and fasten with brass headed tacks put closely together. Finish the back in the same way. Common tacks may be used here instead of brass headed ones.

Portieres of two shades of denim can be made very effective with little work. Cut out from the body of the portiere some simple design for a border and back it, the depth of the border, with another color. Turn in all the cut edges in the design, and baste down smoothly to the background. Now stitch all around the edges of the design with a loose machine-stitch in thread of the opposite color. This is shown in No. 3. Suitable designs can readily be traced from wall paper.

NO. 5.—COUCH COVER.

Still another portiere is shown in No. 4. It was made for a Delft room, and so, of course, is of blue denim, ornamented with irregular groups of circles, cut from the denim and couched on with blue and white art linen floss. The light side of the denim is used for the ground, the rings being put on dark side out, and the band across the bottom is dark with a chain of light rings. This is such rapid work, and requires so little attention or mental effort, that it is just the thing for idle summer hours on broad porches when friendly groups of women chat together. Serviceable divan pillows and chair cushions are easily fashioned in the same way; and stars and crescents are other pretty figures to scatter in the same irregular manner.

A couch cover of crimson denim, made on the same principle (see No. 5) has an all-over pattern of fleur-de-lis cut out and stitched down with black thread upon a backing of lighter red, the reverse side, with the white threads showing in it, being used for this.

These are only a few of the many uses to which denim can be put, and may serve to suggest other ideas particularly suited to the needs and requirements of the readers.—Edith Marie Allen, in Demorest.

TORONTO WATERWORKS.

An Outbreak of Disease Feared and Great Precautions Recommended.

Toronto, (Special) Sept. 16.—The accident which recently occurred to the Toronto waterworks conduit has created a great deal of consternation, and an outbreak of disease is possible. Doctors are prescribing the various precautions to be taken, and among them it is strongly recommended that the kidneys should be kept in a state of perfect regularity by means of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which experience has shown to be equally efficacious in the latest as well as in the earliest stages of kidney trouble. It is also stated by the physicians that this season is one in which the kidneys are peculiarly susceptible to disorder.

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. H. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says:

"A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the varioloid, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Wer[illegible] Clymnia St., New Orleans, La.

CORN HARVESTER.

A SIMPLE DEVICE THAT CAN BE MADE AT HOME.

The Cheapness of the Machine is a Point in its Favor—Patience and Judgment Used in Running the Cutter Will Bring About Good Results.

The illustration represents a device which I made last year for cutting corn for fodder. Make a platform with runners six feet long and two inches thick; the higher the runners are the higher it will cut. I used six-inch runners, but probably eight-inch plank would be more satisfactory. Mortise three crosspieces of 2x4 into the top of runners; be sure the frame is square and made substantial. Nail boards on the crosties in order to make a complete platform 30 inches wide and nearly six feet long. Get a knife made of good steel; be sure that it is sharp and bright, so it will cut like a butcher knife. My knife was 22 inches in length, and about five inches wide in the widest place. Bevel the edge from the bottom or underside. Have a rod made with an eye in the centre and curved, in order to fasten either end to a runner and hitch a horse in the centre. This rod should be of half-inch round iron, and long enough to work nicely (see letter a in cut). Bore a hole in platform or runner, and put in a stake about six inches high (b) even across with the base of rod (c). This stake should be of good wood about the size of a fork handle. Put another stake about the same size, but 20 inches high, on the right side of platform near the edge, and 21 inches from the front of platform (d). Take a rod of five-eighths inch round iron 67 inches long, and weld a piece of flat iron one-half inch thick and eight inches long to the end of it, bolt the flat piece to platform (12 inches from center to back of platform, and bend the rod forward 17 inches above the platform (e). Bend the rod so as to have it extend out over the edge of the platform, over and back of the knife (h), then bend the rod in so as to extend about two inches over the platform at the centre 2x4 cross brace (f). From there bend the rod out to (g). Be sure to have it carry the same height all the time.

SIMPLE CORN HARVESTER.

The bends in the rod are made in order to bring in the corn and lay it across the platform without the help of a man. In this way we avert the danger of standing over the knife and the hard work of catching the corn. Nail a small stick, something like a lath from top of stake (d) to the outside runner a few inches ahead of the knife. Bolt the knife to the platform about 26 inches from back part of platform with two bolts, and have the knife slant back considerably. I put a scrap piece of 2-inch plank under the platform at (c) and (h), to make the platform more solid where the large rod and knife were bolted fast. The large rod from (g) to (e) should be with bends 30 inches long. Directly across it is 48 inches, thus using two inches for bends. The large rod is outside of stake (d) about five inches.

This machine can be mounted upon three wheels if desired, but it runs very easily and more steadily with runners. One horse will march right along with it. Take a good, quiet horse, hang up the lines on (d) and then ride on back part of platform, and when a large pile of corn is cut and laid across the sled, stop and shock it up. I made shocks 14 hills square, at the rate of 60 per day, quite nicely. Where gallon hills are used, cut two rows by hand and cut the other 12 with a cutter, commencing at the gallon hills, and turn to the left each time. Where you are in a hurry count off seven rows and go through, throwing the corn in a pile on the stubs; come back on the adjoining row and cross the pile, then erect the shocks. I recommend cutting two rows by hand and tying the gallon hills; then you have your corn all standing nicely.

When you have completed the row, or very soon after, tie the shocks so as to have them stand up perfectly Take a good rope with a ring in the end, and draw up the shock as tightly as possible by hand, then put a string of binder twine around it, tie good and take off the rope; the shock is then in shape to keep. Probably the big rod will not work just right at first, but have a little patience; it will work all right if it is bent just right. The corn must be in around the bend before the knife strikes it. The larger the bend in the centre of the rod the nearer crosswise the corn will fall. Throw the tops of the corn forward toward the front left-hand corner, in order to get best results. Use patience and judgment in making and starting this cutter, and you will have a safe, durable and simple corn cutter. Its cheapness is also a point of consideration. In case your runners are not as high as you desire, splice by bolting others on the inside, letting them project down the desired distance.—American Agriculturist.

A BEAUTIFUL BODICE.

How a Summer Skirt Should Be Stiffened.

When the accompanying model was shown me, writes a Record correspondent, I could think of nothing but the dress of a shepherdess. True, it does not look like one in the least, and yet the soft white silk and the stiff bunches of pink and green flowers sugested the bisque figures which we see from time to time.

The bodice of this gown lingers charmingly in my memory. We have seen so many waists with ruffles running up and down that it is a relief to learn that a bodice can be made with a circular instead of a long effect. The yoke is perfectly plain and beneath it five narrow ruffles encircle the waist. Shirred epaulettes and two ruffles over the sleeve broaden the shoulder effect. The large puff sleeves are finished at the elbow under a band and bow of green ribbon.

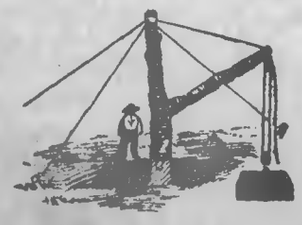
With a gown of this material, soft China silk, it is very difficult to get the proper hang of the skirt, since no stiffening should be used. This difficulty is obviated by wearing a stiffened underskirt. White alpaca adapts itself to this usage very well and should be stiffened with haircloth about nine inches above the hem.

How the Difficulty Was Met.

To get out a lot of muck and dump it on the upland to drain while the drouth lasted, this was the question. The swamp was too soft for a team and human muscle was too expensive to lift it into a cart or wheel it ashore. But brains did it. A tree growing in the woods near by was cut, and its odd shape made to serve as a crane.



This could be swung out 15 feet over the muck, loaded and swung over the dry ground a like distance, dumping in piles on to carts. What more could be asked for? And it works as well as if it cost $50. The only blacksmith work required is a ring at the top to fasten the stay wires to.—American Agriculturist.

CANDY

FOR CHILDREN.

The Popular Health Magazine says the desire in a child for candy and sweets is a natural one and should not be stifled. Good candy and sweets in moderation, not only do no harm, but are actually beneficial. Too much sweet upsets the stomach and spoils the appetite, but candy in moderation if it is not taken before a meal, is food which children crave naturally, and among the purest and most wholesome is that manufactured by

BIG PROFITS —ON— Small Investments

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within a short time as by successful Speculation in Grain, Provisions and Stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED can be made by our Systematic Plan of Speculation

originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system.

It is a well-known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 to $100,000 or more by those who invest a few thousand.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plain are persons who live away from Chicago and invest through brokers who thoroughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.

WRITE FOR CONVINCING PROOF, also our Manual on successful speculation an our Daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers. ALL FREE Our Manual explain margin trading fully. Highest references in regard to our standing and success.

"SUN" LIFE Assurance Co'y of Canada.

The Rev. J. L. Murray, of Kincardine, Ontario, assured in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, in December, 1874, under Policy No. 1406, on the Twenty Year Endowment plan, paying an annual premium of $69.90 for ten years. He paid into the Company in all $699. In December, 1894, his Endowment matured, and he received a cheque from the Company for $1,364.70, being a return of all the premiums paid, and in addition, $665.70. That is to say Mr. Murray got back all the money he invested, with about 4½ PER CENT. COMPOUND INTEREST, and had his life assured for $1,000 for twenty years free of charge.

It is needless to say that Mr. Murray was much pleased. You may gather that fact from the persual of his letter hereto appended. QUERY:—How many of the people of Peterborough invests their money to better advantage?

N. B.—This is an example of profits paid under our Five Year Distribution plan. The results under our Reserve Dividend (or Semi-Tontine) policies may reasonably be expected to greatly exceed that realized under the above plan.

KINCARDINE, JAN. 6th, 1895.

The Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, Montreal.

GENTLEMEN:—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your cheque in full settlement of claim under my Ten Payment Twenty Year Endowment policy, No. 1406, and I desire to express my satisfaction with the result of my investment. I paid to the Company an annual premium of $69.90 for ten years, making a total of $699, for which I now receive a cheque for $1,364.70, being a return of all I have paid the Company, and in addition, $665.70, besides having had my life assured for $1,000 during the twenty years. This I consider very good indeed, and I have pleasure in giving my testimonial to that effect.

Yours sincerely,
(Signed,) REV. J. L. MURRAY.

SPORTS' DAILY ROUND

Henry of Navarre Outfoots All the Cracks.

CLIFFORD AND SIR WALTER BEATEN

Trotting at Dufferin Park—A Dump For the Talent at Windsor—Intermediate Lacrosse Finals—Results of the Baseball League Games.

Gravesend, Sept. 17.—The fall meeting of the Brooklyn Jockey Club began under more favorable circumstances than usual to-day. Fine weather brought out a large crowd, there being at least 5000 persons present. The attraction was the first special, an allowance event, for all aged horses, at a mile and a quarter. It drew together the five best horses in this country, including the mighty Henry of Navarre, the flying Dwyer colt Domino and the great but erratic Ivy of Santa Anita. In addition, Clifford and Sir Walter were thrown in at weights that gave them more than a fighting chance. After several false breaks, for which Clifford was to blame, they finally got away in good order. Sir Walter at once took up the role of leader. Taral pursued different tactics with Clifford to-day. He endeavored to head a waiting race of it, and kept him in the rear of Clifford. Ivy passed the grand stand first with Sir Walter a length and a half before Santa Anita, who was tapped to the withers by Clifford, who was clear of Clifford and Domino. This order was maintained to the stretch. A general closing up ensued as they neared the turn, and as Sir Clifford moved up to Sir Walter. They swung into the homestretch, with Sir Walter a length to the good of Anita and Navarre. Domino, as usual, did not finish. Waiting tactics was beaten before the homestretch was reached, and he gave up the struggle as soon as they were headed for home. Taral took matters very calmly with Navarre, he gradually wore down Sir Walter's lead and finally won, with comparative ease, by a length. Clifford, who came with a rush in the last furlong, wrested the place from Sir Walter by an eck. Sir Walter third. Santa Anita was a bad fourth. The time was not sensational.

The other big event was the race for the Holly Handicap of the value of $5000. It was won easily by Ben Brush, who was third in Domino in the Flash. Summaries:

First race, 3-4 mile—Duke of Spindle, 105, Barnes, 4 to 1, 1; Midlothian, 110, Hodges, 6 to 1, 2; Emmet, 105, Littlefield, 10 to 1, 3. Time 1.15 1-4. Wernberg, Discount, Waltzer, Flying Dutchman, Stockbridge, Ada also ran.

Second race, 1 1-8 miles—Patrician, 110, Simms, 2 to 5, 1; Song and Dance 108, Grimm, 5 to 1, 2; Bombastic, 98, O'Leary, 10 to 1, 3. Time 1.56 1-2. Cass also ran.

Fifth race, 5-8 mile—Woodvine, 102, Griffin, 4 to 5, 1; Frontier, 115, Thorn, 6 to 1, 2; Sweet Favonius, 105, Doggett, 12 to 1, 3. Time 1.02 1-4. Fanning Waltz, Benmeda, Curio, Fremango, Beckstaff, Sam Marco also ran.

Sixth race, 1 mile—Lucania, 112, Reiff, even, 1; Brandywine, 115, Griffin, 4 to 1, 2; Aerbest, 105, Simms, 6 to 2, 3. Time 1.43 3-4. The Bluffer, Sabina, Langdon also ran.

Beautiful Rain Fails to Name.

Windsor, Sept. 17.—About 3000 people attended the races to-day, but they were thrown down badly, one favorite only winning. Doubtful, in the last race, was the biggest dump of the day.

First race, 5 1-2 furlongs—Bankrupt, 80, Scherer, 5 to 1, 1; Edith, 113, Winn, 2 1-2 to 1, 2; Direlect, 101, McGlone, 3 to 1, 3. Time 1.08 3-4. Justice, Tenny jr., Dubious, Sir George also ran. Diamond left at the post.

Racing at Dufferin Park.

Toronto Sept. 18.—The fall racing opened yesterday afternoon at Dufferin Park, under auspicious circumstances. There was an attendance of about 600, with fine weather, the half-mile track in good condition and the racing first-class. The two books and the pool box did a good business.

Alice S. captured the 2.27 pace after five heats. Acorn won the first, but lost it owing to leaving his feet. Gillespie went up behind Acorn in the third, which he won, also the next. Alic S. winning the fifth and race. The 2.17 trot went to J. H. Metcalf's well-known campaigner, Chloe, in straight heats, and the 3-minute race was unfinished. A Question.

How can we raise more corn to the acher? Why, of course by using Putnam's Corn Extractor. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor has given universal satisfaction, for it is sure safe and painless. Like every article of real merit it has a host of imitators, and we would specially warn the public to guard against those dangerous substitutes offered for the genuine Putnam's Extractor.

DUNRAVEN SAILS FOR HOME.

No Likelihood of Further Racing Between Valkyrie and Defender.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 18.—Secretary Jeffrey [illegible] received a telegram from Lord Dunraven, in which he stated he was extremely sorry at being unable to attend the proposed banquet in Toronto. The telegram gave the information that he would sail for England on Thursday of this week on the Valhalla, the largest steam yacht afloat. This will set at rest all probability of any further racing in America between Valkyrie and Defender. The letters made public between Lord Dunraven and Mr. Iselen show the representative of the Defender to be agreeable to anything for a race and a practical settlement of superiority between the yachts. In fact, he was willing to have the whole races resailed. This sugegstion he communicated to the America's Cup Committee and Lord Dunraven. The committee declined to accept the suggestion and Lord Dunraven would do nothing but abide by the committee's decision.

Public Reception to Dunraven.

London, Sept. 17.—The town of Cardiff, Wales, of which Lord Windsor has accepted the mayoralty, offers to Lord Dunraven a public reception on his return from the United States. Lord Dunraven's chief residence, Dunraven Castle, is in Glamorganshire, of which Cardiff is the capital.

TIED UP IN THE YARD

An Eight-Year-Old Boy a Prisoner for Days.

KEPT WITHOUT FOOD OR DRINK.

Poorly Clad and Unfed, in the Hot Sun and Cold Rain, For Three Days and Probably Three Nights, the Neighbors Say, the Boy Was Tied Up Like a Dog.

New York, Sept. 19.—A remarkable story of cruelty was related in the Ewen-street, Brooklyn, Police Court yesterday by Mrs. Julia Mott, a Williamsburgh mission worker, and Agent John Meyer of the Brooklyn Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

The victim is an 8-year-old boy, and the perpetrator of the outrages on the little fellow is his stepmother. For three days and the greater part of three nights she kept him tied by the right foot and the waist to a grapevine in the rear yard of her house, giving him no food and nothing but a shirt to cover his shivering little body. The child's sufferings, as described by neighbors, were horrible. All night long he would moan and cry with fright, and on Thursday last, when a heavy thunderstorm passed over the city, his shrieks for help moved even his stepmother, and he was allowed to come into the house for several hours. When the storm had passed, however, according to the neighbors, he was once more carried out into the yard and tied to the vine, despite the wet ground, the damp air and the cold wind.

The unfortunate child is Burrel Bayard, and his stepmother is Carrie Bayard. The police hold the child's father blameless in the matter. He claims that he knew nothing of the child being tied up, and the neighbors believe him.

Mrs. Bayard is Bayard's third wife, while he is her second husband. The boy, Burrel, is Bayard's son by his second wife. Mrs. Bayard has three children by her first husband and two by Bayard. Her last child was born only last Monday night. The birth of this child was all that saved the womn from being arrested on Monday when Agent Meyer called at the house with a warrant for her.

No one knows what little Burrell did to make his stepmother punish him so severely. On Tuesday morning she dragged him out into the yard, tied a piece of rope to his leg, passed it up around his waist, and then fastened the other end securely to the grapevine, leaving the boy about two feet of slack rope. The first person to notice the child's predicament was Mrs. Mary Engleman, who lives next door to the Bayards. She heard him crying, and looking out of her window saw him frantically trying to free himself. Noticing Mrs. Bayard in another part of the yard, she called to her and asked her what she meant by tying the boy up.

"He's a bad boy," replied Mrs. Bayard, "and won't stay in the house. Not only that, but he steals the food out of the closet and runs away with it. Now I mean to punish him good for it."

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Miller saw the boy, scantily clad, struggling to climb under the grapevine to get out of the hot sun. On Tuesday evening he was still there, and at 11 o'clock Mrs. Miller heard him crying piteously. It had grown quite cold by this time, and Mrs. Miller wondered if the boy was still tied to the vine. She went out into the yard and looked through the fence, and saw that he was. He was still clad as he had been during the day, but was shivering with the cold now instead of wincing under the hot sun. Mrs. Miller called through the fence to him, and the child immediately began begging for food.

Mrs. Miller got him a piece of bread and butter and passed it through a hole in the fence to the child. He ate it ravenously and begged for more. The woman brought him another piece and when he had eaten it he told her that it was the first food he had had all day. There is no absolute proof that the child was out all night, but at midnight the neighbors say they heard him moaning, and early Wednesday morning Mrs. Miller looked through the fence and saw him still tied to the grapevine. All day Wednesday the little fellow remained tied to the grapevine, and every time one of the Miller family went into the yard he would cry out for something to eat.

"There is no doubt in my mind," said Mrs. Miller yesterday, "that the boy was tied there all Tuesday night, though, of course, he might have been taken in for a few hours and then brought out again without our knowing it. I know that he was still tied there late Wednesday evening, and early Thursday morning he was still there. I questioned him through the fence, and he told me that he had not been untied since Tuesday morning, and that in all that time he had not had a bit of food save that which I and members of my family had passed through the fence to him the night of the thunder storm, and they left the poor little fellow out in almost all of it. It thundered for an hour before the rain came, and the little fellow cried with fright. It was pitch dark, too, and very cold, and the boy only had the very thinnest kind of clothing on. It was not until the rain had been falling for some minutes and he had become drenched through that somebody came out and took him in. After the storm he was brought out and tied up again, but how late he was left there I do not know. On Friday morning he was still there, however, and then I heard of Mrs. Mott and I went and told her all the facts of the matter and she came around and saw for herself."

Mrs. Mott was seen at her home, 166 Power-street, last night. "I went around to Mrs. Miller's house," she said, "and through the fence I saw the boy. The poor child was securely tied to the grapevine, and had but two feet of slack rope. I never saw such a pitiable object. The little face was drawn and pinched, and the suffering and misery it had passed through were written on every line. I talked to him through the hole and he told me the same story told to Mrs. Miller. I went around again on Saturday morning and saw the child still tied there, but Mrs. Miller could not say whether it had been out all night."

While Mrs. Mott was talking to the child on Saturday morning, Mrs. Bayard came out of the house and saw her. Immediately she untied the boy and took him in. Since then he has not been out in the yard at all.

THE GOVERNOR'S SALARY REDUCED.

Her Majesty Assents to Whiteway Retrenchment Bill.

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 19.—Sir Ambrose Shea, ex-Governor of the Bahamas, who is a native of Newfoundland, arrived to-day from England. It is believed that he is acting as special representative of Mr. Chamberlain, the British Colonial Secretary, to report on the condition of things here and that he will probably be appointed Governor later on.

The Queen has assented to the bill reducing the salaries of the Governor and Judges of the Supreme Court, which Governor O'Brien refused to sign. It is understood that the reason for the asenting to the bill is that the Imperial Government does not wish to give the Whiteway Ministry an excuse to evade the consequences of the Retrenchment bill.

The Newfoundland vessels seized on the Labrador coast a fortnight ago by Canadian Collector Howard, have been released. The owners all claim heavy damages from Canada.

LARGEST BRIDGE IN THE WORLD.

Contract Let For a Mammoth Arch at Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Sept. 19.—The first step in the construction of the largest steel arch bridge in the wirld of single arch plan was taken to-day, when the contract was let for the construction of the foundation for the mammoth arch, which will be over 850 feet across, besides the shore line parts. The bridge is to be constructed from the plans of Engineer C. C. Buck, who is the chief engineer of the new East River Bridge, New York. The contract for the foundations was awarded to B. P. Smith of Rochester, his bid being the lowest of quite a number. Work is to commence immediately and the stone structural work will be completed by winter. This will be left standing to see what the effect of the rise and fall of the river and the ice jams will have upon it. The contract for the iron and steel work will be let this winter and the superstructure completed ready to put up early in the spring.

U.S HAWAIIAN CABLE.

Hawaii Said to Have Promised a $40,000 Twenty Year Subsidy.

London, Sept. 19.—The Morning Post prints a despatch to a news agency saying that American planters have secured a concession from the Hawaiian Government and a contract has been signed granting an annual subsidy of $40,000, with exclusive rights for 20 years, to lay a cable from the American Continent, which shall extend only to Hawaii. The Government agrees not to permit the laying of any other cable to Hawaii. The contractors stipulate that the line shall not be constructed until arrangements have been made for an annual subsidy of $175,000 from the United States Government. The line must be begun in 1897, and be completed by November of the following year. The negotiations were conducted with the greatest secrecy, and when they were completed the British and German members of the Chamber of Commerce protested against the exclusive right given to the contractors for the laying of a cable to Hawaii. The promoter of the scheme is Col. C. S. Spalding.

"FOOTLESS BICYCLES."

Petroleum Wheels are to Follow the "Horseless" Carriages.

Washington, Sept. 18.—Consul Chancellor at Havre has supplied the Department of State a report on horseless carriages. He says that bicycles and tricycles with the petroleum motor added weigh less than 100 pounds. The price is $250. In order to get the machine in motion the rider after mounting turns a tap to admit the petroleum, which at the same time turns on an electric current which ignites the vapor. He then propels the machine with his feet until he finds the motor is working. There is also in course of construction a somewhat similar machine to carry two persons.

For the propulsion of ordinary carriages a kind of steam horse is used. The front wheels are removed and an extra wheel attached to a projecting platform of the steam horse. In these engines coke is used for fuel, and there is no noise, smoke or steam. The weight is not increased greatly. Prices range from $1,800 to $2,500. Smooth roads are essential to the use of the carriages.

WRECKED BY WIND.

Or Damaged By the Lightning of Wednesday.

INDIANS MEET DEATH IN BRUCE.

A London Hotel Struck and a Panic Among the Guests Ensued—Barns Burned in Various Parts of the Province—Damage to Lake Shipping.

Zurich, Ont., Sept. 18.—Two Indian families on their way from Southampton to Kettle Point, pitched their tents in Taylor's grove, on the lake bank, eight miles from here, last night. The thunder storm blew down a large dry tree, which fell over on one of the tents, instantly killing one of the Indians and his wife and severely wounding their daughter, a girl of 13 years of age. Although in a critical condition hopes are entertained of her recovery. There was a third person in the tent, but she escaped uninjured. The dead woman is a sister of John Crowe, the Indian agent at Southampton.

Panic in a London Hotel

London, Ont., Sept. 18.—During the progress of the electrical stofm the Queen's Hotel, Carling-street, experienced a close call. Lightning struck one of the chimneys and the fluid passed down through the flue and blew out a number of "thimbles" which were in place for the summer. The house was filled with guests and a wild scene ensued. The crash of thunder at the time was terrific, and shook the building to its foundation. Men and women left their beds and ran about the corridors in their night clothes, some of the latter screaming with fright. The only damage done, however, was the knocking of a few bricks from the chimney.

The London House was also struck. Every lamp was extinguished, and furniture and crockery was tumbled about in all the rooms. No damage was done, except to a few water pitchers and basins, which were smashed by contact with the floor. Mr. Fleming, a boarder, was thrown clear out of bed.

Lightning struck the barns of Mr. J. Munroe, lot 14, concession 5, Westminster. They were destroyed by fire and a large portion of the season's crop went up in smoke. Loss $4000.

Heavy Damage to Shipping.

East Tawas, Mich., Sept. 18.—The most disastrous storm of recent years passed over this locality last night, disabling vessels, wrecking buildings and leaving general destruction in its tracks. The wind blew from the northeast at the rate of 100 miles an hour. Early in the morning the steamer Cadillac, loaded with pig iron for Erie, went ashore. The life saving crew worked all night on the Senator Blood.

The two-story frame building known as Orangemans' Hall, in the heart of the city, were levelled to the ground, as also was the two-story residence of R. J. Evan. The family escaped. At the fair grounds the roof was blown off the grand stand and 25 roofs of high buildings were blown down. The Cosigan Supply Company had its smokestack blown down and the roof smashed in. The roof was blown off H. H. Hascombe's residence. At Arthur Jones' planing mill the roof was lifted off and the building caved in, almost wrecking the plant. Scenes of destruction of every character are seen on every side. Several thousand feet of lumber belonging to the Holland & Emery Lumber Company, was blown in the river.

Thornbury Oatmeal Mills Gone.

Thornbury, Ont., Sept. 19.—The oatmeal and barley mills owned by Messrs. T. & J. N. Andrews were completely burned this morning. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Five Barns Burned Near Wyoming.

Wyoming, Ont., Sept. 19.—During a terrific thunderstorm last night five barns in this vicinity were struck by lightning and burned, with all their contents. The following are the names of the owners and their localities: John Armstrong, 14th concession, Enniskillen; Arch. Smith, 14th concession, Enniskillen; Robert Brownlee, 2nd concession, Plympton; Maxwell Houghton, jr., 7th concession, Plympton; James Houston, 8th concession, Plympton.

Thamesville Also Suffers.

Thamesville, Sept. 19.—At an early hour this morning the barn of Edward Brown 13th concession of Camden township, was destroyed by lightning, together with the season's crop. Loss $1000, covered by insurance.

Miles of Fences Laid Low.

Shepard, Mich., Sept. 18.—A severe windstorm at 1 o'clock this morning carried the residence of H. Fifield from its foundation and partly demolished it. The family were badly shaken up, but no serious injury was inflicted. Five hundred feet of a stave shed was carried away and fences and trees were blown down over miles of territory.

A MATTER OF "CONSCIENCE."

The Toronto World, the champion of Sunnay street cars and all Sunday forms of breach of the fourth commandment, is now championing the cause one John Matthews now in jail in Chatham, paying the penalty of breaking the law relating to Sunday observance by doing his usual work, making hay, on that day. The World takes three or four columns to show that Mr. Matthews is suffering a most unjust penalty for conscience' sake. The World's hay-making martyr, it appears, is a recent convert to a sect that has discovered that Saturday is the day to be observed as the Sabbath and because "for conscience sake" Mr. Matthews sees fit to rest on Saturday, his conscience is lacerated because he cannot break the law of the land and work on Sunday. If Mr. Matthews' conscience were so sensitive, he would pay some attention to the Divine injunction—"Obey them that have the rule over you." They who have the rule over us have decreed that no work shall be done on the Christian Sabbath, and the law of the land must be obeyed. The Jew believes that Saturday should be observed as the Sabbath, but as a rule he is a law abiding citizen, and refrains from pursuing his ordinary calling on Sunday. And the Jews' belief is a matter of six thousand years, not a new discovery made at the end of the nineteenth century. While Mr. Matthews lives in Canada, he must obey the laws of the country, which are founded upon the principles of the Divine law. If he claims exemption from the operation of the law of the land, the thief the footpad may claim conversion to the belief that the world owes him a living, and that his neighbour who has more than he has, should contribute to that living, and claim exemption from punishment for conscience sake. If Mr. Matthews' conscience is so tender, let him make some sacrifice for conscience sake. Let him observe Saturday as the Sabbath day, but let him like a good citizen yield obedience, according to the Divine command, to the laws under which he lives.

The annual fall fair of the Smith, Lakefield and Ennismore Agricultural Society opened on Tuesday and so far the fair is a great success, the entries far outnumbering those of any previous year. There is a good exhibit of grain, roots and vegetables. The turnips and potatoes are very large and apparently of excellent quality. There is a fine display of apples, tomatoes, grapes, canned fruit, etc. In the ladies' department the work is exceptionally fine with a larger exhibit than in former years, twenty-four feet additional space being required for this display. The directors feel highly gratified with the large number of entries made. The Lakefield brass band was in attendance, enlivening things with their music.

As usual at this season of the year, the ladies look forward with expectancy to see the latest and newest designs in fashionable headgear, and as the establishment of R. Graham & Son has long been noted for catering to the wants of the ladies, it was but natural that on their opening days their place should have had a large sprinkling of ladies viewing the novelties they had brought together for their inspection from England, France and Germany — this firm importing their own goods very largely. Their display of millinery and mantles is very fine, eclipsing any of their former displays. Shot goods are largely used in trimmings, in silks, velvets, ribbons, wings, tips, etc. The style of trimming is entirely different from that of last season, making a very pleasant change. Their capes and mantles are also marvels of elegance. Anyone wanting anything in these lines should be well suited here. And the prices—well, they are considered very reasonable. Have you seen their display yet? If not it will amply repay you for your visit.

Cocoa and its Uses.

We are wont to associate this new drug of marvellous medicinal properties with the grateful beverage of the breakfast table, but they are quite different in source and in properties. Coca is a most beneficent gift to the sick and suffering, as is attested by its rapid rise in estimation and the reliance now placed upon it by the most eminent practitioners in Europe and America.

Maltine with Coca Wine is the most reliable form in which the full medicinal value of coca may be obtained and the striking results derived from its use in nervous exhaustion, debility, weakness, or palpitation of the heart, warrant the high appreciation of its merits expressed by medical men who have used it in their practice. Maltine with Coca Wine is not a patent medicine, but a highly specialized pharmaceutical product, designed to cure disease in the only way disease can be cured, viz., by helping nature. Maltine with Coca Wine is worthy of your confidence. Sold by all druggists.

—:o:—

We have nothing but gratitude to offer the citizens of Peterborough and surrounding country for the very hearty reception accorded to Oak Hall on its Opening Day.

It was the right kind of a welcome—open-armed, cordial, enthusiastic.

It was a phenomenal success from start to finish. Type can scarcely give expression to the heartiness of our thanks to the hundreds of citizens from town and country-side for miles around, who participated in the ovation to Oak Hall on our Opening Day.

We had modestly looked forward to some extra attraction and recognition—on account of the good Clothes we had to show, our new attractions on the tables, our handsome store and our special novelty on the streets; but never contemplated anything like the sensation that was produced on Saturday last.

Even our neighbors, the other clothing dealers,—caught the contagion of the excitement and turned out to do us honour, or to imitate our example.

Thanks again, kind friends. We DEDICATE Oak Hall to the service of the MEN, YOUNG MEN and BOYS, of the Town and County of Peterborough

Prosperity

Is not only already in the air but it is percolating, permeating, honey-combing, everything associated with Oak Hall's opening. And as "much of success depends on a good start," we can look forward encouragingly,—FOR WE HAVE HAD A GOOD START.

Much has yet to be added to make our store complete—in stock, fittings, furnishings, &c,—in order to bring up the standard of Oak Hall's ideal. These have all been arranged for and will be added as rapidly as they come forward.

Reception Days

Will continue all this week, and the best opportunities for hand-shaking and inspection are yet to come.

H.M.S. ALERT SOLD.

Sir George Nare's Old Vessel Disposed of.

A NEW KNOTTY SCHOOL QUESTION

Commission to Re-Arrange Railroad Mail Subsidies Investigating the Alleged Fraudulent Rebate on Ground Corn—Wiggins' Storm Will Bring Snow.

Ottawa, Sept. 19.—The staunch old craft, H.M.S. Alert, which in 1875-6, withstood the dangers of the Arctic Ocean, has been disposed of by the Canadian Government at auction, and the proceeds, some £340, have been forwarded to the Admiralty. After the return of Sir George Nares' expedition to the Arctics, the Alert lay idle at Portsmouth, and when the Canadian Government in 1884, asked for the loan of a vessel for the purpose of exploring Hudson Bay, the Alert was transferred to the care of the Dominion Government. For the first expedition to Hudson Bay in 1884, the Government steamer Neptune was utilized, but in 1885 and 1886, the Alert went up to our Northern waters. Two or three years after that the vessel was utilized in the lighthouse service of Canada, but she was found to be both slow and unwieldy, and for the last few years she has been tied up doing nothing. The Imperial Government did not want her any more, neither did the Dominion, and now she has been sold as stated.

An officer of the Customs Department is investigating the charge, which was made in the House last session when the tariff was under discussion, that a rebate of 90 per cent. had been obtained on corn ground for fodder under the false pretext that it is being ground for human food, to which alone the rebate applies.

There has been a good deal of speculation as to the manner the second order in council on the Manitoba school question got into the public prints and is now pretty broadly hinted that the copy emanated from sources near the hierarchy. There is likely to be another school question before the Government soon, as according to telegraphic advices from the Northwest, the German residents there will petition both the Territorial Assembly and Federal Government for a modification of the present school law so that the German language may be both used and taught in the schools.

Statistician George Johnson has received a special invitation to attend the convention of the Deep Waterways Association at Cleveland next week. President O. A. Howland, in his letter, says: "It is intended to make out of the proceedings of this convention a kind of text book upon the whole of the subjects connected with continental waterways' questions. You will observe," he adds, "that amongst other things there are subjects of special importance to Canada, as for instance, the control of the levels of the great lakes' system, which is ever a burning question, made so not only by the impending completion of the Chicago Canal, but by the low water which is now impeding navigation." "Mr. Johnson is further invited to contribute an authoritative leading paper from Canada dealing with the cost, character and utility of the existing great lakes and St. Lawrence improvement. The object of the paper is to demonstrate how much work, and at what cost, Canada has already done, compared with the United States towards development of an international highway." Although the convention opens next Tuesday, and the foregoing request only reached Mr. Johnson yesterday, he will doubtless endeavor to forward such a paper in good time, having an excellent collection of material at hand for the purpose.

Sir Mackenie Bowell arrived here this evening after an absence of two months in the Northwest. The Premier is the picture of health and as active as a man of 30. He will get down to work in his office to-morrow.

The Canadian electricians continued in convention to-day, when further interesting papers were read. It was decided to hold the next convention in Toronto in June next. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, A. B. Smith, Toronto; 1st Vice-President, C. B. Powell, Ottawa; 2nd Vice-President, L. B. MacFarlane, Montreal; Secretary-Treasurer, C. H. Mortimer, Toronto. Executive Committee: Warren Y. Soper, Ottawa; George Black, Hamilton; E. Carl Breithaupt, Berlin; J. J. Wright, Toronto; O. Higman, Ottawa; J. A. Kammerer, Toronto; F. W. Badger, Quebec; Wickens, Toronto; Carroll Montreal, and K. J. Dunstan, Toronto.

Prof. Wiggins stated to-day that when he was reported yesterday as saying the storm would not visit this section he meant to imply that it would not touch here during the first days covered by his period of prophecy, namely, 17th to 21st. The storm, he says, will come to Ottawa and will reach here on Saturday, 21st, when it is at its highest on the Atlantic coast. He says it will be a windstorm and may be felt severely here. The storm, he says, is at present raging on the British coast and the coast of Labrador, and the people of Ottawa Valley had better be prepared for something big on Saturday. Several shipowners of the Maritime Provinces have telegraphed to the Meteorological Bureaus at Toronto and Washington for information in regard to the storm.

The temerature, Wiggins says, is very low at present, and there will in all probability be a fall of snow in Northern Quebec and the Northwest Territories to-night.

Posibly the Government may appoint a commission to regulate the railway mail subsidies, as was done in 1884, when two judges and the law clerk of the House of Commons were appointed. The Grand Trunk, as well as the C.P.R. is said to be pressing for a re-arrangement.

Last session a lively debate took place in the House over a brother of Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, who is a postmaster in a small town in Quebec, and who was going to lost the job on account of the Public Works Department buying another building for a postoffice in the town. It now turns out that the Postmaster-General has decided to leave the postoffice where it is, and therefore Mr. Laurier's brother will retain his connection as postmaster with the department.

It is reported that A. E. Forget of Regina has been appointed Indian Commissioner in the Northwest Territories. This is the position vacated by Mr. Hayter Reed who is now Deputy Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs.

The Speaker of the Senate telegraphed the Clerk of the Senate yesterday to place John Dunne for the present in the position of housekeeper of the Red Chamber, vacated by the death of his brother Peter Dunne.

The name of Lieutenant Panet, son of the Deputy Minister of Militia, is mentioned in connection with the position of superintendent of the cartridge factory at Quebec, which has become vacant through the death of Col. Prevost.

The awkward situation in which the resignation of the remaining 29 Christian Brothers has placed the French committee of the separate schools is such that the Minister of Education is to be appealed to for assistance. A letter was forwarded to Hon. G. W. Ross, asking that Separate School Inspector White be sent down to help organize a new staff of lay teachers to replace the Brothers. The faction which is backing up the Brothers is desirous of seeing the reformers placed in a hole, as they say they will take astion at law to disqualify two trustees, Philbert and Latour, so that they cannot vote the reform measure through the Board next week.

Mr. Foster is expected to return to the city on Saturday.

It is reported that Gen. Gascoyne, Canada's new commander of the militia forces, has leased Earnscliffe, where he will reside.

Several midwives were fined at the Police Court to-day at the instance of Detective Brown, acting for the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

The contract for construction of a lighthouse at Cabot Head, Georgian Bay, has been awarded to John George, of Port Elgin. Two foghorn machines and boilers have been sent up to this place. The Marine Department is advised that the new lighthouse at Double Top Rock, Georgian Bay, is just completed.

Milwaukee capitalists to-day communicated with the Interior Department asking for information in reference to a desirable location for iron smelting works in Canada.

H. J. Wickham of Toronto saw Mr. Haggart to-day on behalf of Mossom, Boyd & Co., who complain that owing to the construction of the Trent Canal the water in Little Bob Lake is being lowered to the detriment of their milling operations.

The Marine Department received advices to-day that the Government steamer Lansdowne towed into Gaspe harbor the schooner Paspebiac with crew on board. The vessel is 57 tons register, and has had a hard time in the Gulf, having lost her masts. She is owned by Collas & Co. of Jersey Channel Islands.

Mr. Costigan was busy at his department to-day. He looks remarkably well after his holiday at New Brunswick. Mr. Ives also returned to the city after two months' rest in Europe. Before he left here Mr. Ives was a very sick man and has greatly benefited by his European trip.

Mr. Alexander Sanderson, Choudrant, La., says: "Having used Ayer's Pills at least twenty-five years, I would say that for all diseases of the bowels, stomach and liver, which can be remedied by pills, these are always effective."

Captain Sweeney, U. S. A., San Diego Cal. says: "Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy is the first medicine I have ever found that would do me any good." Price 50c. Sold by John Nugent, 389 George Street.

THE SECRET OUT!

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from various prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story :—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	PerCent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE.....	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life.....	2.68	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

W. H's Life Policy for $10,000, issued April, 1889, Age 23, Annual Premium $177.

Total Cost for 6 years.....1,062 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy .....1,250 Dollars
Nearly 200 Dollars more than Insurance Cost.

A. E's Life Policy for $5,000, issued April, 1886, Age 22, Annual Premium $86.

Total Cost for 9 years..... 774 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy .....1,000 Dollars
More than 200 Dollars over Cost of Insurance.

Put Money in Thy Purse.

Put your money back. You need only half the price now. High prices are no more. In spite of distrust, a good article can be had at a cheap rate. Since the Bordeaux Claret Co. came into the field with their cheap wines, imported directly from Bordeaux, there is less demand for the long prices. People want this cheap wine at $3 and $4 per dozen quarts. It hardly seems possible—for wine has been associated with long prices. Yes, long profits, but enormous sales at cheap rates make profits, too. And this is the position:—The people have good wine, wholesome, strengthening, which they can use freely without being impoverished at nominal prices. TWO POPULAR YOUNG PEOPLE WEDDED LAST NIGHT.

Celebration of the Quinn-Moscrip Nuptials by Rev. Dr. Torrance, of St. Paul's.

A very quiet wedding took place last evening, at half past six o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. Moscrip, No. 192, Dublin street, when her daughter, Miss Ray Moscrip, was united in marriage to Mr. W. H. Quinn, the local inspector of the Bell Telephone system.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Torrance, of St. Paul's church, and in consideration of Mrs. Moscrip's recent illness during the summer, only the members of the family were in attendance, with the exception of the bridesmaid and groomsman.

The bride looked very attractive in a pretty travelling suit of dark brown tweed, trimmed with velvet of the same shade and buttons. Miss Edith McKee, her bridesmaid who was gowned alike, also looked most charming. The offices of groomsman were ably performed by Mr. Theodore McWilliams.

Mr. and Mrs. Quinn are both well known in town, and are most deservedly popular amongst their large circle of friends, who will join with The Examiner in extending the heartiest of congratulations. They left on the nine o'clock train for Hamilton, Buffalo and points west, where several weeks will be spent before their return to town. The presents received were all of a nature to be apppreciated by the young couple.

TRAMPS OUT-WIT THE CONSTABLES.

They Hide in a Church Until the Posse Passes By.

The posse of special constables, armed to the teeth, under County Constable Archie Moore, returned to town last night, but without the tramps. Their wives and sweethearts are congratulating themselves that the posse is safely back, however, as without doubt some fearful execution would have been wrought had they chanced across the tramps. In all probability a battle of such fearsome detail as that of Monday evening would doubtless have occurred, though as each constable carried a rifle or a shot gun the result would probably not have been so bloodless.

While on the hunt for the quartette the constables actually passed within a few yards of their quarry, as the fugitives had taken refuge in Bethel church to elude pursuit. A farmer who saw the tramps emerge from their hiding place after the posse passed by states that a more frightened lot of men he never saw before. They fled with terror in an opposite direction to that taken by the constables, and when last seen were still on the keen run.

Although the tramps have successfully outwitted the constables for the present they will have a hard time getting away, as the whole country is aware of the incidents which have taken place in connection with them during the past few days. Plenty of determined constables are on the watch for them in the villages. It has been learned that the quartette has now separated, and it is hoped the gang of desparadoes has dissolved partnership for keeps.

Mr. Shaw's Classes in Oil and China Painting.

Mr. Shaw has resumed his classes in oil, water colour and china painting. In addition to the regular classes there will be one class on Saturdays for children under fourteen years of age at half price, and as Mr. Shaw will not take more pupils than will fill this class on these terms, those who come late will not likely to be able to secure a place. Miss Proctor, ceramic artist of the Y.W.C. Toronto, and pupil of the celebrated china decorator, Bischoff, of Detroit, has consented to take charge of the china painting classes in Mr. Shaw's studio, and will be there every week to teach this branch. Some of her decorated china may be seen in China Hall, McKee's, McDonald's or Schofield's drug stores until Saturday, and in the art gallery of the Exhibition next week or at Mr. Shaw's studio on and after Wednesday evening, 25th. Miss Proctor comes highly recommended. Terms reasonable.

BOARD OF HEALTH DISCUSSES THE DAM.

THE EVIDENCE IN FAVOUR OF WHYTE'S POND.

Mr. John Burnham, Q.C., Produces Many Witnesses, Some of Whom Think the Dam to be a Benefit, and not a Menace, to the Public Health.

The Board of Health met last evening for the purpose of hearing the evidence adduced by the defendants in the Whyte's dam matter. Mr. John Burnham, Q.C., conducted the case for those interested in the preservation of the dam, whilst Councillor Adam Dawson cross-examined the witnesses in the interests of those who deemed the dam a menace to the residents in its vicinity.

Mr. D. W. Dumble was the first witness called by Mr. Burnham. He said in substance: I reside in the neighbourhood of Whyte's dam and own property in the vicinity. I formerly owned property on the corner of Donegal and Murray streets and heard no complaints about the pond from the tenants. The land south of the pond and creek, between Elm street and the pond, and in that neighbourhood, is flat and dished, and the water lies in the flats and rises in the spring near the surface. The water will gather in the adjacent cellars in the spring, because the land is a dish that holds water. I got rid of the water in my cellar at the corner of Murray and Donegal streets by a drain to the creek. The water did not come back from the creek, as the flats are ten or twelve feet higher than the creek and drain themselves into it. As the water sinks from the surface it drags with it, as it subsides, impurities from the surface to the lowest point, that is to the wells. Owing to the water in that neighbourhood rising so near the surface it carries down impurities from privy pits. The water from the creek does not carry impurities with it from privy pits, because the creek is lower than the privy pits. If the water in the creek was itself impure it might carry impurities to the wells, but the water in the creek is remarkably pure. So far as I know the creek is absolutely clean, and is a blessing to the town, for the stream is flushed twice a day from the dam. The most popular well in that section is the school well. In regard to Mr. Muncaster's case of diphtheria, a drain emptied just across the road, of which there was much complaining.

Dr. Yelland, sworn, stated that in his opinion the dam was not the cause of any sickness in the vicinity of the pond. He did not think there was any source of pollution above Park street, or below it. The bottom of the pond was gravel or mud. There was no organic matter on the bottom. The contamination in the wells in the vicinity would be drawn from the pit closets and not the pond. Even if the water stood in the pond for a day or two there would not be much danger of contamination. There would be more danger of a pit closet situated within 60 feet of a dwelling. He did not think the pond a source of disease. It might produce malaria but not diphtheria. When the water was let off in hot weather it would not have a bad effect.

Chairman Hartley—Suppose there was decomposed matter, would that not have a bad effect on the health?

Dr. Yelland—No.

The chairman—If the water closets are between the creek and the house, and the water in the pond is as high as the closets, would it be dangerous?

Dr. Yelland—I have never had a case of diphtheria in the locality, but think that I had one case of typhoid near the dam. I do not think the pond is injurious to health, but is on the contrary a benefit.

Wm. Deny, sworn, said—I have lived on the north-west side of the dam, between Park street and the Monaghan road, for 15 years, and received no ill effects from the pond. The water is dammed back as far as my place. There is a gravelly bottom on the creek and no deposit. There is no smell from the pond. Have had no reason to complain since living in the vicinity.

Alex. McIntosh, sworn, said he have lived for nearly two years within ten yards of Whyte's dam, and could not say that the dam had ever done him any harm. He never had to close the windows on account of the smell. Neither himself or family ever had any trouble from the dam.

George Brand, sworn, said he had lived west of Park street, north of Cedar, for three years and was not affected by the pond. The water in the well is better when it is high. The well is fifty feet from the creek and is all right at any time. It is not injured by the pond. There is no smell from the pond when it is either high or low—nothing offensive. Worked on the dam itself and did not notice any smell. He had a little sickness in the family but no typhoid or diphtheria.

Andrew Robertson, sworn, stated that he lived on Cross street on pretty high ground above the creek. The water flooded back to within about forty yards of his property. There was no smell from the pond. His health had never been injuriously affected by living in proximity to the creek.

Dr. Greer, sworn, testified that there was no deposit in the pond. He would not say it was unsanitary. Draining the water off would not produce diphtheria. He had noticed no smell when the water was either high or low. The only disease which a smell could produce would be malaria and he had never noticed any signs of this in the neighbourhood. He had never noticed any accumulation likely to produce disease. The water in the pond and creek did not seem impure. He did not think water used from the dam would produce disease. Stagnant water did not necessarily produce disease. It would be more likely to though than if it were running. He had seen nothing to lead him to suppose that typhoid or diphtheria would be produced from the pond. He had made a close examination during the day.

Dr. Bingham, sworn, stated that he had examined the dam yesterday and had followed the creek as far up as the bridge on McDonnel street. It was clear water running over gravel and stones. He never saw a clearer pond. Noticed no odor. Did not see how diphtheria could originate in in the pond. There was no deposit in the bottom of the pond. Did not think the pond was injurious to health. Draining water off was not injurious. The water appeared to be free from impurities. He did not think the water fit for domestic purposes. Did not see any decomposed matter in the pond.

Matthew Boyce, sworn, said, he had lived in the locality of the dam, about twenty rods northwest of the foundry for fourteen years and never smelt anything. His well was not contaminated. The water in the creek was clean.

John Rose, sworn, said,—"I live just east of the dam. Have not experienced any ill effects from it. Have lived there 20 years. My well is not effected. Never noticed any bad odor. Know of nothing injurious to health arising from pond. Have not had disease in my house. No water gets into my cellar and my well is not effected by the rise and fall of the pond."

Orlando Mowry, sworn, said,—Have lived on the corner of McDonel and Park streets for three years. Have never noticed any disagreeable odor from the pond. Crossed the Park street bridge on the way to work. The water is clean and had used it for washing. The water in his well was good and had not been effected by the pond.

William Marks, sworn, said,—Have lived on Gilchrist street, north of the pond, for two years. Passed the pond going to work, never noticed any smell. Have had no serious illness in my family. The water in my well is very good.

Jas. Job, sworn, said, I live on the corner of Dublin and Donegal streets and pass the pond often. Never noticed any smells or odors. The rise and fall of the water never effected my well when I lived on McDonnel street, just opposite the pond.

Albert Kinch, sworn, said. Was in occupation at the foundry for two years and was about the pond mostly all the time, and never noticed any smell from it. What I have seen of the bottom of the pond is gravel and stone. Have never seen any deposit of filth.

Richard Mowry, sworn, said. Often work close to the water and never noticed any bad smell except in the summer when there was the usual odor of running water.

Walter Scott, sworn, said. Put a plank in the dam a month and a half ago and was working near the water and had to throw back the bank on the bottom of the dam. There was no filth or bad odor. There was no deposit that I saw.

James Stevenson, sworn, said—I have lived in Peterborough for 53 years. The dam was built the year I came here. I have never heard complaints. I know the creek up to the Cavan boundary, and there is nothing to pollute it. I think it would be injurious to have the dam removed, as there are sewerage deposits in the creek below, and the dam flushes the creek every morning.

John Kincaid, sworn, said—The creek rises in the township of Manvers. It is fed by springs. I know of no source of pollution north of McDonel street except the pond in the park. I walked up the bed of the creek from Park street north, and did not smell anything offensive. The bottom is of stones and gravel.

The Board have now declared the case closed, and will discuss the evidence at a meeting to be held on Sept. 27th.

WELL SATISFIED.

Folks Living Under the Shadow of the Mountain are Pleased.

Hamilton, Sept. 9.—A very large increase has lately taken place in the sale of the specific remedy for complaints of the liver, and Dodd's Kidney Pills are in great demand. There are no complaints either from druggists or the public. The druggists being so near Toronto, the headquarters for distributing, are never in any danger of running out of the medicine for long, no matter how large the demand may be, and the public has long been thoroughly satisfied as to the valuable qualities of the pills, and the manner in which they invariably effect a cure.

Another Thousand!

One thousand more of the celebrated "A. H. S" tablets have just been opened at the Peterborough Bookstore. The demand for this popular writing tablet keeps increasing, because it is the best writing tablet made. It is put up in cream laid, ivory, white, pearl, amber, and English vellum paper—to suit all tastes, and the price is the wonder—only 10c, 12½c and 15c. The best for the money that has ever yet been offered. A. H. Stratton & Co.

Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact in medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true way to cure nervousness is by purifying and enriching the blood. The great blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this letter:

"For the last two years I have been a great sufferer with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. I was weak in my limbs and had smothered sensations. At last my physician advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did, and I am happy to say that I am now strong and well. I am still using Hood's Sarsaparilla and would not be without it. I recommend it to all who are suffering with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart." Mrs. Dalton, 68 Alice St., Toronto, Ontario. Get Hood's, because

A MOST SUCCESSFUL SHOW.

LAKEFIELD'S EXCELLENT EXHIBITION.

A Fine Display in all Departments—The Entries far in Excess of Last Year—A Large Attendance—Good Exhibit of Good Stock—The Winning Horses—Special Industrial Exhibits.

The annual exhibition of the Smith, Ennismore and Lakefield Agricultural Society was held in the live village of Lakefield on Tuesday and Wednesday. The first day of course was given over chiefly to the placing of the exhibits in the inside department.. On Tuesday evening, the skating rink which represents the exhibition buildings of the society were thrown open to the public and there was a very good attendance of visitors who were rewarded for their presence by a view of the fine inside exhibit.

The society is making rapid progress in importance. The entries of last year, which were ahead of the previous years, were 966. This year the grand total of 1,100 entries was reached, while the attendance in spite of the gloomy weather and the down-pour of early Wednesday morning, was fully up to the average.

It is worthy of note that among the visitors was Mr. Isaac Garbutt, who may be regarded as the father of the society, who has not missed an exhibition, except three years ago, when he was prevented by illness from being present. Mr. Garbutt, who is now on the verge of 90 years of age, was one of the first directors of the Peterborough Central, when the show was given on what is now the Court House Park, and the inside exhibition found place in the corridors of the Court House. This was nearly fifty years ago. Mr. Garbutt is still in excellent health and is more active than some of his sons.

THE INSIDE EXHIBITION.

This was of unusual excellence in all departments. The display of grain while not, perhaps, as large in the number of samples shown, was conspicuous for its excellent quality.

Dairy products, factory cheese and butter, were very creditably represented, and there was a good showing of home-made bread.

In roots and vegetables the show was a fine one; and it is not saying too much to assert that there never was such a magnificent display of roots in Lakefield before.

The display of fruit—apples, pears, grapes, etc.—was ahead of those of previous years, while the collection of flowers was worthy of special mention, the cut flowers, particularly the bouquets, showed fine taste in their arrangement.

While the domestic work proper was somewhat sparingly represented, the show of ladies' fancy work was worthy of great admiration. The quantity was large, and in general the excellence of the work was to be highly commended. In this department there were a few displays of miscellaneous work—some fancy rustic tables in red cedar, and Master Sherman Garbutt, son of Mr. H. C. Garbutt, had on display a fine case of birds eggs, being complete and all correctly named. There were also commercial displays of business firms, reference to which is made below.

It was remarked that in all the exhibition there was not a single instrument used in tilling the soil on exhibition.

THE OUTSIDE EXHIBIT.

This exhibit, which consisted entirely of live stock, was indeed creditable and the quality of the animals shown indicated the benefit that has been derived from the competition amongst the farmers and breeders through the medium of agricultural exhibitions.

It is surprising that with the unremunerative prices that horses bring that there should have been such a splendid exhibit in this department, a display that showed that in spite of low prices the love of the human race for the horse will never die. Of horses in halter, representing the rising equine generation, there was a large and satisfactory display, while the show of horses in harness was extensive and creditable in the extreme. When the general purpose horses were called for by the marshall, some seven or eight splendid robust teams entered the ring, and the heavy draught roadsters, carriage and saddle horses were represented by almost equal quantity and fully equal quality.

Horned cattle were out in force, and there was a fine aggregation of excellent animals. The thoroughbreds were quite up to the standard, the grades in excellence approximating very closely to the blue-blooded bovines.

Mr. J. H. Roberts, of Selwyn, exhibited for sale) a fine grade Holstein young bull.

Mr. R. C. Strickland showed a large herd of thoroughbred and grade Durhams.

Mr. G. J. Galvin had on exhibition a thoroughbred Durham, 2 years old.

Excellent grade Durhams were shown by Messrs. R. Garbutt, N. McIlmoyle, J. H. Garbutt, Levi Steel, John Hull and Mr. — Richardson.

Mr. J. Fred Davidson's aged thoroughbred Durham bull, weighing about 1800 lbs., was greatly admired.

Messrs. John Garbutt & Sons showed some fine thoroughbred Durhams.

The creamy Jersey was finely represented, some specially splendid animals being shown.

Mr. Nassau Nelson exhibited a one year thoroughbred Jersey bull, purchased from the celebrated herd of Mrs. Jones, Brockville.

Mr. Joseph Trennum had a fine herd of Jerseys, comprising a beautiful one-year-old bull, two cows, two heifers and heifer calves and an excellent grade.

Mr. Webster Blewett's aged Jersey bull was a fine specimen.

Mr. S. McKibbon showed a fine grade Ayrshire cow and heifer.

SHEEP AND SWINE.

There was not a large show of sheep but many first-class specimens. In long wools the principal exhibitors were Messrs. John and Andrew Fairbairn, — Forsythe and Thomas Fitzgerald.

In short wools the exhibitors were John Garbutt & Sons and Jas. Brown.

In swine Fred Waldon exhibited two Berkshire sows, D. Darling an aged Berkshire sow, Mr. Jos. Trennum an aged Berkshire boar. Mr. Fred Sweeting showed Yorkshire Whites, and James Brown a fine Berkshire.

The poultry exhibit was excellent, being greatly superior to that of any previous year.

Altogether the exhibition of the Smith, Ennismore and Lakefield Society for 1895 was a very gratifying success, much of which is due to the energy and good management of the directors, loyally supported by the members of the society.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS.

THOS. HENDREN'S FURNITURE EXHIBIT.

Enterprise, wherever displayed, deserves commendation. It has been remarked that Mr. Thos. Hendren, Lakefield's oldest and foremost furniture dealer, has always shown a laudable public spirit in connection with anything calculated to promote the growth and prosperity of the village. His enterprise and energy are well known, and also well appreciated by the best people of Lakefield and surrounding country, where his name is as familiar as a household word. For years he has spared no pains to present a furniture exhibit at this society's show, which has been a representative display of some of the newest and most fashionable designs which appear upon the market. In so doing he has demonstrated a faith in some of our Canadian industries which is worthy of all praise, and shows an example which should be more generally copied at all our fairs by local dealers. Mr. Hendren's exhibit this year bore the first prize red ticket, as usual. It consisted of two handsome designs in bedroom suites, one in oak, the other in birds-eye maple. They were not of that massive style which might attract the attention of the fastidious few, but such as is adapted for the homes of the well-to-do farmer and artisan. A bedstead, dressing case, toilet stand and chair were shown in each of the different kinds of wood, and drew crowds of admirers. The mirrors of each set were in large British bevel plate, which swung and reflected in any desired position. The appropriate bright brass furnishings of each set combined to make a pretty and pleasing effect. The oak pattern was trimmed and ornamented with a beautiful leaf design carved on each piece. The birdseye maple pattern showed up in a smooth, clean and glossy effect,

SEWERAGE BY-LAW PASSED LAST NIGHT.

THE SECOND PORTION OF THE WORK TO GO ON.

Messrs. Bogue and Rutherford Formally Authorized to Proceed With That Portion of the Outfall Sewer for Which Their Tender was Accepted.

At a special meeting of the Town Council, last night, there were present the Mayor and Messrs. Cahill, Best, Denne, Mills, Phelan, Dawson, Clinkscale and Sawers. The reading of the minutes of the previous meeting were dispensed with, which the following

COMMUNICATIONS WERE READ

From E. B. Edwards, town solicitor, stating that proceedings could be taken by the Central Canada Company, under the notice served by them, to sell the premises of the Peterborough Carbon Co., if not redeemed within the time limited by notice. In the event of an assignment of the company the whole of the $4,000 mortgage held by the town becomes due. If there should be a deficiency upon a sale of the property covered by the mortgage, the bonds may be looked to as far as they will answer the amount. The mortgage is secured by the bond of Arthur Stevenson, Thos. Brooks, John W. Taylor and George Stevenson, for $2,500 (this bond being joint and several and not subject to any abatement until the terms of the mortgage are complied with), and by the bond of George A. Cox for $500, in which it is promised that any discharge or release of the mortgage shall be pro tanto a discharge or release of the bond. For any balance the town would rank as an ordinary creditor proportionately with the bank and other unsecured creditors. Mr. Edwards stated that it was impossible to place a value upon the security held by the town and concluded by stating that it would appear to be rather the towns interest that the business should be continued than that it should be wound up, the matter being still pending as to whether the Carbon Co. should or should not go into liquidation.—Received.

From F. Bartlett, asking for the appointment as superintendent on behalf of the town on that portion of the sewer under contract by Messrs. Bogue and Rutherford.

Referred to the Committee on Appointments.

From John Riddell, stating that Mr. Hayes, the contractor for the substructure of the Benefort Bridge, reports that he will have his contract completed on Wednesday, the 11th September and that a further payment of $1,000, will be due on Sept 21st. If the town grant could be made available for this payment the Commission would be greatly accommodated.

Mr. John Belcher, C. E., stated that the stonework would be completed by this week, and the whole bridge be constructed probably, by the 1st of October.

Mr. Phelan explained that the commissioners had expended about all the money they had in hand, and as the grant from the government was not available until the entire bridge was completed, they were anxious to secure the amount promised by the town as soon as possible.

The Mayor was anxious to see the bridge completed before the grant was made, as in case of the work not being carried out in its entirety, the town would not suffer a complete loss, as it would if the money was paid over now.

Mr. Denne wanted to see the money paid over, and did not think there was any doubt of the bridge being completed, as the iron work was now under course of construction at the Central Bridge Works.

Mr. Best stated that the money, if urgently required by South Monaghan, could easily be borrowed by that municipality. If the town advanced the money now Peterborough would have to pay the interest, as the amount would have to be borrowed. When the amount was promised it was on the condition that if Monaghan could not otherwise raise the sum required for the bridge that the town would help them out. Under the circumstances the town should be called on for its grant last and not first. If the bridge would be completed by October first, Monaghan could surely wait until then without great inconvenience.

Messrs. Denne and Phelan, who were preparing a motion authorizing the issue of a cheque for the amount, agreed to let the matter stand under the circumstances.

On motion of Mr. Phelan, chairman,

THE JOINT COMMITTEE'S report was adopted as follows:

1. The Committee held a joint meeting with the special Bridge Committee of the County Council on Sept. 14th last, when the following tenders for painting the Locks Bridge were opened:—Cook Bros. $105.00, Duncan & Gray $195.00, R. Carton $195.00. The committee decided to accept the tender of Cook Bros., provided they give the required security.

2. It was also agreed by the committee that the Ashburnham bridge be placed under the care of the Street and Bridge Committee of the town for the purpose of making temporary repairs.

The Committee recommends that the caretaker of the Locks bridge, William Kerr, be provided with two signal lamps, and that he receive the additional salary of $10.00 per year, provided the County Council agrees to their half of the additional salary, half to be paid by the town and half by the county.

THE STREET AND BRIDGE

Committee recommended in reference to the petition of R. B. McKee and others in regard to a proposed drain on Gilmour street that the petitioners are now paying a local improvement tax for the Park-st. drain and that owing to a bed of clay lying between their property and the Park-st. drain they received no benefit from that drain. Under the circumstances the committee recommended that a grant of $100 be made towards constructing a drain on Gilmour street from Park street to connect with the Park street drain. It is a condition of this grant that any ratepayers may have the use of this drain at the discretion of the town on paying an equitable proportion of the cost of construction.

The report was adopted on motion of the chairman, Mr. Best and Mr. Denne.

The bylaw authorizing the construction of that portion of the outfall sewer extending from the intersection of Crescent and Lake streets to the creek crossing George street was read a third time and passed.

Mr. Phelan stated that he had interviewed an expert in Toronto a few days ago, who had advised constructing the entire sewer of brick instead of partially piping as was contemplated. The matter will be threshed out at a future meeting of the council, if sufficient funds are in hand and the contract may be changed and orders issued for the construction of a sewer entirely of brick.

On motion of Messrs. Denne and Phelan, a number of additional tables and chairs will be purchased for the market building, the cost not to exceed $20.00.

THE FOLLOWING ACCOUNTS

were referred to the Finance Committee:

Examiner Printing Company	$153 00
"	4 50
B Poole, V S	1 00
J P Hurley	70
J M McClelland	3 00
Geo Stethem & Son	1 00

On motion of Messrs. Best and Cahill, it was resolved that the Sewerage Committee be authorized to have the steel pipes made for the outfall sewer, the pipes to cross the creek on George street, the gravel pans for manholes on the Edison sewer and the work now under construction. Tenders shall be asked from the local manufacturers for the above work and report made to the Council.

A meeting of a committee of the whole Council will be called, probably early next week, to decide regarding the completion of the sewerage system up George street.

A Question.

How can we raise more corn to the acher? Why, of course by using Putnam's Corn Extractor. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor has given universal satisfaction, for it is sure safe and painless. Like every article of real merit it has a host of imitators, and we would specially warn the public to guard against those dangerous substitutes offered for the genuine Putnam's Extractor.

New Process.

LIVE STOCK NOTES.

By the use of good rams in breeding this fall a fine crop of lambs can be secured next spring.

It is a good thing to grade up stock and a better one to weed out every inferior animal. Better to sell an inferior animal than breed it, even if you must sell at a sacrifice.

It requires just as much care and more feed to make the same weight with scrub stock than it does with pure breeds, and the price is never as high for the first as for the last.

If the hens can have a dust bath every day they can rid themselves of lice, but, strange to say, it is frequently the case that the hens can find no dust. It is necessary to stir up a piece of ground for that purpose on heavy soils that have been baked by the rains, and on grass plots the dusting is even more difficult.

Dropping of the wool is one of those common troubles of the sheep that is distinctly avoidable. It is mostly due to some congestion or irritation of the sheep caused by some adverse condition during the winter. When this happens, remedy is too late, because the trouble is at an end. But it is a costly disease, and should be stopped by immediately shearing, if it is necessary to blanket the sheep for a time as a protection against the cold. To avoid it, dipping in some medicated solution may be tried; it has been generally found effective.

In some feeding experiments made by the Kansas Exeperiment Station, the native scrub stock throve better under neglect than did the choicest thoroughbred animals. This was to be expected. If a farmer does not intend to give good stock good care and feed he ought not to secure the best. A few years of neglect will undo the work of years that has brought the improved stock to its present position. There is a natural tendency towards the deterioration of the best, and the conditions that have developed any excellence must be maintained in order to retain it. There is no use giving a scrub farmer the choicest stock, for he will soon make it scrub in character with himself.

A fall litter of pigs ought always to be raised whenever possible, partly for the value of the pigs and partly cause this also is best for the sow. Most sows, if well bred, will fatten in summer if they are not suckling or bearing a litter of pigs. The fall pigs are also generally healthy and thrifty at birth, because during the summer the sow at pasture has had a due amount of laxative food, keeping her digestion good. It is true that fall pigs often quickly become stunted, but this is because corn is then too plentiful while milk is scarce. The young pigs get too large a proportion of corn and too little milk. If the main feed of breeding sows and young pigs in fall and winter were roots and wheat fine middlings, the complaint that cold weather makes the pigs stunted would be less heard.

Clover is as much an egg producing material as it is a producer of milk. It is rich in nitrogen and mineral matter, thus providing the hens with substances that are derived from it in form most suitable for the purposes desired. Lime is an essential substance in the production of eggs, and there are some who use oyster shells for supplying the hens with lime, but clover contains lime in a soluble form and ready prepared for use. The various grains are deficient in lime, and when poultry receive no food but grain it is impossible for the hens to lay. When the needed elements are supplied, and the hens lay regularly, the carbonaceous matter is appropriated by the eggs, but if the hens do not lay they become fat, and remain in a condition which invites disease. Clover, by displacing the grain, supplies the hens with substances which are lacking in the grain, and also provides bulky food, and heating. When the hens have the use of a clover field they should lay a large number of eggs during the whole season.

The Oldest Church in Europe.

The only building in the world that has been uninterruptedly used for church purposes is St. Martin's Cathedral at Canterbury, England. The building was originally erected for a church, and has been regularly used as a place for religious gatherings for more than 1,500 years. A PROSPEROUS REPUBLIC.

Rapid Growth of the Population and Power of Argentina.

Some figures of the new census of the Argentine Republic that has been taken this summer have been received in New York. It appears from them that the growth of the country has been steady and rapid during the past quarter of a century, and that next to Brazil it is the most populous, as it is the most prosperous of all the countries of South America.

When the last Argentine census was taken, twenty-five years ago, the population was 1,737,000, but within that time it has risen to 4,750,000, according to the statistics of the new census. The increase has been over 3,000,000, and it is going on, in these years, at a rate surpassing that of any previous period in Argentine history. This is a remarkable record, without a parallel in the annals of South America. The population greatly exceeds that of Chili, with its 3,000,000 inhabitants, or that of Peru, or Venezuela, or Bolivia, or Colombia, while it is three or four times greater that that of the lesser Republics, Ecuador, Paraguay and Uruguay. It is one-third as large as that of Brazil, the most important of all the countries of the South American continent. Since the year of the census preceding that of this summer Argentine has taken its place next to Brazil.

The great growth of population is due in large measure to immigration from Europe, which Argentina has taken every means to promote. Over one-fifth of the inhabitants are of foreign birth, mostly Italians, French and Spaniards, and there are also a large number of Germans and English. The Italians have responded most readily to the inducements held out to them by the Argentine Government, and though that part of the census in which the people are classified by races has not yet been received here, it is safe to estimate that about one-eighth of them, or perhaps a greater proportion, are Italians. If this element shall continue to increase at the rate it has increased in recent years, Argentina will be far more largely Italian than any other part of the world outside of Italy. The climate is especially acceptable to the Italian. The natives of France there must number a quarter of a million, and those of Spain half that number it is by the three chief Latin races of Europe that Argentina has been populated.

The Indians of the country, who are yet numerous, are chiefly of Arcanian descent, and they are allowed to retain many of the rights and privileges which they possessed before the white race came among them.

At the time of the taking of this year's census the population of the city of Buenos Ayres had advanced beyond 600,000. It is by far the largest of Argentine cities. Among South American cities it stands next in size to Rio de Janeiro.

Argentina may now be regarded as the most progressive of the South American Republics. It has a number of institutions and laws that are in opposition to the spirit of the nineteenth century, but these cannot long withstand the liberalizing influences that now pervade the National Congress. Its constitution is modelled upon that of this country. President Uriburu, who became chief executive after Pina's resignation in the first month of this year, is a man of pacific temper, especially anxious to remain on good terms with his neighbors and to avoid those internal quarrels in which so many of his predecessors have become involved.—New York Sun.

The New Baby.

The new baby's wonderful—witty and wise;
He's nothing at all like the old!
He frowns when you talk of his "amethyst eyes"
And gurgles: "A chestnut!" evinces surprise
When you give him a rattle to hold.

The new baby's wonderful. Ere he is two
He stands for his measure in pants!
Knows more than his mother—this will never do!
He calls for the paper; wears spectacles blue,
And frowns down his uncles and aunts!

The new baby's wonderful in his abode
He lectures on that and on this;
He sleeps in no cradle—opposed to that mode—
The house hardly holds him; but gives him the road!
He's the boy of the bloomers—he is!

An Outbreak of Disease Feared and Great Precautions Recommended.

Toronto, (Special) Sept. 16.—The accident which recently occurred to the Toronto waterworks conduit has created a great deal of consternation, and an outbreak of disease is possible. Doctors are prescribing the various precautions to be taken, and among them it is strongly recommended that the kidneys should be kept in a state of perfect regularity by means of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which experience has shown to be equally efficacious in the latest as well as in the earliest stages of kidney trouble. It is also stated by the physicians that this season is one in which the kidneys are peculiarly susceptible to disorder.

BIG PROFITS —ON— Small Investments

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within a short time as by successful Speculation in Grain, Provisions and Stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED can be made by our Systematic Plan of Speculation

originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system.

It is a well-known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 to $100,000 or more by those who invest a few thousand.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plain are persons who live away from Chicago and invest through brokers who thoroughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amounts invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.

WRITE FOR CONVINCING PROOF, also our Manual on successful speculation an our Daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers. ALL FREE. Our Manual explain margin trading fully. Highest references in regard to our standing and success.

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. H. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says:

"A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the varioloid, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Wer— Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

Uprising Among Moorish Tribes

London, Sept. 18.—The Pall Mall Gazette prints a despatch from Tangier saying that the uprising among the natives in Morocco is spreading and assuming a much more serious aspect. Three great tribes have made a combined attack upon the stronghold of a chief who is one of the principal adherents of the Sultan and routed his forces. The aggressive natives are advancing and the Jewish traders are hastily gathering their portable possessions and taking their departure from the cities of Fez and Morocco.

Baron Hammerstein a Forger.

London, Sept. 18.—A despatch from Berlin to the Central News says the public prosecutor is about to issue a warrant for the arest of Baron Von Hammerstein, late chief editor of the Kreus Zeitung on the charge of forging bills to the amount of 200 000 marks on the name of Count Finkerstein. The chairman of the Kreus Zeitung committee. Baron Von Hammerstein is supposed to be in London.

Melinite For the Dardanelles.

Paris, Sept. 18.—The Libre Parole publishes a report of an interview with M. Turpin, the inventor of the explosive, melinite, in which he is represented as asserting that the Porte has asked him to apply his new discovery in fortifying the Dandanelles. "When my engines get to work," M. Turpin said, "the straits will be impassable to the united fleets of the world. French experts totally discredit M. Turpin's alleged engines of destruction.

Garibaldeans and Clericals Fight.

Palermo, Sept. 18—Large numbers of veterans of the campaign of Garibaldi are embarking en route for Rome to take part in the fetes commemorative of the entry of Victor Emanuel into Rome. While the veteran troops were on their way to the wharves yesterday they were attacked by a band of clericals, and in the ensuing fight a number on both sides were wounded. Order was finally restored by the regular troops.

The cars were boarded by Mayor Lamprey, the aldermen, the president and members of the Board of Trade on invitation of Mr. Sleeman, who took them over the whole system and, afterwards entertained them with lunch. Lord Rosebery Explains.

Montreal, Sept. 17.—A Star special cable from London says: "Lord Rosebery writes me from Dalmeny Park, Edinburgh: "The only foundation for the report that I am going to visit Canada must be that Lord Aberdeen has invited me." His Lordship further states: "I wish with all my heart that I could go, but my doing so is very problematical." Lord Rosebery has a political engagement at Scarborough on Oct. 18.

Female Diamond Thieves Arrested

Chicago, Sept. 17.—The police to-day arrested two notorious New York diamond thieves, May Murray and Minnie Penfield, alias May Kenny, best known outside of New York city as "New York May." The best case against them is that of stealing $500 worth of diamonds from the store of Casper and Barnes, a member of the firm having recognized the women. Both women belong to the class of thieves who were driven out of New York recently.

Murderers of Missionaries Released.

London, Sept. 18.—The Times publishes despatches from Shanghai saying that the Chinese regard the inquiry into the massacre of Christians at Kucheng as a mockery, and have begun to release the prisoners without consulting the British consul.

Shooting a Canadian Rapid.

As we approached, the steersman in the first canoe stood up to look over the course. The sea was high. Was it too high. The canoes were heavily loaded. Could they leap the waves? There was a quick talk among the guides as we slipped along, undecided which way to turn. Then the question seemed to settle itself, as most of these woodland question do, as if some silent force of nature had a casting vote. "Sautez, sautez!" cried Ferdinand, "envoyez au large!" in a moment we were sliding down the smooth back of the rapid, directly towards the first big wave. The rooky shore went by us like a dream; we could feel the motion of the earth whirling round with us. The crest of the billow in front curled above the bow of the canoe. "Arrete, arrete, doucement." A swift stroke of the paddle checked the canoe, quivering and prancing like a horse suddenly reined in. The wave ahead, as if surprised, sank and flattened for a second. The canoe leaped through the edge of it, swerved to one side, and ran gayly down along the frine of the line of billows into quieter water.

Everyone feels the exhiliaration of such a descent. I know a lady who almost cried with fright when she went down her first rapid, but before the voyage was ended she was saying:

Count that day lost whose low-descending sun
Sees no fall leaped, no foaming rapid run.

It takes a touch of danger to bring out the joy of life.

Our guides began to shout and joke each other, and praise their canoes. "You grazed that villian rock at the corner," said Jean; "didn't you know where it was?"

"Yes, after I touched it," cried Ferdinand; "but you took in a bucket of water, and I suppose your m'sieur is sitting on a piece of the river. Is it not so?"—Scribner's.

CANDY

FOR CHILDREN.

The Popular Health Magazine says the desire in a child for candy and sweets is a natural one and should not be stifled. Good candy and sweets in moderation, not only do no harm, but are actually beneficial. Too much sweet upsets the stomach and spoils the appetite, but candy in moderation if it is not taken before a meal, is food which children crave naturally, and among the purest and most wholesome is that manufactured by A Constantly Growing Force.

Every Day Gives Momentum to the Success of South American Nervine.

Canadian Citizens from Every Quarter Tell of the Extraordinary Results Following the Use of This Wonderful Remedy.

MR. C. G. CHAPIN, OF BURK'S FALLS, ONT.

There is encouragement in the knowledge that even after the skill of eminent physicians has failed, and many medicines have been used, a certain cure for the diseases of life is to be found in South American Nervine. This is a remarkable medicine, especially when the trouble is nervous debility, indigestion, dyspepsia, sick headache, or a general breaking-up of the system. It has made thousands of cures of Canadian citizens all over this beautiful Dominion, and they have not been slow to sing its praises.

The strength of South American Nervine rests in its being something more than a mere tonic. A tonic will give temporary benefit, but if disease is in the system something more is needed to remove it. South American Nervine possesses all the virtues of a tonic, but more than that, it is a disease-healer. It has been discovered that certain nerves have entire control over the stomach, liver, heart, lungs and indeed all internal organs. When disease comes upon the individual, if a careful analysis is made of the trouble, and things are not gone about in hazard fashion, it will be shown that the disease has its origin in a derangement of these nerve centers. South American Nervine goes at once to the nerve centers and removes the disease. Then strong, rich, pure blood runs through the veins and gives health and exhilaration to all parts of the system. This is one secret of the power of South American Nervine. But it does not stop here. There is no medicine that is so great a nerve-builder, nor flesh-producer as Nervine. It purifies the system. It imparts to it health and vigor, and builds up the constitution.

Now, this is exactly what was done in the case of Mr. C. G. Chapin, a well-known jeweller, of Burk's Falls, Ont. He says: For years I had been much troubled with nervous debility, and believe I had tried all proprietary medicines, but none seemed to relieve me, until I used South American Nervine. To my surprise the first bottle gave me great relief. I am still taking this great remedy and must say I have not felt so well in years. I highly recommend it to all suffering from nervous disease, for it has made a great change in me."

A MOST SUCCESSFUL SHOW.

with highly polished finish. It might as well be mentioned that this display was selected from Mr. Hendren's every-day stock and not got up for this special occasion —a fact which serves to illustrate the style and class of goods demanded by his trade and for which he commands a ready sale.

GRAFTON & CO.'S CLOTHING.

There seems to be no limit to the enterprise and energy of the manager of Grafton & Co.'s large branch clothing store in Peterborough. Last year Mr. Conway made his mark as a clothing exhibitor at all the principal fairs in the County of Peterborough, and the character of his displays evoked much comment among visitors and "made things interesting" for the general clothing trade of the district. Evidently the firm has found this style of advertising has paid, for Mr. Conway was on deck again this year as large as life and quite as interesting. The same conspicuous space in the interior of the building was secured for this firm's exhibit this year, as they were lucky in getting last year—being situated right at the public entrance where the principal crowds congregated and where hundreds of people constantly passed in and out all day.

Their effective display this year was even better than last year. Turn the eye in any direction outside or inside the building, and it was impossible not to see some of the firm's attractive advertising signs, with the characteristic lettering:—"Grafton & Co., manufacturers of clothing, hand-cut and tailor made." Posts and pillars, fences and buildings, chief corners and other envied positions served as common property for emblazoning of Grafton & Co's trade mark.

Of their clothing exhibit itself special care had been taken to make such a judicious selection of the different styles of suits and overcoats as would give a general idea of the extent and character of their large stock regularly kept on sale in their commodious store, No. 383 George street, Peterborough. The requirements of men and boys in these lines were fully represented. On broad tables and tiers of racks, the various syles of clothing and gentlemen's furnishings were piled up or spread out in a skilful and attractive manner. Attentive clerks assisted Mr. Conway in giving information and showing the superior qualities of the goods. It was evident that quite a number of good sales were arranged for during the fair. The dressing and decoration of the display was worthy of mention. Dressed wax figures, bannerettes, badges, flags, bunting and fancy show cards were brought into requisition to give effect to the exhibit. In the centre of their space hung a large framed engraving of Grafton & Co's extensive factory, warerooms and headquarters in Dundas, as well as the diploma awarded the local branch for their prize clothing, of which Mr. Conway seemed especially proud.

The enterprise of Messrs. Grafton & Co. was exemplified in the society's prize list. The firm had donated three special prizes to the society, to be competed for in class 2, section 6—general purpose horses. The prizes drew out a lot of competition, and the firm scored quite a success by the interest which this novel method of advertising themselves among the farmers created.

TOO BUSY TO EXHIBIT.

Owing to the continued increasing demands for Gough Bros.' clothing, the reorganising of their two large stores in Peterborough, and the opening of another branch store in Port Hope, it was found impossible to make an exhibit at Lakefield, and their usual display at the entrance of the building was missed very much. This bustling firm of clothing dealers are, however, too well known to the farmers in every section of the county to require the persistent publicity that comes from these competitive exhibitions. They are determined, at all seasons and on all occasions, to maintain their lead, but business and pleasure, they say, must be kept separate. It always afford them pleasure to be able to meet their numerous customers in every township and on every concession at the Fall Fairs, and show them what the "Wonderful Cheap Men" are doing in the way of forcing down high prices in clothing; but that's a pleasure which they may have to forego at times when the pressure of business demands it. The great success of this leading firm has not been wholly due to the low price tickets to be found on their goods. Their up-to-date, nobby and smart suits, overcoats, gent's furnishings, hats and caps, boots and shoes, etc., are readily recognized by clothing buyers, and for this reason they justify the adoption of their popular maxium—"Always good at Goughs." A full measure of public recognition will always be vouchsafed to a firm who have furnished such a striking object lesson of what can be accomplished by energy, industry and faith in their ability to build up and carry on such a large business as the Gough Bros. have done. Their enormous stocks contained under one roof, and in so many different departments, as viewed to-day and compared with their first start in Peterborough not many years ago, will do more to demonstrate continued confidence and influence, and a continuance of trade than anything else. A growing business like theirs is certainly calculated to promote the general interests of the town where it is located, and surrounding country, while at the same time it should impress upon every observer the absolute strength which this concern has attained.

OAK HALL, PETERBOROUGH.

This new, strong and aggressive clothing house, which was opened out in Peterborough under such auspicious circumstances a few days ago, did not undertake any display of their clothing. A representative of THE EXAMINER was spoken to by Mr. Moffatt, the gentlemanly manager of the Peterborough store, and was informed that it was found impossible to arrange for an exhibit of their clothing at the Peterborough fairs this year, in consequence of all their time being fully taken up in opening up their branch store.

"But," said Mr. Moffatt, impressively, "wherever Oak Hall is planted, we never take second place—there we grow up like the sturdy oak, and do all our scoring with first prize clothing."

Oak Hall has achieved a provincial reputation for the high standard of their ready-made clothing. For over twenty years the Oak Halls have been recognized as the leading clothiers of Ontario, and branches are now found established in Hamilton, Toronto, London, St. Catharines, Windsor, and other live business places. The immense clothing factory of the Sandford Manufacturing Company, of Hamilton, supply all the Oak Hall branches and the magnitude of their business is one of the wonders of the commercial world. Oak Hall has no "middlemen's" profits to pay, because the stock comes direct from their own factory at manufacturer's prices. Hence they are able to make a profit while selling at lower prices than others buying from jobbers and retailers. "You know," said Mr. Moffatt, "price counts before buying, quality counts afterwards. Price may bring a customer the first time; quality brings him the twenty-first. Price is what you forget; quality is what you remember. And yet with the best in quality, Oak Hall is always the lowest in price." Mr. Moffatt claims that the euphonious name, "Oak Hall," has something of a ring about it which invests it with a distinguished and dignified tone — leaving an impression of solidity, value and sturdiness—not exactly an aristocratic impression, but a feeling of reliability and safety, similar to what is associated with the Bank of England.

Although Oak Hall made no general exhibit at the Lakefield Fair, they took a novel way of leaving a lasting impression of their name and enterprise on the minds of the crowds of thrifty farmers present. Mr. Moffat is an enthusiastic son of the Emerald Isle, and had secured a genuine Irish jaunting car for the occasion, on which he had the heraldic name and coat of arms of his firm artistically ornamented and lettered on the rear. In the centre of the car a red flag was erected bearing the insignium of Oak Hall, while an Irish jarvey, with his coach whip set in the elevated box seat in front, dexterously manipulating the ribbons over a spirited tandem team. With this outfit Oak Hall was introduced in state to the multitude, the decided novelty on the Fair grounds representing as pronounced an innovation in they way of superior clothing at one price, to be found within the precincts of Oak Hall, corner of George and Hunter streets, Peterborough.

THE DOUBLE-ACTION WASHER.

One of the most useful exhibits at the Fair, and one that was of most interest to the ladies, was that of the Knoll Double-Action Washing Machine. It was exhibited by Mr. J. W. Crosby, of Peterborough, and is an invention of merit. To judge from the crowds that watched the actual washing of soiled clothing by this washing machine, it was evident the ladies know a good thing when they see it. To be prejudiced against a new washing machine is quite natural, but apparently the ladies fell in line with this one. Mr. Crosby has only had the agency for this machine about two months but during that time has placed over 100 of them in the town and country. It is the nearest approach to the washboard principle, yet without rubbing. The clothes are revolved in washing, and the water forced through each garment by the rotary motion of the handle. More washing can be done in one hour by this machine than can be done by one person any other way for four hours. It has competed with over eight hundred other machines from all over the world at Chicago World's Fair, and was successful in taking the first premium and gold medal. Quite a number of people in Peterborough who are now using it take pleasure in recommending it as an indispensable article. If the "new woman" is bound to assert her rights, and insists upon the washing being done by her husband, she is doing the square thing by him by bequeathing him such a a good washing machine to start off with. These machines can be seen and inspected at Mr. J. W. Crosby's music store, Water street, who will be pleased to supply all necessary information as to terms, etc., and give directions how to operate it. A trial costs nothing.

SHADGETT'S CARRIAGE PAINTING.

Mr. J. Shadgett, carriage painter and finisher, whose shop is on the corner near the fair grounds, made a good display of his artistic work with the brush. A double carriage of Mr. John Lumsden's, of Warsaw, and a buggy and undertaker's van of Mr. Thos. Hendren's, of Lakefield, were finished up in the highest perfection of the carriage painter's art. The depth of finish which Mr. Shadgett is able to put on second hand rigs as well as new ones, shows the skill he has acquired at his profession. In some cases over a dozen coats of paint and varnish are laid on the wood so that when the finishing touches are put on a polish is secured which will reflect objects like a mirror. Mr. Shadgett mastered all the secrets of the art of carriage painting in the old country, having learned his business in England. He warrants his work to stand wind and weather better than any other, as he uses pure English varnishes and other first-class material. The painting of carriages, buggies and sleighs is his hobby, and is just as handy at ornamental striping, lettering and sign writing. Now's the time of the year to give him a trial.

To the Ladies.

Summer season being well over, the ladies are beginning to think of fall, and are enquiring what fall styles will be worn. Shop windows are full new goods and it is noticeable how similar the styles are to last year. It seems that the modistes of of Paris are endeavouring to drive silk blouses out of the field, but the blouses are as popular as ever. Large sleeves and flaring skirts continue in favor as also do round waists, while basques will be more worn than last year. It is going to be a silk and velvet season, velvet particularly being much used for trimming and millinery purposes. The popular colours will be green, bright, blue pink and warm shades of red. Brown will continue to hold its place, while black steadily increases in favour. Steel, jet and silk gimps will be much used as trimmings, and that severe simplicity so noticeable the last season will be partly removed by the free use of these gimps. Jackets will be a trifle longer than last year, and gimps will be more worn than a year ago, the golf cloth making a pretty and stylish cape.

Nearly everyone needs a good tonic at this season. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one true tonic and blood purifier.

MONTAGUE AFTER IT.

He Wants To Be the New Minister of Agriculture.

FRUIT SHIPMENTS A FAILURE.

Faulty Construction Caused the Cold Storage to Collapse—Electricians Who Gave the Remedial Order to the Press?

Ottawa, Sept. 20.—In official circles it is fully expected that the decision of the Imperial Government in reference to a subsidy to a fast Atlantic service will be made known shortly. The Premier informed your correspondent today, that, according to the latest information which had reached him, the matter was in a fair way towards final disposition. The Inter-Departmental Committee appointed by the home Government to report on Mr. Huddart's scheme, has presented its report and it is understood now to be before the Secretary of the Colonies, whose decision is expected shortly.

It is stated that while Mr. Ives was in England recently, he was approached by some of the steamship companies with a view to their submitting an offer for a 17-knot service, but until a decision is reached by the Imperial Government in reference to Mr. Huddart's scheme, the Government will hardly consider the advisability of reducing the speed of the proposed new service. Amongst steamship authorities the opinion prevails that a 17-knot service could be established for an annual subsidy of about half a million dollars.

According to cable advices received by Mr. Craig, horticulturist of the Experimental Farm, the first shipment of Ontario summer fruits to England in cold storage compartments has not been a success. The steamer Mongolian was the vessel selected for the trial shipment, and on the way over, the cold storage plant collapsed, with the result that the fruit was considerably damaged; with the exception of summer apples, which arrived in good condition. Full information in regard to the matter is expected by next week's mail. Mr. Craig is of opinion that the possibility of forwarding fruit in cold storage is by no means impaired by the lack of success attending the first shipment.

The 26th of October has been selected as the day for unveiling the monument, which has just been erected by the Dominion Government upon the battle field of Chateauguay. Hon. Mr. Dickey has been invited to be present, and has accepted the invitation. Gen. John I. Macdonell of London, Eng., and Lord Arundel of Wardour, who are lineal descendants of Col. George Macdonell, commandant of the British contingent on that famous day, when 400 British-Canadians put to flight 2000 Yankees, have also consented to be present, if their engagements will permit. It is also proposed to invite all lineal descendants of De Salaberry to attend, and ask one of them to unveil the monument.

The Electrical Association concluded its business to-day when the remaining papers on the program were disposed of. Everybody is talking to-day about the success of last night's banquet, the like of which has not been equalled in Canada. The decorations were of a most unique character. Hundreds of electric lights in varied colors were utilized. From the centre of the ceiling hung a beautiful cluster of lights, while four streamers of evergreen dotted with numerous lights, extended to each corner of the hall. Eighty lights hung from each of the streamers. Suspended also from the ceiling were six German drop lights, which looked very pretty and were exhibited for the first time in Canada. In front of the orchestra gallery was the word "Ottawa," the lettering being formed by 94 clear incandescent lights. At the opposite end of the hall the figures "1895" were formed of 50 lamps. On the south wall was a Union Jack, composed of rows of incandescent lights in red, white and blue. It took 264 lights to form the design. a sufficient number to illuminate every part of the hall had every other light been extinguished. On the other side of the room, surrounded by flags, was Canada's emblem, the Maple Leaf, formed by 28 blue and red colored lights, and a large horseshoe, in the centre of which 64 red and white lights formed the letters "C.E.A.," the initials of the Association. In the centre of the dining hall stood a revolving flower stand about 10 feet in height. It was illuminated by 40 lamps of different sizes and shades of color; also eight small candle lamps, and driven by a motor. Besides being covered with the best the culinary art could produce, the tables contained a representation of an outside telegraph system, a miniature dynamo, a large insulator, a minature electric railway and electrical car, telephones, etc., the work of Chef Unger and the Russell House staff. Over the backs of the chairs occupied by the ladies were bowers of evergreens, surmounted by a red colored incandescent lamp, which one of the speakers of the evening wittily referred to as a "danger signal." There was electricity everywhere, even the waiters who carved the different meats carved with knives and forks charged with electricity which flashed as they clashed together. Even the menu card was not lacking of electrical dishes, for there were clear dynamo soup with dumpling units, street railway sauce, anchor ice charlotte, telephone dressing and electric ice cream. The last dish on the menu card was "electrocution," but it was not served and consequently all who went to the banquet came home alive.

The question as to the manner in which the second order-in-council on the school question got into the public prints is still being discussed. Mr. Greenway endeavors to shoulder the responsibility on the Dominion authorities by expressing surprise that the Dominion Government have made the order public before the Government of Manitoba had considered it. The matter was broached to the Premier by your correspondent to-day. Sir Mackenzie said he was equally as surprised as Mr. Greenway when he saw in western papers that the document was made public. The Premier continued, "Upon my return to Ottawa I of course made enquiry and I find that a copy was certainly not given to the press by the Dominion Government, or by any of its members. Nor do they know any more than I how this purported order came to be published."

"Then you admit its authenticity?" Sir Mackenzie was asked.

"That," replied the Premier, warily, "is a question which the public will be able to answer for themselves when the official document itself is given out."

"Do you think," enquired the correspondent, "that the report in circulation to the effect that the copy was sent from Winnipeg to Mr. Laurier, is correct and that it came to be published in that way?"

"I have no opinion to offer on that suggestion," the Premier replied, "but I can scarcely believe it possible that any member of the Provincial Government would be the means of giving publicity to such a document as that considering the circumstances under which it is before them."

Dr. Montague will attend a picnic near Caledonia on the 24th and visit the fall fair at Collingwood on the 25th. The Secretary of State has been simply deluged with applications to deliver addresses at different points. It is currently reported that Dr. Montague will be appointed Minister of Agriculture. He acted as representative of that department in the Commons very acceptably last session.

Sir A. P. Caron and Sir C. H. Tupper left to-night for Lake Bouchette, near Roberval, on the line of St. John Railway, where they will spend three or four days fishing. The Postmaster-General will then proceed to New York to say good-bye to Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, president of Grand Trunk Railway, who sails for England next Wednesday.

In connection with the visit of Mr. H. J. Wickham of Toronto to Ottawa, it is said that the firm of Mossom, Boyd & Co., of Bobcaygeon, will shortly proceed against certain parties who claim the right to use Little Bob channel at Bobcaygeon without paying toll, although this channel was improved at the sole expense of Boyd & Co.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell, and Messrs. Haggart and Dickey will attend the Chrysler's farm celebration on the 25th.

Judge Hamilton having resigned the position of revising barrister for Western Algoma, it is expected that Judge F. Fitzgerald will be appointed to the position.

Capt. F. J. Jarvis, who holds master's certificates for both steam and sailing vessels, left to-night for Sault Ste Marie to join the Government cruiser Petrel, in the capacity of second officer, replacing Officer Pearson, who is at present in charge of the cruiser Dolphin.

Messrs. Craig, M.P., and Lepine, M.P., are here on departmental business.

Mr. Foster returned to-day looking remarkably well after his well-earned vacation.

FORT ERIE SUICIDE IDENTIFIED.

He Is Victor Fessenden, Youngest Son of the Rector of Ancaster.

Hamilton, Sept. 20.—It transpires that the young man who committed suicide by shooting himself through the breast at the Cottage Hotel, Fort Erie, on Tuesday night, was Victor Fessenden, the youngest son of Rev. E. J. Fessenden, rector of Ancaster. The young man left Ancaster on Monday to return to Pittsburg, where his brother is a professor in an electrical college, but just got as far as Fort Erie. Upon arrival at the hotel he said he had been employed at the Western Hotel in Pittsburg, and he had a deep cut in one arm.

About 9 o'clock on Tuesday morning Fessenden's body was discovered, with a bullet in it, but no one in the hotel had heard the revolver go off during the night. Friends of deceased know no cause why he took his life in his hands. He was clever and studious, but eccentric at times. He was engaged to be married. No inquest was held and the remains arrived here this evening.

FAVORED BY LORD DUFFERIN.

His Lordship's Photo the Nucleus of a National Museum in Quebec.

Montreal, Que., Sept. 19.—The Marquis of Dufferin and Ava has written from the British embassy in Paris to the secretary of the Antiquarian Society expressing his sympathy with their endeavor to establish a national museum in the old Chateau de Ramezay, and announcing that he has forwarded his portrait for the collection that the society is making.

Mrs Mack, the Stamp Forger Indicted.

Buffalo, Sept. 19.—The United States grand jury made known the fact that it was in existence this afternoon by returning a umber of indictments, of which one was against Mrs. M. T. McMillan, alias Mrs. Mack, the alleged stamp counterfeiting accomplice of George Morrison, who was arrested at Hamilton, Ont., while conducting the "Canadian Novelty Company," a fake concern.

ATLANTIC LINER SUNK

The Edam Founders in Collision Off Plymouth.

ALL ON BOARD WERE RESCUED.

Rammed During a Fog by the Anglo-Arabian Boat Turkestan Crew and Passengers Saved by a Trawler and Towed into Plymouth.

Plymouth, Sept. 20.—The Netherlands steamer Edam, from New York Sept. 6, for Amsterdam, foundered off Start Point, a headland in the County of Devon, 9 miles southwest of Dartmouth, by collision with the steamer Turkestan during a dense fog.

The master of the trawler Vulture, hearing the crash of the collision, though not being able to see anything, owing to the fog, made for the spot, whence the sounds came. He found the Edam filling rapidly, but there was still ample time to rescue those on board.

There was no panic whatever, and the officers and crew and passengers alike behaved with admirable coolness.

Captain Brunson of the Edam, states his ship remained afloat 2 hours and 45 minutes after the collision. After leaving the Edam, he boarded the Turkestan, and found that the stem of that vessel had been badly damaged by the impact.

The steamer Beresford took in tow the trawler Vulture and three boats containing the captain, crew and passengers of the Edam.

The Turkestan was lost in the fog and not seen afterwards. Every one on board the Edam took to the boats and all were picked up by the trawler.

The following details of the collision were obtained from passengers of the Edam:

It was pitch dark at the time the collision occurred, and at first intense alarm was manifested by those on the steamer. As soon, however, as it was seen that the Turkestan was standing by to assist, and that the trawler Vulture was alongside, the anxiety became less.

The Edam's boats were rapidly lowered, and it was found that there was ample room in them for all on board the steamer. There was hardly time, however, for the passengers to clothe themselves fully, and the women threw on the clothing nearest at hand and made their way to the deck, whence they were lowered to boats, they being the first to go over the vessel's side.

Fortunately the sea was smooth, and the transfer was carried out without difficulty, and perfect order was maintained. The Turkestan stood by until all were clear of the sinking steamer, which went down at 3 o'clock. The Turkestan stem was badly damaged.

Fifty passengers and 43 members of the crew of the Edam have been landed at Plymouth. Captain Brunsma, commander of the wrecked vessel says that the Edam was struck on the port side amidships. The vessel, he says, had favorable weather throughout the voyage across the Atlantic and no trouble of any kind was experienced until the channel was reached, when a thick fog was encountered. A sharp lookout was kept on board the ship and for a time all went well, then one of the lookouts suddenly saw through the fog a vessel bearing down on the Edam and gave the alarm. The signal to reverse the engines was quickly given and the order was promptly obeyed, but it was too late to avoid a disaster and almost immediately came the crash that resulted in the foundering of the Edam. An inspection soon showed that there was no hope of saving the vessel and the order was given for the passengers and crew to take to the boats.

Steward Michael Vinteges of the Edam says that the whistles of the two vessels aroused him from his sleep and he hurried on deck. The vessels were then sheering away from each other in the fog. The captain of the Edam was on the bridge and was giving orders in a clear distinct way, which caused them to be promptly obeyed. All on board embarked safely in the boats. The captain was the last to leave the ship. He went aboard the Turkestan, but on learning that she was proceeding to Cardiff, he boarded the Vulture.

All the passengers and crew were taken to the sailors' home in Plymouth. The inhabitants showed great kindness to the shipwrecked people, and gave them clothes, money and tobacco.

The Edam was a barque-rigged, screw steamer, of 3030 tons, 311 feet 6 inches long, 39 feet 4 inches beam, and 30 feet 3 inches depth of hold, and was supplied with two compound engines of 1800 horse power. She was built at Fiejenoord, in 1883, and was owned by the Netherlands-American Steam Navigation Company of Rotterdam.

The Edam carried 75 in her crew all told. She was fitted solely for steerage passengers and freight. She had capacity for 1600 steerage passengers, and had carried as many as 1200. She could steam about 11 1-2 knots, and took 14 days for the passage between New York and Amsterdam.

The company values her at $250,000, which is fully covered by insurance. Her cargo comprised 2000 tons of corn, 900 tons of flour, 1500 bags of coffee, 175 cases of sewing machines, 18 cases of tobacco, and general merchandise valued approximately at $120,000.

The Turkestan, which collided with the Edam, belongs to the Anglo-Arabian and Persian Steamship Company limited, of London. She was built in 1894 at Linthorn's, is of steel, 345 feet long, 47 feet beam and 26 feet depth of hold, and measures 2612 net and 4060 gross tonage.

Weak, Tired, Nervous

Women, who seem to be all worn out, will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent relief and strength. The following is from a well known nurse:

"I have suffered for years with female complaints and kidney troubles and I have had a great deal of medical advice during that time, but have received little or no benefit. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to use it, together with Hood's Pills. I have realized more benefit from these medicines than from anything else I have ever taken. From my personal experience I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be a most complete blood purifier." MRS. C. CROMPTON, 71 Cumberland St., Toronto, Ontario.

THE GOOD ROADS QUESTION.

The American Government has abandoned a fort called Mackinac, which is said to be situated somewhere on the great lakes, and it would be fortunate if more forts, as well as expensive military establishments could be abandoned; and if the immense sums, wasted upon the maintenance of hostile equipments to protect one Christian nation from another, were devoted to purposes which would benefit mankind instead of blowing them off the face of the earth, it would be an inestimable blessing. For instance, supposing the millions spent in maintaining a military establishment in Canada should be out to the use of improving the public roads of the country, how great a step in advance it would represent. And the military expense could be thus diverted from war preparations if other nations would consent to act according to the spirit of that Christianity which distinguishes them from barbarous nations, and with good sense, agree to settle by arbitration little international differences—which as a rule are less difficult of adjustment than a line-fence dispute between two farmers. Our rural roads are, compared to many of the older countries of Europe, a disgrace to a civilised country—good roads being the measure of civilization. According to the prevailing system the money and so-called labour spent on highways under the statute labour system or rather lack of system is in most cases wasted and in many cases worse than wasted. Yesterday, for example, a drive in the country revealed at one point in a rather rutty road, several loads of gravel dumped one after another; and no attempt had been made to spread or level them, the hollows between the ends of the loads still remaining weeks after deposit. If the other portions of the road were in a former season treated in a similar manner, its destructive roughness or comfort and for vehicles can easily be understood. Road making like this going on all over Ontario, and the continent for that matter, calls loudly for reform, and if few of the millions now wasted on useless warlike preparations were devoted to the construction of highways under common sense management, the benefit to farmers and others having to use our roads, would be incalculable. Wagons would last twice as long on good roads, horses would also last longer, while doing double work, on good roads. Good roads pay; bad roads are a delusion and a snare.

THE Hamilton Herald, speaking of a report of a November session of the Dominion Parliament, says: "It is quite as likely that this may happen as that anything else may happen. Not one outside of the Government knows what its intentions are, and it is extremely doubtful if the Government knows."

TORONTO, the microbic metropolis, with all her bad luck with broken-backed water pipes, is lucky with her great Industrial. The receipts this year were about $3,000 in excess of last year, $68,075 against $65,000. This sum represents nearly a quarter of a million visitors. Conflagrations may sweep away acres of palatial business blocks, the city water supply may fraternise with sewage, and the microbes make merry in the stomachs of the citizens, but Toronto "gets there just the same." After all, in spite of Hamilton's playful references to Hogtown's absorptive acquisitiveness, the "Queen City" is the worthy metropolis of the Queen Province of the Confederation. Ontario makes Toronto possible.

THE Hamilton Times says:—"Can these stories of Belgian atrocities in Congo Free State be true? Would such a paper as the Christian World charge, without good authority, that Belgian officials outrage and mutilate and kill negroes to compel them to bring in supplies of ivory and palm oil? Belgium is not even a second-rate power in Europe, and there is no reason why she should be permitted to abuse her power in Africa. With what show of propriety can Christian Europeans condemn Turkish and Kurdish atrocities in Armenia if Belgians are allowed to collect basketfuls of negro hands cut off from their owners by way of punishment? Nothing much more atrocious has been reported from China.

"STINKING" CHEESE.

The Result of the Dominion Government's Dabbling With the Industry.

A despatch from Ottawa states that a rather serious state of affairs was disclosed at the meeting of the Brockville Cheese Board a few days ago. Mr. R. G. Murphy reported a conversation he had had with Professor Robertson, Dominion Dairy Commissioner, in Toronto, last week, Mr. Robertson said that the Prince Edward Island cheese were still being held in Montreal on his advice, and that $40,000 had been advanced on them, but that the Government had nothing to with this advance. He himself had gone to the banks, and, reportly the facts of the case, had secured from them $40,000 to pay the Prince Edward Island farmers, and given his own personal note for the amount. Mr. M. K. Everatts, one of the oldest men in the Province, declared that as Prince Edward Island factories were run by the Government this $40,000 was TAKEN FROM THE FARMERS OF CANADA.

The fact is that the Government's course in Prince Edward Island has met with hostile criticisms from the dairy interests of Canada, and has been roundly condemned as resulting in great injustice to the cheese export trade. The Government manufactured on the Island four or five thousand boxes of cheese, which they consigned to Hodson Bros., of Montreal, for export to England. The cheese, on being sampled in Montreal, was discovered to have a peculiar flavour, which Prof. Robertson is said to have described as a local flavour, which, as an old cheese exporter told your correspondent, was simply another name for stink. If this is the same cheese which Prof. Robertson now says is still being held in Montreal, it ought to be about time to settle as to who owns the cheese, and who is responsible for its value. There is no responsible Minister at the head of the department, and it would be useless to ask Mr. John Lowe, Deputy Minister, anything about it. Under a business administration, an important officer of the department would not have to give his personal note for $40,000 in order that the farmers of Prince Edward Island, as patrons of the factories, should be paid. When Mr. Ouimet told Parliament last session that the policy of the Government was to provide public works in localities friendly to the Tory party he little thought that this principle would be applied with such startling force within a very few months from the time of its enunciation.

If the Prince Edward Island cheese factories were run by the Government, and some of the ministers not unconnected with corruption funds, happened to take a run through the factories, the tainted cheese is accounted for. The Government is not likely to make much out of its cheese experiments. If this $40,000 worth of cheese in Montreal is in the condition an old exporter describes it—stinking, it is a dead loss, for the Government, reckless as it is, cannot surely repudiate the advance of $40,000,000 by its trusted servant, Prof. Robertson; and it would never do to ruin the reputation of the Canadian product by shipping rotten cheese to the old country with the official stamp of the Government upon the malodorous consignment. Such an act would bring the North British Agriculturist to its feet, and another stuffed cheese slander would not be hard to believe. One could easily credit skim milk ministers turning out skim milk cheese.

Folks Living Under the Shadow of the Mountain are Pleased.

HAMILTON, Sept. 9.—A very large increase has lately taken place in the sale of the specific remedy for complaints of the liver, and Dodd's Kidney Pills are in great demand. There are no complaints either from druggists or the public. The druggists being so near Toronto, the headquarters for distributing, are never in any danger of running out of the medicine for long, no matter how large the demand may be, and the public has long been thoroughly satisfied as to the valuable qualities of the pills, and the manner in which they invariably effect a cure.

A Public Ovation!

—:o:—

THANKS

Most Assuredly!

—:o:—

We have nothing but gratitude to offer the citizens of Peterborough and surrounding country for the very hearty reception accorded to Oak Hall on its Opening Day.

It was the right kind of a welcome—open-armed, cordial, enthusiastic.

It was a phenomenal success from start to finish. Type can scarcely give expression to the heartiness of our thanks to the hundreds of citizens from town and country-side for miles around, who participated in the ovation to Oak Hall on our Opening Day.

We had modestly looked forward to some extra attraction and recognition—on account of the good Clothes we had to show, our new attractions on the tables, our handsome store and our special novelty on the streets; but never contemplated anything like the sensation that was produced on Saturday last.

Even our neighbors, the other clothing dealers,—caught the contagion of the excitement and turned out to do us honour, or to imitate our example.

Thanks again, kind friends. We DEDICATE Oak Hall to the service of the MEN, YOUNG MEN and BOYS, of the Town and County of Peterborough

Prosperity

Is not only already in the air but it is percolating, permeating, honey-combing, everything associated with Oak Hall's opening. And as "much of success depends on a good start," we can look forward encouragingly,—FOR WE HAVE HAD A GOOD START.

Much has yet to be added to make our store complete—in stock, fittings, furnishings, &c,—in order to bring up the standard of Oak Hall's ideal. These have all been arranged for and will be added as rapidly as they come forward.

Reception Days

Will continue all this week, and the best opportunities for hand-shaking and inspection are yet to come.

RAMMED A WARSHIP.

Spanish Battleships Founders Off Cuba.

A LARGE NUMBER OF LIVES LOST.

A Sister Ship Mistook a Signal and Crashed Into the Ironclad - She Sank So Rapidly as to Engulf Lifeboats Laden With the Crew.

Havana, Sept. 20.—The Spanish warship Sanchez Barcaiztegui with Admiral Delgado Parejo on board, was struck by the incoming coasting steamer Mortara in front of Moro Castle, at midnight last night, and sank almost instantly. Admiral Parejo and 24 of the crew of the warship, including Captain Ybanez and three other officers, were drowned. The remainder of the crew, 116 in number, were saved. The bodies of Admiral Parejo and Captain Ybanez were recovered.

The body of the captain was mutilated, the head and arms having been eaten away by sharks.

The Sanchez Barcaiztegui was an iron barque rigged cruiser, 920 tons displacement and 1100 nominal horse power. She was built at Lasrine in 1876. She was 203 feet long, 30 feet wide and had a draught of 12 feet. She carried seven guns.

The Sanchez Barcaiztegui was leaving port when the disaster occurred. The usual signals were exchanged between the warship and the Mortera, but at that moment the cruiser's electric lights were extinguished when the collision took place. The cruiser's bowsprit struck the Mortera on the starboard bow, making a large hole above the water line. The sound of an explosion, which was probably the result of the concussion, was heard and the cruiser was found to be gradually sinking. Boats from both vessels were lowered. Admiral Parejo and the other officers and the greater number of the crew embarked in the boats, but the immersion of the warship was so sudden that the boats alongside were engulfed by the suction. When the disaster happened there was no panic on either ship. The latest report shows that the missing are as follows: Ensign Purser, Doctor, First and Third Engineers, 12 marines, eight firemen and nine sailors.

How the Collision Occurred.

Madrid, Sept. 19.—The Imparcial has a despatch from Havana, giving the following particulars of the loss of the warship Sanchez Barcaistegui: Admiral Delgado Parejo was on board the warship when she steamed out of the harbor at midnight last night, intending to make a circular tour and visit the various ports of the island. As the warship rounded the promontory at the entrance of the bay, she sighted the Montera, which was just entering the harbor. The warship gave the regular whistle to notify the Montera that she would keep to starboard. The Montera mistook the signal to mean that the warship would go on the port side and she herself went to starboard. A few minutes later came the collision. A sailor on the warship immediately before the accident happened had accidently stopped the electric current, and the lights were extinguished. This added to the confusion, but the crew of the warship showed no signs of panic, and kept manfully at their posts.

Admiral Parajo, with Adjutant Gaster D'Aroca, ascended the bridge, where they joined Capt. Ybanes. A few moments later, however, the warship began to sink there was hardly time to get out the boats before the vessel settled by the head, plunging bow first into the sea. Some of the boats were carried by the suction under the sinking vessel and some of the occupants were drowned, while others managed to swim to the shore or succeeded in climbing up the sides of the Mortera. Admiral H. Arejo and Adjutant D'Aroca got places in one of the boats, but it was drawn upder the ship as the Sanches sank. D'Aroca was rescued with one of his legs broken.

Captain Ybanez remained at his post on the bridge and went down with his ship. The Mortera was badly damaged by the collision, but she stood by and gave all the assistance in her power to the crew of the sinking warship.

After picking up all the survivors that could be found the Mortera proceeded to port. As soon as the news of the disaster reached the port, officials, a search for the bodies of the dead was begun. Admiral Parejo, Captain Ybanez, Dr. Martin, the ship's doctor, 15 soldiers, eight sailors, eight engineers and stokers and two petty officers, besides the purser, clerk, second carpenter and Admiral Parejo's servant. The funeral of Admiral Parejo will itake place to-morrow. Buildings throughout Havana, which had been gaily decorated in honor of the arrival of additional troops from Spain display emblems of mourning for the lost officers and men of the Sanchez Barcaiztegui.

The Imparcials dispatch says that the body of Admiral Parejo had been horribly mutilated by sharks.

WAS HE FOUND THE POLE?

Probability That Dr. Nansen Has Traversed Unknown Polar Regions.

New York, Sept. 20.—The Mail and Express says if the report be true which was published two days ago from Sandefford, Norway, to the effect that a vessel believed to be The Fram, conveying Dr. Nansen's expedition from Norway in search of the North Pole had been seen embedded in the ice-floe off Semilik Ford on the east coast of Greenland there is no room for doubting that the daring explorer has at last succeeded in acomplishing the long-cherished proect for which so many lives and ships have been sacrificed, and that the regions about the North pole have been laid open to the eye of civilized man.

The theory on which Dr. Nasen planned his expedition and based his calculations was that the strong current which sweeps north from the new Siberian Islands would carry his boat, surrounded as it probably is by gigantic ice-floes, across the unknown track around the pole and down the east coast of Greenland. It has long been surmised that the current which sets strongly south along the east coast of Greenland, and following the land, turns west and north along the west coast, was the same that moved north from the new Siberian Islands, directly across the region around the pole. This belief was practically made a certainty by the evidence of a substantial kind. First, it was remarked that logs and even pebbles and stones which were indigenous to Siberia, were found in considerable quantities off the south west coast of Greenland. The natural conclusion was that the current had carried them across the Polar regions from Siberia and cast them upon the west shore of Greenland.

But the most striking and conclusive evidence was furnished by the finding of a quantity of wreckage of the ill-fated Jeanette, including such unmistakable articles as a pair of trousers, on the same southwest coast of Greenland about three years after the vessel was wrecked near the new Siberian Islands. The wreck occurred on June 13, 1881, and during the succeeding three years the curent carried remnants of the ship across the Polar area over 3000 miles to its final resting place on the Greenland coast.

Dr. Nansen's expedition sailed on June 24, 1893, from Christiania, and was last heard of when about to sail into the Kara Sea in August, 1893. The Kara Sea, which is north of the Ural mountains of Russia, is nearly half way from Norway to the New Siberian Islands, and was on the direct route which Dr. Nasen had intended to go, taking an easterly course until he reached the islands and then turning north and being carried by the current across the Polar regions.

MANITOBA WHEAT JUMPS TO 48c.

The Dakota Price is 40c—How the Sudden Rise is Accounted for in Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 19.—Wheat went up to 48 cents per bushel at several provincial points to-day, while just across the boundary in Dakota, the price is only 40 cents.

This has set people guessing as to the reasons. Some are unable to account for the difference, but those conversant with all the facts, are ready with an explanation.

It is pointed out that owing to various unfavorable conditions during the past season, there is not likely to be more than 10,000,000 bushels of No. 1 hard wheat in the province. This is mostly all required for grinding, and millers are anxious to get as much as possible before the snow flies as there is great damage from careless handling. At the present price of flour, millers can easily afford to pay as high as 60 cents per bushel, so there is no fear of their losing money by buying at present prices.

When the Canadian millers get their elevators full of the best grade of wheat, prices are sure to drop to export value. Farmers realize this and are now selling freely.

SIR OLIVER MOWAT'S HEALTH.

Not Satisfactory, But Nothing Serious—Will Not Return This Year.

Montreal, Que., Sept. 20.—A Star cable from London says: With reference to Sir Oliver Mowat's ill-health, I learn that the Ontario Premier left London some time ago for the north of England, where it is believed he still is. At the time of leaving London he was indisposed and his health continued somewhat unsatisfactory. Some friends, however, state that nothing serious is the matter. Sir Oliver Mowat will remain in England until the end of the year..

ATLANTIC-SUPERIOR RAILWAY.

Promoter Armstrong Announces the Formation of a Syndicate to Build the Road.

Montreal, Que., Sept. 20.—Mr. C. N. Armstrong returned to New York from England on the 7th instant, and after a flying visit to his home here, returned to New York, where he has since been engaged on matters concerning the Atlantic and Lake Superior Railway from Sault Ste. Marie to Paspebiac.

He says that owing to the false rumors set in circulation by enemies of the project the work was delayed but that he has succeeded in forming a powerful English and American syndicate to undertake the work.

In October an English engineer will arrive and make an examination of the proected bridge from Montreal to Longueuil, and if his report is favorable work will at once be begun.

THE SECRET OUT!

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from various prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CAANDA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story :—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	PerCent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE.....	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life.....	2.63	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

W. H's Life Policy for $10,000, issued April, 1889, Age 23, Annual Premium $177.

Total Cost for 6 years.....1,062 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy .....1,250 Dollars
Nearly 200 Dollars more than Insurance Cost.

A. E's Life Policy for $5,000, issued April, 1886, Age 22, Annual Premium $86.

Total Cost for 9 years..... 774 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy .....1,000 Dollars

A Sad Case Indeed.

The Children's Aid Society had a case before the magistrate Thursday morning in which a mother was charged with forcing her children to beg as well as neglecting to take proper care of them and send them to school. The eldest boy was a lad of fourteen years of age. He could neither read nor write and was disgustingly dirty, as were his two smaller brothers, aged respectively, 8 and 10 years. The father of the children is a patient in the Toronto Asylum for the Insane, and the lot of the family is a hard one. Under the circumstances the magistrate felt that he could take no action, though he advised the mother to keep the children clean if nothing else.

Put Money in Thy Purse.

Put your money back. You need only half the price now. High prices are no more. In spite of distrust, a good article can be had at a cheap rate. Since the Bordeaux Claret Co. came into the field with their cheap wines, imported directly from Bordeaux, there is less demand for the long prices. People want this cheap wine at $3 and $4 per dozen quarts. It hardly seems possible—for wine has been associated with long prices. Yes, long profits, but enormous sales at cheap rates make profits, too. And this is the position:—The people have good wine, wholesome, strengthening, which they can use freely without being impoverished at nominal prices. THE TRAMP IN COURT.

He Will Appear on Monday Before Magistrate Dumble.

Frank Murphy, the tramp who was arrested by Constable Moore and Special Constable Brine, on Monday evening last, at the C.P.R. station, was brought before County Magistrate Edmison this morning, at the Court House on a charge of vagrancy. To this he pleaded "not guilty" saying that he had enough money to support him and that he came to town on business—came in fact expecting to receive at this point some money.

When asked as to how long he had been here before arrest he stated that he arrived in town three days before and in answer to a question as to where he stayed while here, replied that he had run across and put up with him. He had forgotten the friends' name and where he lived strange to say and didn't think he could even find the house. He said that he was a seafaring man and when asked how he had come to be up this way and what he visited a tramp in the county gaol for, a week or so ago, answered that he knew the said tramp in Boston, and read in the paper that he was in gaol. Not believing it to be a fact, he had taken a trip up to find out about the matter.

The County Magistrate did not announce just what "stock" he took in these specious excuses, which were glibly rattled off, but read another warrant which had been issued against the prisoner charging him with carrying a revolver. Murphy denied this accusation point blank, and declared he never had carried a weapon of any description. The Magistrate told him that he was informed by the constable that he had witnesses to prove the charge, and as this charge was lodged against the prisoner in Peterborough he remanded him to appear on Monday next before Police Magistrate Dumble.

BEFORE BEING TAKEN

back to his cell the prisoner stated that he was in no wise connected with the other tramps with whom his name had been connected and that as far as being seen with them in Bowman's C. P. R. Restaurant, he had no knowledge of the fact, though he remembered drinking with some strangers there. His only besetting sin, he claimed, was a fondness for liquor and he volunteered never to touch intoxicating liquor again if only allowed to go free.

The charge of carrying a pistol, it is understood, will be substantiated by Mr. Green, a labourer, in whose face he is alleged to have flourished the weapon, threatening to go through him. A companion, it is stated, who was with him, took him aside, and deprived him of the revolver, and this, it is surmised, was the individual known as "the well dressed stranger" who figured so prominently in the battle with the tramps on Monday night. This incident would account for the extra number which he carried on that occasion.

Mr. Shaw's Classes in Oil and China Painting.

Mr. Shaw has resumed his classes in oil, water colour and china painting. In addition to the regular classes there will be a class on Saturdays for children under fourteen years of age at half price, and as Mr. Shaw will not take more pupils than will fill this class on these terms, those who come late will not likely to be able to secure a place. Miss Proctor, ceramic artist of the Y.W.C. Toronto, and pupil of the celebrated china decorator, Bischoff, of Detroit, has consented to take charge of the china painting classes in Mr. Shaw's studio, and will be there every week to teach this branch. Some of her decorated china may be seen in China Hall, McKee's, McDonald's or Schofield's drug stores until Saturday, and in the art gallery of the Exhibition next week or at Mr. Shaw's studio on and after Wednesday evening, 25th. Miss Proctor comes highly recommended. Terms reasonable.

WELCOMED HOME BY HIS CONGREGATION.

RECEPTION TENDERED REV. MR. AND MRS. MACWILLIAMS.

The Congregation Extended the Heartiest Kind of Greetings to Their Pastor and His Bride Last Evening.

Rev. A. MacWilliams, the much-loved pastor of St. Andrew's church, arrived home from his wedding trip, accompanied by his winsome little bride yesterday afternoon, and both were made to feel that it was a home coming, indeed from the moment they stepped from the car. Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Tully were at the station, and the four entering a carriage, were driven directly to the manse, where the elders of the church and their wives were in waiting to welcome them and the greeting extended was a most kindly one.

Evidences of the good-feeling existing between Mr. MacWilliams and his congregation abounded on every side, and were continually turning up. The larders alone have been so well stocked that the inroads of a large family for a week would hardly be noticed.

The elders and their wives

and afterwards repaired to the Sunday School apartments in connection with the church, where they were followed at eight o'clock by Rev. Mr. and Mrs. MacWilliams, who were met at the door by the Board of Managers and their wives, and escorted to the head of the room where the individual members of the congregation were introduced to the bride.

It would be a difficult matter indeed to designate a single family belonging to the congregation, who had not a representative present and by far the greater majority were accompanied by even the wee tots.

A short but choice musical programme had been prepared by Mr. Geo. Mulligan, of which the first number consisted of the rendition of the anthem "The Lord is my Shepherd" by the full choir in a manner which elicited the warm appreciation of the audience. This was followed by a brilliant piano impromptu by Miss May MacFarlane and Miss Vina Gladman, after which Mrs. Jones sang that very pretty solo "Trusting."

The pastor and his bride were then addressed by Dr. Bell, who had been chosen by the congregation as to express their feelings on the occasion and his hearty words of congratulation conveyed in a manner in which kindly feeling prompted every word proved that the choice had been a wise one. He dwelt on the congregation's appreciation of the step so recently taken by their pastor, and enlarged on the hearty good-will they bore towards him, and expressed his belief that a void had been filled in the congregation and a aching void in his own heart. A little bird which had been eavesdropping around the manse lately had, it was said, often heard the refrain:

"This is the way I long have sought
And mourned because I found it not."

but the doctor hoped the period of mourning was now over, and that, although somewhat tardy in changing his solitary estate, he hoped the shorter period of life which now remained would be a fuller measure of love and happiness. Turning to Mrs. MacWilliams, Dr. Bell also extended to her a hearty welcome on behalf of each individual member and adherent of the congregation, as well as the various in connection with the church. In speaking to both Mr. and Mrs. MacWilliams the doctor stated that the congregation desired to express its good will in a more tangible way than verbal utterances, and begged their acceptance of a couple of most luxurious easy chairs, and a handsome gold-faced white onyx clock, coupled with the wish that they would both be spared for many years to enjoy the ease and comfort furnished by the chairs, when wearied in body and mind, and as the clock ticked off the seconds and minutes, and rung out the hours, he hoped that they would be a reminder of the kindly feeling of the congregation, and also bring to their attention the rapid flight of time, and steady and unceasing approach of that period when their earthly work would be drawn to a close and they would be ushered into the presence of the Master to hear the words, "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

The presentation of the chairs and clock was then made by Mrs. A. Stewart and Miss Heubeck for the Bible Class, Christian Endeavour and congregation.

The pastor was greatly moved by the kind words voiced on behalf of the congregation by Dr. Bell and fittingly replied conveying of both himself and Mrs. MacWilliams of the many kindnesses already extended to them.

Mr. J. Laing, on behalf of the Junior Endeavourers, then stepped forward and read the following address:

Peterborough, Sept. 19, 1895.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. MacWilliams:

DEAR PASTOR AND WIFE,—The members of the Junior Endeavour of St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, desire to join with the older members of the church and congregation in expressing our best wishes to you both for a happy and helpful life, and in giving you, at this joyful time a most cordial welcome.

We remember, Mr. MacWilliams, your very great interest in our behalf in the past, and we cannot express how much we owe to your guidance, gracious encouragement and true Christian example. And we are glad to believe, Mrs. MacWilliams, that you will be interested in us, too, and that we may be advantaged, as you may have opportunity, by your wide experience in our work. We desire you to accept these presents from us, not because of their value, but as a token of good will and sincere respect, from the Junior Endeavour Society. We promise that we will continue to endeavour to live earnest, true lives and help, as we can, in the work of the church for the Saviour's sake, and we hope we may be able to add our part in making your life together and with this church as happy and prosperous as it is possible for it to be.

Miss Lizzie Borland and Miss Gertie Curry then stepped forward and presented Mr. and Mrs. MacWilliams with an exceedingly pretty silver fruit dish and a beautiful bouquet of roses.

After a fitting reply had been made by the pastor, a quartette composed of Mrs. C. Macfarlane, Miss Heubeck, Mr. G. W. Mulligan and Mr. Jones sang "Chimes of Bells" in a very effective and pleasing manner. A social hour or two was afterwards spent and each and every member of the congregation in attendance had an opportunity of meeting Mrs. MacWilliams and welcoming her to her new home.

The Sunday School apartments were most luxuriously fitted up for the occasion being arranged as a reception room, parlour and drawing room and beautifully fitted up with suitable furniture, curtains and bric-a-brac.

The R. S. Williams' Piano Company kindly lent one of their magnificent Cabinet Upright Grand Pianos for the occasion.

HARVEST HOME FESTIVAL SERVICE

CONDUCTED IN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH LAST NIGHT.

The Interior of the Edifice Most Beautifully Decorated for the Occasion—A Large Congregation in Attendance.

Harvest Home Festival services were held in St. John's church, last evening, and the interior of the edifice was transformed into a bower of floral beauty for the occasion.

Not so many workers turned out this year as formerly, but those who were in attendance and assisted did so with a zeal which appeared unabatable and in consequence the church decorations were a success, indeed. Considerable work was put on a beautiful arch of clematis vine which was artistically trained over the inside doors of the portico. It was relieved by aster blossoms and the effect was very pretty indeed. On entering the church the eye was at once caught by the beauty of the chancel decorations. The priedieu presented a solid front of whilst the top portion was a bed of richly-coloured crimson nasturtums. Around the lectern a grape vine was tastefully arranged, whilst from it hung suspended large bunches of the luscious fruit. Around its foot were clustered mammoth squash, striped citrons, grand cucumbers, huge tomatoes, bunches of big onions and bursting ears of corn, all in a profusive confusion, relieved by brightly coloured bouquets of flowers. The pulpit was beautifully garnished with huge bunches of the most choice varieties of grapes, suspended over a back ground of a prettily conceived arrangement of wisps of wheat straw. The chancel railings were hidden in sheaves of grain, crowned and bound with floral tributes. The railings enclosing the choir were also beautifully decorated with fruits and flowers. On either side of the altar were two gigantic sheaves of wheat, and at the base of each reposed two golden sickles. Resting on the altar there was a profusion of flowers, from the midst of which rose a cross of roses surrounded by vases of other cut flowers. A great deal of attention had evidently been bestowed upon the windows over the altar, as their

and vegetables were arranged most attractively. The sills of all the other large windows were also bedded with harvest spoils disposed in such a way as to show that deft hands had carefully considered their beautification. In each corner of the church were tall tapering evergreen trees lending an additional charm to the bright decorations by their sombre contrast. The various illuminating fixtures in the church each bore its share of luscious fruit and here, there and everywhere the graceful clematis vine lent beauty to the general effect by its graceful wreathings. Stately palms were disposed in various nooks and corners where they would show to the best advantage, and away down in the left hand corner the tastefully arranged decorations of the font brightened the entire rear portion of the church. The basin was filled in with vari-coloured foliage plants, whilst around them them was placed a circle of pure white chrysanthemums. Down the sides were hung clusters over a back ground of evergreens, relieved with red berries and clematis.

The church was crowded to the doors and the services were conducted by the rector, Rev. J. C. Davidson, assisted by Rev. Mr. Stephenson, whilst a most able and appropriate sermon was delivered by Rev. R. H. McGinnis, of Hastings. In opening he referred in complimentary terms to the beautiful decorations, which he judged would certainly be a great encouragement to the devoted rector and efficient curate to know that they had behind them such a body of workers, who had with loving hands so tastefully decorated the House of God. The harvest festival, Mr. McGinnis thought, was one of the most potent means of bringing before all God's care in making provision for them in all things, and suggested the necessity of giving themselves to the GIVER OF ALL GOOD THINGS.

He thought we should not only offer ourselves because it was our duty, but because the harvest festival suggested the privilege we possessed in being able to offer ourselves to a God who so loved us as to not only to provide for our needs, but to offer His only Son, Jesus Christ, as a sacrifice for our sins.

The speaker continued to say that if we looked over the past year we had every REASON TO BE THANKFUL.

It might be that He had seen fit to lay the afflicting hand upon us, but we should remember that whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth, so if some one had been taken from the home we should even lift up our hearts in thankfulness, as the affliction had brought us into still closer relationship with our Father in Heaven. As a Church we had great reason to be thankful, for God had blessed our work during the year. Each and every one without a doubt had reason to be especially thankful for some particular blessing, and all should lift up their hearts to Him in return for the bountiful Canadian harvest, which had just been garnered. In His goodness He had not only seen fit to give us enough for ourselves, but a supply for other countries as well. The Manitoba harvest had been so great, in fact, that help had to be invoked from the other provinces to assist in gathering it into the barns.

Ontario, he said, had especial reason to be thankful, as early in the season we were threatened with a poor harvest. Everyone grumbled on account of the great drought, but God in His own good time sent the gentle showers to develop the seed and speed its growth, and now the harvest had been safely gathered in and had proven to be most bountiful, and in consequence the congregation had gathered together to praise God, from whom all blessings flow.

At the conclusion of the service the majority of the congregation remained, in order to view more closely the artistic decorations of the church.

FLOURISHING PETE SIMONS & CO.

Now Occupying Palatial New Premises—How Their New Business Home is Fitted up.

Messrs. Pete Simons & Co. are now installed in their elegant new premises, 408 George street.

For over forty years, the veteran and reliable Pete Simons, the head of the firm, whose claim to being the champion cutter of the district, would be rather hard to dispute, has been in the business. He has passed 25 years of that time in Peterborough working for various firms—Fairweather & Co., T. Bradburn and thirteen years with T. Dolan & Co. Pete Simons always made a success of the department of the houses he was connected with.

Four years ago he went into business for himself at 406, and at once Pete Simons & Co. by virtue of faultless fit, honest material and reliable work developed a flourishing business, not only in this district, but the memory of his past good work procured him orders from exiled Canadians in the far west, and many Americans, who seeing its excellence, "wanted a suit just like it."

The new premises are handsomely fitted. Exceedingly taking and tasty signs at the door indicate that Pete Simons & Co. are "at home" to the public. On entering the door attention is at once attracted to the spacious cutting table, whose front is formed by a large painting representing an interior, this as well as the signs being the artistic work of Mr. Jas. Simons, a brother, who has spent 25 years, to good advantage, judging by the excellence of his work, in painting in New York. Behind the cutting desk is shelving for tailors' trimmings, all of the latest designs and patterns, English and American. Along the one side is another range of shelving devoted to underclothing and gentlemen's furnishings. In front of this is a handsome ash counter with nickel-plated glass show case. The other side of the shop is provided with elegant cherry tables, supplied by D. Belleghem, piled high with a superior stock of cloths, tweeds—English, Irish and Scotch—meltons, broadcloths, etc. In addition the invoice of $2,000 worth of new Scotch and other Old Country tweeds, of the very latest designs, was received to-day. This shop is provided with elegant electroliers, combined with gas, for lighting, and is in all respects a beautiful and convenient department of the establishment.

In rear of the main shop is a large, well-lighted fitting and dressing room, elegantly carpetted and fitted with plate mirrors.

The second floor forms the spacious work room, where there is accommodation for thirty or thirty-five hands, of which number twenty are now busy on ordered work.

The basement is also completely fitted up, and contains the coal bins, water closets and lavatory.

Altogether Pete Simons & Co. have a most elegantly and completely fitted establishment, and with their high reputation the future of a successful business is plain sailing.

Messrs. Pete Simons, jr., and Robert Begley, both with large experience, manage the sales department.

The building is owned by Mr. George Schneider. The carpenter work of the fitting up was done by Mr. John Alexander; Messrs. John and James Simons did the painting and paper hanging. The electric fixtures were put in and supplied by Mr. Ernie Rutherford, and the gas by Mr. Alf. Jones (Breese & Jones.) The plumbing was done by Mr. Adam Hall, the work being well done by Mr. Fred Boundy.

When you want a first-class fit, stylish cut, first-class material, and a general good job on a suit or garment, call on Pete Simons & Co., at their new establishment, 08 George street.

It pays to trade with Grafton & Co Clothing Manufacturers.

THE BLOODY BATTLE OF TRAMPS AND COPS.

A TRAMP TELLS THE TRAGIC STORY OF "HEAP'S RUN."

The Other Side of the Story—Pete Thornbrook Gives His Version of the Engagement—Standers Contradicted—Tramps Like Truth are Mighty and Prevail.

The recent battle of Heap's Run is sure to pass into history as one of the most thrilling episodes of the century, both for the desperate and bloody character of the encounter and the heroic bravery shown by the contestants. But, like all history, it admits of more than one set of facts and the particulars so far set forth are only those furnished by one party of the belligerents.

This morning THE EXAMINER received by the post a communication, dated Havelock, written on soiled wrapping paper, and signed "Pete Thornbrook," purporting to be the only true and authentic account of the bloody battle of "Heap's Run." The writing is a little difficult to decipher and the document, with its original style of spelling, shows evidence of the dictionary of slang having been freely consulted. The liberty is taken of translating it into every-day English, at the same time supplying some details which the writer was not in a position to know.

Mr. Pete Thornbrook states that he saw a Peterborough EXAMINER, which was used to wrap up a grub "hand out" by a farmer's wife, containing most highly-coloured accounts of an encounter of a posse of Peterborough policemen, who are, he says, scouring the country in search of three or four CRIPPLED, HANDCUFFED TRAMPS.

In the interests of "truith and justis" he furnishes a corrected version of the now celebrated affray.

He says that when Messrs. Moore, Montgomery and Brine came upon the tramps they found three of them sleeping the sleep of the weary, in a secluded spot that admitted of easy surprise. With a desperate bravery which has no parallel in Pete's experience, they pounced upon the sleeping innocents and handcuffed them. Two of the trio were handcuffed together, but the third had the honour of a pair of "darbies" all to himself. A fourth tramp, whom Pete, reminiscent, doubtless, of the prison way of identifying inmates, calls No. 4, hearing the ruction from his berth on the opposite side of the C. P. R. track, decided to take a hand in, undaunted by the presence of the three stalwart Peterborough "bobbies" who had performed the grandly heroic and difficult feat of handcuffing three sleeping tramps, weak with short rations and shaky with bad whisky. No. 4 in a voice of thunder, asked the posse what they were doing, and, evidently taking them for a hostile band of tramps, in the same breath demanded of his pals if the "blokes" had "swiped" their tin—the price of three beers, which constituted the financial war supply of the road gentlemen. No. 4 seems to have been "lightning," for hardly had he done speaking when he pulled his gun, demanding of Montgomery the keys of the bracelets. The latter directed No. 4 to Mr. Archie Moore, who had, on seeing the gun, hastily on the track, obviously thinking that the life of the commander of the expedition was too precious to be rashly risked, as it would involve the demoralization of the force.

Tramp No. 4 thereupon deployed in a masterly manner and advanced upon the commander-in-chief, who "P te" says took up a series of stratagetic positions with head-swimming rapidity that would do credit to an express train, No. 4 following up the retreat and pouring deadly volleys (in the air) upon the dust-dimmed rear of the retiring generalissimo. "Pete," by the way he expresses himself, evidently thinks that Archie is a disciple of the Hudibrastic cult of philosophy, and drops in poetry thus:—

He that fights and runs away,
May live to fight another day;
But he that stays till fight is o'er,
Will stand a chance to be no Moore.

When the manacled tramps saw Archie hatless under full sail and No. 4 shooting at the tree tops behind him, they were so convulsed with laughter that they nearly shook off their handcuffs, while Archie showed wonderful control of his countenance and never drew the ghost of a smile.

Meanwhile the tramp with his one pair of irons struck across the field with a view of intercepting the retreating commander-in-chief. Meanwhile brigadeer Montgomery made a movement to fall back on the reserves, represented by Col. Brine, but he was no where to be seen—he had disappeared as utterly as though he had sunk in the earth, but Pete thinks he didn't sink any further than his boots. (Note.—Patterson's tannery has been instructed by the war department to prepare a to recognize this brilliant retreat.) Montgomery meanwhile followed tramp No. 4 at a respectable distance, firing off his revolver till his ammunition was exhausted, when he took refuge in a ditch where he was screened by the high weeds. No. 4 and the single darbied tramp returned towards the scene of the main battle, Montgomery, thinking No. 4 tramp was Archie for he wore his hat, approached him, when No. 4, drawing his gun, told Montgomery that if he moved a step nearer he would blow his brains out. Montgomery, however, kept the enemy at bay and made good his retreat to town. Pete doesn't say this from personal knowledge, but learned that the three constables never "let up" their spurt till they found the safety in the sheltering precincts of the police office. Pete swears that this is in substance a correct and truthful account of the bloody battle of "Heap's Run." "Pete" must be allowed to conclude his correspondence in his own vigourous vernacular:

"Now, Mr. Quill-slinger, I's dead tired o' dis' writin' racket—it's too bloody much like work. But before I quit Ise goin' ter give yer a p'inter. Them bloomin' amacher cops y' sent out from your town, will never die of the gravel. Dey ain't got sand enough to stop a watch."

P.S. an' also N.B.—"Yer kin tell the boss bobby of your ranch—Razzle day say his name is—dat if he wants ter get back dem hand cufs, he will find dem in a junk shop, where dey have more "scrap" about 'em dan dey had when dey was in de pockets of the amacher cops. N. B. again—If yer got de price of a drink about yer yer kin leave it in a crack's de fust cattle gard east of Heap's Run.

affectunately,
PETE THORNBROOK."

"No. 4 is dead on kickin' hisself becos he couldn't savvy de differ between a bloody cop and a gent of lesbur, and as fer de libel dat we slep in a church—it's a bootiful life, cos none on us has been in a gospel mill since we wos baptised. De fact is dat we was lunchin' off beechnuts wen de blokes sailed by on deir second fool hunt. Wen ye send out another lot o' tenderfoots to ketch tramps provide 'em wid skuirt guns—for de gang is skeerder o' cold water dan cold lead."

A Question.

How can we raise more corn to the acher? Why, of course by using Putnam's Corn Extractor. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor has given universal satisfaction, for it is sure safe and painless. Like every article of real merit it has a host of imitators, and we would specially warn the public to guard against those dangerous substitutes offered for the genuine Putnam's Extractor.

TORONTO WATERWORKS.

An Outbreak of Disease Feared and Great Precautions Recommended.

Toronto, (Special) Sept. 16.—The accident which recently occurred to the Toronto waterworks conduit has created a great deal of consternation, and an outbreak of disease is possible. Doctors are prescribing the various precautions to be taken, and among them it is strongly recommended that the kidneys should be kept in a state of perfect regularity by means of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which experience has shown to be equally efficacious in the latest as well as in the earliest stages of kidney trouble. It is also stated by the physicians that this season is one in which the kidneys are peculiarly susceptible to disorder.

BIG PROFITS —ON— Small Investments

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within a short time as by successful Speculation in Grain, Provisions and Stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED can be made by our Systematic Plan of Speculation

originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system.

It is a well-known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 to $100,000 or more by those who invest a few thousand.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plain are persons who live away from Chicago and invest through brokers who thoroughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.

WRITE FOR CONVINCING PROOF, also our Manuel on successful speculation an our Daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers. ALL FREE. Our Manual explain margin trading fully. Highest references in regard to our standing and success.

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. H. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says:

"A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the varioloid, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Wer[illegible] Olympia St., New Orleans, La.

A Spark Burns Barn and Crop.

Georgetown, Sept. 18.—A fine new barn, owned by Robert Mothersill, on concession 4, Chingacousey, was fired yesterday by a spark from a thresher. The season's crop, farming machinery, 5 horses and 20 pigs, belonging to the farmer, and a team of horses and a separator owned by Mr. William Hoare, were burned. The loss is $5000, with some insurance.

Incendiaries Burn a Village.

The Weather's Effect on Health.

You know that the weather affects your health, but have you ever satisfied yourself as to how it does it? By observing the barometer for a few months and comparing your feelings with its readings you wil discover that they fluctuate in harmony. Then just a little plain thinking will make it clear. When the barometer is low the atmosphere is light and the air pressure on the body is considerably lessened. When this pressure is removed the blood is forced to the surface and distends the vessels. Weak or diseased parts are congested, sensitive nerves submitted to unusual pressure and a sense of fullnes,, a sort of stuffy feeling pervades the whole body. The blood does not flow freely on account of the loss of nerve tone, the brain becomes sluggish and mental acuteness is impaired. The barometer is not responsible for all this but it explains how it all happens.

Healthy, vigorous persons are not affected by the changing pressure and moisture of the atmosphere like those who are diseased or have weak spots. They have sufficient vital energy to resist the tendency to congestion of the small blood vessels and of the mucous membranes to throw off more moisture than the atmosphere will absorb. It is for this reason that children and young people in good health do not suffer to any extent from atmospheric changes.—Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

Filibusters Arrested Carrying Ammunition

Madrid, Sept. 18.—A despatch to The Imparcial from Havana says a patrol steamer seized a boat that was carrying ashore cartridges from the American steamer Mascotte. The three occupants of the boat were arrested and will be tried by court martial.

Coke Workers Strike.

Uniontown, Pa., Sept. 17.—One half of the men employed at the Olive Coke Works, near Uniontown, struck to-day in accordance with the action of yesterday's convention. The remainder, it is said, will strike to-morrow. There was no disorder. It is thought the entire region will be idle within the next 48 hours.

MANNERS AT TABLE.

They Are Evolutions of Savage Customs.

How did table manners arise? Where do they come from? Like Topsy and other human institutions, they just "growed." And it is surprising how slow of development has been the sentiment of cleanliness and neatness which was the principal cause of the invention of the implements and dishes used in serving food and eating.

In good old paleolithic times, when human beings were always within twenty-four hours of starvation, man ate only with his fingers. He hunted for his food in the woods or by the seashore, and he picked the bones clean. Two table articles are found among uncivilized people—the knife and the spoon. The knife was originally a weapon of attack and defense. It was used for cutting and carving flesh, but its conveniences in eating soon became apparent.

The origin of the spoon is uncertain. It must have been invented at a very ancient date, for it is found among people that have never come into contact with civilization. The necessity for having some implement for dipping water seems to have led first to the invention of the calabash or the use of the cocoanut shell and later on to the spoon.

We must wait 4,000 years before we find the fork. Or, as a French writer on table etiquette has said, "from the creation of the world to the beginning of the seventeenth century man ate only with his fingers." This is, however, a mistake of 400 years, for we find forks as early as the thirteenth century, when they are mentioned as being kept for special purposes. Thus John, Duke of Brittany, is said to have used a fork to pick up "soppys" and Piers Gaveston had three for eating pears with.—Lippincott's.

Making the Broods Comfortable.

Late-hatched broods of chickens often suffer and appear weak, not because they are late-hatched, but because they come at a period when the heat is greatest, and because in many cases there is little or no protection from it. A coop is placed in the glare of sunshine, and both the mother hen and the chicks suffer greatly, and the latter do not thrive. Put the coops under the shade of trees if possible, but if these are absent the illustration shows how easily a bit of shade may be secured. Simply nail two long strips to the sides of the coop and stretch a piece of cotton cloth from one to the other. A little thing like this is capable of adding vastly to the comfort of the brood and its chance for rapid growth.

Painting by Machinery.

Painting by machinery, practiced on a large scale for the first time in connection with the mammoth exposition buildings at Chicago, in 1893, has become an everyday accomplishment, and painting machines are now regularly purchasable articles. For several years previous to the mentioned use, at Chicago, of ordinary garden hose and spraying nozzle outfits, by means of which the immense areas of wall space in the fair buildings were coated with paint and kalsomine, a substantially similar plan has been, and still is, followed at some of the American railroad shops for painting shop walls, freight cars and the like, but the appliances there used, though very serviceable and time-saving, were "home-made," and could scarcely be considered as articles of commerce. Now, however, the intending user of a painting machine need no longer resort to a makeshift apparatus, but can buy it in the open market, in various sizes and forms, just as he would buy any other standard pieces of machinery.

The Art of Pouring Tea.

Few hostesses understand the art of pouring tea and coffee, simple as it appears. As a rule the guest of honor is offered the first cup, which is the weakest, and the children, if served at all, are given the last and strongest. When it is desirable to have all the cups of uniform strength one should pour a little into each and then begin over again, reversing the order. In England this is so well understood that a pourer of tea or coffee does not begin to replenish the cups till all are before her.

CANDY

FOR CHILDREN.

The Popular Health Magazine says the desire in a child for candy and sweets is a natural one and should not be stifled. Good candy and sweets in moderation, not only do no harm, but are actually beneficial. Too much sweet upsets the stomach and spoils the appetite, but candy in moderation if it is not taken before a meal, is food which children crave naturally, and among the purest and most wholesome is that manufactured by

EYES TO SEE AND SEE NOT.

That is the case with many people. They need spectacles, and the strange part of it is tha some folks never know how bad their eyes are until they have them tested. Have been going through life without seeing as much as they ought to see—perhaps suffering from headaches and tired eyes.

If you will call at Sanderson's Jewellery Store, George street, your eyes will be examined free of charge. If you need Glasses they will be supplied at a reasonable price. Do not neglect this matter and so be like those who have EARS TO HEAR AND HEAR NOT.

"SUN" LIFE

Assurance Co'y of Canada.

The Rev. J. L. Murray, of Kincardine, Ontario, assured in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, in December, 1874, under Policy No. 1403, on the Twenty Year Endowment plan, paying an annual premium of $69.90 for ten years. He paid into the Company in all $699. In December, 1894, his Endowment matured, and he received a cheque from the Company for $1,364,70, being a return of all the premiums paid, and in addition, $665,70. That is to say Mr. Murray got back all the money he invested, with about 4½ PER CENT. COMPOUND INTEREST, and had his life assured for $1.000 for twenty years free of charge.

It is needless to say that Mr. Murray was much pleased. You may gather that fact from the persual of his letter hereto appended. QUERY:—How many of the people of Peterborough invest their money to better advantage?

N. B.—This is an example of profits paid under our Five Year Distribution plan. The results under our Reserve Dividend (or Semi-Tontine) policies may reasonably be expected to greatly exceed that realized under the above plan.

KINCARDINE, JAN. 6th, 1895.

The Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, Montreal.

GENTLEMEN:—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your cheque in full settlement of claim under my Ten Payment Twenty Year Endowment policy, No. 1406, and I desire to express my satisfaction with the result of my investment. I paid to the Company an annual premium of $69.90 for ten years, making a total of $699, for which I now receive a cheque for $1,364,70, being a return of all I have paid the Company, and in addition, $665.70, besides having had my life assured for $1,000 during the twenty years. This I consider very good indeed, and I have pleasure in giving my testimonial to that effect.

Yours sincerely,
(Signed,) REV. J. L. MURRAY.

A SISTER OF MERCY SUES.

Asks $5000 Damages For Improper Dismissal From a Convent

Montreal, Que., Sept. 19.—Miss Amand Hudon has entered an action for $5000 damages against the Sisters of Mercy. She alleges that from July 22, 1888, until the 7th of this month she was a member of the Congregation of the Sisters ofMercy, first as a novice for two years, and subsequently as a nun for five years. At the expiration of the first two years she made solemn vows of poverty, chastity and obedience, and was, she alleges, admitted to the order upder the name of Sister Saint Bruno. She states that she devoted "her time, her work and her health," to the service of the community until the 7th instant.

Upon that day, she further alleges, the Superioress, "without cause or reason, without previous warning and contrary to the custom followed in similar cases, dismissed her and turned her into the street without means of existence and without wardrobe."

She complains that her character is compromised, if not ruined, by the action of the Superioress, who, she states, refused to give her a certificate that her dismissal had been due to no disgraceful cause.

Husband Charges Wife With Murder.

Monroe, Mich., Sept. 19.—Enos Larkins, who is in jail here charged with the murder of Mrs. Jane Merrill, has made a confession, and accused his wife of dealing the death blow. The night of July 5 Larkins says his wife and Mrs. Merrill quarrelled, and Mrs. Larkins hit the other woman over the head with a club. Mrs. Merrill died almost instantly, and the next day her body was taken to the woods, where an attempt was made to cremate it. The motive for the murder was said to have been the desire of Larkins and his wife o secure Mrs. Merrill's property. Larkins says that his wife impersonated Mrs. Merrill in the signing of papars, etc.

LIVES LOST IN THE STORM.

Tuesday's Cyclone Laid Waste Two Counties in Michigan.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 19.—Reports from Tuesday's cyclonic storm, which swept over various portions of the state, show that several lives were lost and fully $150,000 worth of damage was done to crops and property. The storm spent its greatest fury in Sanilac and Huron counties. Houses were leveled, crops laid waste, trees torn up by the roots, and havoc gener lly prevailed. At Pinnebog it demolished the house of Richard Lott, and killed two of his children, aged 4 and 6. One child's head was crushed by falling timbers, and the other's breast was crushed. Three others were hurt, one being carried several rods by the wind.

At Sand Beach a number of houses were demolished, among them John Macomber's. The family got under the bed for safety and were pinned there until they were dug out. Then it was found that Alvin, 15 years old, was dead. Ferguson and Van Wormer's saw mill was blown into a heap.

20 Miles of Country Levelled by Wind.

Green aBy, Wis., ept. 19.—Thirty buildings were destroyed by a cyclone which swept over Door county peninsula last night. Farmers were the principal losers. The large Shiloh Church at Clay Banks was torn from its foundation and bourne through the air several rods and dumped bottom up a mass of debris. The cyclone swept a path for 20 miles through forest and farms, levelling all in its way. Only two persons are reported to have been hurt.

Sir Henry Tyler at Panama.

Solon, Panama, Sept. 19.—Sir Henry Tyler, formerly president of the G.T. Railroad Company, who is on his way to Peru for the purpose of making a new contract with the Peruvian Government in connection with the loan by English capitalists, paid a visit to the Panama Canal to-day and expressed astonishment at the progress that has been made in the work in spite of all the difficulties that have been encountered. The restrictions imposed by the Government of Jamaica to prohibit the emigration of laborers from that island to Panama to engage in the work of the canal.

THE PARTRIDGE CROP.

Abundance of This Feathered Game up North—Beneficial Effect of the Ontario Game Laws.

Reports from the north say that there is splendid partridge shooting this year, this bird being abundant in spite of the large destruction by spring forest fires while the chicks were hatching. This abundance is due to the prohibitory clauses of the game laws passed two years ago forbidding the sale of these birds and thus destroying the destructive industry of a pot hunter. Previous to this there was a slaughter of partridges that threatened their speedy extinction. As a case in point one season before the prohibitory clause as to sale went into effect the book of one firm in Apsley showed shipment of 2,000 brace. Four thousand birds that represent only a part of the slaughter, would make a big hole in the total of this toothsome bird. Now as a result, legitimate sport has a chance of good shooting. The birds have increased marvellously and in two years now which the prohibitory clauses as to selling remain in force will result in a wonderful increase, which will serve, with the annual increase hereafter, the purposes of legitimate sport indefinitely.

The Pearl of Great Price

To woman is beauty. Beauty, the key that unlocks every door, commands deference, inspires homage. But beauty of face cannot satisfy unless the additional grace, beauty of teeth, adds its charm. Fine teeth, sweet breath, rippling laughter—three graces that always go together. Ivorine imparts dazzling pearly like whiteness, removes discoloration and tartar from the teeth, and renders the breath as fragrant as flowers.

It were better to lose the cup than to retain it by questionable methods, or even by the lesser sin of discourtesy to a guest.—Chicago Record.

Americans can't afford to keep the cup by a fluke. It was bad enough for Cornell to take an unearned race at Henely. The ownership of the America's cup should not turn on accidents.—Syracuse Post.

Mr. Iselin should have remembered Sir Richard Sutton and Genesta, and as long as Defender made the race should have been generous enough to give it to Valkyrie.—Chicago Record.

Meanwhile, many millions of Americans, if such a number there be who longer regard this as an international affair, will continue to ponder over the idea, "Was it such a beating after all? Couldn't we have beaten the Englishman without bringing a taint upon the victory?"—New York Sun.

In many jingo minds there seems to be a queer idea that Dunraven is a noisy braggart like themselves, who has made all sorts of boasts of what his yacht could accomplish, instead of the quiet and modest gentleman that he is—steadily silent as to the Valkyrie and her fortune.—Boston Transcript.

Cocoa and its Uses.

We are wont to associate this new drug of marvellous medicinal properties with the grateful beverage of the breakfast table, but they are quite different in source and in properties. Coca is a most beneficent gift to the sick and suffering, as is attested by its rapid rise in estimation and the reliance now placed upon it by the most eminent practitioners in Europe and America.

Maltine with Coca Wine is the most reliable form in which the full medicinal value of coca may be obtained and the striking results derived from its use in nervous exhaustion, debility, weakness, or palpitation of the heart, warrant the high appreciation of its merits expressed by medical men who have used it in their practice. Maltine with Coca Wine is not a patent medicine, but a highly specialized pharmaceutical product, designed to cure disease in the only way disease can be cured, viz., by helping nature. Maltine with Coca Wine is worthy of your confidence. Sold by all druggists.

The cry is "Give me Grafton's Clothing!" Honest buyers want nothing better at the price.

It pays to wait. All things come to those who wait. PROF. CHAMBERLAIN, Eye Specialist, will be here soon. He is a practical Optician of twenty years experience. He owns his own lathes in Toronto that his spectacles and glasses are ground on. A jeweller in Wingham has been calling at some of my towns that I visit regularly trying to deceive the public by telling them he is an Optician. Do not be misled. If you will call on me I will convince you that I will give $100 to him if he can fit some difficult cases that I have fitted with glasses. He is only a spectacle vendor and watch repairer.

ITALY'S UNIFICATION.

Anniversary of the Entry of Italian Troops into Rome.

THE POPULACE ENTHUSIASTIC.

Monument to Garibaldi Unveiled—Crispi Eulogizes Victor Emanuel and Warns the Clergy—Canadian Pontifical Zouaves Pass a Resolution of Protest.

Rome, Sept. 21.—Buildigs throughout the city are literally covered with decorations and the streets are crowded with people eager to witness he ceremonies of this, the principal day of the series of celebrations commemorative of the entry of the Italian troops into Rome. It is noticeable, however, that only the embassies of the United States and England display flags. All of the other embassies and legations abstain from any participation in the fetes, whatever. The Pope went last evening to St. Peter's, where he spent an hour in prayer. His Holiness will perform a similar act this evening and again to-morrow.

The chief event of the day was the unveiling of a monument to the memory of Garibaldi on Janiculum Hill in the presence of 50,000 wildly enthusiastic persons. King Humbert and the royal family, all of the court dignitaries and Cabinet Ministers and numerous deputations of veteran Garibaldians. The latter, with banners and bands of music, occupied the places of honor.

Premier Crispi delivered an oration, eulogizing Victor Emanuel and Garibaldi as the saviors of Rome from foreign tyranny. If Christianity could conquer the world without the aid of arms, it was difficult to understand why the Vatican should desire a civil principality in which to exercise its functions.

In no state, he declared, had the church so much liberty as in Italy, and Catholics ought to be grateful for this to those who had striven to unify Italy by making Rome its capital.

Signor Crispi concluded by saying that if, despite the advantages which the clergy enjoyed, they should violate the laws or vituperate the country, their punishment would be prompt and inexorable.

A procession of great length marched this evening to the open space about the Porta Pia. A thousand flags were carried by the paraders. At the head of the procession marched numerous delegates from the Provincial Commons. Next came pupils of the military schools and delegations from the Italian colonies broad. These were followed by various bodies of Freemasons after which came a long line of military, political and workingmen's societies. The whole procession made a magnificent and imposing spectacle. As the paraders passed the Austrian Embassy there was some hooting by the men in line, which was caused by the fact that the Embassy, like the Embassies of France and Russia, displayed no flag in honor of the occasion.

King Humbert has conferred the decoration of the Order of the Annunciata upon Gen. Cadorna, who commanded the troops who marched into Rome on Sept. 20, 1870. his evening a gala dinner was given at the Quirinal.

"LEO XIII. POPE AND KING."

Canadian Pontifical Zouaves Consecrate Their New Chapel in Montreal.

Montreal, Sept. 21.—A requiem service was celebrated yesteday in the Roman Catholic Cathedral for the souls of the Canadian Pontifical Zouaves who fought for the defence of Pius IX. from 1861 to 1870. The Rev. Canon Archambault officiated, with Abbes Charest and Dauth as deacon and sub-deacon respectively. Archbishop Fabre occupied a stall among the canons. After the sermon, all the Zouaves gathered in the chapel just erected by them and there read an act of consecration to the Sacred Heart.

An adjournment then took place to the grand parlor in the Archbishop's Palace, where a resolution of protest was adopted. The resolution read that the Canadian ex-Papal Zouaves in general meeting assembled lodged a solemn protest against the sacrilegious spoliation of the Pope's domain by the Italian troops in 1870. By inaugurating their chapel on this occasion the Canadian Zouaves wished to show that neither time nor distance could make the Catholic world forget that it is the duty of every son of the Church to recognise and support the inalienable rights of papacy. In speaking on the motion, Chevalier Pendergast remarked that, in 1870, they were weak in numbers only. However, thank heaven, their sons were now numerous, and if occasion required it, he trusted that those sons would do what they had been unable to do themselves.

NOTES FROM OTTAWA

H. T. Fuller and A. P. Weston of Halifax, having passed required examination, their admission as cadets to Royal Military College has been approved.

A flat denial is given by Hon. Mr. Ouimet, acting Minister of Agriculture, to The Globe's story, made on the authority of R. G. Murphy, at a meeting of the Brockville cheese Board a few days ago, that Dairy Commissioner Robertson had obtained an advance of $40,000 on Prince Edward Island cheese, "which had a peculiar flavor, and which was simply 'another name for stink.'" The facts of the case are simple. On the recommendation of the Minister of Agriculture in 1893 Parliament passed a vote of $36,000 to enable the Dairy Commissioner to promote the dairying interests by advances for making cheese and butter within the provinces, the proceeds of sales or products from such advances to be placed to the credit of the consolidated revenue fund. This vote has been repeated every session since, with the exception of last session, when it was increased to $40,000. With this vote the Dairy Commissioner, with the consent and concurrence of the Minister of Agriculture, commenced a series of dairy schools, having for their object to stimulate and promote the dairy interests in Canada. The result was an almost phenomenal success. These object lessons were commenced in Ontario to promote winter butter making. Prof. Robertson at first met some objections, but they were soon overcome, and soon as farmers saw the practical results obtained the scheme spread like wildfire. Thereupon the Commissioner moved further east. He is this year operating in the Maritime Provinces and Prince Edward Island. This will probably be the last year of his operations on the Island, for the reason that as the movement is well started it will run itself hereafter, as in Ontario. In fact, what the Dairy Commissioner does is to provide skilled instructors and make advances to farmers for milk they supply in those parts of the Dominion where he operated. The cheese is manufactured by most approved appliances and then the Dairy Commissioner completes the transaction of selling by putting the product on the market. It has been understood and agreed from the beginning, that Prof. Robertson might use his vote over and over again, with the single requirement that the whole sum be deposited to the credit of the Receiver-General at the end of the fiscal year. At the present time there is cheese valued at $52,000, and made in Prince Edward Island, under the control of the Dairy Commissioner in Montreal, and for which he has made advances for milk to farmers. He has not thought it well to sell this cheese at present ruling prices. He therefore, after reporting his action to the Department, and in order to keep faith and meet demands of patrons for further advances for milk and pressing forward the manufacture of dairy products, obtained an advance from a bank of $40,000 on this $52,000 worth of cheese. It seems to be perfectly clear that if he might sell his cheese and re-use the money, he might also partially sell the same re-use, on calculation of a better market later on. At any rate that is his discretion, under his responsibility to the Minister of Agriculture. As to the quality of the cheese on authority of the Commons Committee on Agriculture, it commands half a cent a pound above Ontario prices.

The trade returns for the past two months indicate a gratifying increase in the trade of the country. Exports are valued at $24,376,199, as against $22,559,419, or an increase of two millions and a quarter. The duty collected for the same period shows an increase of $318,000. Imports for the two months manifest a falling off of exactly two million dollars.

The following militia changes will appear in The Canada Gazette:

Governor-General's Body Guard—To be 2nd lieutenant provisionally, Frederick C. Denison, to complete establishment.

2nd Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles—To be lieutenant, 2nd Lieutenant Lester L. Palmer, vice Burnham, promoted.

10 Battalion, Royal Grenadiers—To be lieutenants, 2nd Lieutenants Alexis F. R. Martin, Henry R. O'Reilly, Donald C. Meyers, Samuel F. Sloane, Jas. T. Craig, James C. Mason and George H. C. Brooke.

That part of general order 18, dated the 11th May, permitting Lieut. William R. Pringle to resign his commission is amended by addition of following words after "commission," "and to retain rank of lieutenant on retirement."

48th Battalion, Highlanders—Provisional 2nd Lieutenant John V. Rainsbath retires. To be 2nd lieutenant provisionally, Norman W. Cosby.

No. 4, "Hamilton Field Battery," to be second lieutenant, provisionally: George S. Proctor, vice Duncan, promoted.

It is understod that Hon. Mr. Dickey has placed an order through the High Commissioner for 1500 rifles of the Lee-Metford pattern, the new arm with which the British regulars are now equipped, and 800 Lee-Metford carbines for Canadian cavalry.

The French committee of the Separate School Board met to-night to consider Brother Superior Flamien's letter withdrawing the Christian Brothers from the Ottawa schools. At first a motion was presented to accept the "resignations," but some of the more timid trustees objected and an amendment was adopted favoring further negotiations with Brother Flamien and retention of the services of the Brothers until the end of the year. A private letter was received from Hon. G. W. Ross by Trustee Seguin today assuring him of the hearty support in efforts to elevate the standard of the schools.

Thomas Monro, C.E., engineer-in-chief of the Soulanges canal, has been appointed the Canadian Government's representative to the Deep Waterways Convention at Cleveland next week.

William Wainwright, of the Grand Trunk, and C. Drinkwater of the C.P.R., were here to-day.

WAS HE MURDERED?

Workmen Unearth a Skeleton In Hamilton.

A HOLE FOUND IN THE SKULL.

Evidences of Foul Play, but as the Bones Had Been Buried Ten Years the Energetic Coroner Won't Act Possibility of a Cigar Makers' Strike.

Hamilton, Sept. 21.—While Contractor Faulknor was excavating for a cellar in a vacant lot north of 53 Magill-street, one of his men unearthed a human skeleton this morning and a fracture of the skull justified the supposition that someone had been murdered, and laid away quietly. When Alfred Green one of the workmen was about two feet below the surface, his pick struck something hard. He thought it was a stone. He dug the hard object out and found it was a human skull. Continuing to shovel away the sandy loam he found the other bones of the body, and putting them all together a human skeleton was formed. The bones were large and long, indicating the person had been big. Coroner White was notified and an examination showed that the murdered person was a man. The jaws were big and square. The skull was of ordinary size, the forehead being low, receding, while the back of the head was well developed. Over the left temple was a fracture, which had not been made recently, the only recent marks on the skull being a puncture on the back of it, made by the pick. The bones were dry, but well preserved; there was no vestige flesh about them, and from their condition the interment took place probably from six to ten years ago.

A few years ago this locality, which is close to Vinegar Hill, was a resort for cock fighters and all that class of people, who held high carnival every night. It is supposed the man was knocked and laid away in this quiet little spot. The lot was, till a few years ago, owned by Mrs. James Jones, De Grassi-street, Toronto, who resided at No. 52 Magill, having inherited the property from her father, the late Thomas Furlong. No inquest will be held and the bones will be intered.

A meeting of the Bricklayers' and Masons' Union was held last evening and it was decided that the rule, requiring members to work nine hours a day only, should be carried out, and accordingly, at 5 o'clock to-night the bricklayers and stonemasons employed on the T., H. & B. tunnel quit work, refusing to continue till 6o'clock, as formerly. There is little danger, however, that the outcome of this will be serious, as Contractor Onderdonk is willing to accede to the demands of the union, and will obviate the necessity of requiring them to work ten hours a day as soon as there is working accommodation for more bricklayers. His contract, which is a big one, has to be completed this year, and owing to the delay caused by the hard pan, he is anxious to have the work proceed as rapidly as possible.

There are prospects of trouble between George E. Tuckett & Son and their cigarmakers over prices. Some time ago several cigarmakers met representatives of the local Cigarmakers' Union and endeavored to induce them to establish a uniform scale of prices among the unions throughout the Dominion for the manufacturers were laboring under the disadvantage of having to pay their union men a higher scale than is paid in Toronto, Montreal or London. The local union took no action in the matter, and this morning the following propositions were made to the Tuckett & Son's employes:

"We are willing to pay you the present Toronto bill of prices, and an advance over this bill of one to two dollars per thousand for certain hand work jobs. We understand the Toronto bill of prices is the highest outside of Hamilton.

"Or we will pay you the present Hamilton prices, less one dollar all round, with the exception of our six-inch cigar, for which we consider $15 per thousand is sufficient.

"Our company has always considered the interests of its employes, and I assure you nothing would afford us greater pleasure than to be able to continue the present scale of prices and develop our business, but the present conditions of the cigar business will not permit it. We are willing to submit the matter to arbitration, you to choose one arbitrator, we to choose another, and the two arbitrators, if they cannot agree, to choose a third in the person of one of the judges of the County Courts. We submit the above for your answer in writing one week from to-day."

At a meeting of the County Council to-day it was decided to grant $500 towards the diversion of the Binkley Hill road, which is crossed by the T., H. & B. Railway. The north portion of the road will be closed up, and the railway company will contribute a certain amount of money, providing it will be allowed to fill in the present bridge crossing.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB COLUMN.

XXXI.

At the Feet of the Poets.

TOUCHSTONE.—Truly, I would the gods had made thee poetical.

AUDREY.—I do not know what poetical is: is it honest in deed and word? Is it a true thing?

TOUCHSTONE.—No truly; for the truest poetry is the most feigning.

—As You Like It.

I am not going to try in a column to write comprehensively on this subject; but, at the risk of misleading by a partial treatment, I pick out two or three ideas, which seem to lie near the heart of the matter, and are often misconceived.

It is the fashion with some to despise the outward mould of poetry, regular rhyme and metre, and even to neglect what goes much deeper, poetic rhythm—the musical flow and harmony of the verses. The eccentric genius of Walt Whitman scorns, not only the sensuous aid of rhyme and rhythm, but even poetic phrase and imagery; and it is difficult to understand why he chose to retain the initial capitals to his long, straggling, jagged verses. However beautiful in thought and imagery, a composition that has not regular rhythmical motion, though it may be POETIC, is not poetry in the distinctive sense of the word.

But this by no means implies that this sensuous quality is the essence of poetry; it is merely the accompaniment. Yet the music is not something added to the thought and separable from it, but something bound up and in harmony with it. When we go to the root of the matter we find that the Poet is a maker, a creator, a thinker, first, and only, as it were, in the manner of his expression, a "singer," in the narrow sense of using musical words in musical sequence. The great Poet's music goes much deeper than sound; it cannot be imitated by the cleverest manipulator of phrases. In the great poem there is, not only music in word and line, but also in the conception, and there is a harmony throughout all the parts. There is no such thing as "getting the hang of it"; until the imitator can in his own soul think the same thoughts and rise to the same elevation as the Poet he cannot repeat even the mere musical utterance. How very simple are these few stanzas of Tennyson's over a lost friend; but the mystery of poetry is in them:

At the foot of thy crags, O Sea!
But the tender grace of a day that is dead
Will never come back to me."

We are at first inclined to wonder why we cannot all speak like that—until we try. The mystery of the perfection of that famous lyric does not lie in the thought nor in the imagery, nor in the musical expression, but in the harmonious unity of all combined.

I cannot do better than quote Carlyle. No man was more impatient of the minor poets than he; his general advice to them was, if they had anything to say, to write prose, and not jingle it. But he was too profound a thinker and too much the poet himself to despise poetry. Read his words with the utmost care:

"If your delineation be authentically musical, not in word only, but in heart and substance, in all the thoughts and utterances of it, then it will be poetical. * * * A musical thought is one spoken by a mind that has penetrated into the inmost heart of the thing, detected the inmost mystery of it. * * * Poetry we may call musical thought. The poet is he who thinks in that way. At bottom it turns on power of intellect; it is a man's sincerity and depth of vision that makes him a poet. See deep enough, and you see musically; the heart of nature being everywhere musical, if you could only reach it."

"Musical thought"—there is your definition in brief.

I respect and admire Touchstone, (as a fool) but I cannot believe, even on such authority, that "the truest poetry is the most feigning." Great poetry is absolutely and passionately sincere; and it is also "true" in its own way. The opposite of poetry, we must remember, is not prose but science; in respect of form, prose is opposed to poetry, but in respect of essence, the opposite is science. Both are concerned with truth; science with truth of essence, poetry often only with truth of aspect. (I think it is Woodsworth who puts the matter in this way.) Truth is the primary requisite of both. For example, science says of the sunrise, that the earth, in its diurnal revolution on its axis, now presents our particular part of the earth to the sun's rays; and that these complex white rays, in passing through the minute particles of water floating in the atmosphere, are separated into their many-colored parts. Let poetry speak:

"Day!
Faster and more fast,
O'er night's brim, day boils at last;
Boils, pure gold, o'er the cloud-cup's brim,
Where spurting and suppressed it lay.
* * * Forth one wavelet, then another, curled,
* * * * *
Till the whole sunrise, not to be suppressed,
Rose, reddened, and its seething breast
Flickered in bounds, grew gold, then overflowed the world."

Again:

"Sucked from out the distant gloom
A breeze began to tremble o'er
The large leaves of the sycamore,
And fluctuate all the still perfume,

And gathering freshlier overhead,
Rock'd the full-foliaged elms, and swung
The heavy-folded rose, and flung
The lily to and fro, and said

"The dawn, the dawn," and died away,
And East and West, without a breath,
Mixed their dim lights, like life and death,
To broaden into boundless day."

Now, I am bold to say, in the face of scientific and practical Peterborough, that it is more to the glory of men to be capable of thinking the thought of Tennyson and Browning, than the thought of Galileo. I throw down the gauntlet.

* *

As in the case of religion, the assaults of heritics compel us to defend that which is its own best defence. But it is not to be wondered that many practical men hold poetry in lordly contempt; for its votaries, like the votaries of religion, are often the most foolish of mankind; and many forms and expressions of it (making the same comparison) are puerile, disgusting and vicious:

"Ah me! the petty fools of rhyme
That shriek and sweat in pigmy wars,
Before the stony face of time,
And looked at by the silent stars."

Alas! it is true that those faculties of the human soul, which are the greatest and most beautiful, are the most fearful in their degradation.

As I have said, poetry is much more than correct versifying, it is much more than that plus poetic phraseology. To be even a minor poet a man must be capable of more. A good deal of the indifference to poetry arises from our knowledge of the lower and more trifling examples of it. When you and I, in those wonderful bygone days, built houses of blocks, we were not architects; and a great deal of versifying, though pretty and pleasing, is no more poetry than our block-built houses were architecture. Though we now smile at those little houses, we don't despise architecture; neither should we, because we despise poetic trifling and poetic licentiousness, disdain poetry. (I do not mean the minor poet has not true dignity, nor that the lighter forms of poetry have not their place; far from it.) But I need not continue this defence; for I do not think any of our readers will agree with Touchstone, his being but a fool's opinion. Indeed, I fancy if one could get him to be serious a moment, he would admit that he was only fooling.

No history of an age is complete that does not reckon with its poetry. The story of our own century gains much of its sweetness and depth from its master-poet, Tennyson. No poet has been more the expression of his age. He has made musical the scientific, philosophic and religious thought of the day; and has done much to save us from the spiritual degeneration which seems to result from a too exclusive study of the scientific and mechanical. He has sympathized with and shared the perplexity of modern men before the mystery of existence. "In Memoriam" is so popular, not more because it expresses the modern faith than because it expresses the modern doubt. I may be wrong, but Tennyson, I think, does a little more than put deep questions, and search innermost thoughts. He is no prophet, but a thinker, a philosopher. He speculates about his faith, and does not seem to have any supreme message for us. He can only speak in a veiled way of the deeper mysteries that elude his vision:

"I cannot all command the strings—
The glory of the sum of things
Will flash along the chords and go."

A FAVOURITE PRESCRIPTION.

HOW IT CURED MRS. SOMERVILLE, OF BRANTFORD.

Her Case had Baffled Ten Years of Treatment—The Trouble Brought on by an Attack of Typhoid Fever—She is Again Enjoying Good Health.

From the Brantford Nationalist,

That Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a favourite medicine in Brantford and vicinity will be readily borne out by the local druggists, and that much suffering has been alleviated by the use of this wonderful healer, is amply shown by the number of strong statements in favour of Pink Pills from this section. And yet the number of cases published is small in comparison with the total number that have found benefit from the use of this great blood-builder and nerve restorer. It is true that Pink Pills are used in many cases to tone up the system, enrich the blood and stimulate the nerves where no serious illness exists; but it is equally true that in many cases in which they have been used, other medicines have failed, and the result achieved by Pink Pills may very truly be characterized as marvellous. The editor of the Canadian Nationalist came across just such a case recently. It is that of Mrs. S. Somerville, a well-known and highly respected resident of this city. Mrs. Somerville does not seek notoriety, but is willing that a statement of what Pink Pills have done for her shall be made public in the hope that some other sufferer may be benefitted thereby. "My illness at first," said Mrs. Somerville, "was a serious attack of typhoid fever. Although I recovered from the fever it left its effects that have caused me many years of misery. The doctor said that my blood had become impregnated with poison and that it would take a long time to eradicate it. The trouble seemed to have its chief seat in my limbs which caused me a great deal of pain. For about ten years I continued doctoring, not continually, but at times, and I tried many remedies without permanent results. This went on until the end of '93, when I became so much crippled up that I despaired of getting relief. I had read much of the remarkable cures through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and became interested in them. One day I asked my physician if I might try them. He gave his permission and I began using them. By the time the third box was finished I found myself very much improved—in fact the pains had entirely left me and I was growing healthier and more fleshy. I continued the pills until I had taken six boxes, when I felt that I was entirely cured, and was enjoying better health than I had done for years. I am satisfied that to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I owe my recovery, and have implicit confidence in their curative power, and shall continue to recommend them to other sufferers.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are not a patent medicine, but are a long tried prescription acting upon the blood and nerves. They are of great value as a tonic during recovery from acute diseases, such as fevers, etc., building up the blood and system, preventing the often disastrous after effects of such troubles. Sold by all dealers or sent post paid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Refuse all imitations and substitutes.

Strange, but True

The child that cannot digest milk can digest Cod-liver Oil as it is prepared in Scott's Emulsion. Careful scientific tests have proven it to be more easily digested than milk, butter, or any other fat. That is the reason why puny, sickly children, and thin, emaciated and anæmic persons grow fleshy so rapidly on Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites when their ordinary food does not nourish them.

Of Earth's Greatest Blessing.

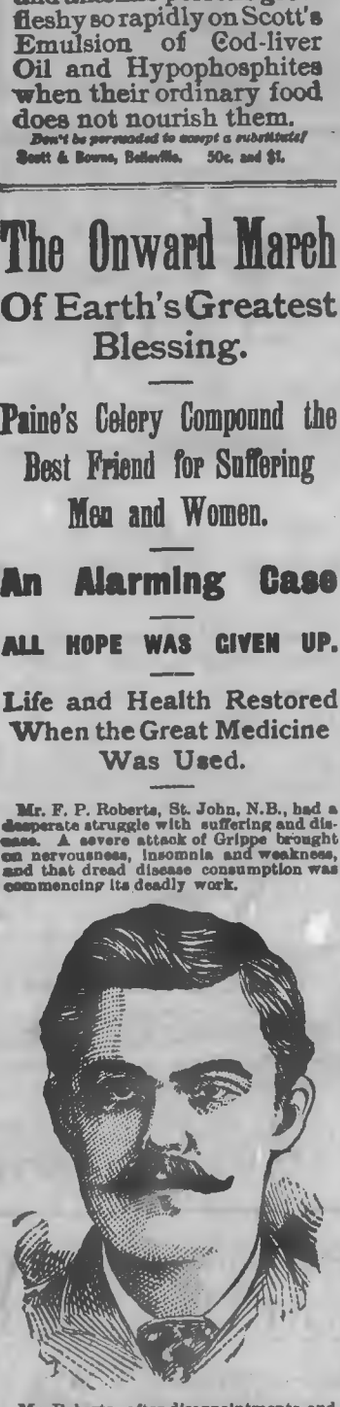
Paine's Celery Compound the Best Friend for Suffering Men and Women.

An Alarming Case

ALL HOPE WAS GIVEN UP.

Life and Health Restored When the Great Medicine Was Used.

Mr. F. P. Roberts, St. John, N.B., had a desperate struggle with suffering and disease. A severe attack of Grippe brought on nervousness, insomnia and weakness, and that dread disease consumption was commencing its deadly work.



Mr. Roberts, after disappointments and failures with his medical attendants, followed the course that thousands in extremities have taken to regain health—he used Paine's Celery Compound, and soon freed himself from the heavy bondage and chains of suffering.

Are you, dear reader, one of earth's sick and burdened mortals, sighing and praying for a new and happy life? If so, you can implicitly plant your hope in the unfailing efficacy of Paine's Celery Compound, a medicine that has no equal in this wide world.

Mr. Roberts reports his case as follows:

"About two years ago I had La Grippe badly. For several months I was unable to do any work. During that period, and for months after, I was under treatment by my physician.

"At times my case was regarded as very alarming, and my life was even despaired of. A most violent cough was firmly seated on my lungs and bronchial tubes, and very often I raised up large quantities of blood.

"At this stage I became desperate and determined to obtain relief without further delay. My doctor was slow to offer me much encouragement; and I finally resolved to try Paine's Celery Compound from having heard much in its favour.

"I am happy to inform you, that by using three bottles of your Pain's Celery Compound I was completely cured; and instead of being restless and wakeful as I once was, I am free from all nervousness and sleep well.

"You cannot conceive of a more grateful man than your humble servant is, for what Paine's Celery Compound has accomplished. My personal recommendation made many thankful customers for our druggist.

"I shall continue to sound its merits at every opportunity; and would be glad if this mildly drawn statement of my case could be of service in persuading others to start with the Compound."

Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup removes worms of all kinds from children or adults.

Captain Sweeney, U. S. A., San Diego Cal. says: "Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy is the first medicine I have ever found that would do me any good." Price 50c. Sold by John Nugent, 399 George Street.

Valuable to Know.

Consumption can be more easily prevented than cured. The irritating and harassing cough will be greatly relieved by the use of Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam that cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, and all pulmonary troubles.

ITALY'S UNIFICATION.

Anniversary of the Entry of Italian Troops into Rome.

THE POPULACE ENTHUSIASTIC.

Monument to Garibaldi Unveiled—Crispi Eulogizes Victor Emanuel and Warns the Clergy—Canadian Pontifical Zouaves Pass a Resolution of Protest.

Rome, Sept. 21.—Buildigs throughout the city are literally covered with decorations and the streets are crowded with people eager to witness he ceremonies of this, the principal day of the series of celebrations commemorative of the entry of the Italian troops into Rome. It is noticeable, however, that only the embassies of the United States and England display flags. All of the other embassies and legations abstain from any participation in the fetes, whatever. The Pope went last evening to St. Peter's, where he spent an hour in prayer. His Holiness will perform a similar act this evening and again to-morrow.

The chief event of the day was the unveiling of a monument to the memory of Garibaldi on Janiculum Hill in the presence of 50,000 wildly enthusiastic persons. King Humbert and the royal family, all of the court dignitaries and Cabinet Ministers and numerous deputations of veteran Garibaldians. The latter, with banners and bands of music, occupied the places of honor.

Premier Crispi delivered an oration, eulogizing Victor Emanuel and Garibaldi as the saviors of Rome from foreign tyranny. If Christianity could conquer the world without the aid of arms, it was difficult to understand why the Vatican should desire a civil principality in which to exercise its functions.

In no state, he declared, had the church so much liberty as in Italy, and Catholics ought to be grateful for this to those who had striven to unify Italy by making Rome its capital.

Signor Crispi concluded by saying that if, despite the advantages which the clergy enjoyed, they should violate the laws or vituperate the country, their punishment would be prompt and inexorable.

A procession of great length marched this evening to the open space about the Porta Pia. A thousand flags were carried by the paraders. At the head of the procession marched numerous delegates from the Provincial Commons. Next came pupils of the military schools and delegations from the Italian colonies abroad. These were followed by various bodies of Freemasons after which came a long line of military, political and workingmen's societies. The whole procession made a magnificent and imposing spectacle. As the paraders passed the Austrian Embassy there was some hooting by the men in line, which was caused by the fact that the Embassy, like the Embassies of France and Russia, displayed no flag in honor of the occasion.

King Humbert has conferred the decoration of the Order of the Annunciata upon Gen. Cadorna, who commanded the troops who marched into Rome on Sept. 20, 1870. His evening a gala dinner was given at the Quirinal.

"LEO XIII. POPE AND KING."

Canadian Pontifical Zouaves Consecrate Their New Chapel in Montreal.

Montreal, Sept. 21.—A requiem service was celebrated yesterday in the Roman Catholic Cathedral for the souls of the Canadian Pontifical Zouaves who fought for the defence of Pius IX. from 1861 to 1870. The Rev. Canon Archambault officiated, with Abbes Charest and Dauth as deacon and sub-deacon respectively. Archbishop Fabre occupied a stall among the canons. After the sermon, all the Zouaves gathered in the chapel just erected by them and there read an act of consecration to the Sacred Heart.

An adjournment then took place to the grand parlor in the Archbishop's Palace, where a resolution of protest was adopted. The resolution read that the Canadian ex-Papal Zouaves in general meeting assembled lodged a solemn protest against the sacrilegious spoliation of the Pope's domain by the Italian troops in 1870. By inaugurating their chapel on this occasion the Canadian Zouaves wished to show that neither time nor distance could make the Catholic world forget that it is the duty of every son of the Church to recognize and support the inalienable rights of papacy. In speaking on the motion, Chevalier Pendergast remarked that, in 1870, they were weak in numbers only. However, thank heaven, their sons were now numerous, and if occasion required it, he trusted that those sons would do what they had been unable to do themselves. Before parting let them now all unite in a hearty "hurrah for Leo XIII., Pope and King." The cry was given with enthusiasm, and the meeting then dispersed.

Italians in Washington Jubilate.

Washington, Sept. 20.—The Italians of Washington to-day celebrated the anniversary of the unification of their country. The celebration began with a street parade and was conducted by the local society. Baron De Fava, the Italian ambassador, received the society, about 400 strong, at his residence on Connecticut-avenue, and gave them a luncheon. Patriotic speeches were made and a message to King Humbert congratulating him on the unity of the Italian states, was sent by the society through Baron De Fava. A banquet, presided over by Baron De Fava, formed the concluding feature of the celebration.

HAMILTON, Sept. 9.—A very large increase has lately taken place in the sale of the specific remedy for complaints of the liver, and Dodd's Kidney Pills are in great demand. There are no complaints either from druggists or the public. The druggists being so near Toronto, the headquarters for distributing, are never in any danger of running out of the medicine for long, no matter how large the demand may be, and the public has long been thoroughly satisfied as to the valuable qualities of the pills, and the manner in which they invariably effect a cure.

POLICEMAN DIES OF EXCITEMENT.

Constable Wright of Brockville Drops Dead While Chasing a Trio of Burglars.

Brockville, Ont., Sept. 19.—Alexander Wright, a recently recruited policeman dropped dead this morning from overexcitement, just as he caught sight of a trio of burglars, whom he was chasing.

The grocery store of James Curran was entered during the night by thieves, who were after the money paid in by employes of the Grand Trunk Railway, who received their salaries yesterday. The safe was blown open with powder, and $500, a smaller sum than the burglars expected, was secured.

When the police were notified this morning, Wright, being the only available man, was sent out on the case, and he and Curran went in search of the thieves. They had gone about a mile when three tramps were seen ahead and a pursuit began.

Wright was climbing a fence, when, at that moment, he fell dead. The body was brought back to town and an inquest will be held.

Wright has only been on the police force for about seven months. He leaves a widow and four young children, one of which is ill and not expected to live. The three tramps that were chased have been arrested, but it is not supposed they are the burglars.

Lightning Burns the Soo Dynamo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Sept. 19.—While in the Canada lock the main mast of the steamer John Oades of Detroit was struck by lightning. At the same time the volt meter in the canal power house was burnt out. Vessels were only delayed about 40 minutes. Business at the lock is very brisk and it is a great boon to vessel men.

Cocoa and its Uses.

We are wont to associate this new drug of marvellous medicinal properties with the grateful beverage of the breakfast table, but they are quite different in source and in properties. Coca is a most beneficent gift to the sick and suffering, as is attested by its rapid rise in estimation and the reliance now placed upon it by the most eminent practitioners in Europe and America.

Maltine with Coca Wine is the most reliable form in which the full medicinal value of coca may be obtained and the striking results derived from its use in nervous exhaustion, debility, weakness, or palpitation of the heart, warrant the high appreciation of its merits expressed by medical men who have used it in their practice. Maltine with Coca Wine is not a patent medicine, but a highly specialized pharmaceutical product, designed to cure disease in the only way disease can be cured, viz., by helping nature. Maltine with Coca Wine is worthy of your confidence. Sold by all druggists.

BIG PROFITS ON Small Investments

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within a short time as by successful Speculation in Grain, Provisions and Stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED can be made by our Systematic Plan of Speculation

originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system.

It is a well-known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 to $100,000 or more by those who invest a few thousand.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plain are persons who live away from Chicago and invest through brokers who thoroughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.

WRITE FOR CONVINCING PROOF, also our Manual on successful speculation an our Daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers. ALL FREE. Our Manual explain margin trading fully. Highest references in regard to our standing and success.

Beautiful Work.

Mr. Frank Fairen purchased a couple of beautiful fans the other day from a tramp vendor, who whittled them out of a piece of pine in a couple of hours. Although such kind of work is by no means uncommon, the fans at the Pullman are far and away ahead of anything ever seen in town.

The Central Exhibition.

The entries which Secretary Green, of the Central Exhibition has received so far are already far in excess of those received in any previous year. All that is now needed is fine weather, and the Peterborough Fair will score a grand success. The special features this year are away ahead of anything ever seen in this district before.

A Pointer for Exhibitors.

On the last day for taking entries, Wednesday, the Secretary of the Peterborough Central Exhibition received over 1500 entries. Market gardeners and others who live close to the town and have so many entries can only blame themselves if their entry tags are not forthcoming on Monday morning, as the Secretary says he will not work on Sunday for conscience sake, the Toronto World to the contrary.

Dr. G. Sterling Ryerson, 60 College St., Toronto, begs to inform the public that he will be at the Grand Central Hotel, Peterborough, on Saturday, Sept. 28th, for consultation in Eye, Ear and Throat cases.

Charged With Assault.

A couple of young lads were in the police court this morning charged with assaulting the small daughter of the Arabian couple, who have taken up their residence in town. The little girl it seems approached a crowd of boys who were fighting and was struck on the hip with a stone. The two lads in question were not proven to have thrown the missle.

Appeal Dismissed.

In the case of McCormack vs. Howry Lumber Company, the Court of Appeal dismissed the appeal and the verdict obtained for $11.44 against the company stands. It will be remembered that this company engaged a number of men from the States and paid their railway fare to work in the lumber camps. During the winter some of the men were discharged, the railway fare deducted, and they were given an order on the firm's office at Fenelon Falls for about $11.40 each. The men discharged then assigned the claims to McCormack, who took proceedings to recover balance due, with the result stated above. Mr. E. B. Stone for plaintiff; Messrs. Barron & Steers for defendants.

An Important Concert.

Mr. A. F. Hoover has completed arrangements for a grand concert for which he has been fortunate in securing the service of Monsieur F. Jehin Prume, the eminent Belgian violin virtuoso, violinist to H. M. the King of Belgium, officer de la Guadelouppe ect. This great artist will appear in company with Mr. Harold Jarvis, the well known tenor of Detroit, Miss Agnes Dunlop, Canada's leading contralto, Mrs. H. M. Blight, accompanist. Without doubt this will be the musical event of the season. Judging from the array of artists, and of the interest the people of Peterborough are already taking in bespeaking seats, subscribers will have the preference of selecting their seats.

Mr. Shaw's Classes in Oil and China Painting.

Mr. Shaw has resumed his classes in oil, water colour and china painting. In addition to the regular classes there will be one class on Saturdays for children under fourteen years of age at half price, and as Mr. Shaw will not take more pupils than will fill this class on these terms, those who come late will not likely to be able to secure a place. Miss Proctor, ceramic artist of the Y.W.G. Toronto, and pupil of the celebrated china decorator, Bischoff, of Detroit, has consented to take charge of the china painting classes in Mr. Shaw's studio, and will be there every week to teach this branch. Some of her decorated china may be seen in China Hall, McKee's, McDonald's or Schofield's drug stores until Saturday, and in the art gallery of the Exhibition next week or at Mr. Shaw's studio on and after Wednesday evening, 25th. Miss Proctor comes highly recommended. Terms reasonable.

Conviction Quashed.

The appeal from the conviction dated August 16th, 1895, and made by Police Magistrate Dumble, convicting Arthur Rountree of a third offence under the Liquor License Act, and of having to pay a fine of $30 and costs, and which, according to law, operated as a forfeiture of Mr. Rountree's license, and disqualified him for two years from obtaining a license to sell liquor, was heard yesterday afternoon and concluded this morning before His Honour Judge Weller. His Honour was of the opinion that upon the evidence which was adduced before the police magistrate the conviction could be upheld. Two additional witnesses, however, were called and other facts were elicited from the witnesses who had already given evidence, which cast such a doubt over the matter that His Honour could not find upon the evidence before him, beyond a reasonable doubt, that a sale of liquor had in fact taken place on Sunday, 4th August, as charged, and for this reason the conviction was quashed without costs. Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, appeared for Chief Rossel, and Mr. R. R. Hall appeared for the defendant, Arthur Rountree.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

The Work on the Peterborough-Lakefield Section Under Way.

Since the occasion of the EXAMINER reporter's last visit to the scene of the Trent Valley Canal operations on the Peterborough-Lakefield section, the force of men at work has been considerably augmented. There are now about 150 men and fifty teams engaged in dragging, scraping, wheel-scraping, stumping, carting and clearing the right of way.

As the line of the canal crosses what is known as the "river road" on the east side of the Otonabee, a new road is being constructed for the use of the public before the old one is torn up. Over a mile of the new thoroughfare has been substantially constructed of broken stone on a raised highway through which culverts are pierced at intervals. Some big "fillings" have to be made before this new road is completed and a gang of men is at work on one of them now at about a mile and a half above Nassau. The road itself begins about half a mile above the village.

At present a gang of over a hundred men are engaged in "stripping" to get at the rock beneath the surface in order that the work of blasting can be carried on during the winter months. The rock so obtained will be used for the construction of the first lock just above the Red Mills. The scene presented to a visitor is one of great activity, for coupled with the swish of falling trees, are the shouts of the men encouraging their teams in the labourious work of stumping and scraping, and the clattering proceeding from the blacksmith shop, which has been erected just here, together with the carpenter shop, storehouse and boarding house for the men.

There are five foremen in charge of this first gang of men, of whom Mr. M. Buchanan is the chief.

A HOME FOR YOUNG GIRLS.

To Supplement the School Act—A Correspondent's Views on the Subject.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—With your permission I should like to say a few words on a point that is really a very important to the community. The town and county needs a Children's Home. Bad children are already provided for in our reformatories, but the "neglected" good ones are left in their unfortunate condition. The reason is at hand. The School Act requires the attendance at school of all children under certain ages. Hence it is impossible to provide homes for young children where they may get light employment and earn a wage. The School Act is a wise one, notwithstanding, but the difficulty is that it has stopped half way. There should be a supplementary provision as to the maintenance and oversight out of school of the children I am referring to. As the necessity of doing something for girls is very pressing I will leave for the time being the boys to their fate. As the case stands now it is this — without a house of refuge for young girls, where the magistrate may send them, or where the Rescue Societies may put them, the work of looking after them is at a stand still. I have no doubt that all the charitable organizations in town will endorse these views, and I should like very much to suggest that a public meeting be called to discuss this question in a practical and rational way.

Yours, etc.,
THE SECRETARY OF THE C. A. S.

"JOE" DALY IS DEAD.

A Well-Known Hotel Man Passes Away in the 38th Year of His Age.

Joseph J. Daly, proprietor of the Daly House, at Front and Simcoe streets, Toronto, died Thursday night of acute inflammatory rheumatism. Mr. Daly had been confined to his bed for seven weeks. It was thought that his robust physique would enable him to shake off the disease, but this week his case assumed a critical stage and all hope of recovery was abandoned.

Mr. Daly was thirty-eight years of age. Previous to going to Toronto he managed a hotel in Peterborough where he was very popular, and for several years had owned the Daly House in Lindsay. Two years ago he purchased the hotel property at Front and Simcoe from George Harris and since that time the hotel has been known to the travelling public as the Daly House. He was an enthusiastic sportsman and was Vice-President of the Offhand Shooting Club. He was a member of the Ontario Jockey Club and was himself an owner of a couple of trotters under the 2.25 mark.

Mr. Daly leaves a widow. Three brothers also survive, James Daly, of Orillia, Edward Daly, Lindsay, and P. J. Daly, Buffalo, traffic agent for the New York Central Railroad. He was a Roman Catholic and a regular attendant at St. Michael's Cathedral. Interment took place this afternoon at Lindsay.

Wise Old Fellow.

A good tea at any price suited him. He always shut his eyes to the price. He was wiser than some people who imagine if they do not pay a big figure they cannot get good goods. There are exceptions to all rules. The exception at the present time is a regular forty cent tea for the low price of twenty-five cents. Osh-k-osh is the name. Big sales and steady sales tell it is a good tea. Remember we are selling this 40c. tea for twenty-five cents. 370 George street, Peterborough. Stroud Bros., direct importers. A MOTHER SPEAKS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—During the last couple of days the papers have been agitated regarding a family named Smith, who live on Antrim street, and who, it seems, have been forbidden to beg.

May I state what I know of this poor woman and her troubles? The husband is in either the hospital or asylum, and as far as being able to provide for his family is concerned, he might as well be dead; there are six children, the eldest of whom is fourteen, scarcely an age when one can demand high wages. The town gives them a grocery order of 50 cents a week, and this is all the outside help they get. The mother, who is a delicate looking woman, works hard at whatever she can get to do, washing, scrubbing stores, etc., but even suppose she could earn $5 a week, can a family of seven people live on that, and the grocery order—always considering rent, fuel and clothing? What is Mrs. Smith to do? The utmost she can earn is insufficient for the maintenance of her family. They have been forbidden to beg, the only alternative left them is to starve, not a pleasant conclusion for a Christian town to arrive at, is it?

Will not the Hall Trust Fund make Mrs. Smith a small grant? She has worked for me, and I for one can testify to her being most deserving. The advisability of keeping her children clean was impressed upon Mrs. Smith by the magistrate. Probably she will be glad to do so if a critical public public will donate the soap.

Winter will soon be here with its cruel needs, and let us hope the kindly disposed will remember the little Smith children in their midst.

I would be the last one to disparage sending aid to the poor abroad, but it is a question if Antrim street is not as dear in the Lord's sight as Algoma is, and a great deal more convenient for us to deal with.

With many thanks for insertion, Mr. Editor, I remain,

Sincerely yours.

Scared the Horse.

While Dr. Goldsmith and his son, Perry, were driving in the lower end of Aylmer street yesterday, their horse becoming frightened at a C.P.R. freight train the engine of which suddenly let off steam, wheeled suddenly and upsetting the buggy threw them both out. Fortunately neither were seriously hurt, although the doctor's wrist was rather severely wrenched. The horse did not get away as each happened to seize a line in time to prevent such an event occurring.

Runaway Yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon as Mr. Genge, of Harvey, was returning from Peterborough, when opposite John Carnegie's residence he met a large drove of sheep being driven towards town, and his horse, a spirited animal, took fright and upset the buggy, throwing both him and his wife out. The horse became separated from the rig, but Mr. Genge clung to the lines and was dragged a considerable distance, but had to let go. Both Mr. and Mrs. Genge received some bad cuts and bruises. The horse was caught near the Blythe Mills. The buggy was badly broken up.

JUST LIKE A FALL FAIR.

A Grand Free Exhibition on the Market.

Generous displays of fruit and vegetables and plenty of produce of all kinds peculiar to the season combined to make the market a grand exhibition to-day, and the show was free to those who went simply to see it. It was worth going to witness, too, for few of the fall fairs have more attractive exhibits, and none of them can compete with the Peterborough market in the variety of goods shown.

It was not only a grand free show, but it was a good place for those who had a little money to spend on things to eat. Prices were reasonable as a general thing, and the housekeepers recognizing this fact purchased largely.

One of the features of the market was the display of green corn. The season is late for corn, but a great many dozen ears of nice-looking corn were offered for sale at 10c per dozen. Tomatoes were next to corn in attraction, so far as vegetables went, and they sold at 20c. per peck. Plum tomatoes were quoted at 25c to 35c per basket.

Squash sold at 8c to 10c, pumpkin 5c to 10c each, celery 90c to $1.00 per dozen, potatoes 35c per bushel, cauliflower brought from 10c to 15c a head, and cabbage 5c and 7c, red cabbage selling at 5c. Onions were 20c a peck, and radishes sold at two bunches for 5c, and other vegetables were unchanged in price.

Plums are about done for this year, only a few offering to-day, and $1.25 per basket being the price asked. Peaches were not in evidence to any extent. Pears brought 20 to 25c per peck. Grapes were more plentiful and they are getting cheaper. Nice Concords sold at four and five cents per pound, or 40 and 50 cents per basket.

Butter was sold at 18 to 20c per pound and eggs were 12c per dozen.

Chickens were offered in plenty and they were cheap. They sold at 35 to 50c per pair. Ducks were 75 to 80c per pair.

Meat quotations were unchanged. Pork was $5.50 to $5.75 per 100 pounds.

Put Money in Thy Purse.

Put your money back. You need only half the price now. High prices are no more. In spite of distrust, a good article can be had at a cheap rate. Since the Bordeaux Claret Co. came into the field with their cheap wines, imported directly from Bordeaux, there is less demand for the long prices. People want this cheap wine at $3 and $4 per dozen quarts. It hardly seems possible—for wine has been associated with long prices. Yes, long profits, but enormous sales at cheap rates make profits, too. And this is the position:—The people have good wine, wholesome, strengthening, which they can use freely without being impoverished at nominal prices. Address—Bordeaux Claret Co., 30 Hospital street, Montreal.

"I AM NOT ABLE TO DO MY WORK."

The Reason Given to His Son by T. H. Pratt of Toronto For Taking His Own Life.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 20.—There is more pathos than reproach attached to the story of the suicide of Thomas H. Pratt of 103 Sussex-avenue, Toronto, at Carberry on Wednesday. He came to make an independent living by working in the harvest fields, but finding his strength unequal to the task, took his life rather than be a burden to his family. The motive for his act is explained in the following letter to his son, T. G. Pratt, Otterburne, Man.:

My Dear Tom,—My strength has failed me and I am not able to do my work, so have to leave it. I have no intention of being a burden to either you or the girls. You must do your best for your mother and the children now that I am taken from you. I trust that God will help and preserve you. I hope that your health may not fail in this country as mine has. I remain, your loving father.

GIGANTIC RAILROAD COMBINE.

Organization For the Centralization of the Rate Making Power.

New York, Sept. 21.—Managers of the great eastern and western railroads, comprising the trunk line and Central Traffic Associations, held an important meeting to-day at the offices of the Trunk Line Association, No. 143 Liberty-street. In point of numbers rank and interests represented this meeting was noteworthy and excited much interest in financial as well as in railroad circles. The purpose of the meeting was to consider and act on an agreement for the maintenance of rates that is deemed of the highest importance. This agreement was outlined at a meeting held in June. It was decided at the time to form a new and powerful organization, to be known as the Union Traffic Association, based upon the new agreement. The matter was referred to a committee composed of the presidents of the great railroad lines between the Mississippi and the seaboard north of the Ohio River. This committee, of which President Ingalls acted as chairman in the absence of President Depew, prepared an elaborate plan for the control and maintenance of rates. The meeting to-day was held to consider it.

The agreement was amended in several respects, and in order to expedite its adoption it was finally referred to a committee of eight for revision. When the committee had done its work another meeting of the presidents will be held to consider the agreement and ratify it. It was also decided that the several companies shall submit the agreement to the judgment of their counsel and boards of directors in order to assure that it will be when finally adopted, in conformity with State and inter-State laws.

The committee of eight will meet Saturday at the office of the Trunk Line Association to organize and enter upon its duties. It is composed of practical railroad men, whose names are as follows: O. G. Murray, vice-president of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis, otherwise known as the Big Four; E. B. Thomas, president of Erie; William Duncan, vice-president Baltimore & Ohio & Southwestern; D. S. Gray, of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg; Charles M. Hayes, vice-president of the Wabash; J. B. Garrett, vice-president of Lehigh Valley; L. J. Seargeant, general manager Grand Trunk, and H. K. Hayden, second vice-president N.Y.C.

Concerning the agreement, which provides for a union traffic association, a fair division of business and a board of control to fix all freight rates, President Ingalls said that he felt sure that eventually all the presidents will sign it. He said: "The proposed measure of relief contains one grand principle, and that is the centralization of the rate-making power. We shall have a certain number of officials to make rates and the roads will carry out their rulings. All the other features of the agreement merely lead up to one great idea of a board of absolute control."

The Gold Reserve.

Washington, Sept 20.—The treasury gold reserve at the close of business today stood at $95,862,398. The tregsury was informed that $150,000 was withdrawn at New York for export and $75,000 deposited in exchange for currency.

Britain and the Italy-Tunis Treaty.

Paris, Sept. 20.—The Journal professes to have learned that England has advised Italy that the latter can in no way rely upon English support in the event of France's condemning the commercial treaty between Italy and Tunis.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT.

Philadelphia, Sept. 20.—The second of the international cricket matches between the visiting Oxford-Cambridge eleven and Philadelphia's selected team began this morning at Mannheim, the grounds of the Germantown Cricket Club.

George S. Patterson, Philadelphia's premier batsman, bore off the honors of the day for his side. He went in first and caried his bat out for 109 runs. Patterson's exhibition of batting was the finest and most scientific ever seen in an international match in this city. When the bowling was dangerously close upon the wicket he played it with the patience of a veteran, but the moment it got off the wicket he would hammer the ball, and time and again he cut it and drove it to the boundary for four. Credit is also due to the fine exhibition of free hitting given by Ralston, who put 53 together by an almost succession of boundaries. Score:

A Question.

How can we raise more corn to the acher? Why, of course by using Putnam's Corn Extractor. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor has given universal satisfaction, for it is sure safe and painless. Like every article of real merit it has a host of imitators, and we would specially warn the public to guard against those dangerous substitutes offered for the genuine Putnam's Extractor.

Toronto, (Special) Sept. 16.—The accident which recently occurred to the Toronto waterworks conduit has created a great deal of consternation, and an outbreak of disease is possible. It is also stated by the physicians that this season is one in which the kidneys are peculiarly susceptible to disorder.

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. M. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says:

"A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the varioloid, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Wer[illegible] Olympia St., New Orleans, La.

HIRING A BEAU.

The London Serving Maid is Forced Into Strange Ways.

The London servant maid is a natural born philosopher and social economist, of whom the nineteenth century and her suffrage-demanding sister have every reason to feel proud. She is the working woman who has emancipated herself from some of the ancient and false sentiments of society with a calmness that makes one gasp and laugh, admire her common sense and wonder if this is what we are all coming to in the course of time.

Now, the London servant maid is about the hardest-worked domestic in Europe, particularly she who ministers to the needs of the boarding house and hotel inhabitants. Her hours are long, her wages rarely over $8 a month and with no gas, furnace heat, dumb-waiters, stationery bath, and few carpet sweepers in the house where she serves her labors are rather on the dray horse order. Yet, in spite of it all, she is a cheerful, polite person, who is not troubled by the knowledge that the attractions of the colonies every year wean away the bravest and best of the English man servants, that the scarcity of sweethearts and husbands for the British maidens is beginning to alarm the students of sociology, and that Cupid has become a vulgar little banker in place of a winged arrow-shooting god of love.

When her day's work is over, or her free afternoons come around and her thoughts lightly turn to the joys of a stroll in the park, a 'bus ride, or a junket up the river in the natural, wholesome recreation of masculine society, she does not sit at her attic window and sulk in loneliness. She does her hair in a trim and frizzled bang, arrays herself in all the fascinating variety of incongruous color in which the woman of her class revels, and calling at the nearest barracks hires a soldier to take her on an airing.

Mary Anne has found an occupation for Tommy Atkins in days of peace, and on payment of six pence he is her property for an hour. He must attend her in all the glory of scarlet coat brass buttons, jaunty muffin cap, cotton gloves and little cane, give her his arm as they walk down Picadilly, and otherwise show her full sixpence worth of courtesies and gallent attentions. They divide the expense of 'bus fares and ginger ale treats, and from the array of manly wit and beauty offered in the average barrack yard, Mary Anne is keen to select the tallest of England's defenders, the one with the straightest legs, broadest shoulders and deepest chest.

Recognizing his own beauty, the attractive grandeur of his swagger and the premium put on his coat and profession, Tommy is sometimes apt to overestimate his value. But Mary Anne is a hard-headed business woman, who, in sly defense, has fixed the rates she will offer and give. For the exclusive joy of her soldier's society she will pay eight or ten pence, otherwise Tommy can let out half his smiles and his left arm to another housemaid at the usual six-penny rate, and everybody is satisfied, but no drowding beyond this is allowed, and the use of his arm is an unwritten law in her side of the bargain, the right elbow falling to the first applicant.

When Mary Anne's social ambitions are sustained by the plumpness of her pocketbook, she is apt to indulge herself in the extravagance of a petty officer's society, for which she must pay the whole of a shilling an hour, and bear the cost of treats. Often enough, in spite of the sordid arrangements, romance springs up in the turning of a six-penny piece, and Tommy generously offers to bestow his beauty, society and half his pay on Mary Anne, free of charge, if she will have the agreement ratified in some quiet Soho or Hammersmith church, where clergyman's fees are not exorbitant.

BRONCHO FOWLS.

Crossed With Plymouth Rocks They Produce Fine Layers and Hardy Birds.

There is a breed of barnyard fowls in some parts of Colorado and New Mexico, owned chiefly by the Mexicans, that is much like the common fowls so generally seen in New England 50 years ago. We call them the Broncho, a word used in parts of the West to denote anything that is wild or native to the country. The birds are of all colors—white, black, red, speckled, etc.—are excellent layers and mothers, the hens being at any time ready to do battle for their broods.

The cockerels are as plump as pullets or capons of any other breed, having fine breasts, and weighing dressed, when mature, about three pounds for hens and four pounds for cocks. When this breed is crossed with Plymouth Rocks, or other large breeds, the general result is a medium-sized fowl, with the exquisite plumpness of the Broncho. These crossbred fowls are excellent layers. The writer kept nine hens of the Plymouth Rock cross during the season of '94, raised 45 chickens, and used all the eggs needed in a family of four where eggs were made to take the place of meat to a great extent. These nine hens averaged six or more eggs per day from January 1 for four months, and after that all hens not setting or brooding persisted in laying till molting time, when they were killed for the table.

A further testimonial to the value of these hens as winter layers is the fact that although the temperature goes down to 30 degrees many a night, yet there is a full stock of eggs in the country stores at 20 to 25 cents per dozen, and most of the fowls in this country feed themselves from the scattered wheat, and roost where they can.

PROFIT IN CHICKENS.

Poultry and Eggs Will Pay Well if the Business is Properly Conducted.

But few realize how profitable poultry and egg production can be made, provided as much time and attention is given to it as to many other less important vocations. Some one has decided that a hen can be kept for less than 50 cents a year. It is a poor specimen of a hen that will not lay ten dozen eggs a year. At the low price of ten cents a dozen, this would leave a net profit of 50 cents. At this rate, it will pay every farmer to keep a flock of hens and give them proper care. There is no danger of over production. As long as the United States annually imports millions of dozens of eggs, the market will not be glutted.

Fowls to be profitable must be given proper attention. Those running at large will almost take care of themselves for a part of the year. They are our gleaners and economizers, for they every day convert into eggs what would otherwise go to waste. However, fowls in confinement need different treatment. Meat food must be supplied. The most satisfactory means of providing this is to secure a green bone mill and give them green-cut bone. This meat food, or at least some sort of a similar food, is almost an absolute necessity for yarded fowls. Tender green stuff is also valuable. Last fall I sowed a patch of rye for early spring "greens." Early this season a patch of oats was put in to furnish green food after the rye had become too far advanced. Early each morning and every evening, a basket of green stuff was cut with a pair of shears and given to them. The results have been most satisfactory. We have had lots of fertile eggs, and nice, thrifty, healthy fowls. It pays to raise chickens and to attend to their wants and needs.—American Agriculturist.

Honest Help.

Write to me in confidence and I will tell you free of charge how to get cured. I have nothing to sell, but am desirous of honestly helping you. Perfect secrecy assured. A LADY OF WATERFORD COMPLETELY CURED.

Suffered for Two Years from Indigestion and General Debility.

Unable at Times to Attend to Her Household Duties.

Treated by Nearly All the Doctors in the Town Without Relief

"Six Bottles of South American Nervine Cured Me," Says Mrs. D. A. Gray, of Waterford, Ont., Over Her Own Signature.

MRS. D. A. GRAY, OF WATERFORD, ONT.

Certain dates are epoch making. They mark transitions in the individual life that are never forgotten. Their impress may be pleasant or sad, or both. As Mrs. D. A. Gray, of Waterford, Ont., an estimable and highly respected resident of that community, goes back in memory to the year 1893, her recollections are not of the most roseate character. Can there be anything rosy to one who is a victim of indigestion? All is sombre and sadness. But there was a silver lining to the cloud, as we shall see. Previous to 1893 Mrs. Gray tells us she had been troubled very much with indigestion and general debility for a period of nearly two years. Hers was no ordinary case. At times she was prevented altogether from attending to her household duties. Waterford has a number of skilled physicians in its midst and their services were called in, but in her own language, "I cannot say that they relieved me in any way." An era of joy was ushered in when her mother read the story of a cure by South American Nervine in a case where the symptoms, as Mrs. Gray says, "seemed to be exactly like her own. I bought a bottle and found much relief. After taking six bottles I was cured." The date was an epoch making date in this lady's life.

What the symptoms of Indigestion are, too many know. What the trouble is in its worst forms thousands know. People lament the spread of insanity in the present day. How far removed from loss of reason is a case of aggravated indigestion? The world to every such victim is blue enough, black enough, so uninviting and depressing that no wonder they are beside themselves. And yet the remedy is within the reach of all. That great discovery, Nervine, will cure the most desperate case of indigestion, debility or nervousness. You ask for evidence. A cloud of witnesses in the Dominion of Canada are saying amen, and amen, to the testimony of Mrs. Gray. Why suffer, fellow-citizens, friends and brethren?

TURNBULL'S

Palatial New Departmental Store.

CONSPICUOUS FOR ELEGANCE AND CONVENIENCE.

A Score of Splendid Departments Beautifully Stocked — The Extension Forced by Expansion of Business.

In the modern tendency of trade to centralization, history repeats itself, and the days of the country general store, where everything was kept from putty to satin, are returning—of course in a much modified form. The departmental store is the feature of the day, and it has decided advantages. It concentrates stocks, makes shopping easy, and facilitates selection by the customers, as well as sale by the merchant.

That merit wins success is seldom more conspicuously demonstrated than in the case of Mr. J. C. Turnbull, drygoods merchant. He has been engaged in the drygoods business fourteen years, and every year has shown a marked advance in his business. When he began business one small floor contained his drygoods and millinery departments. To-day his business requires five times the space for its accommodation. A change in the matter of space first came when it was found necessary to take in a new shop on Simcoe street, connected at the rear with the main shop. The next step was the enlarging of the mantle making show rooms, and to provide space for a dress-making department. But has been made during the past summer, which was to double the capacity of the establishment by taking in another store to the north—that formerly occupied by Mr. T. Kelly. The transformation has been marvellous, and Turnbull can boast of having as fine a drygoods establishment as any in the Midland District.

The area of the main first floor is 35 x 90 feet, with, of course, the other floors above of equal size. A wide splayed entrance with plate glass windows at the sides, admits to this finished in the highest style with the most modern fittings and and equipments. The first floor is divided down the middle by a handsome row of pillars, which add to the effect rather than detrats from it.

A brief summary of the location and stock of the several departments will be interesting. The front half of the north division is devoted to fine dress goods, silks and meltons and tweed dress goods, while the rear contains gentlemen's worsted overcoatings, fancy pantings, Canadian tweeds and Canadian etoffes. Here is also found space for mantle cloths, sealettes, Astrachan curls and Golf cloakings and fine serges for ladies wear, as well as wide velvets for capes. An innovation popular this season is swan's down cloakings for children with trimmings to match. In a square space formed by this department and the opposite department of the other store and directly under the bright skylight are displayed ready-made mantles. These goods are imported direct, being selected with great care from half a dozen of the best manufacturers with the object of selecting from each manufactory the best of their specialties. Particular pains will be taken to keep this department in regard to the latest styles. The last order for these goods which were bought a few weeks ago, is now to hand, so that the stock in these goods includes the latest and most fashionable makes. Special care was made in selecting this season on account of the increased facilities for showing goods. Miss Tully will continue to have charge of this department, and will be assisted by a competent staff. With the increased facilities the mantle department of Mr. Turnbull will be more worthy than ever before—and that is saying a great deal of patronage.

At the front of the south division of the main store, and near the door, will be found the plain and fancy prints in variety almost without limit, together with cretonnes, shirtings, cottonades and tablings. These, together with lawns, check muslins, embroideries and art muslins, fill the shelving on the wall side of the south store up to the stairway that leads to the second floor.

In the rear of the stairway on the south side is placed the staple department, containing plain and fancy flannels and flannelettes. On account of flannelettes taking the place very of other goods for underwear, shirtings, blankets, sheets, and even ladies' wrappers, Mr. Turnbull has shelved a specially large stock, which comprises over 200 different patterns. In this department will also be found plain and fancy flannels, towlings, wide felt and flannelettes, skirtings, Hessians, etc.

In the middle of the store, between the side counters, is a beautiful display of plain and fancy frillings, all on view in elaborate and beautiful show cases. Every article is ticketed in plain figures, and the shopper can almost buy her own goods. Near at hand is a collection of perfumes and other toilet preparations, cologne waters, etc., and a convenient table contains an immense variety of fancy toilet soap.

Next in the central space is a beautiful glass case of plain and fancy kid and cashmere gloves. And also hosiery, of which a splendid supply is kept from the commonest Canadian to the finest English and German makes. These goods are special importations, the kid gloves being specially made to Mr. Turnbull's orders.

The next department contains laces of all kinds, valenciennes, Honiton, Irish point, etc. Still another department in this vicinity is devoted to dress trimmings, braids and fancy silks.

Next at hand is the corset department, which is stocked with all the

BEST SELLING LINES

of all the principal Canadian manufacturers.

In the middle of the central space is the cashier's stall. In the rear of this is the space devoted to gentlemen's underwear and general furnishings. Adjoining this on the south is the department of yarns, where everything will be found from the coarsest Canadian to the finest Scotch. For boys' wear a special heavy twist worsted yarn is kept.

In another department is found an extensive stock of feather boas which have sprung into sudden popularity and are in great demand.

In the matter of woollens a large stock of Tam O'Shanters is kept—in splendid wools of every shade as well as fancy mixtures.

THE MILLINERY DEPARTMENT.

This has been thrown into the general area of the double store by the removing of a partition and the shop has been enlarged by the work-rooms being removed to a new building, 16x34, which has been erected adjoining, for the double purpose of a millinery work room and a place for unboxing goods. The millinery department is fitted up in the most elegant style. A fine addition is a plate glass mirror 2x9½ feet in size, which is so placed that it reflects and duplicates the beautiful interior of the double store. The millinery shop is provided with a magnificent range of counter show case, in plate glass, with handsome oak framing. The top of this case serves the purposes of a counter, while the interior contains feathers, flowers and other millinery bric a brac. These are seen to capital advantage and are kept entirely free from dust and dirt. This department has besides its connection with the main stores, a separate and independent entrance on Simcoe street with its own special show windows. This room is 20x50 feet in area, and is most completely equipped with all necessary conveniences for the display of goods and the service of customers.

THE SECOND FLOOR.

This floor contains the carpet department, which is stocked with every kind and quality of carpet — hemp, union, all-wool, tapestry, Brussels and floor oil-cloths. Here is also found a magnificent stock of lace and chenille curtains and portieres and table covers. Special attention has been paid to the matter of the efficient display of these goods. In the rear of this floor is fitted up a ladies' waiting room and fitting rooms, lavatory and toilet rooms. The front of the second floor is fitted up and used as the mantle and dress making work rooms, and in the rear over the new addition lunch rooms have been arranged.

THE THIRD FLOOR

is fitted up as a store room for a temporary surplus of certain lines of stock, though the bulk of the heavy stock of staples is kept in the basement, which also contains the lavatories and toilet rooms for the male members of the staff. In the basement are two Pease furnaces one for heating the main building and the other for the millinery department.

Having referred in extense to the contents of the several departments, a little special reference to these truly palatial premises and their special features may be made. The double store is 35x90 feet in area and is most elegantly fitted up—the wood work is grained a light oak and the ceilings and walls are papered in a really beautiful manner. The effect of the light wood work and paper, which are dealt with very kindly by the light, is very rich and harmonious. The lighting of the building is one of its finest features. The front is a stretch of 35 feet of plate glass and while flooding the front of the premises with light this admits of exceedingly the two show windows themselves being equal in area to many a small shop. At the rear of the double stores is a splendid skylight, 20x30 feet, which with the plate glass windows in the rear of the store, gives abundant light by day. At night the establishment will be lighted by electricity, the first floor having 21 drop lamps and 15 clusters. The gas fixtures are kept in reserve in case of accident.

The row of pillars down the centre, supporting a broad moulded girder, have their Corinthian capitals picked out in gold.

Features that are entirely new are the beautiful new show cases for displaying certain lines of finer goods. They are of plate glass, with oak framing, the fine one at the first entrance having richly carved and moulded framing with ornate pilasters of oak in front. These cases contains lines of goods that can be plainly seen, the price of the articles being indicated in plain figures. This convenience is one that will be highly appreciated.

Mr. J. C. Turnbull, with his mammoth establishment fitted up in the most modern style of advanced elegance—with its great capacity for stock—necessarily has to purchase extensively, and by so doing he gets the best of goods in all lines at prices that enables him to place them before the public of Peterborough and vicinity at extremely moderate cash rates. Mr. Turnbull claims that his buying facilities cannot be surpassed, and as his selling facilities are also unsurpassed, he is in a position to meet the public requirements in the most satisfactory manner. Turnbull's new stores, which are on a par with the finest city stores, are well worth a visit.

The Pearl of Great Price

To woman is beauty. Beauty, the key that unlocks every door, commands deference, inspires homage. But beauty of face cannot satisfy unless the additional grace, beauty of teeth, adds its charm. Fine teeth, sweet breath, rippling laughter—three graces that always go together. Ivorine imparts dazzling pearly like whiteness, removes discoloration and tartar from the teeth, and renders the breath as fragrant as flowers.

The cry is "Give me Crafton's Clothing!" Honest buyers want nothing better at the price.

For Those Who Go Away or Those Who Stay.

WEALTH WEDS TITLE

Duke of Marlborough and Miss Vanderbilt to Marry.

CONFIRMATION OF THE RUMOR.

First Met in London Eighteen Months Ago and the Engagement Was Concluded at Newport—The Wedding to Take Place This Fall.

New York, Sept. 21.—Miss Consuela Vanderbilt, the daughter of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, will, before the end of the year, become the Duchess of Marlborough.

The engagement was quietly announced by the families to the friends of the parties yesterday. It was confirmed beyond any question last evening. It will be performed in accordance with the ritual of the Protestant Episcopal Church, conforming with that of the Church of England. Bishop Potter will probably officiate, and the services, it is thought, will be in open church.

The Duke of Marlborough cabled the news yesterday morning to the members of his family and intimate friends in England and the Continent. Included among those to whom the information was conveyed was the Prince of Wales, who is godfather to the Duke. It is expected that several of the intimate friends of the Duke will cross the Atlantic to be present at the wedding.

The acquaintance between the Duke and Miss Vanderbilt was formed in London about 18 months ago. During the last two London seasons and in Paris last spring they met frequently in society, and the friendship thus formed led to the entertainment of Mrs. and Miss Vanderbilt at Blenheim early this present summer.

All doubt as to what impelled the Duke's visit to this country is dissipated by the announcement of his engagement. Soon after his arrival he became the guest of Mrs. Vanderbilt at Marble House, in Newport. There he remained for some weeks, and was constant in his attention to Miss Consoula. O a recent visit of Mr. William K. Vanderbilt to Newport on his steam yacht Valiant the Duke of Marlborough went to a luncheon on the Valiant on Mr. Vanderbilt's invitation. The tendering and acceptance of this hospitality, and the fact that for the first time Mrs. Vanderbilt permitted her daughter to drive and walk alone with the Duke, made his visit the more marked.

Charles Richard John Spencer Churchill, the ninth Duke of Marlborough, who, in choosing for his wife an American girl, is following the fashion set by his father and his uncle, the late Lord Randolph Churchill, will be 24 years old on November 13 next. He attained his majority four days after his father, the late Duke, died.

The young Duke is a strong contrast in appearance to the general run of the Churchills, although he bears a family resemblance to the portraits of the first Duke, who was the greatest general of his age. He inclines more to the Hamiltons, his mother having been Lady Alberta Hamilton, daughter of the Duke of Abercorn. She is still alive. Like his father, he is somewhat below the average size and slender, with a sallow complexion, a high forehead, aquiline nose and dark brown hair.

He went to Cambridge, where he soon showed that he had reached his proper sphere by flooring the boldest examiners of whom Trinity College could boast. He speedily became a member of the Pitt, the Athenaeum, the True Blue, the Carlton and other organizations of the students. He played polo and cricket, the latter with great precision and accuracy of style. His rooms became noted as showing his excellent taste, and he was well known to the Bond-street dealers in the antiques. He is a bold horseman as well, and with all these, he was an excellent student, history being his favorite study, while for mathematics he entertained a strong dislike.

After the year of mourning, consequent on his father's death, the young Duke's coming of age was commemorated, by a grand fete in historical Blenheim Palace, in which he had passed almost all his life. Then he took his seat in the House of Lords and began to take an active part in politics. But he found some time to devote to literature, and in January of last year he made his debut as a writer with an article on "Blenheim and its Memorials," which was published in The Pall Mall Magazine.

It was in this palace, about a year and a half ago, that he entertained the young girl who is destined to become its mistress. Named Consuelo, after the Duchess of Manchester, who was Miss Yznaga and an intimate friend of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, the young person is just such a girl as might be supposed to attract a young man like the Duke.

Now about 18 years old, she is strikingly tall, a dark brunette, with black hair and eyes, and very rich coloring. Her face is small, and she is decidedly japonaise in type. She is very slight but carries herself well, and will undoubtedly be a very handsome woman. She has unusual sweetness and charm of manner, and although she has few intimates these few say that this sweetness of manner and disposition make her most loveable, and they are devoted to her.

She is one of the most thoughtful of hostesses, and at all the entertainments at Marble House, in Newport, this summer, her attentions to the wants of her own and her mother's guests has been constantly remarked. In a word, she is yet a thoroughly simple, sweet and unspoiled girl, and if she can carry through her future life, with its heavy responsibilities, the same characteristics of manner and temperament which she now possesses she will surely be a notable woman in her day.

She dresses very simple, generally in white, of crepon or muslin, and her only ornament is usually a red rose or carnation in her black hair. At the recent Marble House ball she wore a fillet of red carnations, which was wonderfully becoming to her. She has been educated at home by a private governess, who is still a member of the family. She is well read, and while not possessing any particular accomplishment, is said to be unusually cultivated.

GOSSIP FROM OTTAWA.

Canada to Send a Fishery Exhibit to Kiel.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 23.—Mr. James Huddart, managing owner of the Australian Steamship Line and proprietor of the Atlantic fast mail service, is very sanguine of assistance being rendered to the project by the Imperial Government. Writing to an Ottawa friend Mr. Huddart says:

"We are very hopeful and we think we have ground for hope that Mr. Chamberlain will recommend the Cabinet to grant the subsidy asked for, as assistance to our great project. If we get the practical recognition of the Imperial Government I think we shall be able to do the rest. It is a great work and it grows upon me. I should rejoice to be able to complete it.

The City of Kiel has come into prominence this year through the opening of the North Sea canal, by which vessels desiring to pass from the German ocean to the Baltic or vice versa are saved a detour of several hundred miles by way of the North of Denmark The citizens of Kiel are now contemplating another great gathering at their city next year, in the shape of an International naval exhibition. The object is to secure a complete picture of the present standing of navigation together with an historical review of the development and the progress of ship building and all industrial branches connected with it. The exhibition will last from May until September next. In close relation to the question of general navigation, is that of the fisheries, and it has been decided to combine with the naval exhibition, an international fishery exhibition. Canada's fishery display at the World's Fair attracted attention from many distinguished foreigners and so impressed the fishery experts of Germany who visited Chicago, that a pressing invitation has been sent to the Dominion to furnish an exhibit to the fishery exhibition at Kiel. The matter has not yet been formally considered, but there is one economic aspect of the question which commends itself to the officials of the Fisheries Department. Commissioner Prince points out that the sturgeon fishery in Canada is assuming so much importance that it is possible the Dominion might build up quite an export trade in sturgeon with Germany. There is another point to be remembered, also, namely, that Canada has no adequate exhibit at the Imeprial Institute of her fishery resources, and it is suggested that in the event of an exhibit being sent to the Kiel Exposition, at the close it could be transferred to the Imperial Institute at London, where it would remain as a permanent monument of the fishery resources of Canada.

A curious request was made yesterday to the officers of the department of Inland Revenue. A man named Myers, living at Apple Hill, Glengarry County, is at loggerheads with a local doctor. Their differences, it appears, now being before courts. Myers charges the physician with malpractice, and the physician in turn, has entered suit against Myers for defamation of character. While the suits were before ocurt, Myers had a sick turn, and went to his friend, the enemy, for a bottle of medicine, which was handed to him with a remark to the effect that it would fix him all right. Before taking a dose, Myers thought he would try some of it on the family cat. Tabby quietly took the medicine and then laid down and died. Myers, so he says, became seriously alarmed at this and informed a neighbor of the peculiar circumstances. The neighbor thereupon suggested that a dose should be administered to a dog. This suggestion was carried out and the dog also died. This was in February last and now Myers bobs serenely at the department with a bottle of mixture which he says was given to him six months ago by the local doctor and asks to have it analyzed by officers of the department. It is not likely that the request will be granted. Myers, if he is curious to know what the bottle contains, he is in a position to have it tested by a public analyst. There is nothing to show that the mixture in the bottle, whatever it may be, was the same as that given by the local doctor and the fact that seven months have elapsed before Myers took any action in the matter is a curious thing.

Another meeting of the French Separate School Committee was held Saturday night. Trustee Lavoie, who had been sent to Montreal to see Brother Superior Flamien and to urge that the services of the Christian Brothers be continued until the end of the year, wired Chairman Seguin that he had been snubbed, Bro. Flamien refusing point blank to compromise on the matter. The committee thereupon decided to face the inevitable and will at once take steps to fill the places of the Brothers with the best lay teachers that can be obtained. The committee considered the state of its finances and found it had sufficient to enable them to procure a competent staff. The opinion was also expressed that the whole direction of French schools should be entrusted to a general superintendent, who would go from school to school directing teachers and examining classes. The committee appreciate the action of the Minister of Education in sending Inspector White to Ottawa to aid the Board in selecting a new staff. Applications for positions as teachers are pouring in every day.

Mr. E. L. Newcombe, Deputy Minister of Justice, will be home Monday. His report on the Copyright Question is being looked forward to with great interest. Hall Caine, the novelist, is expected here the end of the week.

Fruit Ruined by Snow and Frosts.

Denver, Sept. 22.—The damage done to the fruit interests of the state by the heavy snowfall of last night is beyond computation. In the vicinity of Denver, fruit and shade trees were broken by the heavy snow freezing to the limbs and scarcely a tree for miles around escaped injury. The storm was general all over the state, the amount varying from four to 12 inches. To-day the sun shone clear. The indications are favorable for a killing frost to-night.

The Cold Wave Reaches Iowa.

Desmoines, Ia., Sept. 22.—The cold wave from the northwest reached here Sunday afternoon. The early part of the day was very hot and the sky almost clear. About noon the sky became overcast and at 1 o'clock the clouds suddenly took on the appearance of an approaching cyclone. The temperature fell with the most remarkable rapidity every known here. In 15 minutes the fall was 32 degrees and since then it has been slowly sinking. A few minutes after the sudden change of temperature a heavy rain set in accompanied by wind that reached a velocity of 60 miles. It is very cold to-night and frost is expected.

RAILROAD BLOCKED BY FIRE.

For Ten Days the Bozeman Tunnel on the Northern Pacific Has Been Ablaze.

Helena, Mont., Sept. 22.—A great freight blockade has been caused on the Northern Pacific Railroad by a fire in the Bozeman, Mont., tunnel, which started ten days ago. Five hundred cars are side-tracked in the Helena yards and there are hundreds more standing between Bozeman and Billings. The blockade has been partly broken by the laying of a switch back over the mountain through which the tunnel runs and perishable freight is being rushed through. It will take a week to clear the blockade. The fire is in the center of the tunnel, which is 3800 feet long.

Catarrh in the Head

Is a dangerous disease because it is liable to result in loss of hearing or smell, or develop into consumption. Read the following:

"My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years and the disease had gone so far that her eyesight was affected so that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered severe pains in the head and at times was almost distracted. About Christmas, she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved. She has taken six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it." W. H. Daily Examiner.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1895.

THE Dominion Government, it is said, contemplate making a number of improvements about their property at Ottawa. They will be announced shortly, just on the eve of the elections. A large force of workmen will be needed.

A GOOD many dead men vote, but possibly never until last week was one nominated for a public office. At the county convention of Prohibitionists in West Chester, Pa., the delegates nominated Elijah F. Pennpacker, of Schuylkill, for county surveyor. The candidate has been dead since last February—and is still dead.

THE American Republican press is making political capital out of the docking of the U. S. battleship Indiana in Halifax. The Tribune says such a course is "humiliating." At the same time credit is given to the Republican party for having inlated the new naval policy of the States. The Republican party would seem to have begun at the wrong end. Big ships and no docks are incongruous.

ACCORDING to the report of the superintendent of insurance at Ottawa, which has just been issued in the complete shape, the fire insurance corporations received in premiums last year $6,711,369 on account of Canadian business, which is $82,200 less than the premiums of 1893. There has been a great increase in the life insurance business. The new business taken last year aggregated $49,525,257, which is greater than the business taken in 1893 by $4,322,410.

ONE element in the coming election contest is certain to be the issue between purity of administration and administrative corruption. The party now in power has had the most ample control of public affairs since 1878. During these seventeen years there has been a steady stream of the most damaging revelations, implicating ministers who have ceased to hold portfolios, but implicating also some leading members of the present ministerial personnel—notably, Sir Adolphe Caron, of Quebec, and Mr. Haggart of Ontario. There is reason to suspect, if not believe, that the men now in office have systematically used contractors as a means of plundering the Dominion treasury to raise funds for election purposes. They did this through the instrumentality of Larkins, Connolly & Company; they did it through the instrumentality of the contractor for the Lake St. John Railway; they did it through the instrumentality of Mr. St. Louis, who had the hiring of labour and the purchasing of material for the Lachine bridges. The country cannot afford to let this go on. Such a practice saps political life at its root, and the only way to stop the destructive process is to change the ministry.

THE GRAIN MARKETS.

There is not much improvement to note in the grain markets. The movement in barley in Ontario has been very slow this season. Some exporters say it is impossible to get bids from the United States maltsters, and that good prices need not be expected by holders. Others believe that it is a little too early yet to look for any activity in the demand for export, and say that owing to the small percentage of choice No. 1 barley in this year's crop there will be a good demand for it later in the season, and, and that it will command a premium in the United States markets. Wheat in Ontario is quiet. Prices are rather steadier this week, but exporters so far have been operating cautiously. The farmers' deliveries have been small so far, the fine weather having kept the farmers busy seeding. Oats are dull and prices for them are low. There is considerable difference in prices of grain in Ontario now compared with those that prevailed a year ago. Ontario winter wheat is 5c to 6c, and and Manitoba wheat 3c higher than last year at this time. Rye is 5c to 6c, and oats 3½c lower. Peas are about 2 to 3c lower. Feed barley is 7 to 8c lower, and malting barley, which was quoted a year ago at 45c, is now nominally 8c lower.

Prices for wheat in the west do not improve much. The market in Chicago has fluctuated a good deal during the past week in sympathy with the financial situation, but the smaller supplies of wheat in sight seem to have little or no effect on the markets. A year ago the total amount of wheat on passage to Europe, and the visible supply on this continent, was 36,000,000 bushels larger than it is to-day. The traders are likely afraid of the effect the invisible supplies on this continent may have on the markets, the reports of yields larger than anticipated reported from many of the Western States having indicated that the crop will be larger than expected.

STONY LAKE ABROAD.

We clip the following from the September issue of the "Shield and Sword" of Geneseo, N.Y.:

"No brighter, prettier or more healthful place could be selected for a summer holiday than Stony Lake, Canada, where the Rector and his family spent the month of August. Stony Lake is one of a chain of lakes, which with their connecting rivers form the Trent Canal, the great waterway in process of construction by the "English" Government. It is, as at the "Thousand Islands," a body of water dotted with islands, (eight hundred in all) rocky, wooded and picturesque, and, scattered among these, were at least fifteen hundred cottagers, mostly Americans. Not the least of our pleasures was that we were guests in the family of Mr. John Cox, well remembered in Geneseo, and who first became interested in the church here, afterwards, shortly before his death, receiving confirmation at the hands of his Canadian Bishop. They were kindness personified, partly, we are sure, because of Geneseo's tender regard for their son. It will not be strange, if by reason of these happy surroundingt, the air good, fishing plenty and pleasure abundant, our thoughts often revert to our holiday as the cold of winter draws near."

[It is to be charitably assumed that the writer's mixed geography did not result from mixing Stoney Lake water.

NIAGARA FALLS BRIBERY CASES.

Promoter Kyle and R. F. Segsworth Committed For Trial.

Niagara Falls, Sept. 22.—On Saturday Promoter William Kyle and Robert F. Segsworth of Toronto were committed for trial on a charge of attempting to bribe Daniel Fenwick, an Alderman of last year's Council to secure his influence in favor of submitting a by-law granting a bonus to Kyle's company for transforming the horse-car railway into an electric line. The principal evidence was given by ex-Ald. Fenwick, who stated that he met Kyle, E. Hewitt and A. W. Wright at the Waverly House Oct. 23 between 11 and 12 at night. Segsworth remarked, "I offered Fenwick $250 or $300, but he did not seem inclined to come with us." Kyle spoke up and said, "Give him $500," and someone else remarked, "Let him have his price, if that is not enough." They said the vote would be a tie in the committee and I would have the casting vote, and wanted me to come their way. The offer was for me to pass in committee a by-law for $75,000. In cross-examination by Mr. B. B. Osler, who appeared for the defence, the witness admitted that he kept the whole matter to himself until February. He also admitted that he had been an insolvent for seven years and that he had taken the municipal declaration for this year declaring that he owned the necessary $600 qualification.

Mr. Charles Black, superintendent of the Clifton, Wesley Park & Niagara Falls Tramway Company saw Kyle in his office, who told him that he had secured Mr. Fenwick's vote and expected several others. Kyle said if any of the Aldermen came to his office he was not to give them more than five or ten dollars at a time. Kyle told him he had promised Fenwick $300.

Bail was allowed at $2000 in each case.

CHARGED WITH SMUGGLING SILKS.

Two Windsor Men and a St. Thomas Man Arrested in Detroit By Customs Officials.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 21.—One prominent citizen of each, Windsor, Kingsville and St. Thomas, were arrested here to-day on charges of smuggling valuable consignments of silks. When arrested they had $60 worth of fine silks on them. People across the river had been very much startled when the identity of the alleged smugglers was announced.

The three are Walter C. Learoid, aged 27, junior member of the firm of drygoods merchants, Learoid Brothers, Kingsville; William McDonough, son of Rev. William McDonough, of Kingsville, and Harry L. Drake, of St. Thomas, brother of the wife of A. D. Learoid.

The latter came to Windsor a few days ago to visit his sister, When questioned by the detectives the three said that some strange man had paid them a few dollars to bring the goods across the river and leave them at the hotel.

Representatives of the Government will take the young men in charge. Mr. A. D. Learlod, brother of one of the young men, was shocked at the news.

The two Learoids stood high in Windsor, and are among the best known of the drygoods dealers there. Rev. Mr. Learoid, who was stationed in the Methodist church there, is the father of the young men. He is now in St. Mary's.

McDonough claims to know nothing of the smuggling.

EUROPE IN A FERMENT

Danger in the Franco-Russian Alliance.

SALISBURY'S BUSY HOLIDAYS.

These Two Powers Thought to Have Deserted Britain in Armenia and Germany in the East Russia's Alarming Aggressions in the Pacific.

London, Sept. 22.—Lord Salisbury's holiday at the Chateau Cecil, Dieppe, has been taken up by the exigencies of foreign affairs. Ordinarily a single courier daily attends him, but now three couriers incessantly come and go between the Chateau and Paris and London. The chief causes of this activity are the further prospect of disturbed relations with France and Russia, and the Russo-Japanese difficulty. The presence of Prince Lobanoff-Rostovsky, Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs, at the French maneuvres and the Russian General Dragomiroff's enthusiastic praises of the French troops and his toast to the Russo-Franco fraternity on the field of battle and union in combat, have combined to produce the opinion in England that an offensive and defensive alliance has finally been concluded between France and Russia.

The view that Gen. Dragomiroff's utterances were merely designed to cajole the French into supplying Russia with more money does not appear tenable. His language amounted to an official declaration of a firm alliance between the two countries, and is so considered by the leading London papers. The Daily Telegraph holds that England ought no longer to hesitate about joining the Dreibund. The Standard makes a similar menace and hopes the sword of England will always be enough to turn the scale. The Economist predicts that the earliest danger will arise from the Japanese question. The paper does not doubt that a sharp pressure is being applied at Tokio by Russia to compel the Japanese to evacuate Corea as well as Liao-Tung. This paper argues that as Japan must fight eventually she ought not to bide Russia's time. The struggle now would be a maritime one. A victory would place Vladivostock at the mercy of the Japanese, and even if the Japanese were defeated Russia would be unable to invade the Island Empire. The Statist forsees the possibility of the United States taking the side of Japan, with England also supporting her, while China, finding the Russian a too costly alliance, would defy both Russia and France.

Harold Frederics in his cable says: It is observable that the Russian and French generals at the manoeuvres have spoken much more openly, even recklessly, about the brotherhood of arms existing between the two nations than they had heretofore. The scene of the mimic warfare was for the first time in Lorraine, and the speakers of both races, as they drank toasts in the evening to the day of their joint glory on the battlefield, lifted their glasses intuitively toward the blue line of the Vosges, where their common enemy is entrenched. The German papers have studiously ignored all this, but it would be a mistake to suppose that any aspect of it has gone unnoticed.

People's minds are therefore prepared afresh for some tangible manifestation of Franco-Russian intentions. After their taking such elaborate pains to show that they have established the closest kind of partnership, it is only natural to begin to look for some of its fruits. Hence public suspicion runs eagerly ahead of the ascertained facts to believe that these two powers have deserted England in Armenia, and betrayed Germany in the far east. Both suspicions seem more probable than not, but these things move very slowly and on curiously devious lines, and it is to be remembered always, too, that Germany will pocket many quiet affronts and put a good face on one discomfiture after another in the pursuit of her studiously patient waiting game. She will never abandon the pretense of amiable relations with Russia until she is obliged to do so, or suffer herself to be goaded into rash action when prudence dictates the other thing. Emperor William talks excitedly, but his deeds are extremely cautious, and so it happens that even when France and Russia do a concert of joint actions, and popular expectations of trouble are on high, Germany calmly associates herself with this action and sterilizes it for mischief.

Vague reports are beginning to come of anticipated or accomplished Russian aggressions on the Pacific. It is said to be understood in St. Petersburg that Chinese assent has been given to Russian occupation of Port Arthur. If this be true, it will place England in a very awkward position indeed, for this is precisely what the whole succession of British Ministers have pledged themselves Russia should never be permitted to do.

Mr. Gerald Balfour returned to England last evening from a tour of Ireland, which he made in company with the Hon. Horace Plunkett, M.P., for the South Division of Dublin County, who was the originator of the recent party conference proposal. Mr. Balfour has now held the office of Chief Secretary for Ireland for three months and during that period has passed more time in Ireland that his brother Arthur did during his two years as Irish Secretary. Chief Secretary Balfour goes back to Dublin, intending to pass the greater part of the recess there. Parnellites and anti-Parnellites alike expect that the Government policy under his administration will be of a conciliatory nature. In a letter Mr. William O'Brien offers the friendship of his party to Mr. Balfour if the latter, who is now preparing a Land bill, enlarges the scope of the scheme relative to congested districts. It is believed that the Government will adopt Mr. O'Brien's suggestion.

Lord Rosebery, instead of retiring from the forefront of politics, is preparing to take a most active part in political affairs. He is in constant communication with the heads of Liberal associations and will open the autumn campaign on Oct. 10 at Scarborough.

She, the Earl and Their Children Now Taking Lessons on the Wheel.

New York, Sept. 23.—An Ottawa despatch to The Sun says: Since leaving Ottawa Lord and Lady Aberdeen have become experts on the bicycle. While in Victoria, B.C., the Governor-General was induced by Lord Haddo to try the sport, and now the whole vice-regal family—the Earl and Countess Lady Marjorie, the Hon. Dudley Gordon and the Hon. Archie Gordon, the two younger sons of His Excellency, and their governess—have daily practice on the wheel under a teacher in Victoria. It is said that the Countess is a graceful rider and favors bloomers.

TORONTO WATERWORKS.

An Outbreak of Disease Feared and Great Precautions Recommended.

Toronto, (Special) Sept. 16.—The accident which recently occurred to the Toronto waterworks conduit has created a great deal of consternation, and an outbreak of disease is possible. Doctors are prescribing the various precautions to be taken, and among them it is strongly recommended that the kidneys should be kept in a state of perfect regularity by means of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which experience has shown to be equally efficacious in the latest as well as in the earliest stages of kidney trouble. It is also stated by the physicians that this season is one in which the kidneys are peculiarly susceptible to disorder.

THE SECRET OUT!

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from various prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CAANDA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story :—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	PerCent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE.....	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life.....	2.68	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

W. H's Life Policy for $10,000, issued April, 1889, Age 23, Annual Premium $177.

Total Cost for 6 years.....1,062 Dollars

A. E's Life Policy for $5,000, issued April, 1886, Age 22, Annual Premium $86.

Total Cost for 9 years..... 774 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy .....1,000 Dollars

Case of Assault.

David Huddart, a young Arab, was fined five dollars and costs this morning for assaulting Gilbert Harris. The Arabs live down in the vicinity of the South Ward school and being very quick tempered, are teased by the children to a more or less extent. Young David took the law in his own hands on Saturday and gave Harris a beating with the result that this morning he faced the magistrate with the above result.

BROKE HIS WRIST.

A Hard Fall in the Collegiate Institute Gymnasium.

Mr. Garnet Bell met with a most unfortunate accident on Friday afternoon last, which will in all probability bar him from participating in the Collegiate Institute sports.

In jumping off a powerful spring board in the gymnasium he slipped and fall. In the act of falling he stretched out his arm to save himself and his wrist being under his body when he fell, was broken. The sports committee, it is understood, offered to postpone the games for another week, but Garnet does not feel he could do himself justice even in that time, so will have to drop out of the contest.

Telfordian Temperature Topics.

Monday, Sept. 23rd.—This has been a hot spell for September, not minding the awful storms. On Friday, the 20th, during the day the thermometer reached 88 degrees, Saturday 93 degrees, and yesterday 92, and this morning the thermometer stood at 63, but we will soon get a change. —THOS. TELFORD.

A Noonday Blaze.

A fire originating in the defective chimney in a brick house, occupied by Mr. R. Binch on Weller street, caused the fire brigade to be summoned to the premises shortly before one o'clock to-day. The seat of the fire was located in the garret and the introduction of the water through a hole which was chopped in the roof, extinguished the flame before it had made any headway. The damage is light.

Looking up Loose Lumber.

Five men in the employ of the Gilmour Company left a few days ago, for Koshabogamog Lake, in the County of Peterborough, to gather up the loose logs and timber which drifted from late drives into by places in that locality. They were sent ont by Mr. C. Louttit, superintendent of the Gilmour mill at Crow Bay, and will have sufficient work to do to keep them busy two or three weeks.

The Last Obsequies.

The remains of the late Mr. Joseph Daly were laid at rest in Lindsay yesterday, a number of his Peterborough friends driving over to that town as a last mark of respect. The funeral is described as being probably the largest which has ever taken place in Victoria county. The floral tributes were so profuse that there was not room in the house to accommodate them all.

Don't Miss the Piano Show.

Special prices will prevail during Fair week. Caution—Don't buy ANYWHERE till you have seen this display. 4d

Maud Muller up to Date.

Maud Muller on a summer night went out on her bike in the bright moonlight. She pedalled around from six to ten on a trip that would fag the strongest men, but her heart was light and her spirits gay, for it wasn't dark, 'twas nothing but play. Next morning, however, she'd a pain in her head, she was all played out and stayed in bed, while her mother hustled in the kitchen below, not to ride a wheel, but to make things go. Though the morning was hot and she worked by the fire, she didn't collapse with a punctured tire. Alas for the girl, and the women, see, things are not as they used to be.—Vermillion Freeman.

Sudden Death.

To-day the sad news reached friends in town that Mr. Jos. A. Eckerie—one of the jolliest members of the American camping party at Sturgeon Point this season—had died in Rochester last Sunday of fever. For the past ten or twelve years deceased had spent his holidays camping back at Stony Lake or in Victoria County, and being a generous, whole-souled fellow and a good musician, he made many warm friends in Lindsay, Bobcaygeon and Peterborough, who will deeply regret his sudden demise at the early age of 30 years. Mr. Eckerie was unmarried. He is survived by a widowed mother, two sisters and five brothers.

A Dummer Bear Story.

A good story comes from Dummer. A well-known farmer residing on the 4th concession has of late been troubled by the depredations of a bear in his oatfield and orchard. Last week he borrowed an old-fashioned bear trap from Mr. Joseph Payne, and selecting a favourable spot in the orchard, set the trap and retired for the night with visions of bear's meat and robes in his mind. He could not sleep so made an early start, and on arriving near the selected spot was delighted to find he had been successful, but thunderstruck at the size of the animal as revealed in the dull gloom. Deeming discretion the better part of valour, he decided to obtain the assistance of some of his neighbours, who armed with rifles and guns, proceeded to the orchard to find that the "white bear" was a neighboring woman who was fast in the trap. Handspikes and fence rails were brought into requisition, and she was released, fortunately not much injured, as the jaws of the trap had caught the sole of a heavy man's boot she was wearing, and saving the limb from being broken or lacerated. It is needless to say that our friends trapping exploit is the theme and laughter of the good people of North Dummer.—Lakefield News.

THE CENTRAL EXHIBITION.

THE GATES ARE SWUNG AJAR TO-DAY.

This is Exhibitors' Day—Getting Ready for To-morrow—Everything About the Grounds in Ship Shape — The Placing of Exhibits—The Main Building a Hive of Industry.

MONDAY, Sept. 23rd.

The eleventh annual exhibition of the Peterborough Central began to-day at the grounds, which from early morning were a scene of brisk activity, and great progress was made, as, thanks to the exertions of Mr. J. J. Bennett, superintendent, during the past week, everything was in readiness for exhibitors. Turner's tents sprang up in all quarters of the grounds, the mammoth one for the special art exhibition, 40x70 feet in area, being conspicuous. Here and there stagings for special exhibits of agricultural implements, stoves, etc., are being filled with exhibits. In other quarters the canvasses of speculative enterprise, merry-go-rounds, freaks, etc., etc. "showed up."

The speeding track is in prime condition, and the keys of the horse and stock stables are being dealt out rapidly by Mr. J. A. Bennett. The poultry coops are rapidly filling up with their feathered tenants, and everything points to a splendid exhibit of live stock.

THE INTERIOR EXHIBITS.

Inside the main building a scene of the greatest bustle and activity prevailed all day and this department promises to be superior in attractiveness and extent of exhibits over every other year. The directors have made large additions to the space by flooring in the large expanse of waste space represented by the old well hole and dividing it into compartments, giving about 160 feet of extra table space, which is devoted to the display of ladies' work. This display promises to be a magnificent one, for at an early hour almost every available foot of space was occupied. Every other part of the building was crowded with exhibits in a more or less advanced stage of arrangement.

With favourable weather the prospects for a most successful exhibition were never more promising. With a large number of special entries yet to be made the total entries to date are over 2,000—far in excess of any other year.

TO-MORROW'S PROGRAMME.

This will include the formal opening ceremonies at one o'clock sharp. The opening ceremony will conclude by the presentation of prize of Royal Humane Society to Ephriam Godfrey of Young's Point. Immediately afterward the great baby show competition for Gough Bros. prizes will take place.

During the afternoon the speeding events—running race and three year old colt race, will be presented.

There will also be a full programme of special features, the bell ringers, silver cornettists, skirt dancing, clog dancing, fancy tumbling, general acrobatic performance, etc.

NOTES.

Street cars run direct to Exhibition grounds gates.

Persons driving to the grounds are requested to go by way of Park street, as the streets along Little Lake are impassable on account of sewerage operations.

To-morrow afternoon is school children's day, when pupils of the schools will be admitted for 10 cents.

THE TRAMP REMANDED.

Murphy's Case Enlarged for Another Week—Did he Draw a Revolver?

Frank Murphy, the tramp who was arrested last Monday by Constable Archie Moore, and who was remanded by County Magistrate Edmison on Friday to appear before Magistrate Dumble this morning on a charge of carrying a revolver, has been again remanded for a week. A good deal of the evidence, however, was taken this morning.

Mr. Wm. Green testified to having been in Bowman's C.P.R. restaurant on Monday and recognized the prisoner as the man who threatened to "go through his clothes" at the same time flourishing a revolver in his face. At this juncture Mr. Green stated that Murphy's companions had pulled him out of the barroom. The prisoner told him at the time that if he opened his mouth he would "give him a bang." The man and his comrades had been quarrelling on the premises and had asked the bartender for food. He had given them a sandwich and two pieces of pie in order to get them out of the place.

The Chief of Police testified to having received the prisoner at the cells, but stated that he had found no revolver on him.

Albert Field, bartender at the C. P. R. restaurant, identified the prisoner as having been in the saloon on Monday last. He had heard him exchange words with Green, and had heard him threaten to give him a bang. He had seen no revolver. If one had been produced he must have seen it. He had not given the strangers food to get rid of them, but they had taken some from the lunch counter and paid for it. The prisoner was very drunk when in the saloon. Mr. Green was also intoxicated. The prisoner had treated Green in the bar on the previous Saturday.

Constable Moore on being sworn, stated that on Monday afternoon he had been driving past the C. P. R. station and had seen a tramp draw a pistol on another one. They had afterwards walked towards the C. P. R. bridge. He did not attempt to arrest any of them. There were four in the party. On returning accompanied by special constables he had run across Murphy and arrested him. On the way to the police station the prisoner had grabbed the lines. (Merely the action of a drunken man, interposed the magistrate.) Moore then went on to tell the story of the now famous battle with the other tramps, but the magistrate cut short, what he termed "that cock and bull story."

As Mr. Bowman, one of the principal witnesses, is at present in Brockville, Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, obtained an enlargement of the case until Monday next.

Strength for the Aged.

As age advances the recuperative power of the body decreases. Fatigue clings like a burr to the already depleted store of energy, still further wasting and dissipating it, and, in consequence, the elderly find it very hard to keep their spirits up to the "doing" point. An anchor of hope and safety is found in the energizing action of Maltine with Coca Wine, which imparts, almost magically, strength and vigor to the falling powers, and through its nutritive and tonic properties renews those functional activities upon which depend health of body and mind. Maltine with Coca Wine rapidly restores appetite, improves digestion, imparts tone and vigor to the nervous system; in a word is a strength giver of unequalled excellence. Maltine with Coca Wine is prescribed and recommended by physicians. All druggists sell it.

It stays at the head of the head of its class, and is being sold at the low figure of twenty-five cents. Like our thirty-five cent tea, it is a leader; but unlike it in this respect—you can always buy our thirty-five cent tea for thirty-five cents, but shortly you will have to pay forty cents for Osh-k-Osh. THE MURDER TRIAL OF THE TWO GRAYS

WILL PROBABLY BEGIN THURSDAY NEXT.

A Heavy Docket of Criminal and Civil Cases to be Taken Up—Chancellor Boyd Will Preside—The Court Will Probably Adjourn To-Morrow.

The Court will open to-morrow afternoon before Chancellor Boyd and as three criminal cases, including that against Thos. and Hessie Gray for murder and arson are in the docket, as well as five civil cases, great interest will be manifested in the sitting.

The other criminal cases consist of one against Frank Somers, Fred McDermott and Duncan McRae for housebreaking and larceny, and one against Jas. Sampson Clarissa Sampson and Gordon Varty for forcible entry. As before stated Mr. W. A. Stratton will conuct the defence in the Gray case and Mr. H. C. Clute, Q.C., will act for the Crown.

The Grand Jury will be composed as follows: Robt. Darling, Smith; Wm. Faint, Ashburnham; Johnathan Griffin, Lakefield; Robt. Innes, Peterborough; Gustave Lech, Peterborough; David Madill, Dummer; Wm. J. Martin, Peterborough; Wm. Plunkett, Bemont; Jas. Richmond, Harvey; Richard Short, Otonabee, and Richard Tedford, Dummer.

The civil cases to be heard are as appended:—

TREW VS. TREW.—Action brought by James J. Trew, of the township of Hope, against David Trew. The plaintiff claims $400 for wages and the costs of the action. The defendant denies owing the plaintiff any wages Stratton & Hall for the plaintiff, and S. S. Smith, Port Hope, for the defendant.

SAMPSON VS. WEESE.—Action brought by Clarissa Sampson against Sarah Jane Weese and Henry Weese. This case grew out of the Holbrook affair in Belmont. The plaintiff claims the ownership of certain land occupied by defendant, and also profits amounting to $300, accrued on the same since July 11th, 1895. Defendant denies plaintiff's claim and asks that the conveyance of the land from James Holbrook to plaintiff be declared fraudulent and void. And they also ask for possession of land and profits under a deed of James Holbrook to Sarah Jane Weese, and ask for costs of the action. W. A. F. Campbell, Norwood, for the plaintiff, and Edmison & Dixon for defendants.

The above two actions are jury cases.

REYNOLDS VS. REYNOLDS ET AL.—Action by Geo. Reynolds against Jos. Reynolds, trustee of the estate of Sarah Jane Reynolds. The plaintiff asks that the will of Sarah Jane Reynolds be construed and the rights and interests of parties in the estate be declared and that the plaintiff be paid the costs of the case. Robert Ruddy, Millbrook, for the plaintiff, and R. R. Loscombe, Bowmanville, for the defendants.

PAYNE VS. CROWE.—Action by George A. Payne of Dummer, against Joseph Crowe of Dummer. The plaintiff claims possession of the south-east quarter of lot No. 26 in the 2nd concession of Dummer under a conveyance from William Crowe and others. The defendant is now in full possession of the land, and the plaintiff claims judgment declaring him to be entitled to the possession of said land, and that he be paid the costs of the action. The defendant denies the allegation, and says that he has been in possession of the land for ten years. Dumble & Johnston for the plaintiffs, and Edmison & Dixon for the defendants.

REYNOLDS VS. REYNOLDS.—An action brought by Hannah E. Reynolds against her husband, William Albert Reynolds, of Manvers. The plaintiff alleges that she was married to William A. Reynolds on October 4th, 1893, and that they lived together until May 15th, 1895, two children being born to them. The plaintiff claims that since May, 1894, the defendant has exhibited towards her a jealous, suspicious and unreasonable disposition, and frequently, without apparent cause, has broken into violent fits of temper, applying profane, slanderous and filthy epithets and abusing her in a cruel and brutal manner. The defendant, she further claims, charged her with unfaithfulness and adultery. On or about the 12th day of May last when the plaintiff's second child was but 8 days old, and the plaintiff had not yet recovered from her confinement, the defendant wrongfully and improperly and without cause used towards the plaintiff the following language or words to the same effect: "I'm done with you. I want nothing more to do with you, and as soon as you're better I want you to get out of here, etc." On or about the 14th day of May last while the plaintiff was still ill she claims that she was struck by her better half without provocation. He also threatened herself and children with bodily harm if they were not removed from the house. For some time defendant has been living at her parents on account of the treatment received at the hands of the said William Reynolds, her husband. She believes the defendant to be worth in the neighbourhood of $3,000 and asks for an adequate sum to be paid her by way of alimony.

A number of charges are denied by the defendant, but he alleges that his fits of temper were caused by his wife continually making slurring references to the fact that he was not the father of the children. He had told her that "you and yours will have to get out of this unless you stop" on the occasion of his wife holding up her youngest child to him and telling him he was not its father. He apologizes for the language, saying it was said in passion. The next day they had a dispute and he struck her and called her names. He denies ordering her to leave the house, and upon the 10th day of July, 1895, he says he had her served with a notice requiring her to return to his home and offering to receive and support her, and he again expresses his readiness to do so, and the defendant asks that the case be dismissed with costs. Edwards & Murray for the plaintiff, and A. J. Armstrong, Cobourg, for the defendant.

In all probability the court will be adjourned on Tuesday afternoon to allow the jurymen to attend the exhibition, and the murder trial will then probably not be reached until Thursday.

THE ART EXHIBITION AT THE CENTRAL.

The Fine Display of Paintings by Leading Artists.

Mr. D. A. Shaw deserves the greatest credit for having brought before the public of Peterborough one of the best exhibitions of art in point of excellence ever held in Canada. In addition to having the best productions of eminent Canadians, who have studied abroad, he has all the very best paintings that were exhibited at the Toronto Industrial.

The "Modern Madonna," a picture of heroic size, and the acknowledged masterpiece of G. A. Reid, the celebrated painter of "The Foreclosure," "Signing the Mortgage," and "The Logging," will be the grand feature of the exhibit; it is claimed by competent critics to be the equal of Delorme's "Blacksmith," which created such great admiration at the Central last year.

There is besides a collection of some two hundred water colours worthy of the Royal Academy or the Louvre. Indeed many of them have been exhibited in the Royal Academy and at the great exhibition of '62 in London, England.

This is certainly the greatest treat to be had at the Central Show this year, and we may never have it or its like again. Let the town people show their interest and sympathy in one of the most educative of all exhibitions by filling the art gallery to overflowing, which they will do if their practical appreciation equals the sterling merit of this splendid exhibit.

DESCRIPTION OF THE TRAMPS.

The Second Description Applies to the "Well Dressed Stranger" or Tramp No 4.

It is now thought that the four tramps, who are said to have fought the constables across the river last Monday, are the identical gang which held up and robbed an Arabian peddlar in Carrick, on Sept. 10th. The description of the men is as follows:—

One about 6 feet high, black moustache, long face, black silk cap, navy blue suit, aged about 26 years.

One about 5 feet, 7 inches high, stout, light moustache, gray hat, light clothes, aged about 35 years.

One short and stout, about 5 ft. in height, short heavy black mustache, dark complexion, heavy shoulders, navy blue suit, age about 28.

One stout, about 5 ft. 6 in., dark complexion, wore dark clothes, black hat, age about 28 years.

As the quality of the quantity of knives found on the tramps is similar to that carried by peddlers, it is thought that the Carrick tramps have wandered down here. The town police force are anxious that they should not be identified with the constabulary force which took part in the battle of Heap's Run.

Mr. Archie Moore, county constable, went to Havelock on Saturday in search of the tramps who were engaged in the battle of Heap's Run. They were not, however, in sight, but instead he arrested four other tramps and brought them up to jail. This morning they were discharged by County Police Magistrate Edmison, as nothing whatever could be proven against them, other than that they were in hard luck and were looking for work. What is the use of having expense added to the county in sending special constables to arrest tramps at Havelock. If Havelock requires their committal let them send them away in the regular way. The county jail is not the place for poor people in hard luck. The County Magistrate did the correct thing in discharging them. The county does not want to provide during the winter months for foreign and hungry evidences of a county constables officiousness.

EPISCOPAL VISIT TO YOUNG'S POINT.

Bishop O'Connor Administers the Sacrament of Confirmation to Twenty-two Candidates—Stations of the Cross Blessed and Erected.

On Saturday afternoon His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, accompanied by Rev. Father Scollard, his secretary, drove out to Young's Point on his first official visit to that mission.

On Sunday morning, at 7 o'clock, mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Scollard, and at 8 o'clock the Holy Sacrifice was offered up by the Bishop. The last mass was said at 10:30 by Very Rev. Father Browne, V.G., the pastor in charge of the mission. During this and the Bishop's mass appropriate hymns were sung by the choir, under the direction of the organist, Miss Kearney.

In the interval between the second and last mass the Bishop examined the children on Christian doctrine, to ascertain if they were duly prepared for the reception of the important Sacrament of Confirmation. After the Vicar-General's mass, His Lordship briefly addressed the congregation, directing his remarks especially to the children, who were about to be confirmed. He then proceeded to confer the sacrament of confirmation, praying the Holy Spirit of God to descend into the souls of the confirmants, and replenish them with His seven-fold gifts. To secure perseverance in the practice of their Catholic faith, of which the children made outward profession by reciting in the presence of their Bishop the Apostles' Creed. His Lordship received from the confirmed the promise of fidelity to night and morning prayer and to due observance of the precept of the Church regarding annual confession and Holy Communion. To implant in their youthful souls the virtue of temperance, which would make them ornaments of society and edifying members of the Church in after life. The Bishop received from the boys the additional promise that they would abstain from the use of intoxicating liquors until they attained the age of twenty-one years. After explaining the origin and utility of the Way of the Cross, the Bishop then blessed the handsome Stations of the Cross, which were recently purchased in Montreal at a cost of about $80.

When the ceremony was over, Mr. Patrick Young, sr., one of the early pioneers of the district, still hale and hearty, though in his eighty-seventh and surrounded by some of the principal members of the congregation, presented His Lordship with the following address:

Rt. Rev. R. A. O'Connor, D.D., Bishop of Peterborough:

BELOVED CHIEF PASTOR.—Your devoted parishioners of Young's Point desire to approach Your Lordship on this the occasion of your first episcopal visit to this parish, and to tender their most respectful duty and to welcome you to St. Mary's church. While we have long known of your distinguished piety, Christian zeal and devotion to the interests of our Holy Church, and of your tender watchfulness and solicitude for the flock under your care in all parts of your wide diocese, we have never before had the honour and pleasure of a personal visit. We would wish that we had words to fittingly express our sense of the great honour we are the recipients of, and to express our feelings of loyal affection for yourself both in your own person and as the representative of His Holiness the Supreme Head of the Church on earth, within whose bosom under your Lordship's hand of blessing so many of our sons and daughters are to be received to-day through the Holy Sacrament of Confirmation.

We would not boast of our own piety or good works, but whatever progress in piety and good works we have made, we have great happiness in attributing it under the blessing of Almighty God, and your own beneficient rule to the earnest labours of our beloved pastor, Rev. Father Vicar General Brown, and in this direction our thanks are due Your Lordship for placing over our little parish a spiritual guide who has faithfully watched over our spiritual welfare and guided our steps in the paths of duty.

In conclusion we ask Your Lordship to accept the hearty assurance of our devotion, and also our hearty wish that you may be spared many years to watch over the interests of our Holy Church in this diocese, and that on your coming visit to the Holy See you may have a safe and prosperous journey and safe return, and we would ask Your Lordship to lay at the feet of our Sovereign Pontiff our most respectful assurances of devotion to his person and to his holy office.

The Bishop in replying to the address, thanked the congregation for the kind sentiments expressed therein, and stated that he considered himself highly honoured in receiving an address from their venerable patriarch, Mr. Patrick Young. He also congratulated the congregation on the improvements which they had recently made in the interior of their church, commended the ability and zeal of their pastor, Vicar-General Browne, and, in referring to his coming visit to Rome, told them that he would lay the temporal and spiritual condition of the mission before the Holy Father and ask his benediction for themselves and their children.

During his stay at the Point, the Bishop visiting clergy were entertained by Mr. C. Young in his usual hospitable manner. His Lordship returned to town yesterday in the evening, highly pleased with his visitation to the church and people of Young's Point.

THRIVING HAVELOCK MENACED BY FIRE.

LOCAL FIREMEN GO TO ITS ASSISTANCE.

The Fire Engine is Taken Down on a Special Train—A Bush Fire Causes all the Trouble—The Village Surrounded by Blazing Timber.

Shortly after one o'clock to-day the following telegram, which speaks for itself, was received by Mayor Kendry:

Serious bush fire in suburbs of town. Please send a fire engine immediately. Train waiting at station there to bring it down."

As soon as the brigade returned from the Weller street fire the telegram was shown them and Chief Rutherford immediately gave the necessary orders and the fire engine was taken to the station in quick time, as were a thousand feet of hose.

The locomotive of the way freight had been sent back from Indian River and as the fire engine dashed up to the station, everything was in readiness to receive it, a flat car and caboose having been attached to the locomotive and drawn up to the platform. In a jiffy the old engine was hoisted up on the car and securely blocked in position and the special pulled out of the station for Havelock with the following members of the Fire Brigade aboard, namely:—Messrs Thos. Rutherford, James English, Joseph Yelland, John Hayes, Wm. Green, James Gordon and Archie Moore.

Havelock is a thriving little town just thirty miles east of us, and the special train was guaranteed to cover the distance in half an hour at the outside, so that although the various reports received in town are of a nature to show that the town is in great danger of being swept by the flames, still the presence of the Peterborough engine and firemen will undoubtedly be of much valuable assistance, and if the conflagration is not in too advanced a stage the local fire fighters will, without doubt, be able to check it.

A MILKING MACHINE.

IT IS TESTED AT THE ONTARIO AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

And Found to Give Highly Satisfactory Results—Description of the Invention—Twenty-Six Cows Milked in 26 Minutes or Less.

The following letter has been sent to the press by the President of the Ontario Agricultural College:

Sir,—When the Hon. Thomas Ballantyne of Stratford was in Scotland last spring, he had an opportunity to examine carefully what is known as the Thistle milking machine. He was pleased with the work which he saw the machine doing, and, being anxious that Canada should be abreast of the times in everything pertaining to the dairy industry, he suggested to the makers that they should send a machine to the Agricultural College, Guelph, to be tested and reported on.

The machine came, was set up and run for seven or eight days; and, in the absence of our Professor of Dairying, I beg to submit, for the information of your readers, a brief report of the results of the test, which closed on Friday, the 9th inst.

The Thistle milking machine was invented about four years ago by Alexander Shiels, M. B. C. M., B. Sc., of Glasgow, Scotland, and is now manufactured in the same city, 25 Gateside street, by the Thistle Mechanical Milking Machine Co.

The machine has been tested by a number of competent judges in different places, and is now being used by some of the most prominent Scotch dairymen, including Thomas Kerr, Kirkcudbright, who has a herd of 80 cows; Robert Wallace, Mauchline, 40 cows, and Mr. McBride, Garroch Tree, Stranrear, 100 cows. One was put up a short time ago for D. H. Burrell & Co., Little Falls, N. Y., and I believe the only one in Canada is that which has lately been at work in our dairy stable.

The company makes a hand machine to milk four cows at once, and a three horse-power machine to milk ten. I have not seen the hand machine, but we have tested the power machine and I have no hesitation in saying that it does its work very satisfactorily.

The machine is a large air pump of special and peculiar construction—of good quality, strong, substantial and well-made. It is set on a concrete foundation, made of gravel, cobble-stones and Portland cement, 3 feet 3 inches by 4 feet and 3 feet deep, outside of our dairy stable, close to the wall of the building and a short distance from a row of 15 cows, opposite which there is another row of the same number of cows, with a feed passage between. A copper suction pipe passes from the pump through the wall into the stable and overhead to the passage between the two rows of cows. From this main tube, two smaller copper tubes are carried along on top of the stall divisions, one above the necks of each row of cows; and in each stall, at the side of each cow, there is an opening in this cross tube, from which a short piece of smaller copper tube points downwards, slanting towards the passage behind the cows. This smaller piece of tube in each stall is controlled by a stopcock; and to it a rubber tube is attached when milking begins. This movable rubber tube extends down to a heavy, broad-bottomed tin pail on the floor, and another rubber tube connects the pail with the teat-cups, which are attached to the udder.

For milking ten cows, ten pails and ten sets of teat-cups are used—five for each row of cows, so as to keep the two suction tubes in front of the two rows of cows working at the same time. It, of course, takes less time to milk some cows than others; so, when a cow is milked, the man in charge shuts the stop-cock, detaches the rubber tube, empties the pail into a large milk can standing close by, removes the apparatus (the rubber tube, pail and teat-cups) to another stall, and places them in position to milk another cow. In this way he keeps on moving the pails from stall to stall, one at a time, till all the cows in his row are milked. Another man or boy does the same thing in the opposite row. It is not necessary, however, to milk both rows of cows at once. The ten pails might all be used on one side, in which case one man, or a man and a boy, could attend to them and keep his eye on the working of the pump.

As stated above, the milk pail is heavy, broad and low, so that it is difficult to upset. The cover is soldered on and the milk enters through a short and strong glass bottle which is inserted like a cork into the lid at one side, resembling a bottomless quart fruit jar, but only about half the length. By observing the glass bottle one can see how the milk is flowing from the udder and know when to stop milking.

Owing to the action of a reducing valve which is used for the admission of air at regular intervals, the suction acts in a series of successive pulsations, resembling the action of the mouth of the calf in sucking or the hand in milking, and varying in the proportion of 15 to 5. As the suction increases, the teat-cup contracts first at the top and then gradually downwards to the bottom, forcing the milk out of the teat; and when it reaches the maximum of 15, air is admitted which reduces it to 5, thereby partially releasing the teat and allowing it to fill with milk again. In this way, the milking is done naturally, quickly, thoroughly and without any annoyance to the cow. The machine operates more regularly than the hand. Hence it is likely to produce better results, and it makes it next to impossible for any kind of dust or dirt to get into the milk during the process of milking.

We used our portable farm engine in making the test; and we found that a man and a boy could milk 26 cows in from 20 to 26 minutes. I think it might be arranged so that one man could milk nearly as many in the same time.

We weighed and tested the milk from each cow as usual, and found about the same quantity as was obtained by hand, but a marked fall in the percentage of fat, due, we have no doubt, to the excitement caused by the noise of the machine and the presence of a large number of people in the stable. As the cows became accustomed to the noise, the percentage of fat gradually increased.

I have had no communication with any member of the firm and have no interest to serve in recommending the machine; but I must say that, in my judgment, the inventor deserves great credit for what he has done to remove one of the chief obstacles to successful dairying on a large scale. The only thing to prevent this machine from being extensively used is the cost of the machine and of the power necessary to run it. Yours truly,

JAMES MILLS.

CRATES FOR MARKET PRODUCE.

Fruits and Vegetables Can be Handled Much Better in Crates Than in Barrels.

Crates that are indispensable are each year coming more and more in demand, for either handling, storing or shipping. Barrels cause harsh treatment and are not convenient for rapid work wher a delicate touch is required, while crates present a more shallow depth and a larger open surface. As they can be piled on each other, quantities of crates occupy no more space than barrels and frequently not as much. A crate is easily handled by two persons, and allows air to circulate freely between its contents (doing away with the need of bins, barrels, etc., through which air cannot readily pass), and the essential requirement of sweating is obtained. The crates may be piled one above another in the cellar or storehouse and the fruit moved from one place to another with great ease. Make crates to fit into the wagon box, and an astonishing quantity of stuff can be handled at a load. But these rectangular crates will not "nest" into each other as well as when made in the shape suggested in Fig. 1, which is a decided advantage. These can be made larger and with handles, or handles put on the usual form (Fig. 2), for quick carrying short distances. Handles may be rigged on hooks so as to be instantly removable instead of being attached to the crate.

FIG. 1. "NESTING" CRATES.

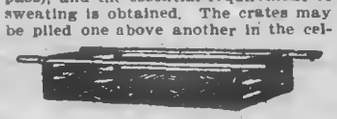

FIG. 2 CRATE WITH HANDLES.

Imitation Creamery Butter.

Imitation creamery butter is the manufactured product of collectors of small parcels of farm-made butters. These collectors are located in large cities only and the great majority of them are in Chicago. Butter of all grades is gathered from country store keepers, who take it in trade from the farmers. These butters are necessarily of all sorts and conditions of raw material and make. Some of them are several weeks old when the factory is reached and they represent many flavors. The imitation creamery man first grades them, then they are washed, colored and salted to suit their special markets. It is creamery only in so far as it is the product of a factory method in its finished state. In France, the factory man meets the makers at a bi-weekly or tri-weekly market. The farmers there make the butter to order, uncolored and unsalted. The French creamery man finds its cheaper to collect butter than to gather cream, and the farmers estimate the value of their time easily. The business result is a palatable product for the Paris or London market within a week of churning. American "imitation creamery" may reach the consumer from six to twelve weeks after it leaves the churn.—Farm and Home.

"Five years ago I was taken so ill with rheumatism that I was unable to do any work," writes Peter Christensen, Sherwood, Wis. "I took three boxes of Ayer's Pills and was entirely cured. Since that time, I always keep them in the house." They are easy to take.

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. H. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says:

"A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the varioloid, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Wer— Olympia St., New Orleans, La.

WINTER WHEAT EXPERIMENTS.

Concise Results of Co-operate Tests Conducted by the Ontario Agricultural College.

1—Reports of successful experiments with winter wheat have been received this season from thirty counties in Ontario, nineteen of which are east and eleven west of the city of Guelph.

2—The counties of Lambton, Middlesex, Huron, Grey, Elgin, Simcoe and Bruce furnished fifty-one of the one hundred good reports received in 1895.

3—Of the two hundred and forty-seven experimenters who reported the results of their tests, only eight speak of wishing to discontinue the co-operative experimental work, and much interest is manifested throughout.

4—Dawson's Golden Chaff, Early Genesee Giant, Early Red Clawson and Jones' Winter Fife gave the highest yields of grain among nine leading varieties of winter wheat tested throughout Ontario for two years in succession.

5—In average yield of winter wheat per acre, Dawson's Golden Chaff stood highest among eleven varieties tested over Ontario in 1893, nine varieties in 1894 and nine varieties in 1895, also among fifty-three varieties grown at the Ontario Agricultural College for four years in succession.

6—In the co-operative experiments for 1895, Dawson's Golden Chaff, Jones' Winter Fife and the Early Genesee Giant gave the best yields on heavy soils, and Dawson's Golden Chaff, the Early Genesee Giant and the American Bronze on light soils.

7—When the experiments followed peas, grass or bare-fallow, Dawson's Golden Chaff gave the largest average yield of grain, and when they followed potatoes Early Genesee Giant came first in this respect.

8—Early Genesee Giant and Dawson's Golden Chaff made the best appearance in the spring of 1895, and Early Ripe looked the poorest.

9—American Bronze, Early Genesee Giant and Dawson's Golden Chaff possessed the stiffest straw in 1895.

10—Pride of Genesee and American Bronze produced the greatest length of straw, and the Surprise the shortest length.

11—Early Ripe and Dawson's Golden Chaff were the least, and Early Genesee Giant and Early White Leader were the most affected by rust.

12—Early Ripe and Early Red Clawson were the first to mature, and the Pride of Genesee and Early White Leader were the last to mature.

13—Early Genesee Giant and Dawson's Golden Chaff produced the plumpest grain, and Early Ripe and the American Bronze the most shrunken grain.

14—Dawson's Golden Chaff was decidedly the most popular variety with the experimenters in each of the past three years; and during the present season, it was chosen by over sixty per cent. of the farmers who sent in full reports, as being the best among the varieties tested.

In the following table will be found two sets of winter wheat varieties, which will be sent free by mail in half pound lots of each variety, to farmers applying for them, who will carefully test the five kinds in the set which they choose, and will report the results after harvest next year. The seed will be sent out in the order in which the applications are received as long as the supply lasts:

SET NO. ONE.

Dawson's Golden Chaff
Early Red Clawson
Jones' Winter Fife Surprise
American Bronze.

SET NO. TWO.

Dawson's Golden Chaff
Early Genesee Giant
Pride of Genesee Bulgarian
Jones' Square Head.

Each person wishing one of these sets should write to the Experimentalist, Agricultural College, Guelph, mentioning which set he desires; and the grain, with instructions for testing, and blank form on which to report, will be furnished free of cost to his address, until the supply of grain for distributing becomes exhausted.

C. A. ZAVITZ,
Experimentalist and Director of Co-operative Experiment in Agriculture.

For Cooling Milk.

The accompanying illustration represents a device by which vessels containing milk can be hung in a well and kept cool. It supports four pails which can be raised and lowered by means of one small windlass. I have used this for several years and find it quite satisfactory. Stock is watered from this well. A pump is placed close to the wall, and as the well is a large one does not interfere with the raising or lowering of the milk pails.

The Chinese.

The merchant class of China is composed of polite, patient, extremely shrewd, well-dressed pattern shopkeepers. The leisure class is graceful, polished and amiable, but the peasantry remind one of the country folk of Europe, excepting Russia.

As compared with Japan, one feature of every view is strikingly in favor of China. The dress and behavior of the Chinese will not offend Europeans. The women are modest and dress in a baggy garment which completely covers them.

In spite of their modesty Chinese girls do flirt, and in proper European fashion. At church they make eyes at the young men, and on the way to school.

The most beautiful women of China are of Soo-Chow. They are as a rule, prettier than the women of Japan.

The Chinese thrash rice by taking a handful and beating a log with it to scatter the kernels on the ground. The farmers break up the soil and punch holes in it for seeds with a stick.

A Creamery Crane.

A strength saver for the creamery that takes in several hundred cans of milk daily is worth having. Here it is: A rough wooden crane that swings a big tin funnel out of the door where the cans are usually lifted in. It is swung against a stationary timber and hooked to it, thus giving the teamster a solid place to rest the neck of each can while emptying it. It saves the cans from getting bruised also. A stiff iron hoop is fastened to the top bar of the crane and the funnel head sets in it. Where the funnel tube passes the crane standard a strong leather strap is passed over it and buttoned on to a screen, thus binding it firmly. The milk flows into the weigh can instead of being carried there and dumped into it. When the door is closed it is swung in from the weather.

Dealing With Waste Lands.

Austria gives an object lesson in dealing with waste lands. Prizes are given to farmers to encourage them to recover waste lands, and lay them down as pasturage, and also to erect shelters or stables for cows in high altitudes. The importance of this may be seen from the statement that one-quarter of the total fodder required for cattle and horses in the empire is derived from Alpine districts.

Honest Help.

Thousands of men are suffering because they lack the courage to make known their early errors and to endeavour to remedy them. Nervous weakness, loss of manhood and the many ills due to early discretions, excesses or overwork can be quickly, successfully and permanently cured if you will only let the right people know what ails you. Write to me in confidence and I will tell you free of charge how to get cured. I have nothing to sell, but am desirious of honestly helping you. Perfect secrecy assured. BIG PROFITS ON Small Investments

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within a short time as by successful Speculation in Grain, Provisions and Stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED can be made by our Systematic Plan of Speculation

originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system.

It is a well-known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 to $100,000 or more by those who invest a few thousand.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plain are persons who live away from Chicago and invest through brokers who thoroughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.

WRITE FOR CONVINCING PROOF, also our Manual on successful speculation an our Daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers. ALL FREE Our Manual explain margin trading fully. Highest references in regard to our standing and success.

"SUN" LIFE Assurance Co'y of Canada.

The Rev. J. L. Murray, of Kincardine, Ontario, assured in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, in December, 1874, under Policy No. 1406, on the Twenty Year Endowment plan, paying an annual premium of $69.90 for ten years. He paid into the Company in all $699. In December, 1894, his Endowment matured, and he received a cheque from the Company for $1,364,70, being a return of all the premiums paid, and in addition, $665,70. That is to say Mr. Murray got back all the money he invested, with about 4½ PER CENT. COMPOUND INTEREST, and had his life assured for $1.000 for twenty years free of charge.

It is needless to say that Mr. Murray was much pleased. You may gather that fact from the persual of his letter hereto appended. QUERY:—How many of the people of Peterborough invests their money to better advantage?

N. B.—This is an example of profits paid under our Five Year Distribution plan. The results under our Reserve Dividend (or Semi-Tontine) policies may reasonably be expected to greatly exceed that realized under the above plan.

KINCARDINE, JAN. 6th, 1895.

The Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, Montreal.

GENTLEMEN:—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your cheque in full settlement of claim under my Ten Payment Twenty Year Endowment policy, No. 1406, and I desire to express my satisfaction with the result of my investment. I paid to the Company an annual premium of $69.90 for ten years, making a total of $699, for which I now receive a cheque for $1,364,70, being a return of all I have paid the Company, and in addition, $665.70, besides having had my life assured for $1,000 during the twenty years. This I consider very good indeed, and I have pleasure in giving my testimonial to that effect.

Yours sincerely,
(Signed,) REV. J. L. MURRAY.

CANDY FOR CHILDREN.

The Popular Health Magazine says the desire in a child for candy and sweets is a natural one and should not be stifled. Good candy and sweets in moderation, not only do no harm, but are actually beneficial. Too much sweet upsets the stomach and spoils the appetite, but candy in moderation if it is not taken before a meal, is food which children crave naturally, and among the purest and most wholesome is that manufactured by

CHURCH CHIMES.

Rev. J. J. Rae has returned from Norwood, where he was conducting Harvest Home Festival services yesterday.

The evening anthem in the Charlotte street church was entitled "As Pants the Heart," and was rendered most harmoniously.

"Jesus Knows our Sorrows," was the title of a very finely rendered anthem at the Park street Baptist church yesterday morning.

Mr. John Miller took the solo in the anthem "Incline Thine Ear" in splendid voice at the Charlotte street church yesterday morning.

Miss Hendren, of Lakefield, sang the solo "Eternal Rest" most effectively last evening during the offertory in the Charlotte street church.

Next Sunday evening in St. John's the sermon will deal with the work of Dr. Barnardo's Homes, one of a series of services on behalf of these institutions.

At a meeting of the Decoration Chapter of the Guild of St. Luke's, last week, Miss Henrietta Peck was unanimously selected president and Miss Fisk, secretary, for the ensuing year.

Rev. Mr. Pady preached to a very large congregation on Sunday evening in the Park street Baptist church. He took as his text the words, "The Son of Man is come into the world to seek and save that which was lost."

The annual harvest festival at St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, will be held on Thursday evening next at eight o'clock. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. Arthur Baldwin, rector of All Saints church, Toronto, and the public is cordially invited to attend. All seats free. The offertory will be devoted to the rectory enlargement fund.

Yesterday afternoon an interesting children's harvest thanksgiving service was held in St. John's church at 3.45. The pupils of the Sunday school were all present, some of the South Ward School and about seventy of the inmates of Hazel Brae marched down and occupied seats in the front of the church. The service consisted of short prayers, several children's hymns and an address by the Rector. The children of the Home also sang one of their hymns very sweetly. At the conclusion of the service the children took great delight in walking around the church viewing the decorations.

Rev. Mr. Roberts, of Belleville, occupied the pulpit of the Charlotte street Methodist church in the morning, yesterday, and of the George street in the evening and preached eloquent and effective sermons. At the conclusion of each service he took occasion to explain the purpose of his visit to Peterborough. It appears that Albert College, Belleville, has outgrown its present premises and the Board of Management have decided upon the erection of a new $30,000 addition. To this amount Belleville citizens and others contributed $15,000, leaving a balance of $15,000 which Mr. Roberts is endeavouring to secure. An additional sum of $5,000 is required to convert the old buildings into a college residence.

PRICKED HIS SIGHT

Diabolical Self-Torture By Train Robber Curtis.

WOULD GIVE SIGHT FOR LIBERTY

Procuring Two Saddler's Needles He Boldly Liberately Thrust Them Into His Eyes, Believing That Blindness Would Ensure His Becoming Free,

Auburn, N.Y., Sept. 23.—Ever since Oliver Curtis Perry, the train robber, returned from Matteawan to a closely guarded cell in Auburn Prison, he has been in a morose mood varied by frequent outbreaks of violence.

The most desperate act he has ever attempted was committed Tuesday. He procured a short stick, through which he thrust two saddler's needles, the same distance apart as his eyes and then, holding this peculiar instrument of torture in his hands he repeatedly prodded his eyes with the sharp points. A keeper heard the commotion in Perry's cell and he promptly put a stop to the horrible self-punishment. Prison physician Sawyer attempted to make an examination of the bleeding, lacerated eyes, but Perry was obstinate and would not submit. He begged to go to the hospital, but was removed to one of the isolated cells. Here he was put under the influence of chloroform, when it was discovered that the needle had not yet destroyed the sight of either eye, but the result will probably be blindness of one or both eyes. Perry believed if he put out both of his eyes and became blind the Governor would have pity upon him and exercise clemency by commuting his sentence. He says that if blind he would be unable to commit any more crimes. The prison officials are more than ever of the opinion that Perry is insane, and it is probable that he will again be sent to the Matteawan Asylum.

FIVE KILLED BY A LANDSLIDE.

A House at St. Luce, Que., Carried Away—Three Children Escape, But One Goes Insane.

Three Rivers, Que., Sept. 23.—A land slide of large extent occurred Saturday night at 9 o'clock on the Champlain River at St. Luce, in the county of Champlain, carrying with it the house of Zephirin Normandin, and burying five members of the family in its ruins.

Three of the children, who heard the noise, escaped by jumping through the windows, one of whom has become insane by the calamity.

The five dead bodies have been dug out. The river is completely blocked and other land slides and an inundation are feared.

Six Chicago Brothers Drowned.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Five boys and a young man perished in the lake Sunday afternoon while seeking relief from the heat on shore. They went out on the lake off Lawrence-avenue Lakeview, in a boat. When 300 feet from shore all of them took off their clothes and jumped into the water. A big wave came rolling shoreward while they were swimming around the boat and swept them under.

MANY DISAPPOINTED.

Toronto Fair Visitors Hoped to See the Manufacture of a Well-Known Product.

Toronto, (Special) Sept. 23—Many regrets were expressed by visitors to the Industrial Fair that Dodd's Medicine Company of this city did not have a display of their well-known Dodd's Kidney Pills, the remedy which has by this time become so widely and favourably known for the absolute cure of all complaints of the kidneys, even in the most acute stages. A rumour was current that a public exhibition of the manufacture of the remedy would be given, but the restricted space this year prevented the possibility of such a scheme. Those who went away disappointed at not seeing the manufacture of their favourite remedy will have to wait till next year.

A FIREBUG CAUGHT.

Clever Capture Made By Hamilton Police.

TOOK THE INCENDIARY RED-HANDED

Secured Two Parcels For $200, Then Saturated Them and the Floor With Oil—An Inch of Candle Was Lighted and the Room Locked.

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 24.—By a clever piece of work on the part of the local detective department a professional firebug is behind the bars at No. 3 Police Station last night. He was captured about 6.30 at the Stuart-street station with a ticket for Toronto in his inside pocket.

The prisoner is an Englishman about 30 years of age, fair, with a swagger air about his personage, and he gives his name as R. Lester.

On Sept. 5 he arrived in the city and registered at the St. Nicholas Hotel. Two days later two packages supposed to contain American periodicals, arrived for him and he went to the office of the Confederation Life Insurance Company and from Seneca Jones, the agent, had $200 insurance placed on the parcels. Then the young man engaged from George Smith, one of the proprietors of the hotel, a room at 25 1-2 King William-street, and on Sept. 9 the parcels were removed to the room.

The stranger was heard to remark to a confederate something about firing the building by saturating the parcels and the floor with coal oil and placing a candle on the floor.

On Saturday Detective Doyle and P.C. Bleakley took a position in a vacant room opposite the one leased by Lester, cutting a hole so they could see the whole operations of the young man.

They waited till last night before anything dropped. At 6.15 the young man entered his room. He put on his silk hat, struck a match and lit the candle which was about an inch and a half from the floor. Then he went out and locked the door. The detectives then entered the room and put out the candle. Inspector McMahon, Detectives Campbell and Reid were reconnoitering outside. Lester went to the St. Nicholas Hotel and told the clerk to put the keys of the room in the safe. He boarded a street car. Detectives Doyle and Bleakley proceeded him to the station and the others followed him, where he was arrested.

Lester complained to the police this afternoon that he had lost $50 in an Augusta-street resort a few days ago.

Five Counterfeiters Arrested

Philadelphia, Sept. 23.—The plans of a dangerous gang of counterfeiters was nipped to-day by the Government by the arrest here of Max Frankel, Jacob Freedman, Moses Rosengarten, Jacob Friedberg and Frank Silberman. The men arrested here were the leaders of a gang which numbered about 20. The other members of the gang have been located. The arrest of the members was brought about by information furnished by David Firestein of Landisville, N.J. Three weeks ago the men persuaded him to allow them to set up their plant for manufacturing the counterfeit. Firestein communicated with the United States district attorney in this city and upon his advice pretended to enter into the plans of the gang. He did this with the result of arrest of the above five.

Deep Waterways Convention.

Cleveland, Sept. 23.—The International Deep Waterways Convention opens here to-morrow. Between 400 and 500 delegates are expected, including many scientists and marine engineers. The opening will be preceded by a banquet given by the Chamber of Comemrce. Mayor McKisson will deliver an address. Responses will be made by Mr. Oliver Howland of Toronto, International President; James Fisher, Q.C., M.P., on behalf of Canada; and E. V. Smalley, on behalf of the United States. The early part of the day will be taken up by the adoption of rules, appointment of committees and the reading of letters. R. C. O'Brien, President of the New York Stock Commission and ex-Commissioner of Navigation, said he thought the convention would favor the Lake Champlain and Mohawk routes, which would give the great lakes two outlets—one at New York, the other at Montreal. J. D. Rockefeller of New York will be elected president for the next year. The Chamber of Commerce will give a formal reception Thursday night.

Six Chicago Brothers Drowned.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Five boys and a young man perished in the lake Sunday afternoon while seeking relief from the heat on shore. They went out on the lake off Lawrence-avenue Lakeview, in a boat. When 300 feet from shore all of them took off their clothes and jumped into the water.

IRON AND THE N.P.

How the Tariff Has Operated Against the Consumer.

HARDWARE HAS DOUBLED IN PRICE

Everything Containing Iron Has Gone Up 50 to 100 Per Cent., Thus Adding Three or Four Million Dollars to the Taxes Borne By Canadians.

Ottawa, Sept. 24.—The positive harmfulness of protection is well illustrated by the history of Canada's desperate efforts to tax her iron industry into greatness. All she has succeeded in doing has been to tax herself very nearly to death. In the low tariff period from 1867 to 1879 pig iron was free while a 5 per cent. duty only was imposed upon bar and rod iron. Coal was free, too. Coal and iron are raw materials of every manufacture and by making them as cheap as possible the low tariff Governments gave encouragement to the establishment of manufactures. Agricultural implement factories in particular sprang up here and there, and foundries and rolling mills began to make their appearance. Unfortunately for Canada a Protectionist Government came into power in 1878, and in overhauling the tariff, duties $2 per ton were placed on pig iron, 17 1-2 per cent. on bar iron, and in proportion, on other forms of iron, or manufactures of it. But it is the fate of a protective duty to go on enlarging itself until it bursts. In 1883 the duty was reinforced by a bounty of $1.50 per ton. As the development of the iron industry still failed to satisfy the Government, Sir Charles Tupper in 1887 resolved on drastic measures, and brought down to the House a new iron schedule. By it pig was taxed $4 per ton (or 14.50 per long ton in which form pig iron is bought); puddled bars $9 per ton; bar iron $13 per ton; plate iron $13 per ton; cast iron pipe $12 per ton; hoop iron $13 per ton, and everything else in proportion. At the same time the bounty was reduced $1 per ton.

This new tariff, Sir Charles Tupper assured the House, was going to do the trick. He predicted that the iron industry which would spring up in consequence would furnish employment to "an army of men, numbering at least twenty thousand, increasing our population from 80,000 to 100,000 souls, and affording the means of supporting them in comfort and prosperity." He declared that were we to manufacture all the iron and steel articles imported, "and there is no reason why we should not steadily progress to that point, the population I have mentioned of 100,000 souls, would be no less than trebled." He prophesied that blast furnaces would be called into existence in Carleton, N.B., British Columbia, Manitoba, Cobourg, Kingston and Weller's Bay. All this was to be done without the cost of iron and steel being increased to the consumer.

How different was the realization! The first effect of the tariff was to very nearly double the price of every piece of hardware, from a ten-penny nail up. It in the course of a year or so all but wiped out the important iron and hardware importing business of the country. This prejudicially affected the shipping interests, and the profits of the steamship lines began to decrease until they disappeared altogether. One of the chief lines of steamers is now in liquidation largely as the result of this attempt to force these blast furnaces into existence. By affecting the shipping interests it added to the cost of transportation of wheat to Great Britain and thus reduced the farmers' profits on grain. Thus this iron schedule can account these among its accomplishments: It has increased to the Canadian consumer the price of every article in the manufacture of which iron enters, from 50 to 100 per cent., thus adding not les than three or four million dollars per year to the taxation borne by the Canadian people; it has ruined the iron and hardware importing houses, it has burdened the manufacturers who use iron, it has seriously injured Canada's shipping interests, and it has lessened the price of every bushel of Canadian wheat exported.

And unfortunately for the protectionist apologist he cannot say in reply: "But, is not all this more than compensated for by the blast furnaces which nightly crimson the sky at Carleton County, Welle's Bay, Cobourg, Kingston, Manitoba and British Columbia, by the 100,000 souls maintained in 'comfort and prosperity?' If all that Sir Charles predicted in the way of development had come to pass the game would still have been too dear for the candle. But not even one of George Johnson's lynx-eyed enumerators could discover the 100,000 people or the blast furnaces. They never materialized and Sir Charles' prediction was put on the shelf along side of his other famous prophesy made in 1879, that in 15 years the Canadian Northwest would be exporting 640,000,000 bushels of wheat annually.

The iron duties worked to the enrichment of one class—the home-makers of hardware. It did not greatly assist the production of pig iron, which was nominally its object. For this there was a very good reason. The protectionists who in selling want to have the people obliged, under penalty of fine, to buy from them at their own price, are not in buying ignorant of the virtues of Free Trade. The rolling mill men, the nail combinesters, the makers of tubings, etc., saw clearly enough that the effect of such a tariff as that proposed would be to greatly increase the price of that which they had to sell; but they saw with equal clearness that if the cost of their iron were increased their position would not be improved. They therefore journeyed to Ottawa, and as gratitude for past favors, as well as a a lively expectation of further favors to come, impelled the Government to treat them with marked consideration, they got what they wanted.

A clause was inserted in the schedule which, while it in no degree lessened the effect of the duties, deprived the producers of pig iron of most of the benefits they anticipated. The duty on scrap iron was left at $2 per ton. In consequence, the rolling mills in place of using iron made from Canadian pig imported scrap from the ends of the earth and used it in preference. We have the authority of Mr. Foster, the Finance Minister, for saying that in consequence gross discrimination no bar iron was made in Canada from Canadian puddled bars. The manufacturers of hardware bought their raw material almost at free trade prices, and they sold their output at the highest point the extreme tariff permitted. To make sure that they should get every cent possible from this condition of affairs, which they doubtless knew was too good to last, they formed a series of combines to regulate prices, and bulldose wholesalers from any attempt at importation. These combines, as they existed a year or so ago, were made up as follows:

Wire and nail combine: Pillow & Hersey, Montreal; Peck, Benny & Co., Montreal; Montreal Rolling Mills Co.; Dominion Wire Manufacturing Company; the Ontario Tack Company; Hamilton; the Ontario Lead Pipe and Barbed Wire Company, Toronto; the Ontario Bolt and Forge Co., Swansea; Parmenter & Bullock, Gananoque.

Canadian Tack Combine; Pillow & Hersey, Montreal Rolling Mills, Peck, Benny & Co., the Ontario Tack Company.

Horse shoe combine: Pillow & Hersey, Abbott & Co., Peck, Benny & Co., Montreal Rolling Mills.

Pressed wrought spike combine: Peck, Benny & Co., Pillow & Hersey, Abbott & Co., Montreal Rolling Mills, Abbott & Co., the Ontario Forge and Bolt Company.

Bar iron combine: Pillow & Hersey Company, Abbott & Co., Montreal Rolling Mills, Peck, Benny & Co.

The above list gives a very good idea of all those who profited by the enormous addition to the public taxation made by Sir Charles Tupper while laboring under the excitement of a prophetic spell.

So outrageous was this schedule that the Government was obliged at the session of 1894 to amend it. By the new tariff then adopted, pig iron secured a duty of $4 and a bounty of $2 per ton, making the total protection $6 on the net ton; the duty on scrap was raised to $3 per ton, for the remainder of 1894, and to $4 per ton beginning January 1st, 1895; the bar iron duty was reduced from $17 to $10 per ton; puddled bars reduced from $9 to $5, and the other iron and steel duties equalized. This is a much more symmetrical schedule than the one it replaced, but it will fail almost as lamentably in its attempt, to give employment in the iron industry to 20,000 men. Iron was cheapened so greatly during the last few years that despite the excessive protection, of $6 per ton, Canadian iron cannot hold its own let alone supplant the imported article. In Montreal Scotch iron is very largely used, though American is beginning to get a strong footing; but in Ontario American iron is almost exclusively employed in manufactures. It can be bought in Pennsylvania and laid down in Toronto with all charges paid for less than would have to be paid there for the Canadian article. Is it not therefore as clear as that two and two make four that the effect of this duty is to handicap every Ontario manufacturer to the extent of $4.62—the amount of the duty—on every long ton of iron he possesses. The American manufacturer gets his iron from $1 to $5 a ton cheaper; his coal costs him 60c a ton less, and in consequence he can manufacture much cheaper than can his Canadian rival. The latter finds it difficult to compete in the Canadian markets notwithstanding the excessive duties on manufacturers of iron; and when it comes to exporting he would not be in it for a single second had the Government not granted him relief by a device which illustrates the uselessness and costliness of protection. By an order-in-council passed last fall, the Canadian manufacturer can recover on exported goods 99 per cent. of the duties paid for raw material. The Government in making such a regulation destroyed completely its own theory that the protective duty does not add to the cost of the goods, and they dealt a deadly blow as well at the native iron industry, the encouragement of which has been the ostensible object of the legislation of the past 16 years. Mr. George E. Drummond of Montreal, at the last meeting of the Quebec Mining Association, said that the "way in which this enactment is framed, and the manner in which it works are most detrimental to the development of the Canadian iron industry in its broadest sense." He said, furthermore, that it "simply serves to nullify the protection and encouragement to the Canadian iron industry, granted by the Dominion Government itself at the last session of Parliament."

While the manufacturer is thus handicapped, the consumer of iron articles is being unmercifully fleeced. The duties collected on iron and steel, and manufactures of same last year, 1894, were only about $100,000 short of $3,600,000. The consumer is therefore between the upper and the nether millstone, the customs tax grinding above, the manufacturer below. The sum of about $3,000,000 ground out of him into the treasury gives but a faint idea of what is squeezed out of him by the iron combines and trusts. The latter must amount at the lowest figure to another $3,600,000.

To sum up, we have been trying for 16 years to develop the Canadian iron industry by taxing foreign iron. During the last eight years of this period we have had excessively high duties on iron, and manufactures of iron, with the further assistance of a bounty. The only results have been to bleed the general consumer of millions of dollars, to handicap the manufacturer, and to destroy our importing and shipping interests, while the native pig iron industry is no further ahead than it probably would have been under free trade conditions. All this disturbance of normal trade conditions, all this destruction of genuine industries, all this rolling on of taxes has been for the benefit of the congeries of combines which are in their own way useful to the Government at election times, by supplying not only generous donations to the campaign fund, but a treasurer to administer it as well.

DR. BARNARDO'S BOYS AND GIRLS.

At the Provincial Synod of the Church of England, held last week at Montreal, the subject of juvenile crime was discussed and the question of the culpability of the English waifs brought to the Dominion by charitable organizations. As considerable prejudice has been created in some minds against the boys and girls brought out by Dr. Barnardo, the publication of a few extracts may not be thrown away.

In the first place the Deputy Minister of the Interior has stated that in his opinion the percentage of convictions among children brought to Canada from the English Homes is less than 2 per cent. Goldwin Smith and Mr. Howland after investigation both stated that they believed the children to be carefully selected.

At the first conference in child saving work in Ontario, Judge Macdonald, of Brockville, said: "I have been on the bench for twenty years and a good many children have been brought before me from time to time. I do not remember to have ever seen before me any of the girls that have been imported in connection with this work, (the English Child Saving Homes.) I have seen some of the boys, but I have not the slightest hesitation in saying that there is not half as large a proportion of these boys brought before me as our Canadian boys. I have made enquiries from others and what I have been able to learn, bears out my experience."

Mr. Massey, of the Central Prison, Toronto, says, "My observation and knowledge of those lads leads me to believe that they are as pure, if not purer, in morals, than the average Canadian boys. What our city-bred youths do not know in the way of vice and immorality, these boys imported from Homes in England cannot teach them."

Finally, Miss Rye asserts that of the 3,000 girls she has placed in this country through her Niagara Home during the twenty-six years of patient and unremitting labour only two have found their way to the penitentiary.

The concurrence of testimony, says the Ottawa Citizen, on the part of so many observers, whose opinion is formed from long experience and intimate knowledge of the subject, should dispel the suspicion commonly entertained that the children brought out by Dr. Barnardo and others are tainted with vice and lower the standard of morality among our youthful population.

MANY DISAPPOINTED.

Toronto Fair Visitors Hoped to See the Manufacture of a Well-Known Product.

Toronto, (Special) Sept. 23—Many regrets were expressed by visitors to the Industrial Fair that Dodd's Medicine Company of this city did not have a display of their well-known Dodd's Kidney Pills, the remedy which has by this time become so widely and favourably known for the absolute cure of all complaints of the kidneys, even in the most acute stages. A rumour was current that a public exhibition of the manufacture of the remedy would be given, but the restricted space this year prevented the possibility of such a scheme. Those who went away disappointed at not seeing the manufacture of their favourite remedy will have to wait till next year.

CONTRACTOR GRANT SHOWS HIS HAND.

WON'T PERMIT A CONNECTION TO BE MADE WITH THE SEWER.

He Wants it to Lie Idle for a Year as a Test, and Claims the Contract Upholds Him in This—Feels Sore Over not Getting the Contracts for the Other Work.

At a special meeting of the town council called last evening there were present, the Mayor and Councillors Cahill, Best, Phelan, Dawson, Clinkscale, Sawers, Stone and Mason.

The following

were read and referred as appended:

From C. M. McFadden and R. Sheehy, asking for the appointment, respectively, of inspector over the addition to the sewer under contract by Bogue & Rutherford.

Referred to the Committee on Appointments.

From John Montgomery, asking for a couple of week's holidays.

Referred to the Committee on Appointments.

From G. M. Roger, asking what compensation the council proposes to make to John Pollock and his wife, who were thrown from their conveyance on the Hunter street bridge through an illeged defect in the planking, and seriously hurt.

Referred to the Joint Committee, with power to act in conjunction with the town solicitor.

ACCOUNTS

were presented as follows to the Finance Committee:

Councillor Stone scored the Street Inspector for not keeping the sidewalks in better repair, but Councillor Dawson pointed out that the sidewalks were impossible to watch in all parts of the town at once, as a plank might give way an hour after the Street Inspector passed over it. Both he and Mr. Best thought the inspector was doing all in his power to keep the sidewalks up.

Councillor Best rose to ask what were the terms of the town's contract with the Water Company and what rights the municipality possessed in regard to interfering with their pipes. It was no use, he stated, in letting further contracts for the sewer until the matter was settled, as, necessarily, the sewer would cross water mains and gas pipes. It was as well, he thought, to know at once whether any action would have to be taken to protect the property of these companies.

The Town Solicitor will look into the matter.

Councillor Stone brought up the old matter of the C.P.R. sheds encroaching on Wolfe street, to the damage of certain adjacent properties, and his motion, seconded by Councillor Dawson, was carried as follows:—"That the solicitor be instructed to notify the C.P.P. that this council insists on a definite reply at once to his former letter in respect to their sheds on Wolfe street, and that they are required either remove their sheds or arrange with the property owners affected by the same, without delay."

Councillor Cahill asked when the Collector's roll would be in readiness, and was informed by the clerk that it was and would be turned over as soon as a collector had been appointed, formally, for the year. The councillor, also, inquired of the clerk if he had received any answer to the communication he had addressed to the Ashburnham council re the debt owed by that village to the town. No answer had been received, and on motion it was decided that an answer be asked for with the intimation that fire protection would no longer be accorded the village until a settlement was reached.

Councillor Mills asked that when the sewer was being constructed on George street between Charlotte and Brock that the soil as it was thrown out be carted away to a side street in order that George street be not blockaded. This, he explained, was done in Toronto and other large cities.

Councillor Dawson cried out against the expense entailed and stated that the work would be done so expeditiously that the excavation would be filled in very rapidly as the work proceeded.

In accordance with a suggestion of Councillor Best a clause will be added to all providing for the protection of the sidewalks and street car tracks from the soil thrown up by the excavators.

NEW SEWER CONTRACTS

The question of putting in a large trunk sewer on George street instead of laying two smaller pipes as advised by Engineer Macdougall was once more re-opened and the mayor, as well as Councillors Stone, Dawson and Phelan, urged strongly in favour of the former project and advocated the tearing up and doing away with the old sewer entirely.

Councillor Best reminded the other members that he had advised the holding of a meeting of the Committee of the Whole in order to thrash the whole matter out, and settle upon some definite scheme. On his motion a meeting of this committee has been called for Wednesday evening next.

Mr. Cahill had heard that the Mayor had received a letter from Contractor Grant, and enquired as to its contents.

Mr. Kendry stated that the missive had been addressed to Councillor Best and himself, jointly, as representing the town, and had been from Mr. Grant's solicitor stating that his client would brook no interference whatever with the sewer work, and would not permit the second section to be joined to it until the town had taken the portion which he himself had built off his hands. The contract, Mr. Edwards explained, called for a guarantee of the sewer for one year, and the holding back of 5 per cent. of the payments for it until the

EXPIRY OF THAT TIME.

Mr. Grant, he said, seemed to be under the impression that the sewer was not to be used during the year of its guarantee, but he assured the council that although the contract did not specifically state that the sewer was to be used still as there could be no test without using it, he thought Mr. Grant's contention very poor law. The gist of the matter lay in a nutshell—the contractor thought he was going to put in the whole sewerage system himself, and when he found the contracts going elsewhere he sought to put all the stumbling blocks in the way of the council that he could.

Councillor Best thought the contractor should get his money as soon as the sewer was inspected. If it was in good condition now it would be in good condition a year from now.

Mr. Phelan did not see it this way at all, and thought Mr. Best's reasoning most illogical. Even if the sewer was perfect when inspected, serious imperfections and flaws might develop before the end of a year. He strongly advised holding the contractor to the terms of his contract.

Councillor Cahill agreed with Councillor Phelan, and on his motion was instructed to take charge of the letter and guard the town's interests in the matter.

THE TOWN SOLICITOR

Mr. Dawson stated that he understood a coal oil house had been erected on the property of the town. He asked who had given permission to have the building put up.

Councillor Best stated that the time to ask the question was when the storehouse was being erected in May last. For himself he did not even know who owned the building.

Councillor Dawson thought a great deal of contempt was being shown in the council.

Councillor Best understood that it was connected in some way with a claim of the C. P. R. to half an acre of land in that vicinity for cattle yards.

The matter was finally referred for investigation to Councillor Dawson, chairman of the Property Committee.

Councillor Sawers had also a question to ask. He wanted to know whether he had the authority to have his

CHARITY ORDERS DELIVERED

by the town team.

On motion of Messrs. Cahill and Sawers, the town teamsters will be instructed to deliver wood on the order of the chairman of the Charity Committee.

Mr. Dawson rose to enquire by what right teamster Montgomery left his post to act as a county constable. If the corporation paid a man to work for them he had no right to leave his post. Mr. Dawson also drew the attention of the council to the fact that the local constables were, in his opinion, exceeding their duty in pouncing on every stray and out-of work and arresting him. He considered that the constables who figured in the Ashburnham affair had acted most indiscreetly in making big men of themselves and trying to arrest some men who were peacefully sleeping in a meadow and disturbing no one. The business of the country was at present depressed and many honest men were out of work. He would like to have the constables notified that in the future it would be well for them to act with more discretion in making their arrests.

Mr. R. B. Edwards, town solicitor, asked for a committee to consult with in regard to the Carbon Coy. matter. He explained that his actions would of necessity be governed from a legal standpoint, whereas the council might wish to adopt a certain course as a matter of policy.

On motion of Councillors Cahill and Dawson, the Property Committee will act with him in the matter.

The council then adjourned.

BRITONS AT THE BAT.

The College Cricketers Defeat the Phillies.

END OF THE FOUR DAYS' MATCH

They Hit Up 220 Runs and Had Two Wickets to Spare—Great Display of Patient Play by the College Men—To Wilson, Arkwright and Bonce Goes the Credit.

Philadelphia, Sept. 23.—The Oxford-Cambridge cricketers redeemed their defeat by the University of Pennsylvania by beating the Gentlemen of Philadelphia in the match which has been in progress since Friday, and ended to-day. The Philadelphians scored 234 runs in their first innings and 138 in the second, a total of 372.

The Englishmen made 156 runs in their first, and when they went in to-day for their second they wanted 217 runs to win. They scored 220 runs, with two wickets to spare.

The bat throughout the match was terrific. Thirty-five hundred persons were present to-day to see the concluding day's play. The wicket had held good throughout Friday and Saturday, and did not get cut up to-day. The wicket did hold fairly good, and it was only towards late in the afternoon that it began to get bumpy and dangerous.

The first pair of batsmen this morning were Hill and Mitchell. From the very start it was evident that the Englishmen were determined to pull off the match if possible, as they all played on the defensive when the ball was on the wicket, and only hit out when it was off. Mitchell was the first man to lose his stumps, being retired on a fine catch by Bohlen off Patterson after he had made 12. Milligan took Mitchell's place. Hill had accumulated 22 with more patience than he usually shows, when he was caught at short slip by Wood off Patterson.

The Englishmen's star batsman Druce followed. This pair raised the score to 71 before Patterson succeeded in shattering Milligan's wicket after the latter had made 20. Phillips joined Druce, and this pair kept the stumps up until luncheon, when 95 runs had been scored. After luncheon Druce and Phillips continued to score slowly, until the latter was caught in the slips by Wood off Patterson. The total was now 100 for four wickets, and Wilson came in. Druce began to score more rapidly, and frequent changes of bowlers took place. When the score was at 140, Druce was taken finely at mid-off by Brockie off King. Druce had made 57 runs by a good exhibition of cricket.

The hard-hitting Hemmingway followed, and he had only made 6 when Bohlen made a superb catch of a hard cut through the slips off King.

With Druce and Hemmingway out of the way and six wickets down for 146 runs, the spectators began to feel a comfortable assurance in the success of the home players, but a change speedily came over the condition of affairs after Arkwright and Wilson had played a few overs. Wilson stubbornly refused to hit at anything that would endanger his wicket, and presented a stonewall defence to the bowling. Arkwright hit more freely and rapidly, and ran his score up. The stand made by these two men practically won the game for the Englishman, for they had run their total up to 202 before Arkwright was caught by King in the slips off Bailey, for a well-played 85.

Seven wickets were now down, and the Englishmen wanted but 15 runs to win, and this, in view of their playing, seemed an easy task. Robinson partnered Wilson. Runs slowly succeeded, until Robinson scored the one that tied the score. Robinson thought a drive over the ropes would be a fine way to win the match, and he opened his shoulders and drove furiously at one of Bailey's, with the result of sending it high into the air, and into Altemus' hands. Eight wickets were now down and the score was a tie. Lowe and Hartley were still to come, and, as both were rather weak batsmen, the spectators hoped against hope that they might be disposed of without a run, and the game made a tie. Lowe came in. He slipped the first one, and Patterson by a desperate effort cut off a run. Then King put one to leg, but there was no run until Lowe lifted the ball to the boundary, winning the game by four runs and two wickets. The bowling of the Philadelphians to-day was poor.

Next Friday, Saturday and Monday the Englishmen will play their third and deciding match with the Gentlemen of Philadelphia on the grounds of the Merion Cricket Club at Haverford Station, Pa.

SWINDLED IN THE NAME OF THE Y.W.C.A.

A Toronto Woman Arrested in Stratford on a Charge of Obtaining Money By Fraud.

Stratford, Sept. 24.—On Saturday a woman who gave her name as Miss Anna C. Gorman, president Dominion Y.W.C.A., Toronto, visited a number of citizens soliciting subscriptions on behalf of the association. Her list purported to be headed by W. J. Ferguson, who is well known, and on the strength of his name others were induced to subscribe.

It afterwards transpired that Mr. Ferguson's name had been forged and suspicion was aroused. The fact of the woman having ordered a bottle of whiskey sent to her room at the Windsor Hotel, where she was registered under the name of E. W. Graham, Toronto, furnished an additional cause for suspicion. The police were notified, and she was arrested on the eve of leaving for London, for which place she had purchased a ticket. On being taken to Police headquarters she acknowledged she was a swindler and was remanded to bail pending a formal hearing. The prisoner said she had similarly worked other towns and her intention was to do London. She is about 25 years of age, and rather good-looking and very lady like. To-day she was reported as too ill to be arraigned.

It is also stated by the physicians that this season is one in which the kidneys are peculiarly susceptible to disorder.

THE SECRET OUT!

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from various prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story:—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	Per Cent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life	2.63	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

W. H's Life Policy for $10,000, issued April, 1889, Age 23, Annual Premium $177,

Total Cost for 6 years.....1,062 Dollars

A. E's Life Policy for $5,000, issued April, 1886, Age 22, Annual Premium $86.

Profits Added to Policy.....1,000 Dollars
More than 200 Dollars over Cost of Insurance.

PETERBOROUGH'S DISTRICT FAIR

Scores the Highest of Successes.

THE MIDLAND DISTRICT CAN BOAST OF NONE TO EQUAL IT.

This Year it is Greater Than Ever and the Attendance is Far Above the Average—The Entries Numerous—Specialties Attract Great Attention—The Mossom Boyd Exhibit—The Formal Opening.

The great Peterborough Central Exhibition is scoring its greatest success this year. The entries in every class are nearly all in excess of those of last year and the standard of quality is such in many cases as to call forth special commendation from the judges. The special features are far away above the average of those seen at similiar exhibitions and, as Jupiter Pluvius was kind enough not to exert any of his dampening influence, the attendance was unprecedented in size and the directors, though nearly run off their feet with business, all wear a pleased look indicative of the great success which they are being told on every side is being scored.

Shortly after noon the crowds began to pour into the grounds and the formal opening took place shortly after one o'clock

THE FORMAL OPENING.

A platform had been erected against the outside southern wall of the building. After the band had played a few airs in front of it, Mr. Geo. Elliott addressed those assembled, stating that Messrs. Jas. Kendry, Major James Stevenson, M.P., and J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., had conformed to a request of the fair directors to formally open the exhibition.

Mr. Stevenson was the first speaker. After warmly congratulating the promoters of the fair on the success which it was attaining, he expressed regret at the absence of Prof. Robertson, of the Experimental Farm, whom they were expecting, but who was necessarily absent. He spoke at some length on the cheese question, regretting the low price, which, however, he explained was not the fault of the makers, but was owing entirely to the low figures prevailing in foreign markets. Mr. Stevenson also spoke of the effort the town was making to obtain for the farmers a half fare rate to Peterborough on Wednesdays as well as on Saturdays. He trusted that the railways would grant this concession before the next Fair was held.

Mr. J. R. Stratton in opening expressed the regret, which he felt all experienced, at the unavoidable absence of Mr. George A. Cox, on whom the directors had conferred the distinguished honour of opening what was, he believed, the best exhibition held east of Toronto. Mr. Cox had done much to develop the town and as the property of the country advanced hand in hand with that of the town, he knew that Mr. Cox was as much appreciated in the country as in the town. He regretted that the exhibition buildings were not of a sufficient size more suitable to the demands of the extent to which the exhibition had grown. He advocated a scheme whereby the town and county should unite to provide more adequate accommodation in the future.

He was glad to hear Mr. Stevenson acknowledge that home prices were governed by the foreign markets, as this was not an admission easy to obtain from the Canadian Government. Mr. Stratton advocated the feeding of the grain to cattle for dairying projects instead of selling it at the low prices which prevailed. He dwelt on the fact that the cheese and butter industry was steadily on the increase, and urged the farmers to embark more fully into the dairying business.

Mayor Kendry was then introduced, and after expressing the pleasure it gave him to congratulate the directors on the large turn out in attendance, Mr. Elliott, President of the Association, also came in for some warm congratulatory praise for what he had done for the exhibition, which, he stated, had advanced wonderfully in the last few years. His worship then declared the exhibition formally opened, and the crowds dispersed to see what was well worth seeing.

The Crystal Palace is much improved by the flooring over of the waste space or well in the second flat. But even by the gaining of this additional space there is still not room enough as the exhibit of ladies' work is larger this year than ever before and is very much crowded. The work is of a far better class than formerly being fresher and better assorted, a marked improvement in quilts being noticeable. The fancy work exhibit is very large and crowds its limited space to the utmost, thus not showing up as well as it otherwise might. Three of the large corner spaces down stairs are occupied respectfully by the firms of Hall, Gilchrist & Co, Gough Bros. and R. S. Williams Piano Co'a. The other corner is divided between the Frank S. Taggart Co. and the Salada Ceylon Tea Co. In the north-east corner of the building are the dairy exhibits. The quantity of cheese exhibited is not great, but it is well up to the mark in quality, being well preserved and free from cracks. There is a plentiful exhibit of butter and the quality is fair, though, some think, not up to the high standard which might be expected in a dairy district like Peterborough.

The grain is a little small this year, but but of extra fine quality, one lot of spring bearded wheat, testing 64½, which is a pound, or a pound and a half above what would be estimated a perfect sample. Mr. Wm. Davidson, who is one of the judges, states that he has never seen so fine a sample of this variety.

The vegetable exhibit is a large one indeed occupying the north-west, south-west and south-east corners of the building. Even the floor is covered by the exhibits and never before were there so many entries in this class. The potatoes are extra fine this year and in quantity and quality take precedence of any previous exhibit ever made at the fair. The pumpkins are not plentiful but are a fine size. The squashes are something tremendous and the turnips are also very large this year as well as the mangold wurtzels. The entire root crop in fact, is most satisfactory.

The fruit exhibit is upstairs and is a fair one—a little small perhaps but still, in the opinion of the judges, the most perfect specimens which have ever come under their notice.

Wm. Faint, of the Ashburnham Woolen Mills, has an exhibit on this flat, as has the Singer Sewing Machine Company, and Mr. Elcome, taxidermist, more extended notices of which will appear in another column.

The principal floral exhibitors are Mr. Head, of the Nicholl's Hospital, Percy Hamilton and Jordan Bros., and the art flowers, this year excel in beauty and variety those of any other season. The designs in which they are worked up to, show off their beauty to the best advantage, certainly do great credit to the exhibitors.

HORSES.

The entries in this class were not up to those of last year in number, although the individual specimens ranked far higher.

In thoroughbreds T. H. Hassard has entered his well known stallion. There are no other entries.

Among the roadsters were Peter Drummond's year old gelding, J. Tully's two year old filly, Stewart Bros.' colt, F. Birdsall & Son's brood mare, with foal by her side, A. Morrison's two year old entire calf, W. W. Moore's two year old filly, James Baptie's stallion, two year old entire colt and a horse, Robert Vance's two year old filly, Mrs. W. J. Cox's two year old gelding, C. Caldwell's stallion, John Patten's brood mare and foal, S. McClelland's two year old entire colt, T. H. Hassard's mare and foal, John Haygarth's one year old entire colt, J. Breckenridge's one year old filly, and Alex. Patterson's stallion.

The carriage horses are unusually fine this year, their splendid style and action being particularly noticeable. In this class are Peter Drummond's one year old filly, three year old driving horse and single carriage horse, Jas. F. Dougherty's pair of carriage horses under 15½ hands, G. W. Green's team of ponies under 14½ hands, L. G. Steele's carriage horse under 15½, J. Tully's mare and foal, James Wood's mare and foal, Dundas & Grandy's single pony, F. Birdsall & Son's colt of 1895, W. H. Coulter's span, W. W. Moore's two year old filly, W. W. Shearer's Canadian bred horse, Wm. Shearer's single horse, Wm. Russell's single horse 15½ hands and over, Jas. Baptie's stallion and horse, F. E. Cline's single horse under 15½ hands, Irene Walton's ladies' saddle mare, John B. Fowler's brood mare and foal, W. C. Dixon's saddle horse, Thos. Cochrane's single carriage horse, Maybee & Southard's single horse, Chy. Caldwell's stallion, Sydney Bennett's pony, Samuel Deyell's single carriage horse 15½ hands, R. Leary's saddle horse, John Whitfield's carriage horse, John Leith's mare, A. P. Morgan pair of ponies, Andrew Cameron's stallion, Ada McBain's saddle horse, J. Breckenridge's one year old filly, Levi S. Bowles' two year old gelding, Dr. Fraser's pair of carriage horses, Wm. Read's brood mare with foal, Geo. Lipsett's three year old driver, G. A. Read's two year old filly, Miss Edgar's saddle horse, James Fife's single driver, Thos. R. Mann's three year old driver, R. H. Nesbitt's single carriage horse, and also a saddle horse, W. W. Shearer's two year old driver, D. Kennedy's single driver, under 15½ hands, C. Westington's single driver, W. A. Richardson's single carriage horse and Alex Patterson's stallion.

In the Hackney class Levi S. Bowles entered his stallion.

In agricultural horses the following gentlemen exhibited:—Jas. F. Dougherty, Wm. Graham, Stewart Armstrong, Fred Anderson, Stewart Bros., Jas. Baptie, Jno. B. Fowler, Jno. A. Fowler, Read Bros., Ernest Lawrence, Geo. E. Elliott, Levi S. Bowles, Jos. Barnard, Thos. E. Jory, G. A. Reid, R. Garbutt and John Walker.

In heavy draught horses the exhibitors were Messrs. A. James, Morris O'Brien, Geo. Jaffrey, Dundas & Grandy, W. M. Shearer, John Whitfield, T. H. Hassard, Ernest Lawrence, Jas. Tully, Thos. E. Jory and M. Boyd & Co.

CATTLE.

In cattle the entries this year were just about the same as last year, but, as in other classes, the exhibits ranged far higher in quality, and appeared to be in even better condition.

In Durhams the exhibitors were F. Birdsall & Son and R. Garbutt.

The Ayrshire exhibitors were Messrs. W. C. Rightmeyer, J. Breckenridge and A. Humphries.

In Jerseys exhibited, Mr. Robert Fife and Hinman Bros. showed their fine herd of fifteen animals which were greatly admired. Mr. W. C. Rightmyer, W. C. Head and R. Dobbin also exhibited.

The exhibitors in Holsteins were Stothard Bros., who showed eleven fine animals, and Andrew Cameron.

In grade cattle the following exhibitors showed:—Messrs. J. R. Goodfellow, Jas. Head, John A. Fowler, Mrs. James Moore, Mrs. W. J. Cox, Stothard Bros., John Hoygarth, W. C. Taylor & Son, Wm. Dawson, Andrew Cameron, W. C. Rightmyer, W. Head, Sophia Boward, A. Humphries, S. D. Rightmyer, and J. F. Davidson.

SHEEP.

The exhibits of sheep were above the average in quality and in number were in excess of last year. M. Boyd & Co.'s fine flock of Merinos attracted general attention, their strange appearance being greatly commented upon amongst those to whom they were new.

Leicesters were shown by John Fairbairn, James Wood, David Forsythe, Andrew Cameron, Allin Bros., J. Breckenridge and Thos. E. Jory.

Cotswold exhibitors were Messrs. James Murray, F. Smallwood, S. Matchett and Robert Vance.

In Southdowns the following exhibitors made a good showing: L. M. Curtis and R. L. Holdsworth & Sons.

Oxford Downs were exhibited by F. Birdsall & Sons, who had fourteen entries in this class, and had the field to themselves.

Shropshire Downs were shown by Brown Bros., Robert Vance, Levi Skinner and W. J. Miller.

Fat sheep of any breed, was a well filled class, being exhibited by L. M. Curtice, James A. Russell, James Murray, F. Smallwood, S. Matchett, Levi S. Skinner, David Forsythe, W. J. Miller and A. Humphries.

SWINE.

Both swine and poultry were good exhibits being well up to last year. A large number of the individual specimens which were shown were of a very high grade and would doubtless have been sure prize winners at any of the larger exhibitions.

M. BOYD'S EXHIBIT.

In securing the novel exhibit of M. Boyd & Co. for the Central Fair, the directors scored a great point, as in the line of specialties nothing could have commanded more attention. First and foremost of course was the big buffalo bull, probably the largest of the species ever seen in captivity, being about four times the size of the animals usually seen at exhibitions. All morning the bull was kept in close captivity in his stall, as last night he grew so wild that nothing could be done with him. His progeny, too, out of a grade cow were more interesting to look upon. Then there were the merino sheep, fat tail sheep, Persian lambs, Angora goats and wild-looking long horned cattle from the west Highlands. The jumping English pony, too, was a marvel and excited great admiration by his clever manner of taking the hurdles.

OUR FIRE BRIGADE TO THE RESCUE.

HAVELOCK SAVED FROM THE FIERY ELEMENT

The Bush Fires Subdued by the Peterborough Fire Brigade—Heroic Work by the Boys—The Villagers' Fight with the Flames—Two Dwellings Destroyed—The Methodist Church and Parsonage Damaged—Intense Excitement in the Village.

The hustling little village of Havelock was in the throes of intense excitement and anxiety yesterday, caused by the terrible bush fires which were raging, and which it was thought would sweep the village out of existence.

The little village is situated in the centre of a district which is pretty thoroughly surrounded by bush. West of the village a bush fire had been smouldering. The high wind which blew yesterday and in a short time the whole bush was a roaring mass of flames, which greatly resembled the dreaded prairie fires of the west.

The fire spread with lightning rapidity and it was not long until it reached the village. Men, women and children turned out to fight the flames, and every pail and bucket was brought into use. Splendid work was done by the villagers, but the sparks fell like rain on the dwellings, and the brave fire-fighters were unable to cope with them.

In the meantime the village authorities had telegraphed to Peterborough for assistance, and, as mentioned in yesterday's issue, the steamer with hose were taken down by C. P. R. train.

The members of the Peterborough fire brigade arrived at Havelock, about 2.30, and the steamer was taken from the flat car and soon placed in position at the creek which runs through the village.

During this time, however, two dwellings had fell a prey to the flames, Mr. A. Corbett lost his house, as well as Mr. Robt. Douglas, who lives just opposite Mr. Corbett.

The sparks also lodged themselves in the roof of the Methodist church of the village as well as the parsonage, but they were saved from destruction by although they were considerably damaged. Swift & Co.'s ice house was also in danger of destruction, but was happily saved.

The Peterborough firemen soon set to work after their arrival and performed splendid work. The smoke blew in clouds, and it was hard at times to observe a house, but they fought bravely, and although almost suffocated, the men did not desist until they had saved the village from destruction and almost entirely subdued the flames.

When the fire got thoroughly under way the villagers almost lost hope and only looked for the destruction of the village to follow, but after a stubborn and brave fight the flames were subdued.

Havelock is loud in its praise of the heroic work of the Peterborough firemen. The engine worked like a charm and gave no trouble whatever, and the streams thrown were good ones.

After the flames had been somewhat subdued, the citizens set to work to provide for the comfort of the visitors.

After partaking of some supper and a short rest, preparations were made for their return to town, and it was about one o'clock this morning when the train bearing the fire engine and the members of the fire department arrived at the C. P. R. station, participating in with fire in the history of the local brigade.

A resident of Havelock, who arrived in town to-day, in conversation with an EXAMINER reporter, said:—"We all expected to have no homes down there this morning. I tell you it was a terrible sight to witness, as the flames licked up everything on their way. We have a brave lot of women down there, too, and it was a grand sight to see them work with the pails. Your town ought to feel proud of its fire brigade, and you may rest assured that Havelock does. They saved our village and we not going to forget them."

ACCIDENT AT HOWEY'S MILL.

A "Setter" is Seriously Injured Through the Rolling of a Log.

About four o'clock Thursday morning a terrible accident occurred in Howry's mill, the victim being an unmarried man, about 27 years of age, named Lawrence Welsh, who came from Saginaw, Michigan, not long ago.

He was the "setter" on the north carriage, and the accident was caused by a log, which was much thicker at one end than at the other, turning across the carriage when canted by the "nigger," and, coming into contact with the sawyer's lever, turned on the steam and set the carriage in motion.

The log was broken in half, the whole mill shook, and Mr. Welch was thrown so violently against his own lever on the carriage (and probably against something else) that the flesh on the inside of his left thigh, just below the groin, was frightfully lacerated, his skull was fractured above his right eye, his upper lip was split and his face cut in two or three places.

Fortunately, the main artery in his thigh was uninjured, but it was stripped off its fleshy covering and so exposed to view that the pulsations of the blood in it could be plainly seen. As the fracture of the skull is without "depression," it is not considered serious, and as the flesh wound, though very extensive and terrible to look upon, is not necessarily fatal, the doctors have strong hopes that with proper care their patient may recover, though some considerable time must necessarily elapse before they will be able to pronounce him out of danger.

PERSONAL.

His Honour Chancellor Boyd, is a guest at the Oriental Hotel.

Miss Grundy and Mrs. Jackson wish to remove an impression that the sale of their surplus furniture has created that they are leaving Peterborough. They will be found to their friends next door north, to where they have been residing, 500 Aylmer street, until the completion of their new residence corner of McDonel and Water streets.

Strength for the Aged.

As age advances the recuperative power of the body decreases. Fatigue clings like a burr to the already depleted store of energy, still further wasting and dissipating it, and, in consequence, the elderly find it very hard to keep their spirits up to the "doing" point. An anchor of hope and safety is found in the energizing action of Maltine with Coca Wine, which imparts, almost magically, strength and vigor to the failing powers, and through its nutritive and tonic properties renews those functional activities upon which depend health of body and mind. Maltine with Coca Wine rapidly restores appetite, improves digestion, imparts tone and vigor to the nervous syttem; in a word is a strength giver of unequalled excellence. Maltine with Coca Wine is prescribed and recommended by physicians. All druggists sell it.

THE AUTUMN ASSIZES.

A Large Docket of Cases Brought Before His Honour Chancellor Boyd.

The Autumn assizes opened this afternoon before His Lordship Chancellor Boyd. There was a very large attendance of people present, no doubt the majority of which were interested in the Gray trial. After the summoning of the grand jury His Lordship stated that it was not his intention to charge the jurors upon their duties to-day but would relieve them until 9.30 to-morrow morning. The following gentlemen represented the bar: R. M. Dennistoun, W. A. Stratton, W. R. Riddle, Q.C., Toronto, Geo. Edmison, D. W. Dumble, R. M. Ruddy, Millbrook, R. R. Hall, A. J. Armstrong, Cobourg, J. E. Hodgins, Toronto, W. S. Gladman, E. B. Edwards. Mr. R. C. Clothe, Q.C., Toronto, is conducting the Crown business.

The non-jury cases will be proceeded with this afternoon, the first to be taken up being that of Reynolds vs. Reynolds. Mr. E. B. Edwards is acting for the plaintiff, while Mr. W. R. Riddel, Q.C., and A. J. Armstrong are conducting the defence.

On the arrival of the Judge, Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., and Mr. Geo. Elliott, president of the Agricultural Society, waited upon His Honour and requested that he would be good enough to adjourn the jury business of the court in order to allow the grand and petit jurymen and witnesses to attend the opening of the exhibition. His Lordship cordially received his guests, and in deference to the great interests represented, at once assented to the adjournment requested.

Desecration of Shakespeare.

They are making a great outcry in London against what they call "a desecration of Shakespeare." The management of the Alhambra is about to produce a ballet entitled "Titania," founded on the fairy episodes of "A Midsummer Night's Dream." This is pronounced "a degradation of the poet to the variety hall level." And yet the great Garrick did not hesitate to produce a piece of exactly the same description in which the characters were all played by children, and there was no such outcry over it. Shakespeare will not be desecrated by such a splendid illustration of his fancy and imagination as this Alhambra production is sure to be. There is overmuch of cant about Shakespeare, even by those who do not make any very wry faces when he is transformed into Italian opera, with all its absurdities. And to think that Sir Arthur Sullivan is going to degrade his art, also, by writing the music for a new ballet to be produced at the same house. By the way, in a country where the ballet is so much liked it is strange that no enterprising manager has as yet given us that species of entertainment on the same gorgeous scale that has made it such a thing of beauty and so popular in Europe. Who has not seen a ballet at the Alhambra has not the remotest idea what the thing means.—Boston Herald.

The Defence of a Bookkeeper Charged With Theft.

London, Ont., Sept. 24.—The preliminary trial of Alex. W. McEachern, the alleged defaulting bookkeeper of the Bell Organ and Piano Company's branch in this city, was held to-day before Judge Parke, and resulted in the prisoner being sent for trial. The chief point of the defence was that McEachern was nothing more than an incompetent bookkeeper, and the evidence bore this out in part at least. The bail required was reduced to two sureties of $300 each.

HOLMES' MURDER TRIAL

Will Commence in Philadelphia Monday, Oct. 28.

Philadelphia, Sept. 24.— Herman W. Mudgett, alias H. H. Holmes, was arraigned before Judge Finletter, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer on the indictment charging him with the murder of Benjamin F. Pietzel in this city, on September 2, 1894. Upon the advice of his counsel, William H. Shoemaker, and Samuel P. Rotan, the prisoner pleaded not guilty. District Attorney Graham asked that Monday, October 28, be fixed for the beginning of the trial. Holmes counsel objected to this date, but the judge after hearing argument on both sides, stated that he thought Oct. 28 would give the defence sufficient time in which to prepare its case. He then ordered that the trial be set down for that date, with the understanding that when the time arrived neither side could expect to come into court and obtain a continuance on paltry excuses.

Seven Drowned at Geneva, N.Y.

Geneva, N.Y., Sept. 24.—Seven persons were drowned in the lake here yesterday by the sinking of a yacht which was run down by a steamer.

STOLE RAILWAY FRANCHISES.

Burglars Steal Civic Papers Necessary to a Law Suit.

St. Louis, Sept. 24.—Saturday night the office of the clerk of the House of Delegates in this city was entered by parties unknown and all the desks and lockers were rifled. Valuable papers principally copies of franchises with street railways, are missing. The city is pushing the companies to fulfill charter agreements, and the loss of these papers leaves the city powerless to enforce ordinances. Several million dollars are represented in the lost papers.

TO BLOW UP THE SULTAN.

Plot Discovered to Destroy His Palace With Dynamite.

London, Sept. 24.—The St. James Gazette prints a dispatch from Constantinople saying that the Turkish police officials have discovered a plot among Macedonians to destroy by the use of dynamite the Yildiz Kiosk, the palace of the Sultan, and the Government buildings. As a result of the discovery, the most extensive precautions have been taken at the Yildiz Kiosk to prevent any damage to the palace and possible injury to the Sultan.

Justifiable Homicide.

Wellsboro, Pa., Sept. 24.—The postborrough of Tioga, in this county, had another sensational murder last Saturday night. Four young men, Grant Helman, Deland, and Peter Gee and William Mosher, while intoxicated, drove to the home of Mr. Mordecia Canedy. They intimidated Mr. Canedy and finally entered the bedroom of Mrs. Canedy and made proposals to her. She managed to secure a revolver, but Mosher grappled with the woman, and in the struggle for the possession of the weapon Mosher was shot in the breast, the bullet passing through and severing the spinal cord. He died in twenty minutes. To-day the coroner's jury acquitted the woman, retuning a verdict of justifiable homicide.

A WOMAN'S AWFUL DEATH.

In Looking Over Rocks She Fell. Every Bone in Her Body Being Broken.

Stroudsburg, Sept. 23.—Death in an awful form was met by Miss Effie Mason, at Mount Pocono, late yesterday afternoon. Miss Mason, in company with a lady and gentleman, was taking a walk. The party went to Paradise Tunnel, a mile and a half from Mount Pocono.

In loking over the rocks above the tunnel Miss Mason lost her balance and fell a distance of 40 feet, just on the outside rails of the northbound railroad track. The gentleman reached her side in a few moments, but upon examination it was found that life was extinct. Almost every bone in the unfortunate woman's body was broken. Miss Mason was about 55 years old.

BABY IN THE WELL.

Calmly Slept While the Town Was Secured For It.

Boston, Sept. 23.—While all night Saturday and all Sunday morning a posse of officers searched Roxbury for little 3-year-old Willis Desett, who was mised from his home in Rockville-street at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, the unconscious cause of the alarm lay peacefully sleeping 'way down in the bottom of an unused well, twenty-five feet below the surface of Mr. Dessett's own backyard.

It was 3 o'clock Monday when persons passing through the Dessett yard heard a faint voice as if from the ground. The missing child was found at the bottom of an abandoned well. When he was rescued it was found that the baby was positively unharmed.

President Faure to Attend the Czar's Coronation.

Berlin, Sept. 24.—With reference to the report that President Faure had decided to visit St. Petersburg next spring, and had arranged with the Russian Foreign Minister for a grand demonstration of the United French, Russian and Danish fleets at Copenhagen, the Paris correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger telegraphs that President Faure will be escorted by a French squadron to Copenhagen, whence, after visiting the King and Queen of Denmark, he will proceed to St. Petersburg and thence to Moscow to attend the ceremonies of the coronation of Czar Nicholas II. During his stay in Russia President Faure will be lodged in the Imperial Palace. He will return by sea, visiting en route the Swedish and Dutch sovereigns. The same special says that M. Hanotaux, the French Minister of Foreign Affairs and Prince Lobanoff, the Russian Foreign Minister who is now visiting France, have agreed regarding Armenian and East Asian affairs. France, it is said, will support Russia's inevitable attempts to oust the Japanese from Corea in return for which Russia will aid France in her attempt to dislodge the British from Egypt.

Necessity of Irrigation.

The absolute necessity of facing droughts and dry spells is evident. We can no longer speak of irrigation as a western topic. Here we are in the middle of '95, after a terrible destructive series of frosts, with no rains to start our second plantings. I am trying to devise methods for preventing my berries from drying up. But the pipes that are laid are useless because my wells are low, and springs and streams dried up. My plan is to build reservoirs to hold a storage from early spring, and to deepen my wells. The cost will be considerable, but the advantage will be far more than compensative. The reservoir or reservoirs standing near my well can be filled by pumping, and the wash from the barn roof can be conducted into them. The windmill over my barn carries power down into the workshop, and from there to do pumping. Water can be carried on the siphon principle from the reservoir to the berries. But I see no surety ahead of safety except in deep wells. The upper part of my barn well I shall enlarge and cement, so that it will be a cistern practically, losing no water by percolation. This subject should be discussed, and we cannot be too prompt about our action. There is always water enough beneath our feet.—American Agriculturist.

"Five years ago I was taken so ill with rheumatism that I was unable to do any work," writes Peter Christensen, Sherwood, Wis. "I took three boxes of Ayer's Pills and was entirely cured. Since that time, I always keep them in the house." They are easy to take.

NOT A WIN FOR LONDON A.C.

N.Y.A.C. Athletes Capture Eleven Straight Heats.

New York, Sept. 23.—Never in the annals of athletics was such a decisive beating administered in an event of so much importance and to such an aggregation of champions, as that given by the N.Y.A.C. to the team of the London Athletic Club in the dual international games at Manhattan Field Saturday.

Fully 12,000 people were present to-day at the field.

From the time that Charley Kilpatrick won the half-mile down to the moment that Conneff broke the tape, a winner in the three-mile run, the 11th and last event of the day, the interest never flagged, and the applause never waned. Of the 11 events on the program, only three were looked upon in the light of certainties for the Americans, viz., the high jump, shot and hammer. The half-mile and mile were regarded as pretty good things for the home club but by no means certainties, while the other events were considered to be very open. That the Mercury Foot would capture all the 11 of the reel was certainly not even bited at.

The following are the summaries of the contest:

880-yards' run—Charles Kilpatrick, N.Y.A.C., 1; Frederick S. Horan, London A.C., 2; H. S. Lyons, N.Y.A.C., 3. Time 1m. 58 2-5s. New record.

100-yards' run—B. J. Wefers, N.Y.A.C., 1; Charles A. Bradley, London A.C., 2; John V. Crum, N.Y.A.C., 3. Time 9 4-5s. Ties record.

Running high jump—M. F. Sweeney, N.Y.A.C., 6 ft. 5 5-8 in., which is now the world's record, 1; S. A. W. Baltazzi, N.Y.A.C., 5 ft. 10 in., 2. New record.

1-mile run—T. P. Conneff, N.Y.A.C., 1; George W. Orton, N.Y.A.C., 2. Time 4m. 18 1-5s.

220-yards' run—B. J. Wefers, N.Y.A.C., 1; J. V. Crum, N.Y.A.C., 2; G. Jordan, London A.C., 3. Time 21 3-5s. New record.

Putting 16-lb. shot—George R. Gray, N.Y.A.C., 43 ft. 5 in., 1; W. O. Hickok, N.Y.A.C., 42 ft., 2; F. J. Watson, London A.C., 34 ft. 7 in., 3.

120 yards' hurdle race—Stephen Chase, N.Y.A.C., 1; Godfrey Shaw, London A.C., 2; W. J. Oakley, London A.C., 3. Time 15 2-5s.

Throwing 16-lb. hammer—J. S. Mitchell, N.Y.A.C., 137 ft 5 1-2 in., 1; H. P. Cross, N.Y.A.C., 124 ft. 10 in., 2; George S. Robertson, London A.C., 94 ft., 3.

440-yards' run—Thomas E. Burke, N.Y.A.C., 1; Gilbert Jordan, London A.C., 2; W. Fitzherbert, London A.C., 3. Time 49s.

Running broad jump—E. P. Bloss, N.Y.A.C., 22 ft. 6 in., 1; L. P. Sheldon, N.Y.A.C., 21 ft. 11 in., 2; W. J. Oakley, London A.C., 21 ft. 6 1-4 in., 3.

SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE

The Great Health Restorer of the Century,

Sickness Cannot Cope With It—Has Cured the Worst Cases on Record—Cures at the Nerve Centers, and Thus Cures Permanently—A Wonderful Specific in All Cases of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Nervousness and General Debility—Has No Equal as a Spring Medicine.

There is a great deal of uncertainty in the methods adopted to remove disease. Doctors are not free from this kind of thing themselves. The poor patient has to put up with a good deal of experimenting. The discoverer of South American Nervine takes too serious a view of life to play pranks of this kind. He does not think that these human bodies of ours should be fooled with. He has recognised that they are subject to disease, but by scientific methods he has learned that just as the watch is to be put in perfect repair only when the main spring is kept in running order, so with the individual, he remains in perfect health, only when the nerve centers are kept healthful and strong.

What disease is more distressing than indigestion or dyspepsia? Some simple remedy may be given to cause relief for the moment. Nervine is an indisputably successful remedy for the worst cases of indigestion, because it reaches the source of all stomach troubles—the nerve centers. Indigestion exists because the vital forces have become diseased and are weakened. Nervine builds up the nerve centers, from which comes these forces, removes the causes of indigestion, and then builds up the health completely.

How many systems are run down through nervousness. A stimulant may give ease, but it will not cure nervous troubles. Nervine has cured more desperate cases of nervousness than any other medicine anywhere. And it does so for the same reason that it cures indigestion. The nerve centers are deranged, or there would be no victims of nervousness. Nervine rebuilds and strengthens the nerve tissues, and hence its marvellous powers in diseases of this kind.

In the spring of the year the strongest suffer from general debility. The blood, through neglect, has become impoverished and the whole system gets out of order. We speak of it as a spring medicine. Nervine restores the exhausted vital forces that have led to this tired, don't-care, played-out, miserable condition. No one can take a bottle of Nervine at this season of the year without disease quickly giving way to abounding health.

The moral is plain, simple and readily understood. If you would not trifle with disease, then you will take South American Nervine, which will not trifle with you.

The Popular Health Magazine says the desire in a child for candy and sweets is a natural one and should not be stifled. Good candy and sweets in moderation, not only do no harm, but are actually beneficial. SPECIAL EXHIBITS.

HAMILTON'S AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.

If variety of manufactures gives diversity of employment, develops the character and adds dignity and wealth to nations, Peterborough is contributing its share in a very rapid manner to the dignity and wealth of Canada. One cannot look at or imagine the diversified and tastefully arranged displays of manufactured goods at this fair without being impressed with the intelligent skill and ability of resource displayed in the splendid products of our people. But while every exhibitor deserves mention, the Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company deserves marked and particular mention for the unique character, perfect mechanism and largeness and variety of their display of agricultural implements. It is needless to say this exhibit was of special interest to the farmers. In every portion of this district the Peter Hamilton Company's implements and machines are known and used, and where ever their agents go they have no difficulty in disposing of their favourite manufactures, because every article is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction. Their splendid display this year is made doubly interesting from the fact that it is not only larger and more diversified, but contains most of the company's large exhibit shown at the Toronto Industrial Fair. The crowds which were attracted to their exhibit in Toronto and the many highly complimentary comments made respecting its excellent character must have been a pleasure to all concerned. The same interest was renewed at our Fair yesterday and the farmers never tired of inspecting and viewing the different implements. Their splendid display included the latest models combining the newest improvements. The material and skilful construction emphasized the fact that no farmer need go out of this county for the best agricultural implements made and the highest efficiency in labour-saving machinery for the farmer can be obtained almost right at his own door. This fine exhibit was in charge of Messrs. Alex. Gillespie, T. E. Fitzgerald and A. Nicholls.

TURNER'S TENT EXHIBIT.

Turner & Son don't pretend to want "the whole earth," although they do a mighty lot of hustling; but it may be safely stated that they covered more of the earth on the Central Fair grounds than any other exhibitor. In addition to their over extensive exhibit, their tents were pitched in every part of the field and were used by exhibitors for showing their goods, so great has become the general demand for them and the extent to which they are used Not only in Peterborough, but all over a large section of the territory Turner's tents are known and owned by hundreds. Yesterday, the grounds were white with these tents, and the various styles shown were so interesting a sight that crowds were continually attracted to their exhibit and made themselves at home inside their spacious canvas, or reclining around inspecting the different shapes and designs. Their splendid exhibit was one of the features of the fair. It was the largest and most complete they have ever made, and reflects great credit on the name of Turner & Sons. It was an indication of the push and energy characteristic of the firm, and was entitled to the large amount of attention and praise which visitors bestowed upon it. We presume that one of almost every style and shape of tent which they manufacture, was erected and equipped on the grounds, from the large marquees for exhibition purposes to the smallest garden tent. Square wall tents, very roomy and cosy, with walls 6 feet high; lawn tents, in fancy striped duck; two new tents of English style, with projecting awnings; comfortable compartment family tents, just like a portable canvass house, with bedrooms divided into compartments; refreshment or dining tents for social occasions, which opened out in admirable shape and present a fine appearance; garden tents, in fancy stripe, very pretty for garden or lawns; round tents, with and without walls; the Northwest tent, for lumbermen, surveyors, contractors, etc. They also showed samples of their well known tent and camping goods, camp beds, folding cots, waterproof clothing, horse and waggon covers, camp stoves, reclining chairs, camp stools, chairs and tables, for all of which they have received the highest awards wherever exhibited. The exhibit was in charge of Mr. J. Turner, jr., and quite a little array of assistants.

GRAFTON & CO.'S CLOTHING.

Among the outside exhibits this year was that of the well-known clothing manufacturers, Messrs. Grafton & Co., representing their Peterborough branch, situated at No. 387 George street, under the management of Mr. W. E. Conway. Grafton & Co's new departure of exhibiting their clothing in a mammoth tent was quite an innovation, and proved to be another evidence of the shrewdness and sagacity of the firm in securing eligible positions right in the thick of the crowd, and "where people most do congregate." Their tent was pitched close to the "crystal palace," so that no one who came to the Fair could go away without seeing Grafton's exhibit. The tent was one of Kingscotte's manufacture, and occupied a space of about 30 ft. by 66 ft, and commanded a good position as to ground allocation. When filled with a display of their clothing and dressed and decorated in the skilful and gay manner in which the crowds at the Fairs are accustomed to see it, no one could fail to be impressed with the novelty of the idea and its usefulness as an advertising medium. At night the effect was particularly attractive. Inside the tent Chinese lanterns illuminated the whole interior and cast their unique rays of light in every direction while on the outside a large arc electric lamp poured down its powerful light and made everything bright as daylight. A record of over forty years has established, beyond much controversy, the fact that Grafton & Co.'s "hand-made and tailor-cut" clothing combines elements of style, durability and attractiveness, with the lowest possible cost for intrinsically good clothing. The success which has attended their branch stores—especially the branch in this town—has no doubt been largely dependent upon the confidence which the buying public has reposed in the reliable character of the clothing which is placed on sale here. Much, too, has doubtless been due to the straightforward dealing and honourable management which has been insisted upon in the conduct of their branch stores. To work up a trade in Peterborough so strictly on the cash principle, that cash in advance to everybody is the rule, required no small amount of faith in the ability of this firm to overcome the prejudices which most assuredly had to be overcome. No one who saw the large exhibit at our fair could be otherwise than favourably impressed with the rapid growth of Messrs. Grafton & Co.'s business in Peterborough. All the leading styles for autumn and winter were fully represented. In men's wear there were overcoats and ulsters in black, brown, meltons, beavers, friese, and foreign and domestic tweeds, all showing good fancy tweed linings and first class fabrics; suits in cutaway sacks, walking coat suits, business suits, Prince Albert frock coats and vests, in fancy worsteds, black worsted diagonals, cassimers, tweeds, etc., well finished, and to all appearances equal to tailor made. In boys' and children's suits they are very strong, special efforts being made, it is said, to produce a choice selection, which is designed in taste and manufactured in superior style. A first prize ticket was exhibited on their display as a testimonial of the merits of their clothing. The arrangement of the exhibit was skillful and tastefully executed, and reflected credit on Mr. Conway and his assistants, whose work in this respect was complimented. Mottoes, badges, flags and banners enlivened the general effect, and the pains and care bestowed to make an artistic display was the subject of general remark. Throughout the show grounds Grafton & Co. had hung out their banners to the breeze, and in the most conspicuous quarters, wherever the eye turned, the name of the firm was reflected in large painted placards, so that "he who ran could read."

NOTES.

The Nicholl's Hospital, through Mr. Head, its painstaking gardener, makes a fine exhibit of cut and potted flowers. A solid bed of a number of varieties, which took first prize, is especially worthy of mention and commanded great attention during the day. Mr. Head is to be congratulated on making so attractive an exhibit without having a hot house to draw upon. Great credit is certainly due him.

Special mention should be made of the very interesting and neat work done by the little children of the Central School under the able management of Miss Warner. Everyone should see this exhibit from such little tots.

Mr. S. D. Carner brought a mammoth pumpkin to the exhibition weighing 113½ pounds, but was too late in arriving to enter it in competition. He, however, was awarded a special prize by the judges.

SIR LANGEVIN AGAIN.

The Hero of Many Scandals Again in Favor.

HE MAY AGAIN GET A PORTFOLIO.

The Governor-General to Be in Ottawa During the Cabinet Meeting—Discussing the New Appointments—Mr. Lowe's Summary Superannuation.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 25.—More than ordinary interest attaches to the meetings of the Cabinet which will be held during the next week or two, and which commences on Friday. That the business to be transacted is important may be guaged by the fact that the Governor-General is making a special trip to Ottawa in order to be readily available for consultation. Among the matters which will likely be determined soon are the filling of the present Cabinet vacancy, date of meeting of Parliament and the appointment of several judicial and other officers.

With regard to the Portfolio of Agriculture public opinion still points to Dr. Montague as successor to Mr. Angers. Relative to the new Cabinet Minister there is considerable uncertainty. It is well known, however, that Sir Hector Langevin would not be unwilling to again assume charge of a department, while Mr. Joncas would promptly vacate his present lucrative editorial chair in order to become guardian of the Great Seal of the Dominion. Girouard of Jacques Cartier could have had a portfolio long ago had he been inclined to take it. He is said to be tired, however, of politics and as stated by your correspondent is generally looked upon as Judge Fournier's successor on the Supreme Court bench. Should he accept the appointment he will without doubt be Chief Justice of Canada before many years are over. The not over-candid Free Press thus speaks of him to-night: "The name of Mr. D. Girouard, Q.C., has been so long spoken of in connection with the Supreme Court that his elevation is only in the ordinary course of events. The bench of the highest tribunal in the Dominion will be strengthened by his presence, as he is one of the most eminent men in his profession, and as a member of the bar, his elevation will leave a void which it will not be easy to fill."

Another subject which the Government will consider this week is the proposed retirement of Mr. Lowe, Deputy Minister of Agriculture. There is no gainsaying the fact that the summary manner with which it was at first contemplated to deal with Mr. Lowe's case has created a feeling of unrest in the civil service. That the first intimation of the intention to superannuate Mr. Lowe should come in the shape of a newspaper dispatch from Winnipeg is considered by many as hardly treating an old and valued public servant fairly, and the feeling in the service is that if an officer can be retired in such a peremptory way without the matter being even mooted to him, other official heads may fall into the basket with equal celerity.

One of the reasons which probably has to do with Lord Aberdeen's flying trip to the Capital next week is the approaching visit of Hall Caine, the well-known author, in connection with Copyright matters. Although Caine cannot be regarded in the light of a plenipotentiary, being simply a representative of the Society of Authors, he will, of course, receive a hearty greeting from the Governor-General and Ministers.

The inspection of electric light meters, under the statute of last year, is making rapid progress in those cities where inspectors have been appointed. In Ottawa the average number inspected per month is 200. Ottawa and Montreal are about on a par with the number of meters in use viz., between three or four thousand. Toronto shows much smaller figures than these.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell left at 1 o'clock to-day by the Canada Atlantic Railway for Chrysler's farm, where he will deliver an address to-morrow on the occasion of the unveiling of a monument to commemorate the engagement which took place there in 1813.

The Hon. John Haggart leaves to-morrow morning, and will also be present and deliver an address.

The Department of Trade and Commerce has received a report from its commercial agent in Christiana, Sweden, in which he states that shipments of Canadian flour recently sent to Scandinavia have given excellent satisfaction and the prospects are good for a large trade in that commodity.

Mr. Joseph Hooper of Port Hope, father of John R. Hooper, now in St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, is in town and will have an interview with the Minister of Justice in reference to his son's case. He carries a letter of introduction from T. D. Craig, M.P.

TO PROTECT THE EMPIRE.

Sir Charles Tupper Objects to a Levy on the Colonies.

London, Sept. 24.—Sir Charles Tupper has returned from a holiday in Scotland, much benefitted, and looks quite himself again. He strongly disapproved of the new attempt to induce the British Government to ask for Colonial money in support of the Imperial Navy. He believes it would be a better way to protect the Empire, in time of war, and encourage inter-imperial trade in peace, to place four vessels like the Teutonic on the Canadian-British Atlantic route. These ships, he pointed out, would be convertible into war cruisers if placed under the British Admiralty subsidies. This view is being strongly urged upon Mr. Joseph Chamberlain and the other ministers; and, seeing the immense and unexpected revenue coming from the Stock Exchange stamps during the present and prolonged South African boom, it is believed that the Government will be able to adopt the proposal and embody provisions in the next budget.

Sir Oliver Mowat has returned to London much refreshed by his visits to Scotland, Switzerland and Germany. He said to-day: "I have had no illness to cause anxiety among my Canadian friends. My friends here say they never saw me looking better. I shall sail for Canada by the S.S. Vancouver on Sept. 26."

"With reference to the questions being asked from Canada, why there is a delay in bringing the Franco-Canadian treaty into operation, I understand the Foreign Office is carefully considering the Canadian legislation of last session, to make sure that it covers the whole ground."

Rosebery May Come Next Year.

London, Sept. 24.—The much canvassed report that Lord Rosebery contemplates a visit to Canada this year is denied by the ex-Premier himself, who, however, states that he is considering a trip to the Dominion in 1896.

RUNAWAY BRIDE CAUGHT.

She Had Jilted Two Lovers on the Wedding Day. But the Third Won.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Sept. 24.—After running away from two lovers on her wedding day, Anna Bolagh tried to run away from the third to-day. A year ago Anna was engaged to a young miner. The wedding day came, but the girl, after trying on her wedding dress, disappeared. Two days later she returned and said she could not marry the man.

The reason, it appeared, was another suiter, and in three months another wedding was arranged. The guests were in the house waiting to go to the church when the bridesmaid announced that Anna had left her room half an hour before and had not returned. Her lover, disgusted, declared the wedding off. In a day or two, as previously, she returned.

In due time it was announced that she was to marry Andrew Zeeliah, a prosperous young grocer. The date was set for to-day, and the girl's parents watched her closely. The carriages were nearly due when she said she wanted to say her prayers, and insisted on being left in the room alone. Her mother and the bridesmaid went out, but stayed at the top of the stairs on guard. They thought she was secure, when they heard a cry downstairs, and rushed back into the room. The bride had stepped upon the porch and swung herself to the ground by the branch of a tree.

Unfortunately for her scheme, her lover was looking for the carriages and saw her. With her father and some guests he started she was carried back into the house she went into a series of fainting fits. The water that they threw on her spoiled her wedding dress. She said she could not be married in that condition, but her parents stripped off the silk dress, put on the best gown she had, hustled her into a carriage, and half an hour later she was Mrs. Andrew Zeeliah.

Suicide of a Policeman.

Toronto, Sept. 25.—Police Constable William Leonard was found dead in a lane between McCaul and Henry-streets at 6.45 yesterday morning with a bullet wound through his head. His own revolver, which was the regulation police weapon, lay between his knees, and an empty chamber showed that the bullet which brought death to the officer had been discharged from it. A Coroner's jury last evening returned a verdict of suicide.

SUICIDE SMUGGLER JACOBS DEAD.

Died in Detroit Jail—He Hailed From Barrie.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 25.—John Jacobs a Canadian who was captured at St. Clair by United States officers while attempting to smuggle 250 pounds of opium across the river in February last, died at the Detroit House of Correction yesterday. Jacobs was sentenced from the United States Court on March 18 last, to serve one year. He has been ill ever since his confinement.

DEVASTATED BY FIRE

A Large Tract of Quebec Burned Over.

SCORES OF FAMILIES RUINED.

The Village of Brault's Mills Completely Wiped Out—125 Houses in Ashes Near Nicolet—Families Obliged To Take Refuge in the Streams—No Loss of Life.

Arthabaska Station, Que., Sept. 25.—It is reported nearly 100 houses were burned down from Stamford to St. Celistin by forest fires of yesterday. At Brault's mills not a single house is left. It was a very hard job for families to get away without getting burned; they found cows and hogs burnt in the fields. Pierre Brault, J. Lamothe, Jos. Desilets and L. Derosiers found their families about 11.30 last night along the river, where they could get a safe place from the fire, also 800 cords of hard cord wood pulp wood, and bark. The worst looking sight ever seen, fire burning yet and place all in smoke.

Kinsey Falls Town in Danger.

Kinsey Falls, Que., Sept. 24.—Not since the great fire in 1881 has this town been in such danger of being wiped out by fire as it was yesterday.

The fire was first noticed Sunday by Messrs. Finley and Chadsey in the woods about three miles from here. They lost no time in dispatching about 20 men and teams to the scene of the fire and from that time till last night it has been a steady fight night and day. The high winds sent it sweeping through the forest and taking everything with it.

Reports coming in this morning are not very encouraging. Much damage has been done for miles around, and large tracts of valuable timber of all kinds has gone up in smoke. It will take some time to ascertain just who are the sufferers. Watchers have been placed all through the woods to prevent further spread of fire. There seems to be too much smoke yet. Should the wind not rise again there is no immediate danger of further damage being done.

Nearly 100 Houses Burned.

Three Rivers, Sept. 24.—Last night extensive fires could be seen on the south shore opposite here, and this morning reports come in of almost appalling conflagration through the country between Arthabaska and the St. Lawrence. At Arthabaska the houses of Pierre Hamel and Mr. Bourassa were destroyed, including barns and contents.

At Riviere Noir, houses and barns were burned, and the whole surrounding forests are aflame. At St. Eulie, there are about 40 houses destroyed with out-biuildings and many animals. At St. Sylvere, one whole range is reported to be swept away.

At Aston in the 6th range the store of Mr. Desilets, stables, etc., were also burned. At Breault's Mills the saw mill and 15 houses and three loaded cars, all the property of Mr. Breault, were consumed. The Three Rivers train on the Arthabaska branch this morning carried a large gang of men, sent to repair the track and culverts, which were burned. At St. Celestin one range was destroyed with 15 houses and barns and a saw mill.

During forest fires between Drummondville and St. Wenceslas, families were obliged to protect themselves by wading into streams.

135 Houses Burned.

Nicolet, Que., Sept. 24.—Extensive bush fires are raging in this locality. At St. Leonard, seven or eight houses are burned. St. Pertute reports of damage to bush and three houses burned. St. Eulalie reports whole range burnt. Over 100 houses and crops burned and destroyed the property of about 50 farmers. As St. Sylvers 35 farmers ruined and burnt out. No loss of life reported.

Fighting the Flames.

Drummondville, Que., Sept. 24.—Fire has been raging in the woods between St. Germain and here since yesterday forenoon. The wind was very strong yesterday. Not much damage done here yet, but the fire is very near Vassal's lumber yard and saw mill now. There are about 100 men working to stop it. There was more damage done in the eighth range of St. Germain, where a few houses were burned.

River Du Loup in Danger.

River du Loup, Que., Sept. 24.—Forest fires are raging in the vicinity and extend for several miles. Fears were entertained during last evening that the Intercolonial and Temiscouata Railway properties would suffer, but fortunately the wind abated. It is rumored that 14 buildings were burned at St. Arsene and farmers at St. Epiphane and St. Modesa have also suffered to a considerable etxent. During the afternoon and part of evening a perfect gale was blowing from the southwest, the citizens feared that a conflagration was immenent and preparations to move were made.

WAS SHE MURDERED?

Mysterious Death of a Guelph Woman in Toledo

Toledo, O., Sept. 25.—The local police are investigating the death under suspicious circumstances here of Mrs. Etta Cook, or Pearson, of Guelph, Ont. The deceased came here with her husband three months ago. It was alleged she had eloped with Cook in 1892. Early in June she was taken ill and four physicians who were called to attend her are said to have quickly dropped the case. A criminal operation is suspected, but by whom the police do not know.

THE SOVEREIGN GRAND LODGE

OF THE INDEPENDENT ORDER OF ODDFELLOWS.

Its Seventy-first Annual Session in Atlantic City.

The Sovereign Grand Lodge of Oddfellows, which assembled at its seventy-first annual session in Atlantic City, N. J., last week, was welcomed by the chief executive of a small but progressive state, by the mayor of the enterprising and beautiful city, by the highest authorities in the order, the Grand Master, Grand Patriarch and President of the State Rebekah Assembly, and by thirty thousand Oddfellows and the citizens generally.

According to the report of Grand Sire Stebbins, every branch of the order is flourishing, exhibiting an increase in the number of its subordinates, as follows:—Subordinate lodges, increase, 207; subordinate encampments, increase, 53; Rebekah lodges, increase, 335; lodge members, 815,947; Rebekah members, 225,409.

There was paid for the relief of brothers, $2,042,251.40; for widowed families, $142,476.75; for orphans, $3,525.48; for education of orphans, $19,055.84; for burying the dead, $556,392.19; special relief, $221,802.51; total relief for the year, $3,985,504.07.

There are 28 homes holding for their use, 3,291 acres of land, the value of which with the buildings is $840,594. In the report the Grand Sire also says: "I call your attention to the order's present condition in Europe. At the extreme north stands the Grand Lodge of Sweden. It joins hands with the Grand Lodge of Denmark. Stepping over Denmark's border you set foot upon the territory of the Grand Lodge of Germany, which is again bordering upon the Grand Lodge of Switzerland. And Switzerland, with many Italian members, sees the order introduced successfully into Italy. The Netherlands are growing in membership. Austria has removed the interdict against our order, and I trust that we will soon enter the Austro-Hungarian land. Truly we have made much progress in our work."

MANY DISAPPOINTED.

Toronto Fair Visitors Hoped to See the Manufacture of a Well-Known Product.

Toronto, (Special) Sept. 23—Many regrets were expressed by visitors to the Industrial Fair that Dodd's Medicine Company of this city did not have a display of their well-known Dodd's Kidney Pills, the remedy which has by this time become so widely and favourably known for the absolute cure of all complaints of the kidneys, even in the most acute stages. A rumour was current that a public exhibition of the manufacture of the remedy would be given, but the restricted space this year prevented the possibility of such a scheme. Those who went away disappointed at not seeing the manufacture of their favourite remedy will have to wait till next year.

SUNK IN SUPERIOR

Steamer Comstock Wrecked Near the Soo —Her Crew Saved.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Sept. 24.—The schooner A. W. Comstock, Capt. W. McArthur, foundered off Stannard Rock, Lake Superior, at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. Her crew of eight men took to the lifeboat, and were tossed about in the heavy sea until 10 o'clock, when they were rescued by the steamer John J. McWilliams. Capt. McArthur was badly hurt, having his leg and three ribs broken. The crew left for Lake Erie on the McWilliams. The lost vessel was in tow of the steam barge Viking, which also had the schooner W. K. Moore in tow. The Moore had all her sails blown away and narrowly escaped foundering. The Comstock was laden with 50,000 bushels of wheat. She was valued at $75,000, and was fully insured.

Important Decision From Washington.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Collector of Customs Molony, of Detroit, recently wrote the treasury department relative to the requirements of consular invoices for an importation of cedar posts received from Lion's Head, Bruce Co., Ontario, where the United States has no consul. The treasury department referred the letter to the department of state. Acting Secretary Hamlin has now written Collector Molony that the Secretary of State advises the treasury department that invoices certified to by the reputable merchants or by the consul of any friendly power may be properly accepted for shipment from places at which no United States consuls are located. This decision is of importance as it establishes a precedent for all Canadian towns for which we have no consuls or consular agents.

Captain Murdered—Vessel Scuttled.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 24.—Captain Benjamin F. Revelle, of this city, has been murdered on board his vessel, which was scuttled and sunk in the Potomac River, near Riverside Park. It is supposed the murderer was a member of the crew and that after committing the deed and robbing the body and boat of all the valuables he could find, he went ashore in a small boat.

FOR ERIN'S FREEDOM

Irish-Americans Convene in Chicago.

WAYS AND MEANS DISCUSSED.

300 Delegates From Various Societies Convene in Chicago to Consolidate All Forces For an Agressive Movement Against England to Free Ireland.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—In the spacious auditorium of the Young Men's Christian Association there were inaugurated this morning the preliminaries of a movement that may be fraught with pregnant results to England and her little possession across the channel, the progress of which will be watched with intense interest by sons of Erin throughout the civilised world. For over a year there has been mutterings of discontent among a large portion of the Irish race in this country, which has been identified in the past with the Home Rule, as well as with more revolutionary movements, for Irish freedom, concerning what has been regarded as the lukewarms, or peace at any price policy of the Irish Parliamentary party. The dissatisfaction failed to evolve into anything more definite, however, until within a few months when, as a result of a general election, the Rosebery Government, which had friendly leanings toward the Irish cause, was replaced by an Administration of those implacable for Irish agitation—the Tories—with an overwhelming majority in the House of Commons at its back. Just as soon as the result of the election ws a foregone conclusion, there was an interchange of opinions between the representative Irishmen in different parts of the country affiliated with the old National League, as well as with the Ancient Order of Hibernians, the Clan-Na-Gael and kindred organizations. This was followed by a conference of those interested and then the Irish race in America was electrified by a lengthy and vigorous "call to action," and to which the signatures of scores of Celts of national reputation were attached. This document declared that the Irish struggle for freedom had reached a momentous period; that the country had been abandoned in the crisis of her fate by the Liberal leaders; that she had been alternately betrayed by the Whigs and dragooned by the Tories; that Parliamentary agitation after long and patient trial, had utterly failed to accomplish its object, and that, therefore, it only remained to consider what other method of procedure or argument could be used to achieve her liberation before she was done to death by the usurping enactments of a foreign and hostile power. To the proclamation was attached a call to Irish Societies of all kinds, political, social, beneficial and literary, to send delegates to a conference to open in this city. The apepal met with a hearty reception, although it was antagonised by an element of the race on the ground that it was more the forerunner of an Irish-American political movement than a genuine effort in behalf of the Mother Isle. Over 1000 delegates were in attendance, selected or designated by sicieties stretching across the continent, and the majority of these have been on the ground for several days. Mayor Fitzpatrick of New Orleans strolled in just before 10 o'clock. Close behind him came O'Donovan Rossa, the old-time revolutionist, looking less fierce and more aged than when in the sixties and seventies his appeals to his fellow-countrymen were a source of continual disturbance to the English Government.

While the delegates were finding their seats in the represenaative state sections a life-sized oil painting of Robert Emmett and a canvass with the inscription "God Save Ireland," together with pictures of Allen, Larkin and O'Brien, the Manchester martyrs, were elevated over the proscenium arch. A flutter of excitement marked the entry of the solitary woman delegate Fanny O'Grady, who represented the United Daughters of Erin.

The convention had been called to assemble at 10 o'clock, but at that hour none of the promoters and but a handful of delegates had put in an appearance. Unrecognized save by a few, P. J. Tynan, whose name is linked with the tragedy of Phoenix Park, and who as "Number One," is known the world over, came in quietly and took a seat in the rear.

At 12 o'clock the convention was called to order by J. J. O'Connell, chairman of the local committee. At that time not more than half of the seats on the floor of the hall were occupied and a large number of those whose names had been given out by the local committee as having registered at headquarters, were conspicuous only by their non-appearance. During the interval of waiting fully 100 cablegrams and domestic despatches wishing success to the new movement, were received and some of the most significant were subsequently read to the convention. From a large number of places in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Pennsylvannia and Wisconsin and some of the Southern States, the dispatches read in this sterotyped form: "God speed the new movement for Ireland, a nasion seperate and independent."

This came from San Francisco: "California sends greetings and with all the vigorous manhood of our race on the Pacific Coast, we endorse the new movement, and ask the convention to declare for Ireland's independence. We have thousands upon thousands of dollars for active work, but not one cent for Parliamentary agitation." (Signed) "Knights of the Red Branch, San Francisco."

Among the cablegrams were the following:

Limerick, Sept. 24.—Limerick men are with you. (Signed) Murphy.

Galway, Sept. 24.—Irish of Galway wish you success. (Signed) M. O'Sullivan.

Cork, Sept. 24.—Munster with you for Irish independence. (Signed) Cork.

Kinsale, Sept. 24.—South Cork with you in struggle for independence. (Signed) Holland.

Paris, Sepa. 24.—Irish colony of Paris join your efforts for Irish freedom. (Signed) Maud Connor.

Dublin, Sept. 24.—The men of Dublin are with you for national independence.

Dublin, Sept. 24.—Mayos men all with you for Ireland as a nation.

In calling the convention to order Mr. O'Connell said it was a spontaneous congress of the people of the Irish race. Borne of the fact that the Irish-Americans were dissatisfied with the parliamentary campaign on the other side and of the further fact that the parliamentary party had betrayed its supporters had proved faithless to its trust. This was greeted with loud aplause which was renewed when the speaker concluded by proposing that out of this convention would be borne and established an Irish republic, built on the plans of this great republic.

As Secretary Sutton read the cablegrams he omitted the names of the signers. A delegate from New York demanded to know who signed the messages and the secretary brusquely responded: "None of your business. The men who signed these messages are not going to expose themselves to the British Government." This was applauded by a portion of the convention and there were no further interruptions.

The reading of the dispatches finished, Chairman Finerty delivered the opening address. He said in part:

"We are here to consolidate all forces for an aggressive move against England whenever we strike her under the law of nations. She is surrounded by enemies. France, Germany, Russia all hate her. For 25 years the foreign policy of America has not been what it should be and if the Government had been as patriotic as is the American nation the day that the British marines landed in Corinto would have heard the broadsides of the American fleet.

"From to-day," concluded the speaker, "let us inaugurate the new movement. Let us work for the esaablishment of an Irish republic, free and independent."

Committees on credentials and permanent organization were appointed and the covention took a recess of an hour.

When the convention reconvened the Committee on Permanent Organiza reported in favor of continuing the temporary officers, and J. T. Finerty resumed the chair. A large number of lagging delegates put in an appearance at the afternoon session and the auditorium was crowded.

The afternoon session was of less than an hour's duration and devoted to the appointment of committees on credentials, rules and other routine business. Additional greetings from Boston, Albany, New York and other cities were read by Secretary Sutton. Some pledged funds without limit for any earnest effort to free Ireland. Others urged the convention to ask for nothing more than complete independence and to accept nothing less; others voiced the sentiment, "Complete separation no matter by what means accomplished."

About 700 delegates representing nearly every state and territory were in attendance at the afternoon session.

UNIQUE SUIT FOR DAMAGES.

Forty Thousand Demanded For the Ruin of a Playground.

Duluth, Sept. 24.—A ruined playground is the basis of a damage suit for $40,000 now on in the district court. The plaintiffs are Amund and Amathilda Olson and the defendant is the contracting firm of Fredin & Wilson, who recently built a block near the Olson home in the east end. The Olsons allege that the land adjoining their home was an excellent playground for their children, that it was a good place to stretch a clothes line, and that on it was a fine well of water. All this has been wrecked, so they claim, by the defendant firm. It is also alleged that the dirt left around by the contractors has ruined the Olson home and rendered it unfit to live in. The health of the children has been damaged, the complainant states, by reason of their now having no place to play.

THE ALBERTA'S ROUGH PASSAGE.

Heavy Gales Compelled Her to Run For Shelter.

Port Arthur, Ont., Sept. 24.—The Canadian Pacific steamship Alberta arrived at 12 o'clock to-day, 30 hours late.

She had got about the middle of Lake Superior on Sunday when she was met by a terrific northwestern gale, and being pretty light had to turn back and run for shelter to Michipicoten.

She received a very severe shaking up, but a little damaged furniture is all there is to show for it.

THE SECRET OUT!

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from the ten prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CAANDA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story :—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	Per Cent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life	2.68	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

W. H's Life Policy for $10,000, issued April, 1889, Age 23, Annual Premium $177.

Total Cost for 6 years.....1,062 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy.....1,250 Dollars
Nearly 200 Dollars more than Insurance Cost.

A. E's Life Policy for $5,000, issued April, 1886, Age 22, Annual Premium $86.

Total Cost for 9 years.....774 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy.....1,000 Dollars
More than 200 Dollars over Cost of Insurance.

Have You Ever Thought of It?

For four thousand years or more the world groaned, suffered and fumed about its corns, for there was no positive relief—no certain and painless cure until Dr. Scott Putnam gave to the world his great Corn Extractor. If there is suffering now it is a result of carelessness, for the remedy is at hand. Try Putnam's Corn Extractor. It is sure, painless and prompt.

After the ceremony a luncheon will be given at the Grand Central hotel.

THE FAIR

SECOND DAY OF THE BIG FAIR.

The Weather All That Could Possibly be Desired:

The Judging of the Horses Still Goes on—Speeding in Ring—Special Exhibits—More of the Prize List.

At the conclusion of the formal opening exercises at the exhibition, yesterday, a very pleasing and interesting event took place on the platform, when Mayor Kendry, on behalf of the Royal Humane Society, presented a medal to Ephraim Godfrey, of Young's Point, who, during the summer, at the risk of his own life, saved two companions, Albert Hatton and Bruce Graham, from drowning. Young Godfrey, it will be remembered, arrived on the scene just as Hatton was sinking for the last time, whilst Graham was nowhere to be seen. He rescued Hatton and after diving twice succeeded in locating Graham on the bottom and bringing him to shore, revived him from the state of unconsciousness into which he had fallen.

After Mr. Kendry had made the presentation, Mr. J. R. Stratton, M. P. P., made a few remarks incidental to the occasion and warmly congratulated the lad on his bravery and presence of mind.

GOUGH'S GREAT BABY SHOW

was the next event which occupied the platform and the interest manifested in it was great indeed. In a very few minutes it was difficult to get a view of the little tots at all, as the crowd gathered in great force in the vicinity. There were every kind of babies shown—fair babies, dark babies, laughing babies, crying babies, and in fact every kind of baby. The entries were twenty in number, and the judges had a hard time in comparing the merits of such a number, as the wee bundles were as fat and round and rosy as possible. Mrs. Edward Allen's baby, however, was finally picked upon as the one most deserving of the special prize offered by Gough Bros. The little one was most beautifully dressed in a costume of a cream shade and looked particularly smiling and sweet as the judges passed by. The baby won a five-dollar gold piece, whilst a $10 suit was given to the father and a $10 dress to the mother.

Although a lot of money was spent on the track this year, it was in very poor shape, being entirely too heavy for any fast speeding. Next year it is probable that the ring will be in excellent shape, to conform with the manner in which everything else in connection with the Exhibition is kept up.

SPEEDING IN THE RING

brought out the running horses, but the three year old colt race did not fill. The entries in the two-thirds of a mile running race were Theodore MacWilliam's "Jessie B," Fred Jone's "Nettie Wood," and Lane's "Black Mack" from Grafton. The judges were Messrs. Harry Winch, Dr. Beatty and Wm. Croft. The manner in which they got the horses off was most satisfactory. The first heat was a close one, being won by half a length by Jessie B., with Nettie Wood second, and Black Mack third. Time 1.01. The second heat was also a beautiful race, Jessie B, and Nettie Wood fighting for the lead all the way round the ring the last time. Jessie B swerved out too far as they turned into the stretch, and the game little Nettie passed her on the inside like a streak and won by a length. Black Mack was only a couple of lengths behind, making a good third. Time 1.01¼. In the third heat the three horses got away together and kept in a bunch twice around the ring. The fight was all between the two local horses for first, although Black Mack never let daylight be seen between him and them. Jessie B won the heat by a nose and also the race. Time 1.03¾.

Summary:

Jessie B (T MacWilliams)	1	2	1
Nettie Wood (F Jones	2	1	2
Black Mack (Lane, of Grafton)	3	3	3

Time—1.01, 1.01¼, 1.03¾.

The judging of

in front of the grand stand was an interesting feature and the judges had a hard time to select the winners of the prizes in the riding. The results will be found in the prize list.

The special features during the afternoon in front of the grand stand were the fancy dancing of Marie Walton, which was most graceful indeed; the excrutiatingly funny performances of Danny Simons and Jack Connors and the musical rendition of Mr. and Mrs. Emery. All these attractions were the best possible attainable in their line, and that they were appreciated was shown by the liberal applause bestowed at the conclusion of the different performances. The music furnished by the Fire Brigade band all afternoon was greatly enjoyed.

The local exhibit of

under the supervision of Mr. D. A. Shaw, was visited by nearly everyone who entered the grounds, and the specimens shown would indicate that Peterborough has in her midst some artists, whose works would attract attention in any art centre.

In crayons Mr. Fred Cook shows a capital combination picture of a horse and girl, which carried off a first prize, as did an Arab Shiek's head, beautifully executed by Miss Emma Hamilton. This latter drawing is one of unusual merit and deserves special mention. In oils Miss Cassidy shows something pretty in her study of a girl kneeling in prayer by the infant's cot. Miss Dougherty shows a capital portrait of Mr. Hayes, Peterborough's noted violin maker, and also an attractive gipsy scene. Mr. Charles Matthias has on exhibition a number of good studies in water colours, crayon and oil, which have secured a number of prizes. Mrs. John Crane's exquisite work is attracting universal attention. Her "Girl and Broken Pitcher," in oil, is something exceptionally fine, the expression of sorrow in the girl's whole posture being brought out in the strongest possible manner. Another of Mrs. Crane's which also enjoys considerable attention is a study of a girl sitting in an old boat on the edge of a swamp. The utter lonliness of the scene strikes home to every heart. Miss Doughtey's "Head of an Eastern Girl" is well worthy of the first prize ticket which it bears, being replete with grace and beauty. Mrs. W. J. Cox also has a number of most excellent studies on exhibition. Miss Cassidy's exhibit in water colors is greatly admired, and she has also some fine studies in oil on exhibition. Mr. D. A. Shaw, whose pupils won a very large majority of the prizes, has a number of paintings on exhibition, although he did not enter them for competition. His "Revenge of the Flowers" is a beautifully conceived and executed study in oils, which drew many an admiring glance. It represents a maiden asleep with a large bunch of flowers by her side, which were evidently influencing her dreams.

THE EVENING PROGRAMME.

The attractions at the Central Fair last night drew out a very large number of people, the grand stand being literally packed, as well as the space in front of the exhibition hall. The programme carried out was an excellent one.

Among the special performers were D. B. Emery, the celebrated bell ringer and solo cornetist, who had associated with him Miss Laura Russell, an equally renowned bell ringer. These two gave a wonderful performance in bell ringing and cornet playing.

Miss Marie Walton, a favourite dameuse of New York, also gave performances which were marvels of grace in the terpsichorean art.

Dan Simons, who requires no words of praise in Peterborough as a clog dancer and clever song and dance artist, also contributed to the program, and gave his celebrated performance with the "Tame Giraffe." Dan Simons and Johnny Connors also appeared in double acts.

At the conclusion of the specialties, the tug of war took place, and this event excited a great deal of interest. A team composed of the members of the Fire Brigade opposed a team of the employees of the Central Bridge Works. The latter team, after a hard struggle, succeeded in defeating the fire laddies. The Edison team and a team picked from the members of Nassau L.O.L., next tried conclusions, and the electricians proved a snap for the Nassau men. The Bridge Works team then took the rope against the Nassau men, and this proved a close one. Finally the Bridge Works team pulled their opponents from their bearings and carried off the honours.

Next followed the magnificent display of fireworks which proved a decided treat for the many thousands present. Rockets were shot in the air by the dozens and Roman candles and torpedos, as well as several excellent and prettily arranged displays such as "The New Woman," the motto "Good Night" and several others.

The Fire Brigade band during the evening rendered an excellent programme of music.

THE FORTNIGHTLY CLUB.

The Fortnightly Club met last evening for the first time this season, and elected their officers and executive committee. The interest manifested by the members augurs well for a most successful year, while the programme, so far as it has been arranged, promises to be even more interesting than the previous one.

The officers for the ensuing year are as follows:

President—Cortes Fessenden, M. A.
Vice-Pres.—Rev. H. Symonds, M. A.
Sec.-Treas.—John Jeffries, B. A.
Asst. Sec.—E. A. Peck, Esq.

The Executive Committee consists of the above officers and the following gentlemen—D. W. Dumble, B. A., Mr. Sheriff Hall and J. A. Fife, B. A.

The Club in a warm manner expressed their appreciation of the services of the retiring officers, special mention being made of the secretary, an officer who, in a club of this kind, necessarily has most of the actual work on his shoulders. The editor of the Fortnightly Club column was also highly commended for the manner in which he had conducted the column, which has done so much to maintain and stimulate the interest in the Club, and which has afforded such pleasant and wholesome reading for the people generally.

A good deal of discussion arose over the proposal of Mr. Dumble and Mr. Symonds to have during the year one or two public lectures by some eminent men, under the auspices of the club. The feeling of the meeting favoured this idea, it being agreed on all hands that anything of this kind should certainly be under the auspices of the club. The matter was, however, left over for further consideration. It was resolved that the first regular meeting should be three weeks hence, on Tuesday, the 15th October, next, and that the meetings should be held every third Tuesday thereafter. The club will, therefore, hold eleven meetings, two or three of which will, probably, be open to the friends of the members. Mr. Schofield will read the first paper. His subject is "George Eliot." The special speakers will be announced later.

The executive committee will meet on Thursday next, at 4:30 p.m., at Mr. Dumble's office, to settle the season's programme.

The printed programme will likely be ready for distribution at the first meeting.

New Legal Firm.

A new legal firm has opened an office in Peterborough. The firm consists of Mr. Wm. Kerr, the widely known Queen's Counsel of Cobourg, and Francis D. Kerr, his son, who have entered into partnership under the firm name of Kerr & Kerr. Mr. Wm. Kerr is no stranger to Peterborough, and in a short time we have no doubt his son, who will take charge of the office here, will be also as equally as well and favourably known. The offices of the firm will be on Hunter street, near the post office, over Clarke & Gibson's store, which are now being fitted up for that purpose. Their advertisement appears in our legal column.

Strength for the Aged.

As age advances the recuperative power of the body decreases. Fatigue clings like a burr to the already depleted store of energy, still further wasting and dissipating it, and, in consequence, the elderly find it very hard to keep their spirits up to the "doing" point. An anchor of hope and safety is found in the energizing action of Maltine with Coca Wine, which imparts, almost magically, strength and vigor to the failing powers, and through its nutritive and tonic properties renews those functional activities upon which depend health of body and mind. Maltine with Coca Wine rapidly restores appetite, improves digestion, imparts tone and vigor to the nervous syttem; in a word is a strength giver of unequalled excellence. Maltine with Coca Wine is prescribed and recommended by physicians. All druggists sell it.

An Exciting Runaway.

An exciting runaway took place at noon to-day near the corner of George and Hunter streets. Walter Ball, who had stationed his horse in front of Mr. W. J. Green's, while driving away by some means unloosened one of the lines. While in the act of jumping from the buggy, the horse made a bolt towards the pavement, coming in contact with a hitching post. The force of the collision broke the shafts, and the horse started up George street at lightning speed. Car No. 4 with a trailer attached, was coming south, and Mr. John Donal seeing the danger, grabbed the horse by the bridle, just as the car was on it. Beyond the broken shaft no other damage resulted.

THE FALL ASSIZES.

His Lordship Chancellor Boyd Presiding

At 9.30 this morning court resumed.

His Lordship in charging the Grand Jury said that the cases under consideration were of a very serious nature, one being for murder, and the other for housebreaking. He referred to the changes in law by which a reduction was made in the Grand Jury, reducing the number from twenty-three to thirteen. He also explained that in civil cases a decision from ten jurors secured a verdict, instead of, as in the past, a unanimous decision. These changes, His Honour thought, were in the right direction. He explained the law of murder, and referred approvingly to the action of the county council in deciding to erect a House of Refuge, provided the town of Peterborough would bear their proportion of the cost. He hoped the town would do so, as it was very much required.

The first case on Tuesday afternoon was a non-jury case.

REYNOLDS vs. REYNOLDS.—An action brought by Hannah E. Reynolds against her husband, William Albert Reynolds, of Manvers. The plaintiff alleges that she was married to William A. Reynolds on October 4th, 1893, and that they lived together until May 15th, 1895, two children being born to them. The plaintiff claims that since May, 1894, the defendant has exhibited towards her a jealous, suspicious and unreasonable disposition, and frequently, without apparent cause, has broken into violent fits of temper, applying profane, slanderous and filthy epithets and abusing her in a cruel and brutal manner. The defendant, she farther claims, charged her with unfaithfulness and adultery. On or about the 12th day of May last when the plaintiff's second child was but 8 days old, and the plaintiff had not yet recovered from her confinement, the defendant wrongfully and improperly and without cause used towards the plaintiff the following language or words to the same effect: "I'm done with you. I want nothing more to do with you, and as soon as you're better I want you to get out of here, etc." On or about the 14th day of May last while the plaintiff was still ill she claims that she was struck by her better half without provocation. He also threatened herself and children with bodily harm if they were not removed from the house. For some time defendant has been living at her parents on account of the treatment received at the hands of the said William Reynolds, her husband. She believes the defendant to be worth in the neighbourhood of $8,000 and asks for an adequate sum to be paid her by way of alimony.

A number of charges are denied by the defendant, but he alleges that his fits of temper were caused by his wife continually making slurring references to the fact that he was not the father of the children. He had told her that "you and yours will have to get out of this unless you stop" on the occasion of his wife holding up her youngest child to him and telling him he was not its father. He apologises for the language, saying it was in passion. The next day they had a dispute and he struck her and called her names. He denies ordering her to leave the house, and upon the 10th day of July, 1895, he says he had her served with a notice requiring her to return to his home and offering to receive and support her, and he again expresses his readiness to do so. The defendant asked that the case be dismissed with costs. Verdict for plaintiff, amount to be fixed by the local Master. Edwards & Murray for the plaintiff, and A. J. Armstrong, Cobourg, for the defendant.

The second case was PAYNE vs. CROWE. Action by George A. Payne of Dummer, against Joseph Crowe of Dummer. The plaintiff claimed possession of the south-east quarter of lot No. 26 in the 2nd concession of Dummer, under a conveyance from William Crowe and others. The defendant is now in full possession of the land, and the plaintiff claimed judgment declaring him to be entitled to the possession of said land, and that he be paid the costs of the action. The defendant denied the allegation, and said that he had been in possession of the land for ten years. Judgement for plaintiff with costs. Dumble & Johnston for the plaintiffs, and Edmison & Dixon for the defendants.

The first case on Wednesday morning was Samson vs. Weese. This was an action of ejectment in which Mrs. Narissa Sampson sought to recover possession of the Holbrook farm, in the township of Belmont, which she claimed to have purchased.

In opposition to Mrs. Sampson's claim, the defendant, Mrs. Henry Weese, daughter of Mr. Holbrook, set up that her father had given her a deed which he had subsequently destroyed. After hearing the evidence, the Chancellor gave judgment for plaintiff for immediate possession. Mr. W. A. Stratton and Mr. W. A. Campbell (Norwood) for plaintiff, and Mr. Geo. Edmison for defendant.

TREW vs. TREW.—Action brought by James J. Trew, of the township of Hope, against David Trew. The plaintiff claimed $400 for wages and the costs of the action. The defendant denied owing the plaintiff any wages whatever. His Honour agreed with the defendant from evidence submitted, and rendered verdict for defendant with full costs. R. M. Ruddy for plaintiff, R. Max Dennistoun for defendant.

The Grand Jury not having made their presentment, and there being no other cases on the calendar, His Honour adjourned the court until Thursday a.m., at 11:30, awaiting a report from the Grand Jury.

A paragraph appeared in THE EXAMINER some time since stating that Mr. Holbrook had issued a writ against Mr. Matheson, J.P., of Havelock, for malicious arrest. Our informant was incorrect. Mr. Holbrook has not done so.

DIED FROM CANCER'S TOUCH.

Contracted the Disease From a Woman Patient.

New York, Sept. 23.—Dr. Edward W. Burnette died at his home, No. 132 West Thirty-Fourth street, at 3 p.m. yesterday of cancer. Eight months ago a woman called at his office to be treated for an irritation of the tongue which had been growing greater for some time. The doctor applied some nitrate of silver to the irritation with the tip of his finger. Later in the day he was shaving himself and the razor slipped and scratched his left cheek. To stop the bleeding he applied some powder, rubbing it along the scratch with the same finger he had used in applying the nitrate of silver.

The scratch did not heal and presently began to swell slightly. But Dr. Burnette paid little attention to it until he found that the woman had developed cancer. In discussing the history of her case he learned that she was employed in the busines office of a man who was then dying of cancer of the lip. A little further investigation and it was clear that the woman had caught the disease from her employer by using the same speaking tube. Analysis showed that both had that sort of cancer known as large cell sarcoma.

Within a few days of these discoveries the scratch in Dr. Burnette's cheek developed into a cancer. An analysis revealed that this also was large cell sarcoma. For the first time in the history of medicine in America it was clearly demonstrated that one may be innoculated with cancer. And this is about the most horrible fact that modern medicine has disclosed.

The cancer was in its early stages with Dr. Burnette when the woman had her tongue cut out. The first operation upon Dr. Burnette was performed last March by Dr. Charles McBurney. Part of his jaw bone and the whole cheek to the left eye were cut away. As usual there was a marked improvement, but within a few weeks the cancer was growing again. In addition to the attack upon his face, there were new symptoms of cancer of the liver.

A month ago Dr. Roland D. Jones and Dr. Walter Bruyere took charge of Dr. Burnette and fought hard for his life. But he grew weaker steadily and his death had been expected for many days. The woman is still alive, but cannot live much longer. Dr. Burnette was fifty-two years old and born in Connecticut. He studied medicine in this city and was resident physician at Bellevue and had practised medicine here for twenty years.

The Cowboy's Day is Over.

The cowboy, like the buffalo, is fast becoming extinct. In the dawn of the new century now approaching he will be regarded as a curiosity. Then years hence he will almost have attained the dignity of tradition. History, which embalms the man in armor and exalts the pioneer, holds a place for him. The niche may be a modest one, but he had his part in conquering a new country, and no impartial record of western evolution can omit his picturesque figure. Before civilization devours his identity let us try to detain it a moment in its real likeness and garb.

Dwellers in the long-settled communities scarcely realize how great a change has come over the Far West during the last decade. Ranchers there will always be—ranches for grain, hay, fruit and blooded live stock—but not for the rearing of the cattle business; when the cow-memory when there was a craze over the cattle business; when the cowboy was king at Dodge City; when hundreds of educated young men went west to share the hardship of herders. to-day the cattle ranches are deserted, or mortgaged, or turned into farms. A more advanced intelligence has penetrated the possibilities of irrigation, and water is reclaiming the wilderness once given over to the long horn steer.

The decline of the range cattle industry has been as amazing and rapid as was its rise. The business is not simply suffering from stagnation; it has almost ceased to exist. Early in the eighties a beef steer running on the range represented $40; one-fourth that sum would pay for him now. Thirty dollars was the average price for a cow with a calf at her side; now whole herds are disposed of for $8 a head.—Lippincott's Magazine.

FROM SUPERIOR TO THE SEA.

Opening of the Deep Waterways Convention at Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 25.—Influential men from both sides of the great lakes have assembled in Cleveland to boom the project for a 24-foot channel from the lakes to salt water.

Governors, Congressmen, members of Parliament, engineers and lawyers, distinguished in their professions, shipbuilders and successful business men, all members of the International Deep Waterways Association, were present at the preliminary meeting in Army and Navy Hall in the afternoon.

As good an authority as ex-Senator Warner Miller has said that the next Congress will be a waterway Congress. It will be the aim of the association to convince Congress that it is to the highest interest of millions of people living in a score of states to build a deep water channel to the sea. Whether it be by way of the Hudson or the St. Lawrence is of secondary importance. A 21-foot channel from Duluth to Buffalo will be completed in November. A 14-foot channel now leads by the way of the St. Lawrence to the Atlantic. The lake traffic this year is estimated at 45,000,000 tons, valued at $650,000,000. Cleveland's interest in the proposed project is represented by $7,250,000 worth of vessel property, and the big ship-building yards in this city. Farmers who raise grain and the cattle raisers of the west would be most benefitted by the channel. It would open to lake port manufacturers an opportunity to send their products by boat, the cheapest possible freight to all. It would open to lake port manufacturers an opportunity to send their products by boat the cheapest possible freight, to all parts of the world. Opposition is expected from Buffalo, Quebec, Montreal, and cities that would lose much of their importance as the transfer points.

General Edward C. O'Brien of New York, president of New York Dock Commission and ex-commissioner of navigation of the United States, was selected temporary chairman. He said:

"I thank you most heartily for the great honor you have done me in making me temporary chairman of such a convention as this, and congratulate you on its auspicious opening and bright promise of results, great and far-reaching for good for our fellow-men. I consider this to be one of the most important public gatherings ever assembled in this country, certainly the most important of the past 25 years. Firstly, because of the nature of the questions we are here to consider; and secondly, because of its cosmopolitan character, and the presence of so many men representative of the great forces engaged in the commercial, industrial and legislative history of North America; men eminent for learning, profesional and executive ability, and the trust and esteem of the communities of which they are accredited representatives. I am here because I believe, as you do, that an adequate way uniting these great lakes with the sea will, more than any other one thing, bring increased prosperity to our people, and because you, who have given so much study to this question by your deliberations, will bring into bold relief its transcendent influence for good and dissipate the clouds of doubts as to its feasibility.

Your commerce and transportation on these great lakes, their tributaries and basins, have reached that stage in their development when it becomes absolutely necessary for you to get relief from the congestion ond bring your surplus products to the seaboard cheaper than can be done by existing means. What is so necessary to the people in the heart of the continent will prove to be certainly important to us on the seaboard, and I have no hesitancy in saying that when you have carefully sifted the matter and formulated your desires in a fully matured plan which can meet and in its completeness and sufficiency refute the criticism of those who do not now believe in its feasibility, an adequate waterway to the seaboard will be built."

Mayor R. F. McKisson, on behalf of the city, delivered an address of welcome. He spoke of the importance of the deep waterway movement and on a water connection between the great lakes and the Atlantic seaboard.

International President Oliver Howland of Toronto, responded to the Mayor's address on behalf of the Association. His remarks were brief, as he was on the program to deliver his annual address in the evening.

E. V. Smalley, president of the St. Paul Chamber of Commerce, and publisher of the Northwest Magazine, responded to the Mayor's address of welcome on behalf of the American delegates.

At the evening sesion Oliver A. Howland, M.L.A., delivered his annual address. He commended the work of Secretary Flower, and continuing, said:

"If the people of the United States and Canada can be induced to labor as comrades in a conquest over the obstruction of nature, never again will they be capable of regarding each others as strangers. This is a convention of practical men for practical work. It is our desire to lay broad foundations for the future good of our fellow-men. We have three classes of obstacles to overcome. First we must convince the Governments of the practical utility of our scheme, and this already is half accomplished. The second is the jealousy we may expect from the powerful railroad world. Even this may be overcome, but still pressing upon us we find international jealousy and distrust. We should not deceive ourselves about these facts."

Referring to the possible contingency of war, Mr. Howland said: "While the latent possibility of war exists, however remotely, it must create not unreasonable grounds of argument against entering into an undertaking involving complicated interests and relations which a state of war or even enmity would throw into serious confusion. Nor can it be forgotten that whatever wealth and strength either country shall attain to in this instance, may some day be turned to purposes of war. Treaties would be found ineffectual to prevent this."

The president concluded his address, which was received with great enthusiasm by saying: "Let us not relax the effort to bring these great nations to an agreement for establishing the securities for peace and international justice upon what we believe to be broad, rational and perpetual foundations."

The regular program was set aside, the informal debates being passed until to-morrow to give delegates time to study the papers. Congressman Towns of Duluth, and Gov. Burke of Dakota, concluded the session by delivering short addresses favoring a canal from the great lakes to the sea.

EYES TO SEE AND SEE NOT.

That is the case with many people. They need spectacles, and the strange part of it is that some folks never know how bad their eyes are until they have them tested. Have been going through life without seeing as much as they ought to see—perhaps suffering from headaches and tired eyes.

"SUN" LIFE

Assurance Co'y of Canada.

The Rev. J. L. Murray, of Kincardine, Ontario, assured in the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, in December, 1874, under Policy No. 1406, on the Twenty Year Endowment plan, paying an annual premium of $69.90 for ten years. He paid into the Company in all $699. In December, 1894, his Endowment matured, and he received a cheque from the Company for $1,364.70, being a return of all the premiums paid, and in addition, $665.70. That is to say Mr. Murray got back all the money he invested, with about 4½ PER CENT. COMPOUND INTEREST, and had his life assured for $1,000 for twenty years free of charge.

It is needless to say that Mr. Murray was much pleased. You may gather that fact from the perusal of his letter hereto appended. QUERY:—How many of the people of Peterborough invests their money to better advantage?

N. B.—This is an example of profits paid under our Five Year Distribution plan. The results under our Reserve Dividend (or Semi-Tontine) policies may reasonably be expected to greatly exceed that realized under the above plan.

KINCARDINE, JAN. 6th, 1895.

The Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, Montreal.

GENTLEMEN:—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your cheque in full settlement of claim under my Ten Payment Twenty Year Endowment policy, No. 1406, and I desire to express my satisfaction with the result of my investment. I paid to the Company an annual premium of $69.90 for ten years, making a total of $699, for which I now receive a cheque for $1,364.70, being a return of all I have paid the Company, and in addition, $665.70, besides having had my life assured for $1,000 during the twenty years. This I consider very good indeed, and I have pleasure in giving my testimonial to that effect.

Yours sincerely,
(Signed,) REV. J. L. MURRAY.

AESTHETIC OSCAR.

Gazed Upon by a Correspondent, but not Interviewed.

The London correspondent for a Paris paper has had the good fortune to see Oscar Wilde as he is in Wormwood Scrubs prison, but was not permitted to talk with him. This is how the representative of the press found him.

It is 10 o'clock. At the first stroke of the bell the heavy oaken door is opened, and a large, dimly-lighted hall opens to our view. The Warden's clerk told me that Wilde is now on his way from the chapel to the court yard, where he encounters no one, but is nevertheless under constant and vigilant espionage. As soon as he arrives in the courtyard the doors seem to close automatically, and a solitary silent guard is stationed near the door to watch the promenader.

We have a good view of him already as he slowly descends the heavy staircase near the oaken door. He walks in his stocking feet, holding his sabots in his left hand, and glides his right over the balustrade. On the threshold of the oaken door he steps into his wooden shoes and descends to the courtyard. A sharp whistle and the door is closed. This is Wilde.

In his first movement he draws himself to his full length, stretches his arms, then removes his cap. I can hardly recognise the erstwhile genteel personage. He has not grown thin. To me he appeared even larger and more broad-shouldered than in his better days, ad I believe that he has gained in avoirdupois. Yet the change is awful. That unnatural yellow paleness, the hideously shaven face, the shorn locks, made all the difference. What a contrast—this expressionless, stupid, bloated physiognomy, with its prison donsure and discolored flesh, to the buoyant countenance, flushed with success and happiness, which I beheld five years before in Stratford!

The prisoner now begins his exercise, first with a brisk trot with the object of using his time—one hour per week—to the best advantage; then slower, and, finally, it is changed to a languid step.

There is a small shade near the wall and under it a stone bench. Wilde sits down. His movements arel ike those of a man who thinks himself alone, unobserved.

Finally he seems thouroughly fatigued, his head falls back against the wall and he falls asleep.

At first we doubt it, and think he is only resting, but his regular respirations soon undeceive us.

Poor devil! Has he not suffered enough? We think so in France, and surely England's morals are nothing to brag of that it should continue to throw stones at this fallen apostle.

Released or in prison, society has forever discarded him, and in his own body and soul he carries to his dying hour the rewards of his misdeeds.

Let mercy prevent his further degradation and ruin!—Boston Herald.

A Safe Made of Cement.

The fireproof quality of cement has long been recognized, but a recent test made in Germany is worthy of consideration. A safe constructed of cement with steel wire netting in between was tested by order of the Reichsbank, the German Government's banking establishment.

The question to be decided was whether it is practical to build vaults of this material for safety against fire. A safe was placed upon a pile of logs, drenched with kerosene, which, after being set on fire, kept the safe for half an hour exposed to a heat of 1,800 degrees Fahrenheit; that is, a heat in which iron will melt. Two hours after the safe was opened, and the contents—silk paper, draft blanks and a maximum thermometer—were found to be absolutely uninjured. The maximum thermometer showed that within the safe the temperature at no time during the test arose above 85 degrees. This seems to prove that cement safes within burglar proof steel vaults fill all the requirements that can possibly be expected. Such evidence as this should tend to the increased use of cement in fireproof construction.

It shows the material to be not only fireproof, but an excellent non-conductor, so that its capabilities in protecting ironwork against the effects of fire is very great, a matter of the first value; and in many cases where fire spreading, and at the same time maintain the temperature of iron or steel supports where they would retain their normal strength and support the loads imposed upon them, one of the most important features in modern fireproof structures. This great heat developed by combustible merchandise in iron and steel structures is the great danger from its overheating supporting columns and iron beams, and the one thing sought is a non-conducting material. This test emphasizes this valuable feature of cement in such structures in this respect.—Philadelphia Record.

THE INSECT ORCHESTRA.

Night Made Musical by the Hum of Myraids of Small, Shrill Voices.

There is a full insect orchestra in the suburbs these August nights. There must be a day shift and a night shift, too, unless, indeed, the musicians do double turn, for the music keeps up the whole twenty-four hours, though it is only at its full after dark. It has a sort of dry and dusty sound all day, and in competition with the daylight sounds of business it seems insignificant, and might easily pass unnoticed. After night, however, when suburban sounds have died down to the city horizon, save for the occasional hum of a trolley car, which not inaptly, suggests some monster of the insect world, the soft murmurous hum of many small voices seems to have for its field all between earth and sky.

Only an entomologist could identify all the sounds and give them names, and that might spoil the music. The groundwork of accompaniment of the whole is the shrill cry of the cricket, coming from every side, now as a single voice, now in the chorus of many, a rounded note in minor key. There is no true bass in thsi orchestra. The nearest to it is the katydid's firmly reiterated though indefinite scandal, that comes athwart to the hum, the loudest, clearest note of all. There are smaller, dry, sharp cries, more frequent than the katy-did's, and almost as continuous as the cricket's. They suggest a multitude of tiny explosions, or a rude attempt to sound the Morse Telegraphic alphabet. These make up the great bulk of the music, but there are others that one listens for and enjoys. There are soft flutings, and low, long, mellow whistlings that suggest the "horns of elf-land faintly blowing."

These occasional flutings and whistlings have a narcotic power to soothe and comfort, while the music as a whole suggests the presence of a multitude filling earth and air. Sitting indoors by an open window, one believes that a step outside must bring one in sight of these pigmy musicians by myriads. But they are found to be invisible. The music is the work of unseen hands, and the mind travels back to Prospero's enchanted island, with its haunting music of impalpable strings. From the wood's edge comes the music, mixed with the mystery of the night. The scene fits well with the soft blurr of sounds, for a late-risen waning moon mellows meadow and woodland. Dark masses of foliage are dimly outlined against the sky, and lawns are dappled with moonlight and shadow. If the night be high and clear with a northwest wind, the volume of sound seems to rise and lose itself in the bare vault overhead. If the night be sultry, the music is concentrated near the surface of the ground along with intensified odors of honeysuckle and other blossoms until one can hardly guess which sense is most preoccupied.

While the moon yet falls in at eastward windows and the night is at its finest it is a luxury to go to bed with windows wide, so that light and sound and odor float in together. There is no such lullaby for the adult as this triple, mild appeal to the senses. Lying still one listens for the soothing and cooling long low flute note, and the not less musical lengthened whistle, ethereal sounds that may easily come from other creatures than the insects. As the mellow horns are winding, sleep gradually comes, and in the half-waking moment when ears still take in the music, the "Midsummer Night's Dream" seems a possible reality, and one easily believes that peas, blossom, cobweb, moth and mustard seed, with a multitude of their kind, are just out side the window. After the ears are deaf in sleep, memory and imagination rejoice in half-consciousness that the music is going on through all the hours of the summer night.—New York Sun.

Why Women Prefer Low Chairs.

One of the things that no man ever will or can understand is that women invariably choose the lowest chairs they can find, usually selecting for solid comfort one that is about six inches from the floor. Schapenhauer's contemptuous allusion to them as the "short-legged sex" generally occurs to him as the final solution of the problem, even though he be too polite outwarddly to hint at such a thing. That is by no means the real reason, according to a bright little artist. Women, she says, seem to know intuitively when they are looking their best, and they know that that rarely happens when they are sitting on a chair sufficiently high to make the feet dangle stiffly downward, barely reaching the floor. In all the celebrated pictures of sitting feminine figures, the line from the waist to the knee is elongated as far as possible, and it is to secure this graceful, easy length of line, as well as for comfort, that women instinctively turn to the low chair or stool.

Hot weather proves depressing to those whose blood is poor. Such people should enrich their blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

CANDY
FOR CHILDREN.

The Popular Health Magazine says the desire in a child for candy and sweets is a natural one and should not be stifled. Good candy and sweets in moderation, not only do no harm, but are actually beneficial. Too much sweet upsets the stomach and spoils the appetite, but candy in moderation if it is not taken before a meal, is food which children crave naturally, and among the purest and most wholesome is that manufactured by

SPECIAL EXHIBITS.

PIANO AND ORGAN EXHIBIT.

Continuing on through the grounds, the next notable exhibit is to be found in the mammoth pavillion, where the art exhibition is held. Here the well known piano and organ dealer, Mr. J. W. Crosby, was fortunate in securing the special privilege of exhibiting his instruments. The pavillion was thronged with visitors, drawn thither by the strains of sweet music which the performers were making one of chief attractions. A concert was in progress as a representative of THE EXAMINER entered, and the music-loving visitors thronged in to hear the effect under canvas. Mr. Crosby exhibited the Whaley-Royce pianos. Shake these words together in a hat—"brilliant," "sweet," "sympathetic," "powerful," "liquid," "pure"—they pretty well cover the adjectives used in piano descriptions. The manufacturers of the "Whaley-Royce" pianos prefer to let their instruments plead their own cause, confident in their merits, and knowing that in these enlightened days there is little necessity for teaching people how to think and discriminate. So far as their exhibit in the art pavilion is concerned, Mr. Crosby only deems it necessary to suggest inspection of the absolutely new and original inventions in these pianos. They represent the very latest developments of scientific research, and have been pronounced by experts as the most valuable innovations in piano construction coming under their notice. Dealers and private purchasers will be wise in seriously looking into these inventions. Mr. Crosby also showed three styles of organs, suitable for the house, Sabbath schools or small churches. Mr. Crosby is the Peterborough agent for a number of the leading reliable pianos and organs of the day, including the Morris, the Heintzman, the Whaley-Royce, the Reimer, the Karn, the Uxbridge, the Dominion, the Doherty. He guarantees these instruments for seven years, and sells for cash or on the installment plan. Mr. Crosby is credited with having sold more instruments than any other dealer in the district, and a list of his purchases, which has just appeared in print, would seem to warrant the statement. Mr. Crosby's warerooms are at No. 342 Water street, Peterborough.

THE PAGE WIRE FENCE.

A short distance east of the Art Pavillion, a large section was taken up by the representative of the Page Wire Fence Company showing the various uses it can be put to and was a favourite centre of attraction for large crowds of farmers and other spectators, made doubly so from the fact that Boyd's buffalo was exhibited in an enclosure made with this wire fence. The buffalo was securely "cabined, cribbed and confined" surrounded with this simple looking wire enclosure and although his majesty had kicked up considerable of a row inside the large wooden cage, used for transporting him, he seemed perfectly humble and cowed by the coil spring woven Page Wire Fencing. This is not a barbarous barb-wire invention, but a smooth wire fencing that will turn any stock. It is made from the best hard steel wire, coiled around a ¼ inch rod, thus practically becoming coiled springs their entire length. These are securely tied together by 16 cross bars to the rod by the best quality of annealed wire, galvanized. The fence is neat, efficient and cheap. Adequate provision is made in the construction of this fence for contraction by cold and expansion by heat. Being a self-regulator in this respect, it sticks up for 30° below as readily as it takes a new grip for 90° in the shade. It does not break in winter or sag in summer. It does not injure stock. It is just the fence for farmers railroads, land owners, gardens, cemeteries, lanes, lawns, yards, etc. For 85c per rod you can have a fence five feet high that will keep out any kind of stock. All you have to do is to put in your posts, the agent puts up the fence for you without extra charge. This wire fencing is five feet high, and unlike rails, boards or pickets, does not obstruct the view. This extra height discourages animals from jumping, reaching over to nibble crops, etc. But better than all, if a horse runs into it, or a hurricane comes on, the animal is thrown back, and the wind has no effect on it. A 200-pound buffer was repeatedly thrown up against the fence to test its strength and durability, and without producing the slightest effect upon it. During the day Mr. R. M. Roy took several snap shots of the large sections of fence enclosing the buffalo, and was rewarded with good negatives. Mr. R. Z. Rogers of Grafton, is the special agent for this fence, and stated that the demand was certainly increasing. He has twenty agents in the adjoining four counties actively employed in placing orders. Mr. Rogers is also the Dominion agent for supplying railways and other large concerns and has sold to thirty different roads.

GOUGH'S PYRAMID.

The splendid exhibition of clothing which Gough Bros. have made at our county fairs in past years, and which have brought yearly increasing throngs to their section, culminated yesterday in an unrivalled display, before which a ceaseless crowd passed in procession. The transformation of the south-eastern main corner of the building into a towering mountain of clothing was a general subject of surprise, and the compliments of visitors were unsparing, as they stood and viewed the pyramid of clothing. It was the greatest clothing gathering ever grouped together into fastidious display at any one fair in Midland Ontario. Efforts such as this told of the business acumen and purchasing strength enjoyed by the "tireless, sleepless, wide-awake clothiers"—as Gough Bros. are frequently designated. If there was any glory in being the largest exhibitors in the building this year it belonged to them. This firm's constituency is by no means limited. In addition to hundreds of families within easy reach who are patrons of the firm, they cover the country with the long arm of the railways and the country public roads. In their two stores on George street they carry carloads of clothing, boots and shoes, hats and caps, and gentlemen's furnishings.

Peterborough couldn't use it all; and so the adult and rising generation for miles around are equally interested in their inexhaustable depot of supplies. If they do not charge as much for their goods as others, it may be because they buy better and sell quicker. There's a difference in men, just as there is in horses. One can go a mile in 2:0F, and another makes it in ten minutes—some even are "left at the post." Their mammoth display of clothing at the fair would certainly justify the statement made by the EXAMINER that the exhibition buildings were not of a sufficient size to meet the demands of the extent to which the exhibition has grown, and a scheme whereby the town and county should unite to provide more adequate accommodation in the future is urgently needed. To such of our readers as missed the sight, some idea may be formed of the enormous quantity of clothing contained in Gough Bros. section, when it is known that an insurance of $3,000 was placed on their exhibit, as a safeguard against fire. Year after year, Gough Bros. broaden their borders, and new life and spirit rise out of their great business just when one might fairly assume that it had reached the zenith of magnitude. No one says that this year's exhibit is the high water mark of their ambition. As it has been in the past, so doubtless it will be in the future—a gradual expansion of the limit of which can only be surmised. The opening of their branch stores in Lindsay and Port Hope, already announced, and the strong connections maintained with the syndicate of clothing houses in Belleville, Orillia and other places, point to a phenominal growth of "Canada's Greatest Clothing Hustlers," and would seem to justify their claim to possessing superior advantages in buying and selling clothing. Their clothing exhibit was not the only feature they put up at the fair. The baby show inaugurated by the great house of Goughs, whose motto, "Always Good at Goughs'" was verified by the result of the baby show. The competition for their liberal prize for the best baby was keen. The judges had a difficult and delicate task—made all the more so by the indignation that burst forth when they screwed up their courage to the point of deciding—for whoever got the prize the unsuccessful competitors were ready to call down judgment upon the heads of the judges, because their baby was by far the prettiest, dearest, sweetest, and best in the world. Another new and strange advertising scheme which they introduced for the first time, created quite a sensation. The grounds were haunted all day by a ferocious looking figure dressed in a tiger skin, who skulked and perambulated through the people in startling proximity. It was burdened with a huge parcel done up in Gough's wrapping paper, and left no room for doubt where it had bought its clothing. The skilfully arranged clothing pyramid was designed and placed by Mr. Gus Gough and Jimmy Tully, and what this window-dressing team don't know about showing up clothing is hardly worth learning.

AN OLD FAVOURITE IN PETERBOROUGH.

Following up the energy and enterprise displayed by this long-established firm of piano manufacturers in establishing a new branch store and musical warerooms in Peterborough, comes an additional evidence of their business acuteness. Any visitor at the fair who has a spark of patriotism in his composition cannot but feel proud of the industries of his country after visiting the exhibit of R. S. Williams & Sons pianos in the north-east corner of the main building. This prominent exhibit took immensely, as evidenced by the enormous crowds which daily visited it. The Williams piano is an old favourite in Peterborough, and has been placed in the homes of many of our best families. The instruments manufactured by this wealthy firm have for years given entire satisfaction on this continent and throughout Great Britain. From year to year as the business and standing of the company has advanced, it has been found necessary to build larger and more complete factories in Toronto. The sixth erected by them is the largest and most thoroughly equipped on the continent. It is a significant fact, too, that their works run twelve months in the year, at full time, in order that the ever-increasing demand for their instruments may be kept pace with. "They lead—others follow," is a maxim every day applied to R. S. Williams & Sons, who adopt no devices or inventions in the musical line until they have been proved beyond doubt to be a distinct and practical advantage. No pains have been spared on the R. S. Williams & Sons piano to make it the instrument of a master. The actions are the best that money can procure, and are the actions used in the highest grade American pianos. All the other parts of these instruments are equally as good, so that they can be placed alongside of any make in the world with a confidence that a competent and impartial critic will award them the palm. They are used and endorsed by Her Majesty the Queen, eminent statesmen and world-renowned musicians. They have over twenty different styles of Uprights, as well as Squares and In-covered Grands, each of which is a work of art. The four beautiful specimens of cabinet Grands shown at the Fair consisted of a veneered rosewood piano with revolving music rack, beautifully finished and embellished with enlarged panels. Another was shown in beech veneer, with revolving rack, built for an exhibition piano, the tone and action being excellent. A double veneered rosewood was also shown with full length music rack, handsomely designed. A magnificent special style was shown in French birl walnut, elaborately carved and ornamented, the workmanship on which could well be included in an art exhibit. Visiting musicians should see this piano, if not at the fair, at their branch warerooms on Water street. This piano took first prize at the Toronto Exhibition, and was selected to be exhibited at the Peterborough fair. The company also made a pretty exhibit of smaller musical instruments, including drums, banjos, guitars, violins, brass instruments, etc. Every known musical instrument is made by the firm, and those who desire to examine as to their qualities should call at their Peterborough warerooms, Water street. This firm is one of the most enterprising in business, and has evinced its desire to cater to the musical public by issuing from time to time compositions which have always been in the most popular demand. The R. S. Williams Company always engage gentlemanly and accomplished musicians for their exhibitions. This exhibit was in charge of Mr. Dies, the efficient business manager of the local branch in town, Mr. F. Callaghen and Mr. F. W. Bull, performers. These gentlemen are to be congratulated upon the artistic and excellent display. It was learned good results were produced, a number of very satisfactory sales having been effected, and encouraging prospects for more. Prof. Bull, the pianist, delighted thousands by his selections on the Williams pianos day and night.

LINK LAKES AND SEA.

300 Delegates at the Waterway Convention.

EVERY MEMBER ENTHUSIASTIC.

Manitoba and the Northwest Greatly Interested in the Project—Practical Papers Read on How Various Interests Would be Benefited and Discussed.

Cleveland, Sept. 25.—At this morning's session of the Deep Waterways Convention, Mr. Richard R. Dobell, of Quebec, read a short address on the effect of deep water between the great lakes and the sea, upon the export lumber and timber trade.

Mr. Dobell said:

"One of the greatest drawbacks in handling western lumber is that the large barges which carry the lumber to Kingston have there to discharge into smaller barges, which is more or less injurious to the lumber, and very often necessitates leaving portions of a barge-load for some craft to carry down to Montreal.

Here arises the necessity for a continuous deep channel from the lakes to salt water. A considerable saving would be effected in the cost if there were obtained deep navigation out of the lakes, as lumber can be floated from any port in the vicinity in Michigan to Kingston at $3.50 per M. feet, while the charge for the short distance from Kingston to Montreal, in small barges is $1.75 per M. feet.

If the large barge could go through direct, the bulk of this $1.75 would be saved to the shipper of the lumber and to the consumer, ultimately.

With this, as well as in square timber, there is a falling off in the export trade, and it is not now of such importance as would make it alone a feature to influence the carrying out of this work of providing deeper channels.

For some years, no doubt, a certain quantity of western manufactured lumber will be sent to Europe, and it would probably stimulate this trade a little, and certainly cheapen the cost, could it be sent through without breaking bulk at Kingston; but the whole volume at present is not sufficient to make it much of an argument in favor of the expensive work required.

Another paper, by Mr. Alexander Smith, representing the 'New York interests, related to the constituency of the speaker:

"Cheap transportation is an irresistible commercial magnet. For three thousand miles of unbroken coast line such a magnet extends along the boundary of the great lakes," he said. "Cheap transportation not only attracts traffic—it creates it. Its vacum draws the wind of trade steadily in its wake, and the freedom of the lake navigation is a potential element in reducing its cost."

"Where forty millions of tons of freight are now moved on the great lakes, at an average rate of a dollar a ton, as soon as your lake ports are deepened to conform to your deepened channels, sixty millions of tons of freight will be carried for forty millions of dollars, for I believe that the increased facilities of lake navigation will augment the traffic 50 per cent. by reducing the cost of its transportation 33 per cent."

Mr. Smith went on to say that the people of New York were deeply interested in the deepening of the lake ports. New York's great point of superiority commercially was its canal to the great lakes.

"The people of New York, containing one-tenth the population, and probably one-fifth the wealth of the Union, are willing to spend nine millions of dollars, wisely, economically, conservatively, and, they believe, sufficiently, for the needs of commerce requiring an outlet from the lakes to the sea, and if, in the course of half a century, the improved canal should be found inadequate, an expenditure of another nine millions of dollars or so for additional improvements might be justified," was Mr. Smith's conclusion.

"New York and Deep Water to the Great Lakes" was the theme expounded by Mr. Thomas Curtis Clarke, C.E., M.A., S.C.E., of New York. He said:

"The reason why so much more freight goes to New York than by the cheaper route to Montreal is because the greater part is intended for domestic consumption, and New York is a better market than Montreal.

"Hence, it is agreed by Americans at least, that New York is the port to be aimed at, and the question is how to cheapen transportation thither.

"The cost of transportation can be lessened either by very deep ship canals or by canals deeper than those at present in use, connecting with lake vessels and requiring trans-shipment.

"If a ship canal is built at all it must be deep. The Sues canal is twenty-seven feet deep, and the ships passing through it draw so much water that there is seldom over two feet of water under their keels. The best speed they can make is four and a half miles an hour.

"A ship canal between our lakes and the ocean should at least provide for a vessel like the new steamer, Victory, 380 by 48, and carrying on twenty feet draught 7,000 net tons, or 233,000 bushels of grain. The prism of the canal should have a bottom width of 160 feet and a depth of not less than 25 feet.

"The economical speed of a steamer like the Victory in deep water is thirteen miles an hour; and in such a canal, with five or six feet of water under her keel, she should make seven miles an hour. With modern improved locks the time of lockage, including slowing, should not exceed half an hour.

"Unless the ship canal is given these dimensions, transportation through it will not be as economical as by a canal of nine feet deep, including cost of transferring into barges."

Mr. L. R. Hurd, general manager of the Daisy Roller mills at West Superior, Wis., spoke on the ultimate effect deep water from the great lakes to the sea had on the grain and flour business. He said:

"I estimate that were it possible for a vessel of 20 feet draught to penetrate the heart of our American continent and take a cargo of wheat or flour, as the case may be, and return with it direct to the Atlantic seaboard or to Europe, that from four to five cents per bushel could be saved in wheat freights, and from 20 to 25 cents per barrel on the cost of flour transportation.

"The effect of greater despatch in the carrying of freight is almost equal in importance to the reduced cost of transportation which would be secured.

"Time is a mighty element in our trade with foreign nations.

"Were it possible for the shipper to guarantee a 'Certain Delivery,' all his wheat and flour trade would be greatly stimulated, and his commodity would be more readily saleable.

"Markets are uncertain and capricious, and with so great a distance intervening between ourselves and foreign nations, and the routes of commerce interrupted by so many obstacles, it is not strange that our foreign trade relations are more or less restricted."

A. L. Crocker read a paper with statistics to show the importance of the lumber interests in the Northwest. He believed it would be greatly benefitted by a channel to the ocean.

George H. Anderson of Pittsburg, said that the advocates of the Lake Erie and Pittsburg ship canal were heartily in favor of the deep waterway to the sea.

James Fisher, Q.C., of Winnipeg, in addition to the deep waterway, advocated a government inquiry as to the feasibility of constructing a canal from the head of Lake Superior to the head of the Red River Valley in the Northwest.

Col. E. C. Gridley of Duluth, announced that plans were under consideration for the construction of a canal from Duluth to the wheat fields of Dakota and Manitoba.

Prof. Haupt said in the paper that the opposition to the Hennepin and the Chicago sanitary and ship canal was engineered by the railroad companies. He added: "The most prosperous and successful railroads of the country are those which parallel the cheapest water routes, yet railroad managers apparently fail to appreciate this paradox, and since they cannot control the canal rates they wage a war of extermination against them. The superiority of the waterway to provide cheap transporttion is clearly recognised by the railroad managers, who, like the woman in the fable, would like to kill the goose to get the golden egg, not discerning the mistake which they are making in attempting to usurp the functions of the canals by carrying low grade raw materials at ruinous rates and which consequently wear and tear rather than foster their movement by water at profit for the benefit of all parties at interest, themselves included. It is well known that during the close of navigation the rail traffics are about double between the lakes and the tide water."

An important paper on the regulations of the lake level was read by George I. Wisner of Detroit. Among other things, he said until some radical change is made in the methods of improving the waterways of the lakes, vessels loaded for the full navigable depths of the ship canal will be badly handicapped when chartered for ports beyond the western terminus of the canal during the low waterways season.

MILLIONAIRE, BUT A FRAUD.

John B. Manning Expelled From the New York Stock Exchange.

New York, Sept. 25.—The governing committee of the New York Exchange at its meeting to-day expelled John B. Manning for fraud. He had been a member since 1869. He is a millionaire and an extensive dealer in investment securities. In the latter part of July he sold five Union Pacific Railway first mortgage bonds of the par value of $1000 each on the floor of the Exchange to Asiel & Co. It was discovered that endorsements on the backs of the bonds had been removed with chemicals. "Clean" bonds or bonds without endorsements bring from 3 to 4 per cent. more than endorsed bonds, for legal questions often arises from the endorsements. Mr. Manning was alleged to have for a long time made a practice of removing the endorsements on bonds, but it was difficult to make out a case against him. In his own behalf he said the bonds were payable to bearer and the presence or absence of endorsements made no difference with the bonds. He would not admit that endorsements had been removed from the bonds.

ENEMIES OF ENGLAND

Friends of Her Every Enemy. Enemy of Her Every Friend.

THE CLAN-NA-GAEL CONVENTION.

The Chicago Irishmen Declare They Are in the Fight to Stay Until the Flag Floats Above a Free and Independent Irish Senate.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—When the Irish Convention re-assembled yesterday Secretary Sutton read another batch of cables and domestic depatches endorsing the movement. The report of the committee on credentials consisted of a pile of certificates of eligibility turned in by the delegates. No figure of the number of delegates or places represented was submitted. Delegate Lynch of Pittsburg moved that the names of Madden and Sheedy of Pennsylvania be added to the roll of delegates. The entire delegation from west Pennsylvania supported the admission but the convention, by an overwhelming majority, refused to amend the report of the committee, a delegate in the body of the hall shouting, "They are troublesome men; we don't want them." After this the report was adopted.

The report of the committee on permanent organization continued the temparary organization and it was adopted. An amendment to add O'Donovan Rossa to the list of vice-presidents was received so coldly that he declined to allow it to be voted upon.

In assuming the chair as permanent presiding officer, ex-Congressman Finnerty made a fiery speech.

"We are the friends of every enemy of England," he said, "and the enemy of every friend of England, and we want to drive it home and nail it to the mast until the teeth of the lying Whigs are loosened from their sockets and fall from their lying mouths. To-day Ireland is the kept harlot of the spoils of the British Empire. Some of the papers seem to be afraid we may complicate this country with England. Suppose we do. Let the English dare to fire the first shot. Let the American Government and the British Government understand that we are in the fight to stay. That we are enlisted not for one or two or three years, but for the war. We will enlist our young Irishmen in regular battalions. We want to be ready when the time comes. What do we care for English sentiment? We don't want to offend America; we don't want to offend the French sentiment, but we do want to offend most seriously our hereditary foe. We sound to-day the death knell of Whiggery in Irish politics; we sound the keynote of the absolute independence of the land that gave us birth; we are here to renew the work that Wolf Tone stated in France 100 years ago. We mete out to England the same measure that England has meted out to us; we will devote our efforts, means, and, if necessary, our lives for the accomplishment of Irish independence. There are people who hope we will not offend English sentiment. Our forefathers did not stand upon the order of sentiment when they threw overboard the chests of tea in Boston harbor. The Minister may send here a battalion of spies if he is so inclined; he is welcome—we care not if the whole of Scotland Yard is in hearing. Let the movement inaugurated here to-day never come to an end until the flag floats above a free and independent Irish Senate.'

The applause was frequent. In order to afford the state delegation an opportunity to caucus for members of the committees on resolutions and ways and means, the convention took a recess.

There was indications of bad blood as the delegates dispersed, over the seating of the Pittsburgers, and it came to the surface during the recess. The New York, Massachusetts, Missouri, Philadelphia and Chicago delegations voted solidly to sustain the committee, while the western Pennsylvanians were supported by the scattering delegates from the far west and the southern states. Friends of the men excluded claimed that the harsh treatment they had received was due to the fact that in the past they had antagonised the old "Triangle" element of the Clan-na-Gael, and insisted that the present convention was controlled by that element. John Lynch of Pittsburgh, who was the only one of the trio whose papers passed muster in the committee, said he was as deep in the mire as his colleagues, and why he should be admitted while they were turned down, was something beyond his comprehension. Another effort to admit the Pittsburgers may be made.

When the convention reassembled at 3 o'clock, the names of members of the committee selected by the state delegations were announced. Among others on the committee on platform and resolutions were John Ryan, Buffalo; O'Connor McLaughlin, New York; Redmond Keyes, Quebec; Dennis E. Ryan, New York.

On the committee of the National organization on ways, among others, were the names of Lawrence Markey, Canada; John M. Brown, Toronto, and William Lyman, chairman, New York.

Mr. Jacob Wilcox of St. Thomas, Ontario, is one of the best known men in that vicinity. He is now, he says, an old man, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has made him feel young again.

"About a year ago I had a very severe attack of the grip, which resulted in my not having a well day for several months afterwards. I was completely run down and my system was in a Terrible Condition.

I lost flesh and became depressed in spirits. Finally a friend who had been benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla advised me to try it and I did so. I continued taking it until I used twelve bottles and today I can honestly say Hood's Sarsaparilla has restored me to my former health." JACOB WILCOX, St. Thomas, Ontario.

NORWOOD NEWS NOTES.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. Mitchell Reynolds was in Norwood on Monday.

Mr. Walter Black, of Colbourne, was here this week.

Mr. Wm. J. Scott, of Donegal, is seriously ill, suffering from attack of inflammation of the lungs.

We hear that a team of cricketters are going to Campbellford this week.

Rev. J. J. Rae, of Peterborough, preached to large congregations in the Methodist church here on Sunday.

Last Sunday afternoon, while playing near a horse, Master Jas. Cummings was kicked in the side but was not seriously injured.

Mr. H. G. Buck has purchased the lots opposite his residence, on Peterborough street, and intends erecting two brick dwelling houses. Work has been already begun on the cellars.

There was considerable excitement on the street last Friday, when Mr. J. Knox's thoroughbred Shorthorn Durham cow passed through the village on her way from what is known as the upper farm to Mr. Knox's farm on the East line. It was remarked by one man that the owner of that cow did not put a pair of green goggles on her before feeding.

The reception tendered to the Modellites and High School pupils by the Presbyterian Y. P. S. C. E., last Friday evening, was a very enjoyable affair. There were about one hundred guests present. The first part of the evening was spent in promenading, etc. Then Rev. Mr. Somerville took the chair and an excellent programme was rendered.

Thursday night of last week some tramps made an attempt to enter the residence of Mr. Jas. Cummings, sr., Victoria street. The wire on the screen door was cut and the door unlocked. Mr. Cumming was awakened and he lighted a lamp which made the would-be bargiars decamp.

WESTWOOD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Westwood football team played the return match with Otonabee Union Football team last Saturday afternoon, near the Indian River station. The play was fast and exciting throughout, and although the score stood 3 to 0 in favour of Westwood, the Otonabee boys put up a good game, and they have a team they need not be ashamed of, a team that has improved wonderfully this season. This is the way the teams lined up:

Westwood.		Otonabee Union.
John Lancaster	goal	M Brackenridge
Jas Brackenridge	backs	Wm Foster
Hugh Brackenridge		T Brackenridge
Bert Lancaster	half	F Evans
Albert Graham	backs	D Devlin
Will Graham		W Brackenridge
Thos Lancaster	right	F Devlin
John Faux	wing	J Shearer
D M Hunter	centre forward	H Neilson
Hugh O'Neil	left	Wm Hutchison
Fred Comstock	wing	H Evans

Referee, W Walsh. Time one hour.

Quite a number of people in and around Westwood are attending the Central Exhibition at Peterborough this week, and the majority are exhibitors.

Last week a load of policemen from Peterborough drove through our village on the lookout for tramps and hand-cuffs. The police were armed to the teeth and appeared a formidable lot indeed; all they lacked was a bloodhound. No wonder they couldn't catch the tramps, any tramp would be worse than a fool to show themselves to that crowd. The tramps should at least return the hand-cuffs, as they will have no further use for them unless they meet the gang from Peterborough.

The Foresters here intend having their annual assembly on Friday night, Oct. 18th. This assembly will be strictly private, no one admitted except by a Forester's ticket.

Did You Ever Think

That you cannot be well unless you have pure, rich blood? If you are weak, tired, languid and all run down, it is because your blood is impoverished and lacks vitality. The estimates for the year were then presented as follows: Roads and bridges, $2,300; municipal expenses, $600; charities, $300; town hall, $5; sewer arbitration, Board of Health, etc., $460; total $3,605. A by-law was passed fixing the rates in accordance with the above.

A by-law was passed to bring into force the Ontario Tree Plantation Act, of which a number of copies will be printed and posted up throughout the township, so that parties wishing to take advantage of its provisions will see what is required.

A by-law was adopted appointing John Dinsdale and John Roach officers to impound horses, rams, bulls or pigs, if found at large in the municipality, with a fee of 50 cents for each impounding of horse, ram or bull, and 25 cents for each pig impounded.

The committee appointed to investigate the necessity of opening the road allowance through lot 18, con. 9, reported that they had inspected the above allowance for road and in their opinion it would, if opened, be not much used by the travelling public, especially in summer, and it being a forty-foot road and very exposed, would be liable to be badly blockaded with snow in winter, and that the parties living on the 9th line and owning land on the 8th concession, who applied to have it opened, have always been allowed by J. Miller, the owner of lot 18, to drive through his lot to get to their property, and J. Miller opposed it, as it would badly cut up his lot for very little benefit to the public. W Drummond also opposed it on behalf of J. A. Drummond, owner of part of the lot through which it runs. The committee recommended, in view of the above facts, not to take any action, in which recommendation the council concurred.

Moved by Mr. Deyell, seconded by Mr. Weir, that the following accounts be paid:—C. Matchett, assessing, $40, equalizing union school section, $3; L. Thomson, $2.25 for performing the 3 days statute labour for E. Hatrick paid in 1894 taxes Peterborough EXAMINER Printing Co., minute book, paper and envelopes, $5.10; M. Tucker, putting glass in council chamber door, glasses and putty, $1.48; Jas. Dixon, $10.63 for 8½ days' work at Gall's culvert; Duncan MacFarlane, $10.62, for 8½ days' work; Daniel McCarthy, gravel, $4.02; R. J. Short, gravel, $9.90; Peter Hamilton, road scraper, $7.50; J. Johnston, gravel, $4.41. Wm. Cleary, picking stones off road, $50; A. Bryce, work on Gall's culvert, $5.90; Jas. Hayes, gravel, $1.80; Indian department, gravel, $4.60; Jas. Yourex, plank, $30.45; E. C. Howson, gravel, $9.96; S. Graham, damages drawing gravel, $1; R. A. Deyell, gravel, $12.74; Thos. Thorn, gravel, $5.67.

An Outbreak of Disease Feared and Great Precautions Recommended.

Toronto, (Special) Sept. 16.—The accident which recently occurred to the Toronto waterworks conduit has created a great deal of consternation, and an outbreak of disease is possible. Doctors are prescribing the various precautions to be taken, and among them it is strongly recommended that the kidneys should be kept in a state of perfect regularity by means of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which experience has shown to be equally efficacious in the latest as well as in the earliest stages of kidney trouble. It is also stated by the physicians that this season is one in which the kidneys are peculiarly susceptible to disorder.

A Wide Range.

A preparation which enriches and purifies the blood and assists nature in repairing wasted tissue must have a wide range of usefulness.

Such a preparation is Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. The uses of Scott's Emulsion are not confined to wasting diseases, like consumption, scrofula or anæmia. They embrace nearly all those minor ailments associated with loss of flesh.

WIGGINS SAYS HIS STORM CAME

Stationary Engineers in Convention at the Capital—Printers Busy Preparing for the Expected Early Session—Ottawa Labor Men Petition for Sunday Cars.

Ottawa, Sept. 26.—Prof. Saunders has received from Mr. Mackay, superintendent of the branch experimental farm at Indian Head the following particulars regarding the crops on that farm, of which the threshing has just been completed:

Red fyfe wheat—One small field gave 45 bushels and 30 pounds per acre. Another large field yielded 42 bushels per acre.

Stanley wheat—One of the new hybrids produced on the Central Farm yielded 39 bushels per acre.

Eighteen varieties of barley have also been threshed, the lowest yield being 31 bushels, 29 pounds per acre; the highest 60 bushels per acre. None of the oats have yet been threshed, but the crops are very heavy.

Beresford Greathead, of Hampshire, England, who is walking from Vancouver to Montreal, reached here today. Mr. Greatheed started from Vancouver in March, and has made the trip in slow stages. He has done the walk, which is now nearly ended, partly for the fun of the thing and partly to see the country, with a view to lecturing on Canada on his return to the Old Country. Unlike the cases of other cross-continent walkers who have passed through here he has no bet in connection with his walk. But as in other cases of a similar kind he undertook to make the trip without money. He says he has succeeded, as he did not pay a cent for board or clothes. He will stay in Ottawa a week and then go on to Montreal, where he will stay a month preparing his notes of the trip.

At the last meeting of the Trades and Labor Council the question of Sunday cars was discussed and a motion carried that a petition be presented to the City Council asking that at the next civic elections in January a bylaw be submitted to the people to vote as to whether they are in favor of Sunday cars or not. An intimation having been made that the vote in favor of Sunday cars was a small one and did not represent the feelings of workingmen generally, the Journal interviewed the heads of various labor unions in the city on the point and a majority are strongly in favor of Sunday cars.

The sixth annual convention of the Canadian Association ofStationary Engineers opened here to-day. Delegates are present from Toronto, Montreal, Kingston, Berlin, Wiarton, Kincardine, Windsor, Guelph, London, Brockville, Peterboro and other points. The officers are: J: J: York, president, Montreal; W. G. Blackgrove, vice-president, Toronto; Duncan Robertson, treasurer, Hamilton, and James Devlin, secretary, Kingston. Mayor Bothwick extended a civic welcome to delegates, to which President York fittingl yreplied. Thomas Wensley, president of Weal Branch, extended the greeting of Ottawa engineers. In the afternoon the delegates visited the Exhibition and to-night the business session commenced.

A press despatch from Winnipeg stating that the Manitoba Legislature would be dissolved shortly created much comment in the city. Later advices say the Provincial Ministers deny that there will be an election this year, but that the impression prevails that an appeal will be made to the province early in 1896. The inference from this statement is that there is no likelihood of the Provincial Government receding from its position on the school question.

A valuable electoral atlas of the Dominion, showing the boundary lines of constituencies upon which the revision of the voters' lists of 1894 was based, has just been issued by the Queen's printer. Besides over 200 maps of constituencies, the book contains a handy digest of the last revision, and will be of great service to political managers.

Sir Julian Pauncefote is expected here next Tuesday to confer with Lord Aberdeen and Ministers with reference to the appointment of a commission to assess the amount of damages to which Canadian sealers are entitled under the Behring Sea award. The United States Government admit that British Columbia sealers should receive compensation, but as Congress declined to vote the sum of $425 000 agreed upon by the two Governments the amount must now be determined by arbitration.

Warden Irvine of Stony Mountain Penitentiary reports to Inspector Stewart the result of the grain crops at that institution for the past season. Fifty-five acres of wheat averaged 40 bushels, 30 acres of barley 35 1-2, and 25 acres of oats 65 bushels to the acre. From 140 acres under cultivation 6318 bushels of grain have been produced. The grain crop this season is double that from the same acreage last season.

Prof. Wiggins in an interview to-day still sticks to it that his storm prediction was fully verified. He says that when reports come in from Atlantic mariners it will be seen that his planetary conjunction was responsible for one of the worst storms in recent years. W. Milner, Customs Officer at Sackville, called on Wiggins here to-day and informed him that the tides in the Bay of Fundy were the highest in 20 years. Wiggins said the storm would be accompanied by a fall of snow in the Western States, Northwest Territories and Northeastern Canada. As a matter of fact a foot of snow fell in the Western States, the thermometer fell to 22 in Edmonton and in Ottawa the glass showed 90 degrees in the shade on the morning of the storm and 32 degrees in the evening.
